Brown of Seymour West and the late Thomas J. Brown, was married to Mr. Eldon Douglas Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Preston of Hastings. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson conducted the ceremony. Miss Ruby Preston, sister of the groom, played the wedding music. The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Brown. She wore white satin with shoulder-length veil of white net, caught with white roses. She carried a corsage of red roses and fern. Miss Jeryne Brown, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore blue chiffon with tuck bodice over rayon taffeta and carried a corsage of pink roses and fern. Rev. C. E. Moore Welcomed At St. George's Church

Rev. Mr. C. E. Moore and Mrs. Moore were formally welcomed by the congregation of St. George's Church on Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Moore, formerly of Young's Point, is the new rector of St. George's Church and yesterday was the first Sunday on which he had performed his ministerial duties in his new parish.

Besides St. George's Church, Mr. Moore has also St. Mark's Anglican Church at Zion, and on Sunday, besides ten o'clock Sunday School, and morning and evening services at St. George's he conducted a two o'clock service at St. Mark's.

The choir of St. George's Church had prepared special music for the occasion and Mr. Moore praised them for their fine performance. At the morning and evening services he outlined the proper relationship between the minister and his congregation and said that when the minister had the help and co-operation of his congregation the church was the better for it.

The church, decorated with spring flowers, was filled to capacity for the evening service and among those present were members of the congregation of St. Mark's, Zion, who had come to join in the welcome to the new rector.

After the evening service a formal reception was held in the basement of the church, which had been gracefully decorated with mauve and yellow by the ladies of the Afternoon and Evening Guilds. The tea-table was centred by a big bouquet of spring flowers in a silver basket, flanked by mauve and yellow candles. The table was covered with a lace cloth over mauve. Tea was poured by Mrs. Arthur Knott, Sr., and Mrs. E. W. Cooper.

Mr. J. Branson was chairman for the evening and Mr. Walter Farr favored the gathering with a fine vocal solo, "The Holy City." Mr. Arthur Knott, rector's warden, made a brief speech of welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Moore and Mr. Moore responded, paying a graceful tribute to his wife for her assistance and inspiration in his work. Mr. F. Graystock, of Zion, welcomed the new minister on behalf of St. Mark's congregation.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, March 24.

THE PRESAGE for a lively, enterprising and successful day is shown in this day's astral chart. There is every possibility of the reaching of important goals in all kinds of ambitions and aspirations, but particularly where the recognition, preferment and good graces of the public are involved. This "happy ending," however, depends upon the exercise of complete discretion and much business acument, since there may be menace of trickery, intrigue and underhand doings to be cleverly swept aside. Also shun caustic and bitter words.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year of great pportunity for attaining major objectives, with high aims finding scope and expansion and with the promise of public good opinion as well as substantial co-operation. However there is possibly an underc ver situation of fraud, treachery, and sister attack, which must be averted or sagaciously dealt with by shrewd measures rather than quarrels, bitter and sarcastic speech or writings.

A child born on this day should be talented, industrious, and ambitious, reaching an important position in public places and popularity, but also subject to double-dealing, which may be provoked by its own erratic or unfiendly acts or speech.

LOOK YOURSELF IN THE FACE—IS THE PICTURE SATISFYING?

The Only Individual You Can Never Escape Is the Person Within You.

The thing that chiefly concerns us is what other people think of us. What sort of an impression do we make upon strangers? Do our friends and acquaintances think us beautiful, or homely? Do they admire our taste in dress, or suspect that our worst enemies picked out our clothes? Do they find us entertaining and amusing, or deadly bores? And we take infinite trouble to put our best feet foremost and show ourselves in a favorable light to what they call in the moving picture circles "our public." But we never think of considering how we stand with ourselves yet that is the most important thing in the world to each of us, for what other people think of us matters little compared to what we think of ourselves. The only applause out of which we get any real thrill is when we can give ourselves the glad hand. All the shouting of others is just noise. Of course, there are many so over-endowed by Nature with vanity that this question of their intrinsic worth never arises to vex them. They feel that everyone must admire them as much as they admire themselves. They know they are right on every subject and that all who differ with them are fools. They are certain they are spell-binders and that anyone must consider it a privilege to listen to them monologue about themselves and their possessions and their achievements. The egotistic are the only ones who ever ind the secret of happiness, which consists in being perfectly satisfied with oneself.

Being Right With Ourselves.

The great majority of us humans, however, are not so lucky, for we are achingly conscious of our faults and blemishes and that is what makes us so anxious for a pat on the back from others. But while this is consoling and bolsters up our ego, it does no do away with the necessity of our being right with ourselves, for it is only when we can look ourselves in the face that we can tell the world where it can go to.

What we strangely forget is that the one and only individual with whom we have to live from the cradle to the grave is ourselves, and that whether we are happy or miserable; whether we live in peace or in perpetual strife; whether we keep alert and interested or bogged down in dullness, depends upon what sort of companionship we find in ourselves.

There are those who are never less alone than when alone. There are those "whose minds to them a kingdom is," as the poet says, and who can find endless diversion in their own thoughts and memories and plans and dreams.

And, alas, there are a multitude of others who are such poor company to themselves that they cannot bear to be alone even for an hour. You see them desperately trying to escape from themselves by going to see silly moving pictures, listening in on idiotic radio programs, and consorting with hordes of others who are just as poverty-stricken in resources within themselves as they are.

Always With Yourself.

Surely none are to be more pitied than those who bore themselves, for they are tied to a dullard of whom they can never rid themselves. They could shut their door upon the tiresome repeater of old stories and the would-be wits. They could even divorce a stupid husband or wife. But there is no way of ridding oneself of one's own heavy and pepless society.

Another thing that we forget is that if we could be happy we must be at peace with ourselves. No success, no fame, no possessions can bring us happiness if our souls are surcharged with bitterness and if the glory of our triumph is dulled by the memory of how we won it.

Our position, our wealth, our fine houses, our yachts may dazzle others and make them envious of us and think how happy we must be, but in the silence of the night when we answer to our consciences we know that there can be no happiness for us unless we can come clean with ourselves and know that we have done our task whether great or small, to the best of our ability, and that we have dealt fairly and honestly with all men.

And if there were no other reason for decent living, it would be found in the fact that the one most essential thing to our morale is sen-respect. That is the very backbone of all character. Pity that we do not look ourselves in the face and see what we think of ourselves.

Try the Absent Treatment.

Dear Miss Dix,—I have recently been given the air by my old sweetheart who has suddenly decided that we are no longer capable of amusing each other. I still love her very much and she tells me I am the nicest boy she has ever known, yet she doesn't want to marry me. We are both in our early twenties. I know there is no other girl for me. Can you tell me what is wrong?

HEARTBROKEN.

ANSWER: Evidently the girl has gotten fed up with you. Probably you have been going to see her every night in the week and following like a pet dog at her heels and she has had an overdose of your society. And the remedy is absence. No matter how hard it is for you to do, keep away from her. Give her a chance to miss you. Let her find herself without an escort when she wants to go places. Force her to do her own fetching and carrying instead of being able to call upon you to do it. And the chances are a hundred to one that she will be calling you back within a month.

You can expedite the process if you will begin showing attention to some other girl. The same situation arises often in married life. Many and many a husband and wife decide they have fallen out of love with each other and that they made a mistake in marriage merely because they have talked out and have gotten bored with each other, but when they part they find out that they can't live without each other.

OUTBOARD MARINES ARE ELIMINATED FROM O.A.B.A. TITLE HUNT

10-Point Lead In First Game Proves Too Much

Outboard Marines bowed out of the O.A.B.A. championship hunt Saturday night, at the Y.M.C.A., losing the round to a well-drilled, veteran Toronto Earl Grey quintet, 101-91. Parines lost the first game of the semi-final series in Toronto, 58-48, and although they earned a 43-all tie Saturday night, Earl Grey's 10-point lead carried them into the Ontario finals.

Marines went down fighting. Off-color and disorganized by Earl Grey's cool, methodical play for 33 minutes of Saturday's game, Marines gave the season's largest crowd a thrill in the final few minutes with a valiant rally.

Earl Grey outplayed Marines through the biggest part of the game, with the homesters' play hitting a new low with passes going astray and it took them till the dying minutes to hit their stride.

The Marines scored the opening basket but Earl Grey opened up a short passing, smoothly working offensive that slowly wore down the Petes' stubborn defence and gradually carried the Toronto quintet further ahead.

Lead of 25 Points.

With seven minutes to go, Earl Grey led the round by 25 points and had a commanding lead of 15 points on the game. It was at that point that Marines opened up their belated rally that brought the crowd to its feet.

Marines rammed in 17 points, while Earl Grey could get but a single field goal, and the Toronto team was on the run at the end. It was a surprising finish by a team that had been outplayed and out-lucked through four-fifths of the game.

Marines were deserted by the one factor that has been consistently their strong point—their sharp-shooting ability.

The Petes had chances to win not only the game but the round, but from the start of the game until their last minute rally, shots continually rimmed the basket and dropped out.

Earl Grey, on the other hand, fully earned their passage into the Ontario finals. Sparked by the towering "Junior" Fox, Roy Lowe and the speedy Belchamber who led Earl Grey in both games, the Toronto five played heads-up, steady basketball both on the attack and defensively. They use a fast-passing, "grape-vine" offence with a lot of nice block plays that carried them close in for a lot of nice scores.

After Marines scored the first basket, Earl Grey slowly moved out in front despite the homesters' hard-fought defence. At the half it was 24-18 for Earl Grey, and the winners led the round at that point by 16 points. Marines went on the attack grimly as the last period opened, but missed countless scoring chances, and Earl Grey continued to extend their lead. Then, out of a clear sky Marines began to go. But, it was too late and Earl Grey's original 10-point edge still held good when playing time ran out.

Earl Grey counted five of their 12 free throws and the Petes scored one of five chances.

Belchamber was again Earl Grey's scoring hero, with 13 points, with Fox's height and play-making and Lowe's good, all-round play helping considerably.

Doug. McPherson starred through 40 minutes in a valiant effort for Marines, and Jakafby and Stewart were next in line. The summary:

Earl Grey:	FG.	FT.	Pts.
Lowe	3	0	6
Hardy	2	1	5
Fox	4	1	9
Lunn	2	1	5
Wynne	2	0	4

Outboard Marines:	FG.	FT.	Pts.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Everything points to a big exodus of Peterborough fans to Toronto tomorrow night to see the Petes battle with Merritton Hayes Wire Redmen in what most folk here believe will be the final game for the O.H.A. senior B championship. Rightly or wrongly Peterborough fandom has decided that the Petes are due to wind up the series and take the title at Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow night and most of the enthusiasts want to be on hand and see the trick turned. Several hundred will travel to the Queen City on the special C.N.R. train leaving here at 6 o'clock and many more will motor to Toronto for the battle. The Petes will not lack for support in their tussle for the championship as there are hundreds of old boys and girls in Toronto who will be in the pews to watch the team from the old home town perform. Altogether it should be Peterborough night with a bang in the ice palace of the Maple Leafs as the Soldiers and Redmen fight it out for the Ontario title.

* * * * * *

The Peterborough team is in good shape for the final test. The squad has been very fortunate all season in the matter of injuries and right now the whole roster is fit for the Tuesday night battle. The Petes finished their training for the argument with Merritton with a week-end workout at Oshawa and they are rearin' to go. Coach Jim Ellis will make no changes in the lineup for the Toronto engagement, working the same defence combinations and forward lines that have carried the team along all season. It is not likely that there will be any great switch in the Merritton team either, although Joe Rocco, who had an artery over his eye cut in last Wednesday's game at Oshawa may be an absentee. Injury to Rocco which was purely accidental kept Dr. D. W. Clark of Peterborough in the Merritton dressing-room sewing up the cut for most of the third period. The Redmen's sub may be able to get back into the game tomorrow night but it is doubtful.

* * * * * *

That the Petes are good enough for Senior A company is the seasoned opinion of Clayton Brown, veteran sports columnist of the St. Catharines Standard. In his column "Done Brown" the St. Kitts sport writer hands the local crew the following tribute: "On what displays the Gunners have shown thus far, it is only fair to say that they are good enough for senior A rating and quite on a par with the Kingston Combines. Whether they add more puck talent or not next winter, there is little excuse for failure to step up a notch and become part of a four-team group in senior A with Kingston, Belleville and Oshawa. That's the humble suggestion we offer Petes. Lots of cities would enthuse plenty over a team and a line like their ace snipers."

The Marines Are Through

The Outboard Marines hit the end of the basketball trail for this season Saturday night when the best they could do was play a tie game 43-43 with Toronto Earl Greys and the Dominion intermediate champions of last season took the round by 101 to 91, by virtue of their 10-point margin set up in the first game of the series at Toronto. The Peterborough team really deserved a better fate. They got off on the wrong foot Saturday night when Jimmy Thorburn, their scoring ace who had hung up 40 points in his last two starts was late and the game got under way without him. When he did get in Thorburn was cold and he had apparently lost his shooting magic for a solitary basket was his contribution for the night. Marines bogged down for the greater part of the game and it was too late when they finally arrived at the conclusion that if they wanted to get anywhere they would have to do it without any help from their one-handed shooting star. By that time Earl Greys had set up a lead of 16 points on the game and 25 on the round and only seven minutes remained to play. Then the Marines really began to fight and were all over the polished Toronto gang for the balance of the game, outscoring them 17 to 2 in the last seven minutes and pulling up on even terms. Had that rally started a few minutes earlier the Peterborough gang might have turned the trick.

So long as they were allowed to set the tempo to suit themselves Earl Greys were a smooth-working ball club, handling the ball smartly, passing splendidly and doing some very clever blocking that enabled their attackers to get in under the basket for shots. But when Marines threw caution to the winds in the dying stages and speeded up the game it was noticeable that the visitors did not perform nearly so smoothly when they were hustled. In fact in that last onslaught by Petes the Earl Grey gang slumped badly and their 15-point lead on the game vanished like magic under the drive of the Marines' attack. The fighting finish put on by the homesters made a ball game out of what had over most of the route been a disappointing exhibition. The Marines, after playing some of their worst basketball of the season, went out battling like a real team. Unfortunately the rally came five minutes too late. However, the Peterborough team has had a fine season and given the home fans plenty of colorful basketball.

Toronto Maple Leafs have jumped out into a commanding lead in their best four-of-seven Stanley Cup series with New York Rangers defeating Lester Patrick's stream-lined outfit 3 to 1 in Toronto on Saturday night and 4 to 2 in New York last night. The Leafs were good value for their double win apparently. The Rangers never looked like winners in either contest, except possibly for a few minutes in the first period of the opening battle, after Pratt had sunk the first goal for them. Leafs struck back with a pair in quick succession and the battle was over. The rest of the doings was merely playing out the string. Sunday night the Leafs broke out a lead of two goals, lost it inside of a minute in the third and then had punch enough to come right back with two more counters to take the marbles. The high-scoring line of Watson, Hextal and Patrick hasn't moved a wheel in the series so far and unless they get going soon the Rangers are sunk.

* * * * * *

Demonstrating the fact that a good goal-keeper is as important in Stanley Cup hockey as a good pitcher in the world series, Frankie Brimsek held the Chicago Black Hawks at bay in Chicago last night and the Bruins finally won out 2 to 1 after 6.51 overtime. Brimsek stopped the Black Hawk attack for nearly 59 minutes before he yielded a goal to Max Bentley with only 70 seconds left to play, matching the first-period counter scored by Roy Conacher for the Bruins. That sent the contest into overtime and Des Smith settled the argument less than seven minutes later. Bill Cowley, Bruins' playmaking centre who got back into the lineup after many weeks' absence just in time to make the playoffs was in on both Bruins' goals. Boston has a big edge now as the nex two games, if a third is necessary, will be played on Boston ice. At Detroit, Canadiens put up a stubborn battle before they admitted defeat by a 2 to 1 score. It was typical Stanley Cup close-to-the-vest hockey and Red Wings took the decision on two smart goals by Don Grosso, one of them a solo effort. Canadiens only had 16 shots on Mowers throughout the engagement.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Eddie Starr, Joe Blewett, Art Heal and Bruce Bennett of the Petes took a busman's holiday Saturday night and travelled to Oshawa to see Generals defeat Guelph for the Ontario junior A championship. They were satisfied that the better team won the argument and especially liked the work of Red Tillson for Oshawa....Trenton Flyers were away off color in their game at Windsor Saturday night and were beaten 27 to 19....Flyers scored only one basket in the first 27 minutes and Pat Flynn was kept off the score sheet altogether. It must have been poor visibility or something like that....The Ottawa R.C.A.F. has lost one-third of its Kraut line. Bobby Bauer is out of action with a fractured shoulder....Markham's bunch of brothers really handcuffed the Belleville Flyers at Oshawa Saturday afternoon, taking the game 8 to 1 and the round by 14 to 4....With Bill Cowley back to make plays and Frankie Brimsek holding the fort in the nets, the Bruins might make plenty of trouble for all and sundry in the cup series....Their win in Chicago at least shows that they will not be pushovers for anybody....The Petes-Merritton game must be a secret....There is still no mention of it in the Toronto papers.

Nine Teams Left Eastern Race For Hockey Cups

Hands of hockey's time clock leading up to the Eastern Canadian amateur final are running nearer to a showdown as to-day only four clubs representing three provinces remain on this trail which leads to the Allan Cup and Canadian senior hockey supremacy.

Winding up a whir wind week of hockey saw them dispose of Ottawa Senators for the Quebec Senior Hockey League title, then Shawinigan Falls for the provincial crown, Quebec Aces stepped into a role held for the past several seasons by a Montreal club.

To-day, Aces head toward Nova Scotia in quest of further laurels. They take on Glace Bay Miners, Maritime champions, who have been marking time these past few weeks awaiting a Quebec titlist to be declared. The teams open a best three out of five game series Wednesday night.

Cataracts Put Up Battle.

Aces' final step before qualifying to meet the Martimers nearly came as a pitfall as Shawinigan's Cataracts, Montreal and District League champs, put up a desperate fight in a game at Montreal yesterday only to lose, 6-3.

Originally slated as a two-game series, it was abbreviated to a sudden-death affair. The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association said Shawinigan balked at having to play twice away from home and as a provincial champion had to be declared by March 25, it was decided one game would settle everything, due to extenuating circumstances."

Meanwhile the Quebec Assocation had already ruled out a protest by the Ottawa Senators on the outcome of the Quebec Senior Hockey League game last Friday in which Aces beat Ottawa 2-1. The Ottawa club protested that the full time of the game had not been played and referees were changed prior to the game without the club's knowledge.

On the other Eastern front, the forthcoming meeting between Ottawa's Royal Canadian Air Force team and Hamilton Majors loomed as a more important issue. Both of these clubs have been rated highly for Eastern honors and the outcome of this series may see the Eastern Canada titlist.

A sad blow was struck to Flyers' chances when Coach Bill Touhey announced that little Bobby Bauer, member of the famed Kraut line of Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart, would be out the rest of the season with a broken collarbone.

Guelph Put Out.

In the Junior Eastern playdowns, two old faces appeared back on the horizon as definitely in the hunt for the honored Memorial Cup. Oshawa Generals came surging back to send Guelph Biltmores to the sidelines when they scored a 5-2 victory on Saturday to clinch the best-of-five Ontario A series by the odd game. Meanwhile, in Montreal, Royals opened a best-of-three series against Clearpoint with a narrow 5-4 win.

The two Montreal clubs resume their series to-night, while Generals take on Ottawa St. Pats, coached by the former National Hockey League goaling star, Alec Connell, for the Ontario provincial crown. The teams open a best-of-five series in Toronto to-night.

Some Sport Shorts From Britain

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 23.—(AP).—May be it's to compensate for all those 1941 injuries, but Manager Billy Southworth of St. Louis Cardinals can't turn around this spring without bumping into good luck. Latest item is the showing of Rookie Outfielder Ervin Dusak at third base. "I've never seen anybody play better third base and I have watched Pie Traynor," says Lon Warneke, the lean pitcher.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Red Rolfe, ailing New York Yankee third baseman, joined his world champion teammates to-day and started his campaign to oust Jerry Priddy from the hot corner. Rolfe, ill much of the winter with colitis, came here from Toledo, Ohio, where he had been undergoing treatments.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Lee Handley's sense of humor is making a hit with his Pittsburg Pirate teammates. The injured third baseman composed a parody on the popular tune "Somebody else is taking my place" and dedicated it to Bob Elliott, who has been subbing for him.

MIAMI, Fla.—Only two days after Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants, announced that the second base job belonged to Connie Ryan, Atlanta rookie, the youngster was benched in hopes of curing the club's losing streak. But it didn't help. The Giants yesterday got two singles in bowing to Washington 6-1.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Manager Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox, placed Ted Williams in charge of the players not making the swing around the grapefruit circuit and said: "I'll bet they get nothing but hitting practice." Williams' hip injury is healing and he probably will take his place in the line-up late this week.

TAMPA, Fla.— Cincinnati Reds are counting heavily on Frank McCormick to regain his .300 batting form following last year's slump to .269, but the big first baseman has gotten only five bingles in 36 trips to the plate this spring.

Grosso Scores Two As Wings Beat Canadiens

DETROIT, March 23— (CP). — Chunky Don Grosso who won a sizeable share of the scoring honors in the regular National Hockey League schedule this season when he finished third in the standing, to-day wears a hero's mantle as the sharpshooter who single-handed gave Detroit Red Wings 1-game lead over Canadiens in the opener of their best-of-three game Stanley Cup series.

The 170-pound Sault Ste. Marie winger, who has always been an aggressive worker on the ice, sniped both the goals that gave the Wings a 2-1 victory over the Habitants here last night. The verdict put the Detroiters in a favorible spot and home fans are looking forward to their heroes finishing the series when the teams meet in Montreal to-morrow night. If a third game is necessary it will be played back here on Thursday.

Scores Early in Game.

Just 11 minutes of the first period had gone by when Grosso fired home the first goal of the game on a beautiful angle shot from about 45 feet out. Then at 2:36 of the second period his linemate, Sid Abel, set him up for his second tally, another long shot which screamed along the ice at ankle height past Goal Paul Bibeault.

Canadiens put on a desperate drive to get back into the show, but Terry Reardon's tally on a play with Toe Blake midway through the second period, was the nearest the Canadiens came to catching the Wings.

While victory was sweet for a record season's crowd of 12,371 they missed what they had mainly come out to see—a renewal of the riot-out scenes which marked the last two meetings of the regular season between the two clubs.

The game was strictly a subdued affair with both clubs playing cautious hockey. Only two penalties were handed out, both to Detroit players, Jimmy Orlando and Jack Stewart, but Canadiens were unable to take advantage of the edge.

Except for Grosso's individual feat, the game lacked anything of the usual playoff lustre. Canadiens resigned to play defensive hockey and in doing so looked far from impressive against the Detroiters who kept Goaler Bibeault busy throughout. Johnny Mowers in the Detroit net had only 17 shots to handle in comparison to Bibeault's 27.

The victory enabled Wings to keep their win streak on home ice alive. They have won eight successive games in their own backyard and nine of their last 10.

Among the few pulse-stirring episodes of the tussle was when Ray Getliffe protested to Referee King Clancy for not penalizing Orlando for drawing blood. Getliffe claims Orlando clipped him with his stick across the scalp, a wound which needed four stitches to close. Clancy, however, ruled the cut had been inflicted accidentally by another player's stick.

Bobby Bauer Is Out Of Game

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 23 — (CP). — Pre-game sentiment on the Allan Cup elimination series between Hamilton Majors and Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers fluctuated sharply today after a freak accident which sent Flyers' Bobby Bauer to the sidelines for the season with a fractured collar-bone.

A headlong spill during a Saturday practice caused the injury and Coach Bill Touhey was confronted with the problem of finding a replacement capable of matching speed with Centre Milt Schmidt and Left Wing Woody Dumart, Bauer's linemates from Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

Confidence radiating all week from the camp of the City League Flyers, Ottawa District champions, was tinged after Bauer's injury, and many fans were inclined to revise previous guesses which accorded the Capital city's representatives a slight edge in the best-of-five Eastern Canada semi-final series which opens here tonight.

George Snell, fast-skating forward who reported to Flyers in late February from Brandon, Man., was elected to round out Flyers' first-string forward line with Schmidt and Dumart.

Second game of the Flyers-Majors series will be played at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, with the third game back in Ottawa Saturday. The winners will meet Glace Bay Miners or Quebec Aces in the Eastern Canada final.

Kings Row . . . .

By HENRY BELLAMANN

KINGS ROW PAWN
CHAPTER XXXV

"PEYTON, you're not worth the shot it would take to kill you, but—I'll speak to Drake."

"Will you honest?"

"Tomorrow."

"Gee! In a little while I ought to be able to clear enough to take care of that debt to the St. George estate—if I'm not found out in the meantime. But the thing that scares me—"

"Just lately Fulmer Green has had something to do with the St. George properties. He's got an eye on the real estate business around here, too. He may know something."

"Heaven pity you if he gets on your trail. I'll see what Drake can do to help you out financially right away."

"This means a lot, Parris." Peyton stood up. "Now I want to tell you something about that attack in the Chronicle."

"All right, go on."

"Fulmer Green was behind it. He had some advance information about the proposal to buy, and he tried to get an option on the place himself. Then he found out you and Drake owned it."

"I see." Parris spoke evenly, but he was turning cold inside. "Go on."

"He really owns a controlling interest in the Chronicle but nobody knows it. He backed Wardlaw so he'd have a paper behind his political career."

"You're sure "

"Sure. A lawyed in St. Louis named R. R. Rosebro can prove it."

"Thanks, Peyton. You ought to be a detective."

After Peyton had gone, Parris called Fulmer Green.

"That you, Fulmer? Parris Mitchell. I want to talk to you right away—no, I won't come over there. No! Tomorrow won't do. Be here at the hospital in half an hour. Don't make it longer."

PEYTON walked blindly down the long avenue from the main building of the hospital to its tall gates. He was terribly confused. The confusion was part relief, and part apprehension and unease.

Imagine working for Drake McHugh. Drake, whom he had turned out of his office once, now crippled and married to a little nobody and living in a little house down there in the lower end of the town with all kinds of foreigners. His boss! A bitter pill—but there were worse.

Parris had done something no other man in Kings Row would do. He'd live up to it. He'd get straightened out. He thought again of Fulmer Green, and a quick perspiration dampened his face.

Reaching his office, he switched on the light and sat down at his desk, confidence returning with familiar surroundings. His glance fell on a long envelope. It was a special delivery letter, mailed in Kings Row that afternoon. He felt a chill go down his spine as he saw it was from Fulmer Green.

Peyton read the three short paragraphs at a glance, knowing what they said almost without reading them. This finished him. Too late for Parris to help. Or Drake . . .

He scrawled a note. Then he opened the lowest desk drawer and took out a revolver. He arose and walked into the lavatory and closed the door.

FULMER GREEN sat opposite Parris. His face was wet with perspiration.

"I don't know where you got all this, unless it was from that stinking Pepton Graves, but if you think you can scare me—"

"You are scared. People like you always are scared whenever they're found out. You were a nasty, cowardly boy in school, afraid to jump on anybody until you had a gang behind you. Society always has a few like you."

Fulmer tried to laugh, but his mouth was dry.

"Fulmer, The Evening Chronicle will publish a full retraction of that accusation of last year. I'll furnish you with the correct data. The retraction won't be editorial. It will be over your signature."

"I won't do it. You're a fool, Parris Mitchell."

"Would you rather Miles Jackson published it in his paper?"

"The Gazette—you mean—"

"Of course. Do you think I'll let you do this to me, and do nothing about it? Incidentally, I had a little talk with the governor last week. He seems an honest sort of man."

Fulmer was red as fire, but he said nothing for a moment.

"All right, but—"

"There aren't any 'buts.' Just write it and have it in my hands tomorrow after breakfast. You'll get it back in time for the paper."

The telephone rang; its faint tinkle contrasted with the tense atmosphere of the room. Parris answered.

"Hello . . . Yes . . . What? . . . When? . . . I see . . . Yes, I'll come on down . . . Oh, a note . . . to me? . . . All right, I'll be along in five minutes."

He replaced the receiver.

"Fulmer!"

"Yeh."

"Peyton Graves shot himself a few minutes ago."

Fulmer's eyes stretched wide.

"Did you have anything to do with this?"

"What do you mean?"

"Peyton was afraid about something."

"I haven't done anything to Peyton Graves."

"I hope you are telling the truth. Come on, you're going with me."

Fulmer looked anxiously at Parris, but Parris' face was set and expressionless. Fulmer followed him rather meekly.

PARRIS spent much of his free time with Drake and Randy, who were busied with their purchase and development of the Crescent Hill properties. Drake's mind, Parris felt, had completely recovered from old wounds. He was confident, happy, his self-esteem restored.

Even more often he saw the Sandors. He had begun to feel that the comfortable, mellow old house was home again. Often Mr. Sandor spoke of his work.

"I'm a practical horticulturist. Now your scientists—these wizards—I do not do anything like that. First of all, that is not my job."

"What is your job, exactly?"

"To improve the common breed."

Parris considered this, and repeated the phrase slowly. "To—improve—the—common—breed."

"Yes. Exactly. But you understand—like this: to make an improvement on all fronts of advancement at once."

"No. I don't understand you at all."

"Like this. I work with a species of——of bean, let us say. I work to make a few more pods, each pod a little larger, to make fewer leaves maybe, to adopt the plant to a particular climate, to make it a little hardier, maybe a little quicker to flower—many points like that. Just practical improvement of vegetables, that's all."

"To improve the common breed!" Parris said the words again, rather dreamily.

Elise studied his face. "It would be good if somebody would do this for human beings."

"I was thinking just that."

Sometimes Parris plodded about the familiar fields and slopes with Sandor. Sometimes they talked, but more often these excursions were silent. Sandor was intent on his subjects. Parris dreamed, or remembered. Out of all his new association with every familiar corner of the old place something was coming back to him. Piece by piece, little by little, a reconstruction was taking place. He began to gain a perspective he had not had.

In his attitude and in his adjustment to his own increasing world, and even in the external manifestations of his personality, the intentions and purposes of Marie von Eln came gradually to their full fruition.

Once in a while Parris talked about his grandmother to Elise as they walked across the hills, and through the yellow autumn fields.

He watched her as she talked. The half-stately phrases of her careful English had a special charm. It reminded her of his grandmother's speech. There was an odd flavor, almost exotic, about her utterance of the simplest commonplace.

"Dr. Mitchell, I must ask you a question."

"All right."

"The first time you came here, when you came up on the terrace, you asked me if my name was Renee. Why did you think that might be m name?"

"I think I was startled by the way you looked."

"Like someone named Renee?"

"She was a little girl I used to play with."

She looked up quickly. "Your sweetheart?"

"I was a small boy. She lived on the place—in the overseer's house."

"What became of her?"

A look, like a sudden shadow, crossed his face. Elise had seen the expression before.

"She went away. The family left."

"Oh. You never saw her again?"

"It was long ago." The shadow lay on his face again, and Elise said no more. They climbed a barbed-wire fence, and Elise tore her skirt. He had helped her over the fence, and still held her hand. They walked on through the tall dry grass of an open field.

THAT winter Parris set about organizing his notes and his published articles into a book. The work proved more difficult than he had expected, and as a consequence he saw very little of Randy and Drake or of the Sandors. He planned to go to Vienna in May for final consultation with the board of editors. It was to be a hurried trip.

One evening Randy called him rather late.

"I want to see you, Parris. Could you come down?"

Randy met him at the corner. "Drake's sick, Parris."

"What's wrong?"

"He's in a great deal of pain. In his hip. He's been complaining some all winter. But I thought it was fatigue. He stayed propped up too long at a time. That's what Dr. McNeill thought, too."

"Does Drake—did he tell Drake anything?"

"No. But he left a sedative. Drake's easier just now."

Parris found Drake half asleep, but tossing restlessly. He felt extremely depressed when he left the house.

His interview with Dr. McNeill confirmed his fears.

"Of course, Dr. Mitchell, there must be a consultation. But I'm fairly sure."

"It's not—?" Parris choked a little and cleared his throat. Dr. McNeill sensed the question.

"An operation would be useless."

"How long?"

Dr. McNeill shrugged doubtfully. "I don't give him more than six months—maybe less."

Indians Cut Caps Down 6-3; In Driver's Seat

By The Canadian Press

Springfield Indians are back in the driver's seat today in their American Hockey League playoff series with Indianapolis Capitals and if Bob Dill and Bill Summerhill have anything to do with it, then the Indians are going to stay there.

These two fast skating wingers were the driving power which enabled the Indians to rally for a 6-3 victory over Caps Saturday and a 2-1 edge in the best-of-five, semi-final series.

While these two clubs were battling it out for one semi-final berth, Cleveland Barons jumped into a lead against Hershey Bears in the other bracket, when they pulled out a 3-2 decision Saturday in the first game of a best-of-three affair.

It was Dill's first goal midway through the final period that gave Springfield a lead after it battled from behind since early in the initial frame. Up to that stage, Caps had taken a 2-1 edge in the first period and increased it to 3-1 in the middle frame. Fred Thurier got the equalizer for Indians and after Dill had tallied the clincher, Norm Larson sandwiched another Indian goal between's Dill's second marker.

Summerhill's two goals marked opening in the first and second periods.

Joe Fisher got two of the Indianapolis goals with the other going to Les Douglas.

Robertson Out

Springfield lost the services of Goaler Earl Robertson, who collided with Gus Geisebrecht early in the first period. He suffered a severe cut to his head which required seven stitches to close. It is doubtful if he will be able to play in Indians' next game. His place will be filled by Mike Karakas, emergency goaler, who did a fine job in replacing him against Caps.

Veteran Les Cunningham came through with the important goal in the second period which enabled Barons to nip Hershey. Both sides matched goals in the first and third periods, with Herb Foster and Art Giroux scoring for Barons and Vic Lofvendahl and Stewart getting the Hershey markers.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Hershey tomorrow night and if a third is necessary the teams will play again at Hershey Thursday.

Springfield and Caps will also renew their series tomorrow on Indianapolis ice.

Markham Wallops Belleville Fliers

OSHAWA, March 23.— Markham Green Shirts advanced another step along the O.H.A. Intermediate B play-off trail here on Saturday afternoon when they eliminated the R.C.A.F. team from No. 5 I.T.S., Belleville. Markham won the game 8-1 to take the round 14 to 4.

Trailing by three goals as the result of the first clash, the Fliers started out in determined fashion and scored the only goal of the first period, Howe potting Strachan's pass before Harper could cover up. With Campbell doing yeoman work in the nets the Fliers made a splendid showing until late in the second period. Markham scored three goals in the last five minutes of the second and ran wild with a five-goal splash in the third, to clearly establish their superiority.

TORONTO LEAFS TAKE FIRST TWO GAMES FROM NEW YORK RANGERS

Leafs Going Like Clockwork Tower Over League Champions Revealing Well-Balanced Team

By H. M. PETERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(CP). — Toronto Maple Leafs, a red-hot team functioning like clockwork now that all the injured players are in shape, to-day towered over the field in the struggle for hockey's prized Stanley Cup.

The Leafs last night played smart, aggressive hockey to defeat the National League champions, New York Rangers, 4-2 in a fast and exciting game at Madison Square Garden. The game came right on the heels of Toronto's 3-1 victory at home Saturday night and left the Rangers face to face with elimination from the hunt for the cup which they last won in 1940.

To-morrow night the teams which finished one-two—Rangers on top—in the regular season will continue their series here. The fourth game will be played at Toronto on Saturday and if a fifth is necessary the teams will come back to Madison Square Garden next Sunday.

But on the form the Leafs showed Saturday and Sunday no one could predict with confidence that a fifth game will be necessary. Unexpectedly, upsetting predictions based on the year's play, the Leafs proved themselves to be much better balanced than the Rangers, sounder in defence, quicker to force scoring opportunities, and superior in goal where Turk Broda, veteran of many a series, gave no cheap counters.

Weak On Defence

Not that the first two games brought discredit to Sailor Jim Henry, the Rangers rookie goalie. It was the Ranger defence rather, that had to take the blame. The rearguard showed uncertainty, a lack of determination, that offered the Leafs chances which they quickly grasped.

After the two games Coach Frank Boucher said, simply: "They have been too good for us, so far."

Coach Happy Day of the Leafs said their success was due to the fact that "15 men are pulling together." If he had to mention one name, it would be that of Bingo Kampman whose return to activity after being out two months with a knee injury has pulled the Leaf defence into an effective unit, out of which stood the effective rushing of Rookie Bob Goldham and the heavy checking of Bucko McDonald.

Scoring heroes of the second game, in which the Leafs acquired and lost a two-goal lead then bounced back unperturbed to win out, were Rookie Johnny McCreedy and his steady centre, Pete Langelle.

McCreedy scored two goals, the opening counter and the tally that proved to be the winner, each time finishing off a play engineered by Langelle. Gordon Drillon, high-scoring right winger who leads all players, past and present, in cup-series marksmanship, while the other went to Billy Taylor who broke away from a Ranger attack, raced two-thirds the length of the ice, tricked the goalie and fired the puck into the empty net.

Colville Scored Two

Rangers' both goals fell to Mac Colville, dependable right winger and both were scored while Nick Metz was serving a penalty in the third period for holding Bryan Hextall. These tallies tied the score following the markers by McCreedy and Drillon in the first period, but the wild cheering of the Ranger supporters had hardly died down when McCreedy put the Leafs ahead again, this time to stay, and Taylor's marker a couple of minutes later only made victory certain.

The Saturday game, in which the Leafs' big trio of Syl Apps, Drillon and Nick Metz each scored a goal, was practically settled in the first six minutes of play, during which the Leafs wiped out a goal by Ranger defenceman Babe Pratt and went ahead on goals by Drillon and Metz.

A little more than half way through the second period Apps got his stick to a shot by Drillon and tipped it into the cage. From then on the Leafs turned aside continual Ranger attacks.

Drillon's two week-end goals, plus his pair of assists on the markers by Apps and Metz, boosted his play-off markmanhip since 1938 to 22 goals and 12 assists.

New Sparkle Is Added To Brooklyn Team

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press port Writer

TAMPA, Fla., March 23—(AP)—Day by day the Brooklyn Dodgers are convincing more and more people that they are going to be difficult to dislodge from the National League's throne room.

The Dodgers have proved this Spring that they are a much better ball club now than they were in winning the pennant, while both St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds have looked a little less lustrous than expected.

Three men, Arky Vaughan, Augie Galan and Johnny Rizzo, have added a new sparkle to the Brooklyn cast and have inspired their playmates to greater things.

Galan is the brightest find of all. Last August Chicago Cubs waived the 29-year-old veteran to Los Angeles, but President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers salvaged him before he ever started for the coast. The little guy had no chance to show his wares last season and this Spring received scant consideration in Brooklyn's plans except as insurance for the outfield, first base, second base and whatever other berths needed insurance.

Medwick In Danger

But even since the first days of training in Havana, Galan has been hitting and fielding like a demon and has just about won the leftfield post for which Joe Medwick holds a deed. Galan has been playing first base for the last few days because of a slight injury to Dolph Camilli, but nothing that Medwick has done in the meantime has served to harm Augie's chances of starting in the outfield.

Vaughan has made a magnificent showing at third. He has played in almost all of the Dodgers' exhibition tussles and has not made a single error. His powerful bat has had an important part in several of Brooklyn's triumphs. Vaughan never has batted less than .300 and last season hit .316.

Rizzo is vieing with Dixie Walker for the rightfield spot and has a good chance of doing it.

These three fellows, with Camilli, Pete Reiser, Peewee Reese and Billy Herman, give the Dodgers a dangerous batting order and an experienced, dependable club that has looked better than any other team in Florida.

Boston Bruins Beat Hawks 2-1 In Overtime

CHICAGO, March 23.—(CP)—The clamor of public acclaim has sounded seldom for Desmond (Des) Smith, but the big Boston defenceman was enjoying today one of his rare moments of triumph.

Smith's entire bulk (six feet, 185 pounds) was behind a driving shot from close range to give Boston Bruins a 2-1 overtime victory over Chicago Black Hawks here last night in the first game of a best-of-three Stanley Cup playoffs quarter-finals.

He was standing in a milling group of Boston and Chicago players in front of the Chicago net when a pass came out from Roy Conacher. Smith had a split second to aim and let go and Sammy Lo Presti, the Chicago netman, couldn't move fast enough to make a stop. Bill Cowley also was given an assist on the goal, which broke up the game after 6:51 of overtime. A crowd of 17,103 watched the contest.

Bentley Forced Overtime

Max Bentley of the Hawks ran a close second in the hero department. His goal to force overtime came with only 70 seconds of third-period play remaining after Bruins had guarded a first-period goal for nearly 50 minutes. Doug. Bentley and Mush March drew assists on the play. Roy Conacher was Boston's other scorer, blasting one under Lo Presti as the Chicago goalie went down to save. The goal came at 11:08 in the second, with assists to Eddie Wiseman and Cowley.

Smith is a native of Ottawa and came to Boston after Montreal Maroons folded. His last amateur club was Wembley Lions of the English National League and he turned professional with Maroons in the 1937-38 season. He is 28.

The Boston and Chicago clubs headed back for Boston today for the second game of the series, to be played in Boston tomorrow night. If a third game is necessary, it will be played in Boston Thursday night. The series winner will meet the winner of the Montreal-Detroit quarter-final for the right to enter the Stanley Cup final against the winner of the Toronto-New York semi-final.

Moose Jaw Team Eliminated In Western Race

By the Canadian Press.

Dreams of hockey greatness were forgotten to-day— for this season, at least—by three Western Canada teams shunted to the sidelines in senior and junior playoff contests during the week-end.

Moose Jaw Millers and Victoria Navy were eliminated from Senior contention and Flin Flon Bombers dropped from the junior picture. Five clubs remain in the running in each division.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs prolonged the Alberta senior final with a 2-1 victory over Calgary Stampeders at Lethbridge on Saturday night to tie the best-of-five series 2-2. The deciding game will be played in Calgary to-night.

Saskatoon Quakers ousted Moose Jaw in the sixth game of a Saskatchewan senior final scheduled originally as best-of-five.

The 6-2 victory was Saskatoon's second in the series. Moose Jaw won one and the other three were ties.

Quakers next will meet Kimberley Dynamiters, who won the B. C. senior crown in a three-game series with Victoria Navy, winning the third game on Saturday 3-0. Their Western senior semi-final, a best-of-five series, will start on Thursda yat Saskatoon.

Second game will be at Saskatoon on Saturday with the third at Regina next Monday. Dates for the fourth and fifth games, if necessary, have not been edcided.

The other senior semi-final between Port Arthur Bear Cats, champions of Thunder Bay and Manitoba, and either Calgary or Lethbridge will begin in Calgary on Thursday. Second and third games will be played on Saturday and on Monday, and the fourth, if necessary, Tuesday, March 31, all at Calgary.

Bombears beaten 10-4

Regina Abbotts won a two-game total-goal Saskatchewan junior series over Flin-Flon Bombers, 10-4. The first game Saturday ended in a 3-3 tie with Regina taking the second game last night 7-1. Regina and Edmonton Maple Leafs will start their western semi-final junior series this week but dates and venue of games have not been decided.

Meanwhile Fort William Hurricane-Rangers, the Thunder Bay junior winners, await the outcome of the Manitoba junior final between Portage La Prairie Terriers and St. Boniface Athletics. Portage La Prairie defeated Athletics 11-8 in a wide-open affair at Winnipeg Saturday and the best-of-three series will be resumed at Winnipeg to-night.

Andy Young's smart goal-keeping gave Lethbridge another chance at the Alberta senior crown. His team mate, Mel Lunge scored both goals with Calgary's lone marker going to Les Thirlwell.

Bob Brownridge, formerly of New York Rovers of the Eastern United States' Amateur League, liked the rugged going and scored three in Quakers win over Moose Jaw. Syd Fenn, Mike Shabaga and Ab Welsh got the other Quaker goals with Roy McBride and Johnny McIntyre scoring for Moose Jaw.

Kimberley bagged a goal a period by Lyall Swaney, Curly Hunt and Lloyd Sanderson in shutting out the Navy in B.C.

In the Manitoba junior finals Winnipeg, the high-scoring Terriers' first line of Joe Bell, Bob Love and Lin Bend accounted for nine goals, Wally Stefaniew and Jack McDonald getting the others. Al McMunn and his linemate Stan Petrow accounted for six St. Boniface counters with single goals going to Pete Cleoent and Stan Molinski.

Windsor Cagers Whip Trenton

WINDSOR, March 23 — (CP).—Windsor Alumni is one game up in the best-of-three series for the Ontarion senior basketball with the Trenton Fliers as result of the 27-19 victory over the Royal Canadian Air Force team here on Saturday night. The second game will be at Belleville next aSturday night.

Fliers Off Stride.

The Fliers were outplayed here in a game that saw a very inferior brand of basketball for a Provincial final. The Trenton five was definitely off its stride, and only or a few minutes in the second half did the Fliers show the brand of game they are capable of.

The Trenton attack in the first half was pitiful, and resulted in only one field basket. Seven minutes of the second half had gone before Trenton scored its second basket, making a total of twenty-seven minutes of play with only one two-point counter.

Windsor was also off stride, and only Centre Jack Blair had his shooting eye. He collected 15 points to lead the scoring for the night.

None of the visitors stood out. All were guilty of poor ball handling and showed little in the way of play making that the veteran Windsor men could not fathom. Norm Phybbs was high scorer with eight points.

Mort Bunnell, Assumption College star drafted by Windsor for the game, played a nice game for the winners and collected seven points. The foul shooting of both teams was poor, with each making but seven of twenty attempts.

Maple Syrup Is Quoted $3.00 A Gallon

Capricious March weather switched from midweek sunshine to gray skies and chill winds for the produce market Saturday, but even that change was as typical of the season as the first run of maple syrup and the pussy willows which herald the miracle of returning life in the country.

The maple bush farmers quoted syrup at 75 cents a quart and $3 a gallon, presumably the local ceiling in the basic price period of September 15 to October 11 last year. Information regarding the price of this product of the woods was that it was exempted last November from the ceiling restriction when sold by producers to manufacturers, processors or dealers, but sales to consumers by any person "must be at or under the maximum prices prevailing in the basic period."

The flow of sap did not spill over the pails last week, and the best run was on Friday, according to a report from the bush of Robert McCamus and Son of Cavan township.

Table stock potatoes were $1.75 a bag with a fair offering, although growers say the supply is beginning to run short. James Healey sold thirty bags of White Stars Saturday, and R. Kinsman of Campbellcroft disposed of his truck load. D. Olan told the Examiner he did not bring any potatoes, and has only a moderate stock of Katahdins left. Erle Tully was quoting No. 1 registered Cobblers at $2.50 a bag, and No. 2 Chippewas at $2.25, all certified. He said seed enquiries are coming in freely, and he sold a lot of his good seed last week.

Apples Depleted

The local 1941 crop of apples is also beginning to be rapidly depleted. Norman Moncrief said he brought in Saturday the last of his Northern Spies, selling at 90 cents a peck. "I may not have anything other than Starks next Saturday," he told a reporter. Starks sold at 50 cents.

Fred Stenson's vegetable prices were: carrots, parsnips and beets at 25 cents a six-quart basket, onions 35 cents a basket, and turnips six for 25 cents.

Butter was 37 and 38 cents. "You should not quote anything less than 38 cents," one woman suggested.

Eggs were 27 to 40 cents a dozen, with the bulk of the heavy offering going at 28 to 30 cents.

The forty-cent price was for uniformly large selects. Chickens were 28 and 30 cents a pound. One goose was 25 cents a pound and a few turkeys 30 and 35 cents a pound.

Most of the fresh meat group of producers were absent. R. Bradfield had only pork at 18 and 20 cents a pound.

Turkey's Ambassador to Germany, Huesrev Gerede, arrived meanwhile in Istanbul to join his country's envoys to Rumania, Spain and Iran in foreign office talks.

Advices from Rumania declared that Juliu Maniu, former premier and peasant leader, was taking a leading part in the campaign to get Northern Transylvania back from Hungary with the slogan:—

"Get Northern Transylvania back from Hungary or quit the Axis."

Winning Much Food

Maniu was said to have won an enormous following and was reported to have sent a letter to Acting Premier Michael Antonescu demanding renunciation of Rumania's alliance with the Axis.

The Swiss press said the Rumanians felt they had made heavy sacrifices in the war against Russia had continued fighting only in the hope that by loyalty to German they could win back the disputed territory.

Antonescu was said to have presented Rumania's claims to Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop some months ago without results.

German spokesmen in Berlin minimized the importance of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute, but Nazi leaders were clearly inconvenienced, one Swiss correspondent said. One authoritative German was quoted as saying the war with Russia was the main thing and "all other problems will have to wait."

"Rumors which speak of new arbitration (of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute) or a change of the previous one are unfounded," this source said.

A special dispatch to the Berner Tagblatt, however, said that Rumania, Slovakia and Croatia had formed "a sort of little entente directed against Hungary."

"Around Hungary a new ring has been established which this time is not based upon Paris," the dispatch said. "Today these three southeastern nations have created a common front against Hungary."

(In London, a Reuters political commentator suggested King Boris' trip to Berlin might be connected with the question of Bulgarian aid for Germany or "Hitler's plans for an attack on Turkey."

(The same source, commenting on the movements of Von Papen and Gerede, said: "These journeyings probably mark the opening of Hitler's normal spring diplomatic and political offensive, which usually precedes German military action by four to eight weeks.")

Only 3 Deaths In Weekend Toll

(By The Canadian Press)

The unusually low week-end total of three fatalities was reported in Ontario today.

L.A.C. John N. Forest, 19, of Farmingdale, Long Island, N.Y., was killed instantly Sunday when his Royal Canadian Air Force training plane crashed about 20 miles southeast of Hagersville, Ont. Forest was stationed at the Hagersville Service Flying Training School.

Struck by a truck while walking on a highway near Brockville, Ont., Robert Reid, 22, of Lucknow, Ont., was killed Saturday night.

William O'Reilly, 55, of Toronto, died in hospital Saturday from injuries suffered Wednesday when he fell over a railing in a downtown hotel in which he lived. He fractured his skull and pelvis.

Saskatchewan and British Columbia in the years following 1900, he resigned from the ministry because he believed his social beliefs out of harmony with those of the church.

Turned Longshoreman.

Although a church committee ruled otherwise and restored his name to the ministerial role, he continued to pursue his social beliefs in between positions in the Methodist mission field in British Columbia and became successively a longshoreman, labor leader, parliamentarian, and finally Leader of the new C.C.F. Party at its formation in Calgary in 1932.

In 1918 he left the secretaryship of the Alberta Non-Partisan League at Calgary to come to Vancouver and become a longshoreman, at the same time identifying himself with the Labor movement here.

The following year he was in Winnipeg when the great 1919 strike was in progress and was arrested on a charge of seditious libel. However, the charge was withdrawn when the authorities failed to convict another participant in the strike on a similar count.

Educated in Public Schools at Portage La Prairie and Brandon, Man., and at Victoria College, Toronto and Oxford, he taught school for a year before entering the ministry.

He was first elected in the House of Commons as a Labor member from Winnipeg in 1921 and soon proved himself an able parliamentarian. For years he battled in the House for economic and social reforms and stamped himself in Parliament as a stout opponent of war and Imperialism.

He led the Labor wing in the House until he became president of the C.C.F. on formation of that party in 1932 through an affiliation of various Farm-Labor groups. He continued to lead the Party actively until a serious illness in May, 1940, interrupted his long career.

Surprise Raid

in this round of the battle on the Dominion's threshold, was two aircraft lost and two bomber crewmen wounded.

Military sources said the loss of fighter planes on New Guinea was especially costly to the enemy since they cannot be replaced as quickly as bombers, which can be flown long distances, to such front-line outposts.

The persistent Allied offensive, they pointed out, also forcing the Japanese to maintain day-long fighter patrols over their New Guinea bases with a consequent waste of valuable fuel and of the limited flying time of planes at the front.

Gen. MacArthur was busy in conferences mapping his strategy for defending Australia and converting it into the base for a United Nations drive to strip the Japanese of their Pacific conquests.

He and Lt.-Gen. George H. Brett, his Air Chief and second in command, were scheduled to meet with the Australian Army Minister Francis M. Forde, and Lt.-Gen. Vernon Sturdee, Chief of the Australian Army General Staff.

Still wearing the same light khaki trousers and bush jacket in which he arrived last week after his 2,000-mile flight from Bataan, MacArthur talked to-day with the largest internaitonal newspaper corps ever collected in Australia.

Striding to and fro in his makeshift press quarters, he talked freely—but off the record—of military matters, and greatly impressed his listeners with his vigor, utter assurance and quick, clear thought.

Absolutely Confident.

His frame of mind was exemplified, best, perhaps, in his answer to a congratulatory telegram from Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

"I have absolute confidence in complete victory," he said.

While Australian-American air forces still bore the brunt of the defence on the pathways of invasion, a small, daring Australian patrol was reported to have dashed into Japanese-held Salamaua, on New Guinea's northeast coast, gathered information and safely regained its own line.

A military spokesman at Port Moresby, New Guinea, was quoted as declaring that "there is no sign of further Japanese advance in the Markham valley," a back-door approach to Port Moresby through which the enemy has been pushing slowly from the Lae region.

This is such a difficult route, across the 13,000 foot Owen Stanley range that some sources at Port Moresby were skeptical whether the Japanese would try it.

Besides Lae, other bomber squadrons dumped bombs into target areas of Rabaul, New Britain, and Kupang, Netherlands Timor.

The only Japanese forays were the raid on Darwin in which the communique said, no military targets were hit nor damage or casualties reported, and Katherine, 175 miles south of Darwin.

At the small town, on the defence railway which connects with the trans-Australian desert highway at Birdum, another 100 miles farther to the southwest, there was said to have been no military damage either. One aboringe was killed and another wounded.

The only other suspicion of Japanese air activity was the presence of unidentified planes, presumed to have been enemy scouting planes, over Townsville, about 700 miles down the east coast from Cape York and farther in that direction than the enemy has been known to explore by air so far.

Fast Printing On Plebiscite

OTTAWA, March 23 — (CP). — Books of detailed instructions were en route to plebiscite vote officials today following what Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, called "the fastest printing job" in his experience.

The plebiscite vote, which asks Canadians whether the Government should be released from past commitments on methods of raising men for military service, will be held April 27, two weeks earlier than had been thought possible with past experience in mind.

Mr. Castonguay said a limiting factor in the time required for any type of general vote was the necessity for extensive printing. Some 200 booklets and documents of all kinds had to be prepared.

"More than 16,000,000 copies of one document have to be printed—the forms carried by enumerators and left at the voter's home," Mr. Castonguay said. "The forms are filled out in triplcate, with one copy left with the voter, one for the card index, and one for the enumerator's record.

"Between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 ballot papers are printed for the plebiscite."

Final plebiscite provisions were not approved by the Government until March 11. After that the first job was printing of lengthy books of instructions, which were sent out to election officials throughout the country.

These books include: Ordinary voter regulations, 98 pages; active service vote regulations, 30 pages; instructions to returning officers, 57 pages; instructions to deputy returning officers, 43 pages; instructions to urban enumerators, 28 pages; and instructions to rural enumerators, 19 pages.

Six Die Off Nova Scotia Coast

Six seamen were drowned when this freighter, BACKGROUND, went ashore in fog and snow on the Nova Scotian coast. The vessel was quickly pounded to pieces on the rocky coast. Thirty of the crew were saved, three lost their lives attempting to launch a lifeboat, two were drowned attempting to get a line ashore, and a sixth was lost while attempting to swim for help. Shore boats and rafts rescued the others. Soldiers and coast-guardsmen are shown here carrying the body of a seamen up through the rocks.

No Bame Attached In Fatal Accident

TWEED, March 23. — (ENS).— Blame was attached to no particular person in an open verdict returned by the jury in an inquest held before Coroner Dr. F. Nickle at Tweed Saturday. The inquest was called to investigate the deaths of 8 months old Phillip Lansdell, Toronto, and James H. Lansdell of Brampton, who were in a fatal motor accident north of Tweed, on Highway No. 7 on Nov. 16th last. The infant was killed almost instantly at the scene of the accident, while the grandfather, who was driving the car, died in the Belleville General Hospital a week later.

Evidence indicated that the driver had started to turn south on to Highway No. 37 instead of continuing along No. 7 and had pulled to the right when he noticed his mistake. This placed him directly in the path of a car travelling north on No. 37 driven by Basil Hayden of Richmond. Both cars were completely wrecked. Four passengers in the Lansdell car were injured, the child's mother, Mrs. Reginald Lansdell, still being in such a condition that she was unable to attend the inquest.

Orders Pal Out Pilot Rides Ship To Death

PRENTISS, Me., March 23—(AP)—The body of a Royal Canadian Air Force pilot, whose desire to save his ship resulted in death, rested today in a farm-house here awaiting removal to Canada.

Flying Officer Armour of the No. 3 Training Command, handed a curt "bail out" note to his companion, Aircraftman Frank Farrell, when their plane ran into a blinding blizzard yesterday, then remained aboard so long his ultimate leap earthward proved fatal.

Farrell landed safely. Armour's body, an opened pilot 'chute beside it, was found near a highway. The chute indicated he did not have enough altitude to permit the entire parachute to open.

The plane, its gas tank empty, crashed in woods some distance away. Searchers set out to find it.

Transfer of Armour's body awaited a medical examiners' report on cause of death.

The crash occurred in a wilderness 20 miles from the spot where a United States army bomber plunged into the trees last November, killing its crew of four.

No. 3 Training Command extends over Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

SUGAR Facts

1. The law sets a ration of ¾ pound per person per week. This is sufficient for everyone. Additional supplies will be available for home canning and preserving. Sugar prices are under the "Price Ceiling". Hoarding is foolish and unlawful.

2. No home is allowed to have on hand more than two weeks' supply at any time. Retailers are authorized to refuse to sell to anyone they believe to be disobeying the law. Vigorous steps are being taken to punish wilful infractions of the law. The penalties provided are imprisonment for as long as two years and a fine of up to $5,000.

3. Sugar can be saved without hardship by serving simpler desserts, cakes without icings, savoury instead of sweet dishes; by the use of salt, syrup, honey and condensed milk in certain recipes; and by the use of fruits and fruit juices to sweeten puddings.

THE WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD, OTTAWA

IT'S NOT WORTH A NICKEL if it comes too late!

Plans for war production on this continent are stupendous. By 1945 the output of planes, tanks and munitions will become a deluge.

If it's not too late!

Canadian plants are producing now. They're doing their best to plug holes in allied defences. Canadian war machines and supplies have been streaming across to Britain, Russia, China, North Africa. It's up to Canadians to make their plants and factories produce more—and more—and more. Every day the supply must increase.

If the enemy were just fifty miles away, could you do more than you are doing now? If you could already hear the rumble of enemy guns, would you work longer, harder, more intensely?

Out there on the battlefront brave lads cry out, "For God's sake give us planes and tanks and guns." Don't let it be said that they came too late, because you failed to give your best.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

MEET AT MRS. HOOPER'S.

St. John's Mothers' Auxiliary is holding a China Up Tea and its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Percy Hooper, 562 Gilmour Street, on Thursday afternoon.

SCHOOL CASE ADJOURNED.

At the request of the prosecution a charge against a local woman of not sending her boy to school was adjourned until April 8. The accused protested against the adjournment, declaring that her son could not go to school because of his health. However, the magistrate acceded to the request of the prosecution and the case was enlarged.

MANY ENQUIRIES

J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has received a pile of enquiries from Americans seeking information about the Kawartha Lakes district, and all are strangers to the district. The number of enquiries received to date compare favorably with other years, and indicates that the tourist trade is not going to suffer because of wartime restrictions.

KNOX CHOIR ASSISTS

The choir of Knox Church, under direction of William R. Potter, assisted in the Y.M.C.A. Friendly Hour service on Sunday evening. Besides the choir music, Mrs. Norman Hughes sang a solo and Mrs. L. R. Groombridge two selections. At the close of the service, the Rev. H. J. Mahoney pronounced the benediction.

ICE PROTECTS RATS

Although the muskrat season is now in its second week trappers of this district, both north and south of No. 7 highway, have not yet set their traps. A few of them have invaded the smaller streams which are open, but Cyril Lech said this morning he had seen so far only six pelts. "Too much ice in the lakes and rivers," Mr. Lech said. "It may be two weeks before the season reaches its peak."

LICENSES IN DEMAND.

Although 1,430 bicycle licenses have already been issued in Peterborough, there is still a rush of owners of wheels for the necessary markers. The congestion Saturday afternoon was so great that some of the applicants were turned away. It is evident that the restrictions on gasoline are having an effect as many of the persons taking out bicycle licenses are adults who intend to use their machines as a means of transportation to and from work.

NEW CARNIVAL MANAGER.

The Rotary carnival will be held as usual this year in June, with Riverside Park as its locale. J. H. Seels, who for years has been the manager of this successful annual event, has retired from the post and his duties have been taken over by Rotarian Al Lewis. Arrangements for the carnival are already under way.

LOVEBIRDS, PERHAPS.

Bert Cooper, city foreman in the Parks Department, was on the warpath this morning attempting to learn the name of the motorist who drove through Nicholls Oval late on Sunday night. The motorist took down the bars on Ross Street, drove over the soft road, leaving deep ruts, then smashed off the cross-bar at the Parkhill Road entrance at the east end of the Inverlea bridge.

COLLIDE AT CORNER.

Cars driven by Dr. A. Moir, Brock Street, and Douglas McPherson, Water Street, were damaged on Saturday night in a collision at Brock and George Streets. Dr. Moir, who had been driving north, started to make a left turn on to Brock Street, as McPherson drove south on George Street, and the two vehicles came into contact. Both cars showed the effects of the impact, with Dr. Moir's car considerably damaged around the front.

HOLSTEIN MEETING

Holstein Breeders' Association are holding next Saturday afternoon a meeting at which the speakers will be C. D. Graham, Chief of the extension service, and Robert Holtby, field man for the association. Notices are being sent out by Joseph Tully to all the members, urging a large attendance.

STOLEN CAR FOUND.

Wilfred Yeatman, Park Street, parked his car on Simcoe Street in front of the Victory Cafe Saturday night, and at 10.25 o'clock he reported the vehicle to the police as having been stolen. Sergt. W. E. Wigg discovered the missing machine early Sunday morning where it had been abandoned on Queen Street.

MANY GET CALLED

A great number of young men in the city have received their call to report for training with Canada's reserve army, which means they will be in uniform for the duration. Many others who had their period of training deferred must report on April 1, the date set in the deferment. Earl Fowler, formerly with MacLeod's Men's Wear and now in Kingston is reported to have received his call.

Allies In London

United States soldiers, part of the A.E.F., who have just arrived in London, are shown making friends with British girls in uniform and exchanging "autographs."

Pet Dog Show On April 8 For War Victims

Sponsored by the dog fanciers of the city under the leadership of a committee composed of Dr. H. Worton, Dr. King, Dr. C. Temple of Millbrook, Dr. Ward Smith, W. J. Welch, H. S. Routley, W. Thompson, R. Kingdon, L. Maguire, J. Pymm, C. Wolfe and L. F. Dyer, a pet dog show will be held on Wednesday, April 8th in aid of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, in the Peterborough Armouries by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., who is the officer in charge of the Armouries.

Planned with a view of securing the entry of all dogs in the city and district, there will be classes for all breeds of dogs, including classes for boys and girls with their pets whether of miscellaneous breed or just pure mutts. Already no less than 125 prizes as specials have been donated with more yet to come. There will be first, second and third prize ribbons, which have been donated by J. Lewis, the manager of Kresge's Store, and M. Hardill of the Commercial Press.

A unique feature will be lady judges composed of Mrs. J. Stuart, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. W. Thompson and Mrs. A. N. Pomeroy of Port Hope, while from the winners of each class as chosen by them, Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson will pick the best dog in the show.

Admission tickets for the show itself are now on sale at 25 cents each; and each ticket will be eligible for a chance for the door prize of a registered Boston Terrier, donated by Mrs. W. J. Welch, which will be drawn for at the close of the show. These have been printed complimentary as a contribution to the cause by George C. Scott of King street. The special prizes donated for this event will be displayed in the windows of the Men's Style Shop on Hunter street.

Dr. H. Worton has offered his services to the cause in examining all the dogs entered in order that owners may be assured against their pets contracting any disease, this being a customary provision of entry and purely a safeguard for all concerned.

Entry fee for each dog will be 25 cents, and children 16 and under who enter their pets will be able to secure admission to the show for 10 cents. Entry forms which were donated by J. A. McKone of the Peterborough Business College may be secured from the Routley China Shop on George St., W. J. Welch Barber shop on Hunter St., or from the secretary of the fund at the Examiner office. Tickets will also be on sale shortly for a draw on a spaniel at 15 cents each, two for 25c, or ten for $1 which will be made that same night. These have been printed as a donation to the fund by the Peterborough Printing Company Ltd. A meeting of the committee will be held this Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the W. J. Welch barber shop on Hunter street to arrange any further details.

Bicycle Dealers Are Unable To Meet Demand

Bicycle buying fever has struck Peterborough, and at the present time local dealers are hard put to fill the orders because the supply of bicycles are limited.

It appears that in peace time much of the bicycles, and parts came from Germany, Japan and England, and all of these sources are now cut off. England can ship no more bicycles to Canada because certain manufacturers in the States objected to supplying Britain with lease-lend equipment, only to have England ship metal products to Canada. When the complaint was made the metal products were cut off at once.

In the States, manufacturers are being encouraged to make bicycles, because the average bicycle requires about 25 pounds of metal while the minimum amount of metal used in an automobile is 2,000 pounds, or enough to make 80 bicycles. It is believed too that one bicycle out of every ten is being used in delivery work, thus cutting down on the number of trucks, and saving gasoline, tires, servicing and repair parts. Scarcely any bicycles are being made in Canada.

Cleaned Out in a Day

H. T. Millard reported today that twice last week, he had received shipments of bicycles which were sold out for cash the same day they arrived, and he says he has sold three times as many bicycles so far this year, as he sold in the same period in 1941. He has discontinued the sale of bicycles on the time payment plan.

Charley Banks ordered 100 bicycles from a Montreal firm some time ago and so far he has received six machines. He has orders for nine bicycles on his counter this morning, some for men and some for women, and is unable to get machines to meet the demand. He hopes now to secure some new frames from the manufacturer and rebuild bicycles with the parts he has. Normally this is a poor time of the year to sell bicycles because the boom does not start until the good weather comes in April, but to date Mr. Banks has sold more bicycles than he had sold up to May 1 last year.

Harland Keefer, manager of the Canadian Tire Corporation Associate Store was sold out on Saturday. "The demand is tremendous and unless bicycles can be shipped in from the United States, I doubt if there will be nearly enough" he stated. He added that certain changes were being made to permit Canadian manufacturers to get parts, and the manufacture of the machines was being stepped up in this country.

"I am getting about 15 bicycle tires a month on ration, and normally I could sell this many on one Saturday," he reported.

Canadian Department Stores, and Tom Ashby, both have the same story, demand far exceeding the supply, but all of them are getting a few bicycles through, and not everyone will be disappointed.

Dental Surgeons Visit Clinic

Keen interest in the way the Army looks after the dental needs of the soldier was evinced on Sunday afternoon when more than 20 dental surgeons of Peterborough and district availed themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the new dental clinic recently opened at the Military Training Centre here.

The visitors were guests during the afternoon of Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Centre, and also of Lt.-Col. I. W. Hamilton, of Kingston, dental officer for Military District No. 3.

The guests were shown through the clinic by Captain's H. M. Jolly and R. S. Franks, dental officers at the Centre, and both of whom are members of Dental Company No. 23 Canadian Dental Corps, with headquarters at Kingston.

The visitors had many questions to ask during the afternoon and following the inspection which opened at three o'clock and continued until five tea was served by the staff of the clinic under the supervision of the two officers in charge.

Among the visitors noticed during the afternoon were Mayor Hamilton of Peterborough, Captain Sleman and Captain Johnston, Canadian Dental Corps, Kinsgton; Dr. and Mrs. Weldon, Dr. and Mrs. Middleton, Dr. and Mrs. Braund, all of Peterborough; Dr. Ross and W. A. Ross Lindsay; Drs. Long, Craig, Crough, Sheehy Scott, and Laidlaw, all of Peterborough.

Lt.-Col Hamilton was accompanied by Mrs. Hamilton, and in addition to the members of the profession mentioned above, there was also a large number of other citizens.

Euchre Party Nets Red Cross $30

HASTINGS, March 23—(ENS).—A combination euchre party and quilt raffle held in the Town Hall here on Friday night under the auspices of the Cobourg Road Red Cross netted that society nearly $30. This is only one of the numerous patriotic benefits staged by this group of hard-working ladies from Percy, who, during the past two and one-half years have given so unstintingly of their time to further the Canadian war effort.

Nineteen tables of euchre were played, and prize-winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. A. Scriver; second, Mrs. W. Cook; gent.'s first, Clarence Gillespie; second, W. Cook. A lucky chair prize was won by Donald Beamish. A beautiful quilt, donated by Mrs. J. Pickens, was won by Mrs. Gordon Dickey.

Seven Men Appear On Drunk Charge

"I think we will have to step up the fines if this kind of thing keeps up," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. remarked in police court this morning after the seventh case of intoxication had been called.

Peterborough was apparently an unusually thirsty place over the week-end and the police were busy collecting individuals who had been partaking too freely from the cup that not only cheers but also inebriates.

One man temporarily saved them the trouble of collection. He came into the police station on his own power Saturday and was detained until yesterday when he was allowed to go on his promise to appear in court this morning. He failed to do so, a warrant was issued for his arrest and now he will have to be collected all over again.

Five of the offenders pleaded guilty and were nicked $10 and $2.50 costs. A sixth, a Norwood man, pleaded not guilty and was given an adjournment until next Monday. It was intimated that he wanted time to get the money to pay his fine.

Station CHEX Goes On Air Tuesday, Mar. 31

The smooth flowing ryhthms of Mart Kenny's internationally famous radio and dance orchestra will be featured on the evening of Tuesday, March 31 when Peterborough's 1000-watt radio station will "go on the air" at 1430 K.C. on your dial.

Announcement of the decision to start broadcasting on that date was made this afternoon by H. L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner. Due to the tremendous demand for tickets for the opening broadcast, the stage of the Collegiate Auditorium has been selected as the logical location due to the large seating accommodation in the main body of the hall. A permanent circuit to the Collegiate Auditorium will be maintained in future.

Tickets for the broadcast are free and may be obtained by calling at the Examiner office on Wednesday of this week or thereafter until March 31. Judging from the number of inquiries for seating accommodation, those expecting to attend are urged to apply early for tickets.

The broadcast from the Collegiate will officially open the radio station. Mart Kenny and his Western Gentlemen, known from coast to coast across the American continent, with accompanying vocalists and Canadian comedy team "Woodhouse and Hawkins" will take the spotlight in the big show which gets under way at 7.30 and will continue for an hour.

On the broadcast will be heard short addresses by local and out of town civic officials and other dignitaries from Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal from whom acceptances have been received assuring their presence. A representative from the Canadian Broadcasting Company is also expected.

Following the broadcast from the Collegiate Auditorium a dance will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. in the gym of the Collegiate at which Mart Kenny and his band will play. This will be broadcast for half an hour. Tickets for the dance will be sold at the Examiner office and other convenient places throughout the city for $1.25 per person. Announcements in detail will appear in the Examiner later.

Colored Slides May Be Loaned

The local Horticultural Society has for loan a set of beautiful colorod slides pertaining to horticultural subjects. These slides were taken in the local civic parks, when the floral beds were in full bloom. They also include views of prize-winning gardens taken during the lawn and garden competitions last year. The showing of these slides would be of special interest to the Home and School Associations throughout the city for the monthly meetings. They have been shown at various points surrounding the city and include Cobourg, Bridgenorth, etc. A speaker and monologue will be also supplied. There is no charge for this service and fuller details will be had from the secretary 7786, or A. Butcher 4033.

A meeting of special interest to directors of the society and friends wishing to assist in the membership campaign next month will be held on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the rooms of the Department of Agriculture. With the coming of gasoline and tire restrictions the making of a garden, floral or vegetable, will more than compensate those lost trips to the summer cottage or the country, Peterborough should have a much larger Horticultural Society. Our beautification plans for the coming year have been greatly enlarged. You too can help by attending Thursday's meeting.

Charged With Failing To Pay For His Board

Kenneth Bell faced two charges of fraudulently obtaining board in police court this morning.

Bell, who has been in Toronto during the winter was accused of obtaining board to the amount of $14 in one case and $9 in the other, and surreptitiously leaving his board-house on each occasion without settling his obligations.

When arraigned this morning Bell started to ask a question but Magistrate Langley informed him that the Cadi was not there to advise people but to try cases.

"If you would like some time to think it over or consult some one I will arrange a remand" His Worship said.

The accused said that he would like a little time and accordingly he was remanded until Tuesday morning with bail fixed at $200.

Start Week With Increase In Enlistments

The tempo of applications for enlistment with the Prince of Wales Rangers had stepped up this morning from the lull of the latter part of last week and recruiting officials were hopeful that the latter part of the day would see many names on their files. On Saturday, five men had signed to go through the medical board.

In the drill this morning, soldiers were getting their first foot drill as an active service unit and this afternoon men of the Rangers will begin their dental inspection at the military training centre. Physical training exercises are being held every morning.

The response for billets for out-of-town men who have been signed by the Rangers was good, Captain H. A. Craig reported today. "We have many addresse son our files and men will be sent to these places just as soon as they are medically boarded and attested," he said.

Arrangements have also been completed to send men of the Rangers to the Y.M.C.A. every morning between 10 and 11 o'clock where they may play volleyball and use the swimming pool free of charge. Captain Craig again expressed his appreciation for the kind offer of the "Y" and assured that men were appreciative of the offer. "They are looking forward keenly to take advantage ot the facilities of the Y," he said.

The names of ten men with the Rangers in the list of appointments and promotions includes:

Pte. C. J. Stedman to be acting corporal and promoted acting sergeant.

Pte. G. L. J. Martin to be acting corporal and promoted acting sergeant.

Pte. D. W. Hull to be acting corporal and promoted acting sergeant.

Pte. M. Moncrief, to be acting corporal and promoted acting sergeant.

The following are appointed lance corporals: Pte. J. E. Guerin, Pte. W. H. Wood, Pte. A. Barrett, Pte. C. J. Agnew, Pte. E. F. M. Francis.

Names of those officially taken on strength of the unit Saturday as issued in part 2 orders are:

PTE. JOSEPH EARLE ALLEN, single. Next of kin, mother, Mrs. Elsie Allen, 266 Hunter street W., Peterborough.

PTE. ARNOLD HERBERT ALLEN, single. Next of kin, mother, Mrs. Frederica Allen, 218 Westcott street, Peterborough.

Dairy Cattle Show Increase

The Peterborough Agricultural War Council is sending to all the farmers who replied to the recent questionnaire a circular letter of acknowledgment giving a brief summary of a compendium of all the information which the replies supplied.

The first hand facts indicate that there will be an increase in the number of dairy cattle in this country, and also that the production of hogs and poultry will be on a larger scale this year. Fewer horses are indicated and also more tractors, with a general shortage of man-power.

Farmers are being advised to make the greatest possible use of tractors, and it is recommended that those who lack machines should try to hire them from neighbors on the basis of a fair rental either in cash or returned work.

Other proposals are the keeping of more sows and raising more pigs; keeping good heifer calves instead of "vealing" them; and the keeping of good ewe lambs for breeding. Farmers are also requested to avail themselves of the assistance of high school youths.

These are some of the suggestions in the letter which will be forwarded to the co-operating farmers this week. Incidentally it is an expression appreciation of the many hundreds of replies which the War Council received from the farmers of Peterborough.

Men On Call For Camp May Go Active

Trainees many of them ranging in age up to 28 years who have been called up for compulsory military training may enlist with the Peterborough Rangers if they wish provided they do so before the day set for reporting to the basic training centre.

Col J. A. Dewart, M.C., officer commanding the Rangers, said today: "We will be glad to interview and enlist any of the men who have received notice of the call for training in the military camps. All the men need to do is bring their order slip along to the Armouries and hand it over to the recruiting officer after they have passed their medical examinations and are on the strength of the regiment."

This notice will appeal to a great many of the men who are being called up because they will be in uniform for the duration of the war anyways. There is, too, the advantage that in joining the Rangers they will be billeted in their own homes in the city for the time being at least, and during this time, unless they are required for some special duty, they will have a great many week-end leaves. It must be remembered too that men who enlist with the Rangers will be with the crowd they know, and will be under the jurisdiction of officers and non-commissioned officers who know the individual problems of the soldier, because they have known him for years, and therefore will give him every consideration.

On the other hand trainees, will in most cases be under officers who never saw the men before, and when the basic training period at the local camp is completed, the men can be moved to any point in Canada for service. The last group were sent to Quebec city.

It is an admitted fact that the man on active service enjoys many privileges that the man in the reserve army does not have, and the feeling is growing among the men that chances of advancement are far better in the active army.

Any man called up for service should report at the Armouries at once if he is interested, and not wait until the last minute as he must be through his medical before the date set for reporting at the basic training centre.

Roseneath Quilts For Red Cross Fund

ROSENEATH, March 23 (ENS)—The members of the United Church W.A. brought in five quilts to the regular meeting of the Society on Wednesday afternoon. Three quilts were donated to the local Red Cross Society, one, a heavy quilt is sold, and one, a dresden plate pattern is for sale.

It was decided also to make a donation to the Milk for Britain fund, and a generous donation towards the parsonage decoration and furnishing expenses.

The meeting was held in Mrs. A. Nills' home. Mrs. Charles Sandercock, president, was in the chair for the business period, Mrs. M. Davey conducted the devotional period, and Mrs. L. Sherwin, program convener, announced the program numbers.

The quilts for relief work were made and quilted by different groups of members.

Mrs. E. Sandercock, convener of the parsonage committee, told of the decorating done at the parsonage and a new rug purchased, and $25.00 was voted towards the expense.

Mrs. Clarke Sandercock, treasurer, announced a balance in the treasury of approximately $20.00. Following a discussion regarding raising funds, it was decided to hold a bazaar in the late spring, the date to be set at the April meeting. The secretary Mrs. C. Grigg, was instructed to get information regarding an illustrated lecture, and submit the information at the next regular meeting.

Mrs. H. Hugh and Mrs. Fred Norris, sales committee, distributed goods for sewing, and made sales of finished articles.

Mrs. M. Davey submitted a detailed statement of the articles in ten overseas boxes sent to local enlisted soldiers.

The program consisted of two contests arranged by Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. M. Davey; readings by Mrs. L. Tucker and Mrs. Fred Norris; a piano solo by Mrs. C. Thackeray, and two sing-songs.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess, who served afternoon tea at the close of the meeting.

War Workers Hold Crokinole Party

ELWYN, March 23—(ENS). — The Selwyn War Workers held a crokinole party on Tuesday evening. It was the first large entertainment that the local club has sponsored and the gratifying results indicate there will be many more.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing crokinole and Chinese checkers, winners for the former, Mrs. Donald McConkey and Mr. Ivan Davis, and the latter, Mrs. Willis McIlmoyle and Ralph Sweeting. Then the tables were placed together and made into two long tables where some jolly games of bingo were played; small prizes awarded each winner.

Tickets had been previously sold on a quilt (donated by Mrs. George McIlmoyle), and the proceeds of this amounted to $26.55. Little Joyce Forsythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Forsythe of Lindsay, was the lucky winner. Little Douglas McConkey drew the lucky ticket. The door receipts amounted to $19.85.

IS CONGA TRICKY? NO, SAYS DIAGRAM

Easy Way To Learn Any Step

If you're dazzled by the trickier dance steps — don't be! You can Conga and Samba as well as anybody else!

Our dance diagrams show you simply and clearly WHERE to put your feet WHEN. You can teach yourself.

The Conga? The diagram in our sketch shows how "UNtricky" it is! The rhythm is 1, 2, 3, 4—a full beat for each step and the fourth beat strongly accented.

"That's all very well," you may say, "for graceful people. But ME! !" You can be graceful too if you learn the "tricks" of grace — like holding your hips under your upper body.

Our 32-page dance booklet tells how to dance gracefully, to learn body control, to lead, follow effortlessly. Gives diagrams and instruction for Conga, rhumba, tango, Samba, fox-trot, waltz, Westchester, Peabody, shag.

For you copy of "How To Do the Newest Dance Steps and Variations" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE TOO PROUD

SELDOM does it pay the better card player to push the bidding in an unnatural way so as to make himself the declarer instead of his slightly less skillful partner. In all close questions, where he has a choice of two different bids, either of which appears sound, it may be well for him to strain in favor of the one which gives him the card-playing job to do. But purposely getting into a definitely wrong contract means he is asking himself to perform miracles. His partner generally will do better at the correct contract.

North: ♠ Q 10 6 4 ♥ A 6 ♦ 10 9 7 6 ♣ Q J 5
West: ♠ 9 5 2 ♥ K Q J 10 5 ♦ A K J 4 ♣ K
East: ♠ 8 ♥ 8 7 3 ♦ Q 5 2 ♣ 9 8 7 6 2
South: ♠ A K J 7 3 ♥ 9 4 ♦ 8 3 ♣ A 10 4 3

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

	East	South	West	North
1.	Pass	1♠	Dbl	Pass
	2♥	2♠	3♥	3♠
	Pass	4♠
2.	Pass	1♠	Dbl	Pass
	2♥	2♠	3♥	3 NT

What do you think of that North player at the second table, who bid 3-No Trumps instead of supporting his partner's rebid spades? He did it because he thought all of the other suits would be stopped at least once, and he could run a long spade suit —or at least so he said after the deal. Actually, every listener reckoned he did it because he thought he could play hands better than South.

A heart was led, the 2, knocking out the A. He ran four spades, landing in the dummy, then led the club Q and let it ride, losing to the K. Hearts and diamonds then put him down four tricks. Of course, if he had been clairvoyant or reckoned that the double placed the club K with West, he might have dropped it with the A and made his contract plus an extra trick. But who would do that?

At table 1, where 4-Spades got played, the contract was made without any need for clairvoyancy. There the diamond K was led, next the A and the 4 to the Q, which he ruffed. Three high spades gave the count of that suit, making it sure West had only one or two clubs, surely including the K, due to the double. So he played to drop it and did. Hence he could discard dummy's losing heart on the fourth club, ruff his own heart and make an extra trick. Even if he had finessed the clubs to the K, he still would have made the contract. Usually the correct contract pays dividends, no matter who plays it.

IS CONGA TRICKY? NO, SAYS DIAGRAM

Easy Way To Learn Any Step

If you're dazzled by the trickier dance steps — don't be! You can Conga and Samba as well as anybody else!

Our dance diagrams show you simply and clearly WHERE to put your feet WHEN. You can teach yourself.

The Conga? The diagram in our sketch shows how "UNtricky" it is! The rhythm is 1, 2, 3, 4—a full beat for each step and the fourth beat strongly accented.

"That's all very well," you may say, "for graceful people. But ME!!" You can be graceful too if you learn the "tricks" of grace — like holding your hips under your upper body.

Our 32-page dance booklet tells how to dance gracefully, to learn body control, to lead, follow effortlessly. Gives diagrams and instruction for Conga, rhumba, tango, Samba, fox-trot, waltz, Westchester, Peabody, shag.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE TOO PROUD

SELDOM does it pay the better card player to push the bidding in an unnatural way so as to make himself the declarer instead of his slightly less skillful partner. In all close questions, where he has a choice of two different bids, either of which appears sound, it may be well for him to strain in favor of the one which gives him the card-playing job to do. But purposely getting into a definitely wrong contract means he is asking himself to perform miracles. His partner generally will do better at the correct contract.

What do you think of that North player at the second table, who bid 3-No Trumps instead of supporting his partner's rebid spades? He did it because he thought all of the other suits would be stopped at least once, and he could run a long spade suit —or at least so he said after the deal. Actually, every listener reckoned he did it because he thought he could play hands better than South.

Potato Prices For 1942 Due To Climb

TORONTO, March 23—The cost of producing potatoes in Ontario this year will be one-third more than in 1941, J. T. Cassin, potato field man for the Ontario Government, said Saturday. Last year the vegetable was produced at a cost of less than $90 an acre, but this year will be $115, an increase of more than $25. Farmers will have to average $1.36 per 75-pound sack to meet expenses, he said.

The increased production costs are due to the labor shortage and correspondingly higher wages and to the increased prices of potato seed, sprays and fertilizers, Mr. Cassin said. The average yield per acre in Ontario is eighty-five sacks, but in some instances the yield is twice that, and "one Cochrane man produced 600 sacks per acre."

"The retail price of potatoes at the present time is not exorbitant," he said. "Our figures show that for the past five years the farmer has been losing money growing them. He now rightly feels that he is entitled to a profit brought by the higher prices this year."

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced a price ceiling for potatoes, as of the week of Feb. 2 and 7. Although prices vary considerably throughout Ontario, the farmer receives from $1.25 to $1.50 per 75-pound sack. The wholesaler-to-retailer price in Toronto is $1.60 to $1.65.

"There is no immediate danger of a potato scarcity in Ontario despite the fact that reserves are down 130,000 cwt. below last year," Mr. Cassin said. "However, there will be no potatoes to throw away. The supply should last until some time in June, when the Irish Cobbler will be on the market."

The Dominion stocks of potatoes are down 1,000,000 cwt. below last year, he said. The only province which show surplus over last year is Quebec, with additional reserves of 19,000 cwt.

"There is literally a potato starch famine in Canada," he said, "and in Ontario where hundreds of carloads of potatoes are grown annually there is no starch factory. The thousand of bushels of culls are either sold as stock feed or on the market as low-grade edible food, when they could be very well and profitably used to relieve the acute starch shortage."

A few starch factories in the Maritimes have been inadequately attempting to supply Canada's needs, he said. Before the war Canada imported 3,000,000 pounds of potato starch from Holland and Denmark markets which are now cut off. The United States imported 10,000,000 pounds from the same sources. Now, both countries are being forced to turn to substitutes, such as corn starch, for use in the textile industry and in the manufacture of pastes and gums.

"We couldn't make up the entire loss of the foreign markets in Ontario." Mr. Cassin said, "but we could help materially if we had factories here."

Ontario potatoes do not enjoy high favor interprovincially because scabby and imperfect potatoes are allowed to be sold on the open market as low-grade edible food, he said. A starch factory would "banish this evil," and put the Ontario product on its proper standard. "Some of the finest certified seed potatoes are produced in Ontario, especially in the Sudbury-Parry Sound areas."

U.K. Labor Side Better Than Hun

LONDON, March 23—(CP).—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told a London audience Saturday that "on the labor side, we are in better position than Germany."

"The demands on our manpower have been and still are tremendous," he said. "Our reserves have had to be heavily drawn upon but by careful manipulation of our resources I think I can see daylight from the manpower point of view, even if the war has to be carried on for a long time yet.

"There is no sign of war weariness, no sign of despondency and no cracking of the will."

Lord Strabolgi, speaking in Kent, said that the Japanese are "bound to attempt in vasion of Ceylon. . . . There is not a moment to lose to make everything ready to defeat them."

Lord Strabolgi, a labor peer, expressed hope that Sir Stafford Cripps, now on a mission to India, would "succeed with Indian political leaders and then fly straight to Ceylon to investigate the situation there."

Loss of Ceylon, off the tip of India, Lord Strabolgi declared, "might enable the Japanese to join hands with the Germans in the Middle East. This would be a disaster of greatest magnitude."

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor M.P. for Seaham, speaking at Sheffield, said the working classes, especially those who have served in battle, "would be fools" if they ever agreed to a return of conditions prevailing before the war.

"I am opposed to any compromise with capitalism after the war," Mr. Shinwell said. "That system has had its day. We shall have no further use for it. We have seen how utterly incapable it was to wage war. It is still more incapable of planning for real peace."

All-Day Slaughter

London, March 23 (CP)

YUGOSLAV government sources reported today that 4,000 men and boys were executed by German machine-gunners at Kragujeva last Nov. 21 in a bloody mass reprisal that wiped out 60 per cent of the towns males for a Yugoslav army attack on a German patrol.

These sources said information had reached them from witnesses who said the victims were selected after a house-to-house search in which all male residents of the town were asembled — bewildered and unaware of their fate. They were said to have been led out in groups of 40 and mowed down in a slaughter that lasted all day.

Rural Pupils Raise $14.50 For Red Cross

CAMPBELLFORD, March 23.—(ENS).—Pupils of the Ninth Line School have made their second contribution to the Red Cross Society. They raised $14.50 as the result of a draw on a quilt held in connection with a program at the school on Thursday evening. Tom Solmes made the draw and Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn held the winning ticket. The program included a quiz contest conducted by the teacher, Mrs. Frank Potts, who presided during the evening. The entire proceeds will be turned over to the Rawdon branch of the Red Cross and they were presented to Mrs. Everett Heath by Clifford Heath as part entertainment. She responded appropriately, expressing her gratitude on behalf of the branch, and thanking the 12 pupils for their efforts. According to Mrs. Potts the pupils pieced the quilt entirely and it was later quilted by ladies of the community. Last October, this same energetic group raised $10 as the result of a bazaar held in the school. Then they sold a number of articles, representing their own workmanship and the proceeds were turned over to the Junior branch of the Red Cross.

MacArthur Dash Barely Ducks Jap Destroyer

LONDON, March 23 (CP)(—Four high-powered speedboats carried Gen. Douglas MacArthur and 21 companions on their daring dash from the Philippines to Australia, successfully dodging a Japanese destroyer which threatened to intercept them Reuters reported today from Melbourne.

Details of the spectacular trip were disclosed by Brig.-Gen. Hugh J. Casey, who travelled with Gen. MacArthur, the news agency declared.

The trip occupied two days and ended at an undisclosed island rendezvous, where two big planes were waiting to take the party on to Darwin, Gen. Casey was quoted as saying.

Arrangements for the journey were made in utmost secrecy. The four 70-foot speedboats—known as "Q-boats"—were made ready at different points on Bataan Peninsula and loaded with luggage and equipment.

At 8 p.m. March 11, Gen. Casey was quoted as saying, the speedboats started up their engines and sped out to sea under the noses of the Japanese.

They travelled throughout the night through moderate seas without sighting a Japanese ship or plane.

One Boat Quits

At about 2.15 a.m. the boat in which Gen. Casey was travelling broke down and he was transferred to another vessel, which went on her way with the other two.

The disabled craft was put in running order again after about 40 minutes of frantic work and set out after the other boats.

The "Q-boats" swept on all day until they were halfway to the island where the aircraft were waiting to meet them.

Just before nightfall of the second day, Casey said, a Japanese destroyer was sighted on the horizon and the passengers waited breathlessly until she was left astern.

They reached the rendezvous at midnight without further incident.

Vitamin Bread Ready April 1

OTTAWA, March 23 — (CP). — Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, announced last night that despite some representations urging postponement, the new vitamin-rich "Canada approved" flour and bread will be placed on the market April 1 by many millers and bakers.

Because nobody is compelled to manufacture flour and bread to the "Canada approved" standard it has been decided not to postpone the date announced several months ago, the Minister's statement said.

"Most of the millers are prepared to produce flour in accordance with the new standard and many bakers have gone to much expense in equipping themselves to produce 'Canada approved' bread," Mr. Mackenzie said. "A postponement would be unfair to those who have made these preparations, nor would it be in the public interest longer to deprive the people of the advantages of the more nutritive product now available."

Bakeries not yet ready to produce "Canada approved" bread may carry on as before if they wish to do so.

The new products will contain a high percentage of the nine natural vitamins occurring in Canadian wheat and in addition the new milling processes used will mean, that "important quantities" of phosphorus, iron and other minerals are being retained in the high-extraction flours.

Research scientists in the Department of Agriculture and National Health and invarious research laboratories, with the assistance of the milling industry, evolved the flour-manufacturing process which is to be used.

Britain recently brought her policy into conformity with the Canadian higher-extraction method, and the United States, which had planned to adopt a scheme for artificial addition of vitamins to flour now is preparing to follow the Canadian procedure, Mr. Mackenzie said.

"The availability of the highly nutritious new 'Canada approved' bread and flour next month will, it is hoped, make a notable contribution to the health of the Canadian people and tend to make bread a more popular item in the ordinary family diet," the minister added.

Quick-Trained Hun Reserves Balkan Levies Dumped Into Tottering Nazi Front

290th German Infantry Division Vanishes In Slaughter At Staraya Russa; Huns Countering To Hold Key Springboards

LONDON, March 24—(CP).—Reinforced by hastily-trained reserves and fresh levies from the Balkan states, the German armies were reported on the move today in massive thrusts aimed at liberating nearly-isolated key points in their winter line which have borne the brunt of the Russian offensive.

The Berlin radio stressed the Nazi counter-attacks on the central sector—presumably to gain springboards for a fresh drive against Moscow—and reported that in 48 hours' fighting Soviet forces, encircled despite tank support and heavy artillery fire, lost 3,000 killed and several hundred prisoners.

Moscow reports described this action as "futile attempts to break through our lines" But the Russian news agency Tass acknowledged that "companies and battalions" of airborne German reinforcements still were being brought in to reinforce the German 16th Army trapped at Staraya Russa.

Tass asserted, however, that despite these efforts the Germans were suffering heavy losses, and that the 290th Infantry Division had been all but wiped out.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, March 24 — (AP). — Germans piled reserves into Russian front positions from areas as far away as Yugoslavia and Norway to-day for Hitler's coming effort to regain the initiative.

The Soviet Information Bureau told of scattered action in which Soviet troops killed 2,500 invaders on the neighboring Leningrad and Kalinin fronts and recaptured several communities elsewhere, but its continued report that there had been no material changes gave a feeling of calm before the storm.

From prisoners, Red Army men said they learned that many of the Nazi replacements were German factory workers only recently called into military service.

Edward Brunsfeldt, of the 312th Division, said he had been sent from France to Serbia last July, to Smolensk March 2, and to Vyazma March 4, and that he began fighting on March 14.

A captured survivor of a German ski regiment reported defeated on the Central Front, Karl Hauper, told the Russians he had been trained in Norway.

Among Germans captured on the Staraya Russa front was Herman Reidenbach, who said he was a Bremen aviation factory worker until he was transferred to military service in January. He said he was rushed to the 16th Army's position on March 5 during the formation of a new 290th Division to replace the original, assertedly wiped out, that he fought nine days, and then surrendered.

Food Rationing Beyond Control Canada

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 23.—(CP). — With the United Nations committed to assist each other in food supply as well as in armaments, indications were seen in informed quarters to-day that food rationing in Canada would be governed by conditions beyond her borders.

Officials in touch with the food situation said they could see no immediate indication of a need for further rationing regulations beyond those restricting the per capita use of sugar to three-quarters of a pound a week. But they warned the swift-moving international situation might change this opinion in short order.

Sugar rationing was applied in Canada not because of a shortage within the Dominion but due to the loss of United States sources of supply in the Pacific. Dominion au-

"Attack Always" Jap Slogan Australia Next

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), March 24—(AP).—A Japanese naval spokesman was quoted by the German radio today as advocating ceaseless offensive as the key to victory and naming Australia and the Indian Ocean as areas which must be seized "as strongholds for big future military operations."

The quotation was from Capt. Hideo Hiraide, writing in the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri, to argue against prolonging Japan's pause in attack—an interlude since the conquest of Java by which, he said, "Japan is now on the defensive and the Anglo-American powers on the offensive."

"Defensive lines do not, however, lead to victory. Japan, therefore, must win the present war by offensive tactics.

"It must continue its offensive be securing the Indian Ocean and Australia as strongholds for big future military operations.

Four Allied Carriers Lost?

"Although over 50 enemy submarines and four out of a total of nine enemy aircraft carriers have been sunk since the outbreak of war in the Pacific, the enemy is expected to reinforce his fleet this year by another 10 special carriers. The enemy will then be sure to attempt attacks from Hawaii, New Zealand, Samoa and other points.'

Hiraide then discussed the opinion prevailing in some Japanese circles that the wealth of southern regions already is entirely at Japan's disposal and that the Japanese Empire thus is invincible.

2 Waves Of Bombers Fail To Score, Try Nearby Town

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 24 —(CP)—Japanese airmen made their second big attack in two days on Port Moresby, outer island outpost of Australia's northeastern defences, sending over two waves of bombers protected by fighter planes today.

The bombers first centred their attack on the New Guinea port's airdrome in a persistent effort to rub out combined Australian and American air forces which have made Japanese positions in this area costly to maintain.

Then they attacked targets near the town while navy aero fighters sought to drive off defending planes.

Prime Minister John Curtin, who announced this, the only military action on the whole Australian front today, said no damage or casualties so far had been reported from the raid and added that one of the raiders was damaged by anti-aircraft shells and probably was unable to get back to its base.

54 Jap Bombers Lash Corregidor

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)— A heavy bombing attack on the fortress of Corregidor and American positions in Bataan by 54 Japanese heavy bombers was reported today by the United States war department, which said only slight damage was inflicted.

Several sharp encounters occurred in Bataan as fighting was resumed there, the department said. Three of the enemy bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

American artillery also laid down a heavy fire on enemy position in Bataan, and the department said Japanese losses were believed to be considerable.

Turkey Next?

MOSCOW, March 24 — (AP). — German engineers have supervised the construction of 24 new airdromes and 50 landing fields in Bulgaria near the Turkish frontier, Tass news agency reported from Istanbul. Further troops were said to have been moved to the border, and strategic highways were being pointed toward Turkey.

Tass charged that Bulgarian "ruling circles cast avid eyes at certain Turkish territory and would willingly become tools of German military provocation.

Hint Hun U-Boat Due In Gulf Of St. Lawrence

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP)—Enemy submarines and possibly a supply ship may be expected in the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the coming summer, two of Canada's senior naval officers stated at a press conference here today.

Rear-admiral G. C. Jones, commander-in-chief, Atlantic coast, making one of his rare visits to naval service headquarters met reporters in the office of Vice-admiral Percy Nelles, chief of the neval staff and discussed naval affairs on the east coast.

Admiral Jones said he did not think the Germans had a submarine supply ship in the North Atlantic now as it was not practical at this time of the year. They might have one somewhere in the south and might have supply ships in the north Atlantic later in the year when weather conditions would be more favorable. It was perfectly feasible for the submarines now operating off the the Atlantic coast to leave Bay of Biscay ports, cross the ocean in two weeks, spend another two weeks on this side and then return home.

"We will have submarines in the Gulf of St. Lawrence this summer," said Admiral Nelles, "and they could place a supply ship there."

The Admiral said Canadian aircraft would have a chance to knock such vessels off but said it was quite feasible for them to come and operate there as the gulf is a large body of water.

"Relations between the three services (Navy, Army and Air Force), were never better," said Admiral Jones, dicussing liaison and co-operation on the east coast.

Bombard One Centre In Relays

Raid Shelter Struck, Several Killed R.A.F. Routs Raiders

LONDON, March 24 (CP)—German dive bombers hit destructively at Dover and two other towns on the southeast English coast by dusk and moonlight last night in their heaviest attack since the major raids of 1941 and a number of persons were killed.

Anti-aircraft batteries and night fighters challenged them with heavy fire and finally drove them back across the English Channel.

The weather, however, was said to have kept the Royal Air Force's bomber squadron inactive again, for the 10th successive night.

One town was attacked by relays of dive bombers. An air-raid shelter was hit. A stick of bombs blasted a street. Several other areas were struck by high explosives. There were a number of fatalities.

Hundreds of residents of another town watched bombs spew from four raiders which sped in low from the sea at dusk. Three persons were killed and seven injured. R.A.F. fighters streaked aloft and drove the Germans away. Street crowds cheered.

At a third community Home Guardsmen found their exercises suddenly turned into real warfare. They blasted away at attacking planes and expressed belief they hit one, helping the regular defenders to bring it down.

In one of the raided towns, which underwent one of the worst attacks it has suffered in the war, bombs fell on each side of a motion picture theatre but the show went on and there was no panic in the audience.

In another incident in that raid, a man was carried 50 feet by a bomb blast—but escaped serious injury.

A crew of fire watchers was feared buried under debris caused by one bomb hit.

Army Air Corps

The order brings all Britain's airborne troops into one unit, a step which is expected to be started by placing glider troops under the new command.

Swedes Uneasy

BERNE, Switzerland, Mar. 24—(AP).—Mindful of the possibility that Scandinavia's uneasy peace may be ended by a spring flare-up in the war, Sweden is keeping a considerable force under arms, trustworthy advices from Stockholm said today.

But it was denied that the calling of additional troops for manoeuvres at the end of February had reached the proportions of complete mobilization.

An easier feeling in Sweden has been evident since dispatches said indications pointed to a German offensive in the Middle East.

Liberals Sweep 4 Ridings In Quebec Votes

MONTREAL, March 24—(CP).— Four provincial ridings today had Liberal representatives in the Legislative assembly once again, after four Quebec by-elections yesterday.

Liberals were returned by sweeping majorities in Westmount-St. George, Montreal-St. Ann and Richelieu-Vercheres, and by a narrower margin in Montreal-St. James. Three of the four opposing candidates lost their deposits for polling less than half the votes of the winners.

All the ridings were Liberal before a death and three appointments to the legislative council, provincial upper house, made the by-elections necessary.

George C. Marler, city councillor, scored an easy victory in Westmount-St. George.

In industrial Montreal-St. Ann, Thomas Guerin more than doubled the ballots polled by his Union Nationale opponent, T. J. Coonon. In Richelieu-Vercheres, partly urban and partly rural, Dr. J. W. Robidoux, former Mayor of Sorel, scored an easy win over Honorius Michaud, Union Nationale.

One Close Run

In Montreal-St. James', predominantly French-Canadian, the election of Claude Jodoin was conceded only after almost all the polls had reported. With one poll missing, the final count for the night gave Jodin 10,899 votes, with 9,706 going to Omer Cote, Union Nationale.

The by-elections left no vacant seats in the assembly, although that for Montreal-St. Mary is unoccupied because the elected member, Camillian Houde of Montreal, is in an internment camp. The Liberals hold 69 of the 86 seats; Union Nationale, 16, and Independent, 1.

Final figures for Westmount-St. George gave Marler 7,132 votes and Lyall 1,639. Complete returns in Montreal-St. Ann showed Guerin ahead 9,907 to 3,843.

Final for the night in Richelieu Vercheres, with 14 rural polls still to report, gave Dr. Robiloux, 9,711 votes and Honorius Michaud 2,674.

Little, New Mobilizer Employment Agencies To Be Used

OTTAWA, March 24 — (CP). — A proclamation extending to thirty years the call-up age for compulsory military training and subsequent home defence duties was tabled in the House of Commons to-day by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Previously the call-up applied only to men who at July 1, 1940, were between the ages of 21 to 24 years inclusive and those who have reached the age of 21 since that time.

No change is made in the limitation of compulsory training to men who were single or childless widowers at July 15, 1940 but the age limit is raised.

This extension had been anticipated for some days. It has been known that the number of men in the classes previously subject to call had been about exhausted.

"It has been decided to call out for military training....every male British subject who is or has been, at any time subsequent to the first day of September, 1939, ordinarily resident in Canada, who on the 15th day of July, 1940, was unmarried or a widower without child or children, and who was born in any of the years 1921, 1920, 1919, 1918, 1917, 1916, 1915, 1914, 1913, 1912, but that persons born in the year 1921 shall not be called out until they reach the age of 21 years," said the proclamation made public today.

Appointment of Elliott M. Little, director of the wartime bureau of technical personnel, to a newly-created post of director of national selective service was announced in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

'Cruise' Crossing For More Canucks

By LOUIS V. HUNTER.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

A BRITISH PORT, March 24.— (CP Cable.)—A contingent of several hundred Canadian troops and airmen and another hospital unit have arrived in Britain after an Atlantic crossing from Canada that was "just like a cruise."

The troops, which will join the swelling ranks of Canada's overseas forces, included reinforcements for artillery units and members of army service corps reinforcements units.

Personnel of the 8th Canadian General Hospital included more than 50 nurses.

The men in air force blue were mostly air crews — pilots, gunners, wireless operators and navigators.

These men will reach squadrons after a spell at personnel reception depots in the south of England and operational training with units in other parts of the country.

Besides the fliers the transports carried some ground crew men.

Hitler Stoking Up the Heat for Turkey

Call To Boris, Von Papen Seen Plot To Bulldoze Ankara – U.K. Aid May Decide

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The journey of Bulgaria's King Boris to Germany for a conference with his master, Herr Hitler, and the trip of Nazi Ambassador von Papen from Turkey for a similar purpose, strike me as boding no good for the Allies in general and for the Turks in particular.

These birds Boris and Papen may be taken as harbingers of the Fuehrer's spring offensive. And it's a safe bet that their summons to the seat of might means that the Nazi chief is getting ready to apply the heat to Turkey. His idea is to force that country to permit passage of German forces through its territory into the Middle East, where lie the oil and other supplies which he must have.

The part selected for Boris to play is stooge for Hitler. His Majesty's business is to make warlike gestures to convince the Turks that he is about to attack them, if they don't play the Axis game. The fact that Bulgaria and Turkey are chronic enemies lends substance to this suggestion.

Von Papen, one of the craftiest schemers of them all, will hold the Bulgarian threat as a club over Turkey's head. At the same time he will offer rich prizes to the Turks for knuckling under.

The position probably isn't particularly attractive to Boris, especially since his father, Czar Ferdinand, was compelled by popular disfavor to abdicate his throne in 1918 because he sided with Germany in the first Great War and was beaten. And Ferdinand (known as the Old Fox) was supposed to be one of the smartest. Old Kaiser Wilhelm once remarked: "I cannot stand Ferdinand, but he beats us all for brains"

However, while Boris is by nature a lone wolf, he now is in the situation of getting strafed by Hitler if he doesn't fall in line, and of being awarded (he hopes) territory from Greece and Yugoslavia if he is a good lad. Moreover, the King is son-in-law of the Emperor of Italy, having married Princess Giovanna, and domestic bliss might be worth the gamble of a throne.

There is doubt whether Turkey can be bullied into granting Hitler's demands. I was told in Ankara not long before the war that Turkey would try to remain neutral in event of another conflict, but that if she had to fight, it would be beside Britain. Circumstances may have altered this, but there has been no indication of a change of heart.

Much will depend, to my mind, on what strength Britain and America have massed in the Middle East to aid the Turks in event Hitler presses the issue. Turkey probably has a couple of million men under arms, and the Turks are grand fighters, but the army isn't well equipped for mechanized warfare.

We don't know, of course, whether Hitler will press the matter of free passage through Turkey if the Turks are stubborn. With the Russians hammering him fiercely from the Baltic to the Black Sea he may feel that it's too dangerous to risk taking on those 2,000,000 bayonets and the big ditch in addition.

The fire was prevented from spreading to other cars by uncoupling the blazing section. Grass along the railway embankment also caught fire.

A Fresh Invasion Warning

Britons Tipped To Be On Watch This Spring

LONDON, March 24—(CP).—Sir John Anderson, Lord President of the Council and member of the War Cabinet, speaking in the House of Commons warned today that Germany may attempt to over-run the British Isles in the Spring, and told Britons they must do everything possible "to drive out and destroy the enemy."

Citizens were told to "do everything they usefully can under responsible direction to defend their hearths and homes, and their native land" if the enemy comes to these shores

"The first essential is that except under definite orders, everyone should stand firm so as to avoid those refugee movement which proved so disastrous in the fall of France," he said.

"The Government has always expected that the people of these islands will offer united opposition to the invader and that every citizen will regard it as his duty to hinder and frustrate the enemy by every ingenuity that common sense can devise."

He said "invasion committees" had been set up in many parts of the country with the duty "to survey local problems and see how their needs will be met."

"It would be unwise and unnecessary to adopt identical measures everywhere," he added.

U.S. Subs Get 25 Jap Ships

Think Another 10 Sunk, Hit In Long Range Cruises

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)— Far-ranging United States submarines were credited in naval records today with having sunk 25 Japanese ships, probably having sunk 10 more and done damage to six others.

This was the known bag for the submarines including the six ships reported last night as having been sunk or damaged in Japanese waters.

Previously a total of 22 enemy vessels had been reported sunk by submarine action in the Western Pacific and last night's report of three destroyed raised this total to 25.

Nine had been reported probably sunk and last night's one raised this to 10.

Four had previously been reported damaged and this figure was increased to a total of six by last night's report.

The latest claims were that three Japanese merchant ships, a 7,000-ton tanker, a 6,000-ton ship, and a 5,000-ton freighter, were sunk; an enemy destroyer or anti-submarine vessel was pobably sunk; and two 2,000-ton freighters were damaged.

SPEED LIMIT FOR ALL OF CANADA IS SET AT 40 MILES PER HOUR

Driving Over When Tires Done

To Commandeer Tires As Rubber Needed Outlook Dark—Howe

OTTAWA, March 23—(CP). — Canadian motorists were told by Munitions Minister Howe last night that their driving would have to be reduced to conserve rubber and gasoline and that it would end when present tires are worn out until "some considerable time after the war ends.'

Speaking over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Howe announced that all provinces had agreed to reduce speed limits to 40 miles an hour as part of the conservation plan.

While he said confiscation of tires on non-essential cars was not an immediate possibility, he warned: "The Government will not hesitate to commandeer tires from private owners of non-essential vehicles whenever that rubber is needed.'

Appealing for co-operation in the gasoline rationing plan which becomes effective April 1, Mr. Howe gave no indication that any change was expected from the five-gallon-per unit scale previously announced which gives owners of small non-essential cars 300 gallons a year.

He left no dought, however, that both gasoline and rubber situations are acute and show no signs of improving.

"If I tell you frankly that we are likely to lose the war unless we can get enough oil and enough rubber, you will understand how very serious our position is, and why conservation of these two essentials is causing us so much anxiety," he said.

Turner Valley, Canada's only major oil field, could produce only one-sixteenth of the country's need and importation on which Canada must rely for at least 80 per cent of her crude oil supplies was seriously handicapped by limited transportation facilities.

Submarine attacks made it difficult to maintain the size of the tanker fleet, and there was a shortage of tank cars. No more cars

The captain termed this a great mistake.

"The raw material sources of the southern regions are not yet accessible, although in Japanese hands," he wrote.

"Only when Japan is able to make a practical use of these sources will her position be invincible. Until then, numerous difficult problems must be surmounted, one of which is the transport question."

In conclusion, he said, the Japanese navy is determined to remove enemy influence entirely from the Pacific and Indian Oceans.

It was learned to-day that close consultation on food supplies is maintained between Ottawa and Washington as well as with London and other United Nations capitals.

Much Going To Russia

Canada and the United States are both supplying food to the United Kingdom, and considerable United States supplies are going to Russia.

"As an instance of what the United Nations are doing it can be said that canned meat is sent from the United States to Russia," one source said.

"Canadian beef cattle exports to the United States in the first quarter of 1941 have been twice as large as those in the same period last year, and it is quite possible that some Canada meat may thus have found its way to Russia. In any event, these Canadian cattle taken across the line have helped maintain United States supplies."

In respect to meat, as to other food supplies, Canadian conservation requirements would probably be governed by the outside demand, which was likely to expand.

The United Kingdom's imported food supplies have been affected to some extent by the Pacific war hindering shipments of butter, meat and similar products from Australia and New Zealand, but Canadian officials said they have no indication so far as to how much London will order from Canada to meet such deficiencies as may arise.

Only Seven Days Left For Public To Make Income Tax Returns

There isn't much time left.

In fact residents of the city and district have exactly seven days starting today in which to file their income tax returns. That is, with the exemption of members of a partnership or proprietors of businesses whose fiscal period ended on December 31, 1941, and farmers. They must file returns on or before the 30th day of April, 1942.

Apart from the actual payment of the tax there isn't much to worry about. The official returns are available for all, and they are not as mysterious as the first glance would, perhaps, indicate.

After all, it is very simple, they say, and if instructions are followed the average person can make out the return without much trouble.

The first question on this war-time quiz is "Do I pay income tax?'

The tax is divided into two parts, general income tax and national defence tax.

If you are a single person, a widow, or a widower, without dependents, with income for 1941 exceeding $750 then you are required to make out an income tax return.

But, if you are a married person maintaining a home with a dependent relative, with income in excess of $1,500 then you are liable to income tax. A married person is granted $400 allowance for each child.

While national defence tax is deducted from a worker's salary by his employer, it still must be included in the taxable total income report. Such figures are available to employers from the office of the firm for which they work.

A single person and a widow or widower, without dependents with income in excess of $660 in 1941 is liable to national defence tax.

A married person, or a person maintaining a home with a dependent relative, with income in excess of $1,200 is liable to national defence tax.

If national defence tax has been deducted in full and you are not liable to general income tax, you are not obliged to file a return, unless you are asked to do so.

For taxation purposes, a husband and wife with separate incomes are regarded as single persons. If there are children, the allowance may be granted to either one.

Major S. J. Gilmore, Income Tax Inspector for this district, today urged potential payers to file their returns as quickly as possible in order to alleviate the inevitable last-minute rush.

The returns are coming in a satisfactory manner, he said, but there are some people who hold off to the last minute. Filing of returns now, or within a day or so, will facilitate the duties of the staff between now and the various deadlines.

Moresby airdrome, it appeared the Japanese were concentrating their remaining air strength in the north-eastern island area to knocking out this objective.

(German broadcasts of Japanese reports claimed Port Moresby Harbor had been made useless for embarkation purposes by yesterday's bombing. Three transports leaving the harbor were claimed to have been sunk, two capsizing immediately and the third turning over soon afterward.)

Port Moresby, one the south coast of New Guinea, is about 300 miles across dangerous Torres Strait from the bleak Cape York Peninsula of the Australian mainland.

It is a sort of northern anchor of the Great Barrier Reef defences of North-eastern Australia. These coral reefs, which skirt Australian coast at a distance varying from a few miles to about 125 miles, reach for more than 1,200 miles from north of Sydney almost to the Fly River mouth in New Guinea.

The narrow, dangerous passages through the reefs have been reported mined, and as long as the Australians and Americans hold Port Moresby with strong air forces, passage around the northern end for an attack on the northern Australian coast from the east by sea is barred.

The Japanese, from their landing places at Lae, Salamaua, and Finschhaven on the north-eastern New Guinea coast, have been reported moving inland up the Markham River, possibly for an attempted land attack on Port Moresby from the north, but there still was no further word of this expedition today.

Under the order no person wholly or mainly employed in agriculture shall, without written permission of the national selective service officer, enter into any employment outside agriculture except:—

1. Active service in any of the armed forces by voluntary enlistment;

2. Seasonal employment in a primary industry—lumbering and logging, forestry, fishing and trapping;

3. Compulsory military training "if under the national war services regulations, 1940 (recruits) it is established to the satisfaction of the national war services board concerned, that such person is not an essential worker in agriculture."

Speaking for nearly an hour to an expectant House of Commons, Mr. King made the following announcements;

1. Men between the ages of 21 and 30 years, inclusive, will be called up for compulsory training and service in Canada.

2. Those persons engaged in non-essential work occupations may be drafted to essential war work.

3. Employers of those so drafted will be required to reinstate such personnel on release from war service.

4. Employers of personnel, even if only of one person, must complete registration cards listing their workers for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, even though the personnel is uninsurable.

5. Civilians may not be employed in non-essential industries without permission from selective service officers if between the ages of 17 to 45, except when worker has been rejected from armed services, effective as from March 23.

OTTAWA, March 24 — (CP). — Following is Prime Minister Mackenzie King's speech on manpower mobilization in the House of Commons to-day:

"It is....a misconception to assume that the wartime manpower problem is merely a problem of raising men for the armed forces. This is only a part, and not necessarily the most difficult part, of the problem of mobilizing the manpower of a nation for modern war.

"Manpower—and in that term I include woman power—is required for many and varied tasks. In the first place, essential civilian services must be maintained as the foundation of community life on which the war effort rests....In order, however, to free younger men for direct war service, civilian tasks, as far as may be possible, should be performed by older men or by women.....

"To the extent that food is produced for Britain or other Allied countries, or for Canada's own fighting men, it is a direct war service. If this aspect of Canada's total effort is not to suffer, the manpower required for food production must be kept available.

Need Another 100,000

The manpower requirements for munitions production must also be filled. Some 600,000 workers are already engaged in the production of munitions. It is estimated that, in the course of the next 12 months, an additional 100,000 workers will be required.

In the armed forces our estimated requirements for the ensuing 12 months are a further 13,000 men for the navy; 90,000 to 100,000 for the active army; and 70,000 to 80,000 for the air force. These figures were given to parliament on Feb. 10 by the minister of national defence. In addition, men will continue to be called up for military service within Canada; and this on a considerably increased scale....

By national selective service is meant the selection of men and women for the various forms of national service according to the method or methods calculated to produce the most satisfactory results.

In order to be selective, national service does not necessarily need to be compulsory....As a war measure, compulsion is only of value where it serves to ensure a greater total effort....

Final responsibility for the allocation of manpower, as for all other phases of our war program, necessarily rests with the war committee of the cabinet....

Under the authority of the war committee, a special committee of the cabinet on manpower, presided over by the minister of national war services, has given detailed study to the problems involved. The recommendations of this committee have in turn been carefully considered by the whole cabinet.

I shall now set forth the procedures and measures which have been taken to organize and administer the government's policy of national selective service.

Little The Director

The primary responsibility for the extended scheme of National Selective Service has been placed upon the minister of labor. Under the minister of labor, the administrative responsibility for the direction and co-ordination of the policy has been vested in a director of national selective service, and Mr. Paul Goulet, the associate director.

The other departments of government which share in greater or less degree in tasks of making manpower available for war service, and in the allocation of the available manpower are the departments of National War Services, Pensions and National Health, Munitions and Supply, Agriculture and the three Defence departments. The inter-departmental committee on labor co-ordination, on which all these departments are represented, assists in co-ordinating the functions of the various departments, in so far as they relate to the mobilization of manpower. The committee has been strengthened by the addition of the employer and employee representatives on the executive of the National War Labor Board.

A National elective Service Advisory Board has been established to advise on major questions of policy. This board includes, in addition to the member of the Labor Co-ordination committee, the full membership of the National War Labor Board an such other persons as the Minister of Labor may designate. This latter provision will ensure the representation on the board of the agricultural community and of women.

National ervice Officer

In each area covered by an employment and claims office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, the Director of National Selective Service will shortly appoint a national selective service officer. The national selective service officers will have local charge of the administration of the selective service program for their respective areas. They will be advised and assisted in their work by voluntary unpaid citizens' committees which will be set up in each of the areas.

A central registry has been established in the Department of Labor to aid in promptly finding the appropriate men and women needed at any particular time. The registry is based upon the unemployment insurance records, and the records of the 1940 national registration. To the registry will be added the records of such further surveys of manpower as may be made from time to time, with a view to building up a complete inventory of manpower available for war and essential civilian purposes. To consolidate records and to avoid duplication, the administrative responsibility for national registration has been transferred from the Department of National War Services to the Department of Labor.

Under the program now adopted, the mobilization of industrial manpower will, in the main, be effected through the agency of the Employment Service of Canada.

Compulsion is now being applied in aspects of the mobilization of manpower, other than military service within Canada, to which it has been applied since October, 1940. It is recognized that no hard and fast compulsory regulations can be made which may not work injustices in individual cases. As a consequence, considerable discretion has been vested in the National War Services boards to decide appeals from the compulsory or restrictive regulation of the government, and from the orders of the director of National Selective Service and the National Selective Service officers.

Chinese Flank In Burma Hard-Pushed

Take 3 Air Smashes Unprotected Outside Toungoo

LONDON, March 24.—(CP).— A considerable Japanese advance against the Chinese-held left flank of the Allied lines in Burma was reported to-day in a Chinese communique announcing "vigorous fighting" only seven miles south of Toungoo, one of the two key points in the British-Chinese position.

In the last official report on this sector, action was located along the Pyu river, which flows into the Sittang some 30 miles below Toungoo.

To-day's communique reported six Japanese air attacks on Toungoo yesterday, three of them against the Chinese troops which were without air support.

However, American volunteer squadrons were reported to have carried out "two powerful and simultaneous attacks' on Japanese-held airfields in Thailand.

In the land fighting, the communique said, the Chinese were holding their "original outpost lines" after being driven back by reinforced enemy assault and then regaining their positions in a counter-attack.

Both the Chinese and the enemy forces—identified as the 121st and 243rd Japanese regiments, with Thai and Burmese detachments in support—suffered heavy casualties in fighting that frequently broke out into hand to hand, bayonet-wielding encounters.

Five Witnesses Say Man Drunk

Three police officers and two other witnesses swore in police court this morning that following a recent accident on George street near the C.P.R. station Robert Hamilton, R.R. 11, showed signs of intoxication. Hamilton was charged with having been drunk in charge of a car and pleaded not guilty. He was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, prosecuted.

John Ascott, Keene Road, the first crown witness described the accident. He had been driving north on George street, he said and had been making a left hand turn into the station. As the front wheels of his car were on the sidewalk he had to stop to allow several pedestrians to pass and while his machine was motionless it was struck by a south-bond car which he afterward found out had been driven by Hamilton.

On going over to the Hamilton car after the accident and opening the door Ascott said there was a strong smell of beer. There were three other persons in the car besides the accused. Afterward when the accused got out of the car Ascott said that he noticed him stagger a little and smelled liquor off his breath.

"He looks a lot different this morning than he did that Saturday night," Mrs. Ascott said when she was called to give her version of the accident.

Pressed by Mr. Carley to describe the difference the witness said that Hamilton looked very drowsy on the night of the accident. "He looked different, that is all I can say," Mrs. Ascott said.

Police Inspector James F. Reid, Officer Archie Menzies and Sergt. G. T. Puffer, who saw Hamilton at the police station after the accident all gave it as their opinion that the accused was intoxicated.

"He had been drinking beyond the point when he should not have been driving a car," Sergt. Puffer stated.

The court adjourned for luncheon as the crown concluded its case.

100,000 Cars Less

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP). — The American Petroleum Institute estimates that each tanker sunk means that 100,000 automobiles are deprived of their principal source of fuel. Figuring that each tanker carried 63,000,000 gallons of fuel, the Institute said this was about equal to the consumption of 100,000 passenger cars at 650 gallons each or of 35,000 domestic oil burners at 1,800 gallons each.

Scorched Earth Urged In B.C. If Japs Invade

By C. B. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 24.—(CP).—Plans for a "scorched earth policy" and evacuation of coastal areas if that becomes necessary were advocated by Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) in the House of Commons last night in a speech calling upon the Government for immediate leadership for a bold war effort in the face of imminent danger.

Picturing Japanese invaders in British Columbia bayonetting prisoners and "raping and murdering women," Mr. Green said the people and the Government should give thought to the "ugly facts" of the situation.

His speech brought the realities of war into the Chamber where debate had been carried on desultorily through the afternoon and most of the evening on the Government measure authorizing a $1,000,000,000 gift of goods to Britain.

He called for swiftly-increased mobilization of armed forces and immediate dispatch of at least a "token" force of Canadians to help defend Australia.

"I believe everyone here will agree that the Canadian people see this nation menaced at its gates on both oceans," Mr. Green said. "There is yet no certainty that Canada will survive."

The time to meet these conditions was immediately, Mr. Green said, urging a debate on national defence at once rather than after the Easter recess of Parliament which begins on Friday and lasts until April 20.

White Adjourns Debate

Mr. Green made his suggestions on the motion of Finance Minister Ilsley for introduction of a resolution for a supplementary appropriations of $135,000,000 for the current fiscal year, bringing the total for the year to $1,435,000,000. The de-

Thirty Tiny Tots Entertain Ladies' Society

—PORT HOPE, March 24 (ENS).—Over thirty little girls of the United Church Mission Band put on a program and entertained their mothers, the members of the Women's Missionary Society and the ladies of the Evening Auxiliary on Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the primary room.

This Mission Band is under the able leadership of Mrs. J. F. Kellough and Mrs. Gordon Garnett, with Mrs. H. Hutchings as assistant.

The president, little Dorothy Smith, conducted the meeting in a very capable manner and acted as chairman for the program. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Norma Trawin, while Joan Giffen and Margy Jane Hancock took up the collection.

The following program was then given in a very interesting way, a piano solo by Mary Baulch, a recitation by Jean Watson, piano solo by Elizabeth McClelland, with recitations by Nesta Williams, Dona Skitch, Margaret Baulch, a piano solo by Shirley Stephenson, and a quartette, "Good Morning Mary Sunshine," by Caroline Barich, Shirley Bradley, Betty Lou Taylor, Mary Hutchings. Piano solo by Dorothy Smith; a reading, "Mistress Spring," by Doris Reynolds; a song by two sisters, Dona and Jean Mutton; piano solo, Marion Kellough, and a recitation, "The General Store," by Joan Giffen.

After the Mission Band sang their closing hymn for the mothers and a delicious cup of tea was served, while the children were treated by their leaders to ice cream in Dixie cups.

At this time Mrs. M. G. Hancock, on behalf of the mothers, thanked the leaders for their interest in the children and the lovely afternoon the children and their leaders had given them.

GOING HOME
CHAPTER XXXVI

PARRIS talked to Randy the same day. He tried to veil the pronouncement, and to hold out hopes from the consultation. Little by little the color and the expression left her face.

"Don't try to shield me, Parris. Let's think about Drake. What will he have to go through with before the end?"

"God knows, Randy. I have thought of that."

"We have to do something. We can't let Drake endure too much. We've all fought together to save Drake's sanity and make him the man he was meant to be in the first place. He must not die feeling that he has lost it. He must die while he's himself.

Parris said nothing.

"Do you hear me, Parris?"

"Yes, Randy. You pose an old question. There's nothing any of us can do. There's nothing any honorable physician could do.

"Listen, Parris. I've got to know something."

"Well?"

"Could Drake's—could the amputation have had anything to do with this?"

Parris waited a moment. His eyes darkened. "I can't answer that question, Randy."

"Could it have had anything to do with it?"

"Possibly."

"Probably?"

"I can't say. Randy, my dear, you are pretty stouthearted. But I am telling you the truth when I say I don't know. I thought of Dr. Gordon right away—as I always do whenever a case comes up that he has had anything to do with. But I couldn't even in my own mind answer that question. Many people have cancer that attacks bone structure. We don't know causes.

"I've shut away old tormenting questions about this awful amputation, deep in my mind, but now—"

"Don't cry."

"I'm not crying. I'm cursing. I'm cursing everything there is in this town, everything in the world, everything in heaven, or hell! Parris, I could stand anything for myself—but, Drake! My God, hasn't he had enough?"

"I wish I knew one word to say, Randy. I'm here—to do anything I can for you and Drake—"

"The time will come when you'll have to do something for him. The time will be here soon enough.

DR. McNEILL assured Parris that there was no immediate danger, that the cancer was working slowly and he had left instructions with the nurses to see that Drake suffered little. Both knew the time would come when opiates would fail.

So Parris left to keep his appointment in Vienna, and exactly a month later he stepped off the grimy little Kings Row local. The reports from Dr. McNeill had been disquieting.

It seemed to Parris that the days and weeks and months after his return stood still. Hour by hour, almost minute by minute, Dr. McNeill, Parris, Randy, and the nurse fought back the horror of pain.

Consciousness was not allowed to come to Drake very often. He moaned and called, and while it was nerve-racking to hear, he actually did not know much that was happening.

Toward the end of August it seemed that Drake could not possibly last from one day to another. Randy came again and again to Parris.

"Please, Parris, for God's sake! You love Drake. You're his friend! How can you let this go on any longer?"

One morning it seemed to Parris that Drake's mind emerged a little. Increased doses of morphia at lessening intervals were no longer able to hold back the legions of torture.

Drake looked with a kind of dazed wonder at Parris, and then at Dr. McNeill. Then he turned his head slowly toward Parris. The cloudy look in his eyes cleared for a few seconds, but in those few seconds something passed between the two men. Dr. McNeill was aware of the communication. He stood looking curiously at Parris.

"It's a matter of hours, Dr. Mitchell," he said evenly.

Drake twisted his head to one side, and clenched his teeth over his lips. A line of blood ran down his chin. Then the fog of an unutterable agony blurred his eyes again, and a long hoarse howl broke from his throat.

Parris sat, white and still.

"It's for you to say, Dr Mitchell." He had made the same decision once before. Anna . . . his grandmother . . .

He bent his head for a moment. Then he looked up at Dr. McNeill.

"Do you think a normal injection, at shorter intervals—"

Dr. McNeill turned without a word and prepared a hypodermic syringe at the little table. The nurse came in.

"You'd better snatch a little rest before the afternoon, Miss Cooper. I'll call you."

The sound of Dr. McNeill's steps receded. Parris arose and closed the door leading into the hall. Then he sat down on the edge of the bed and took Drake's hand. He laid his fingers on the thready pulse, and waited.

He sat motionless. He could hear the tiny ticking sound of the nurse's watch on the table behind him.

The sun crept in at the front windows.

Parris laid Drake's hand on the quiet sheet and folded the other one over it.

He stood for a moment looking down at the blue-white face on the pillow. A sudden breeze swung the curtains inward and blew a lock of hair across Drake's brow. It gave him a boyish look.

Parris went out and closed the door softly behind him.

The days and weeks following Drake's death seemed to Parris to descend to a curious level of monotony. The whole world was slippery, incorporeal, and kaleidoscopic.

Just before Christmas he saw Randy at Cary Whitehead's office. He had seen her frequently, and he was surprised each time to see how quickly she had regained her calm. She spoke of business matters with less enthusiasm.

"It used to be fun, you know, Parris. Drake"—she managed the name with a little difficulty—"was always so excited about anything new that we undertook. Now, I sort of wonder why I bother about it. I have enough money—I don't need too much, you know."

"Well, Randy, I've been wanting to talk to you about the business. I'd like to get out."

"I just want to think about my work. Now, I don't want to leave you in the lurch in any way."

"It wouldn't be. Parris, I'd like to quit too. I believe Dan Gilbert and Elliot would buy us out."

"Do you think so. But what would you do? I think you ought to have something."

"I'm tired, Parris."

"Yes, I can understand that. All of these years—"

"Parris, it seems like a dream now. I remember the afternoon you left for Europe and I ran into you and Drake at the depot. I was awfully happy, I realize now that I was, until real troubles came. It's strange, but I don't seem to be able

Orangemen Plan Convention For Next Month

COBOURG, March 24.—(ENS).—Little business was on the agenda when town council met Monday for its regular meeting. The session was only one hour's duration.

Council was addressed by Arthur Terry of Cobourg, who informed them that the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East was holding its convention at Cobourg commencing April 13th. At least 500 were expected, Mr. Terry said. He suggested that the town hall be decorated and that the business men suitably decorate their premises for the occasion.

Mayor Jack Burnet assured Mr. Terry that the council would co-operate in any way desired.

Seek Rubber Plant.

Mayor Burnet reported on the council's efforts to obtain a synthetic rubber plant at Cobourg. Contacting the member, W. A. Fraser, the council was advised that the plants were being located adjacent to oil refineries, sources of the base for the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Council endorsed a motion to make Charles and Division streets intersection and the Charles and McGill streets intersection stop streets.

Reeve Dodge informed the council that he had contacted the head of the box factory of Newcastle, who had informed him that he had never been in Cobourg in connection with establishing a box factory here.

"It is not reasonable that anybody would come to Cobourg in connection with a factory without contacting the council, observed the mayor. "We follow up every lead in our efforts to get factories," added the mayor.

Accounts passed were as follows: Highways and street $232.07, public building and printing $5.11, police committee $166.56, fire, water and light $549.27, market 55c, health and sanitation $7.02 finance and harbor $189.72, relief $55.30.

M. A. Hewson, secretary of the Church Hockey League, wrote to thank the council for the free use of the rink for the play-offs.

Mrs. D. Boggs wrote to ask permission for a sale at the market building for the British War Victims' Fund. Permission was granted.

A by-law was passed providing for the partial exemption of certain farm lands lying within the town limits, from taxation.

Deputy Reeve Alan Field and Councillor John Westington moved and seconded a motion that the auditors report be adopted.—Carried.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

—PORT HOPE, March 24 (ENS).—In police court on Monday afternoon, Magistrate Baxter heard several cases.

The first was a charge against Gerald Wycott of Toronto for being intoxicated in a public place, for which Magistrate Baxter imposed a fine of $15 and costs. On a second charge against Gerald Wycott for obstructing a police officer at the time of his arrest, this charge was dismissed.

The third charge was against R. Brittel of Toronto for reckless driving; resulting from an accident some time ago on Highway No. 2 about one mile east of Newtonville, when the car which he was driving skidded.

The evidence was heard on this case, and judgment reserved till April 13.

Medicine Marches On

Some extremely interesting suggestions as to the future trend of medicine in this country were made by Dr. Gerin-Lajoie, Professor of Gynaecology at the University of Montreal, in an address which he gave before the Royal Canadian Institute last Saturday night. It was his belief, to sum it up, that increased socialization of medicine was at hand, and that the part played in the nation's life after the war by preventive medicine would be vastly important.

This expression of opinion is doubly interesting when it is considered with certain recent movements in Canada's medical world. Perhaps the most significent of these is the establishment of a course at Toronto University to train physicians, not to treat the sick, but to increase the health and efficiency of the well. This innovation is the result of a conviction long held by Dr. E. S. Ryerson, Assistant Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, that a majority of people who are apparently in good health are in fact considerably less healthy than they could be; it is to be the work of the specially trained students to rectify this condition. Their work involves the building up of stamina and resistance to disease, the establishment of muscular control of the body, and the encouragement of a better psycho-physical relation than is usual at present, even in seemingly healthy and athletic persons. This work appears to be strongly related to the theories of F. M. Alexander, the Australian healer who has for many years been active in England in relieving bodily conditions (arthritis is one of the commonest) which he believes to be the result of a misuse of the body rather than of organic weakness or infection. Many of Alexander's precepts have supplanted the traditional beliefs of the sergeant-major in British army training, as they have been found to increase bodily efficiency whereas old-fashioned methods of posture and drill are harmful to it.

There appears to be an awakening in the United States and in Britain as well to the importance of national health, and this may be taken as one of the very few good results of the present war. There can be little doubt that, when the war is over, methods of physical education will be adopted as a form of preventive medicine in schools, and that facilities for the spread of medical benefits to the poor and to that forgotten class which is ill-off without being destitute will be greatly increased. That will be the time to awaken a national interest in mental hygiene, and to establish preventive measures for mental disease, as well.

Treachery At Espanola

We do not think that sufficient severity was shown in the treatment of the five Espanola girls who were discovered to be working in league with Nazi prisoners in that district. It may be thought that "working in league" is too strong an expression, but that is what the girls were doing, whether they were conscious of the fact or not.

Consider their conduct: they mailed letters for the Nazis to friends, who were presumably enemy agents, in the United States, and one of the girls smuggled a camera and a developing outfit to one of the prisoners. Whether they know it or not, these girls are traitors and Fifth Columnists and if they were in any European country there is no doubt that they would be imprisoned if they were not shot.

The excuse that the girls are young and foolish is not good enough. On this continent we are apt to feel that youth is in itself a license for any sort of folly. A girl of fifteen is quite old enough to know that aiding Nazi prisoners to send clandestine letters is a traitorous action. As things stand at the moment it is unlikely that these girls will behave so stupidly again, but it is also clear that their case has not been treated with sufficient severity to deter other silly girls from similar acts.

It is of no interest to learn that the girls were "chastened" and "in tears." A girl of sixteen may be either a responsible and sensible human being or she may be a simpleton; these girls, except for the ringleader, appear to be simpletons, and as such tears come to them as readily as giggles and mean as little. They will be forgotten within a month.

Certainly something seems to be wrong when girls are able to meet Nazi prisoners when the latter are working on the roads, when they can see them at hockey games, and when they can get near enough to them to give them cameras and be kissed by them. What sort of an internment camp are they running at Espanola, anyway?

This whole Espanola incident shows a lack of firmness which is disquieting. Even if a severe punishment were hard on the girls themselves, that would be better than the impression spread across the Dominion that such transgressions will be treated in a namby-pamby spirit. What is the use of Victory Loan speakers telling us of the horrors which would fill this country if it came under Nazi rule, which is very unlikely, if such feeble action is to be taken in a case where Nazis, and captive Nazis at that, have used Canadian citizens as dupes and tools?

Finally, this case shows that despite the intelligent attitude taken toward the war by most Canadians, there are still some people who do not seem to know what it is all about. These girls are old enough to know the difference between loyalty and treachery, and what the latter means in wartime. Something is radically wrong if a part of our youth can be engaged in the defence of liberty, while others are allowed to escape with a light rebuke for an act of treachery. Is the Espanola matters going to be left where it now stands?

Fan That Flame

The Canadian Press dispatch which tells of a British journalist's rhapsodies on the subject of Canadian troops engaged in manoeuvres makes good reading. The journalist is Hugh Cudlipp, columnist of the Sunday Pictorial and a British army officer as well. Apparently the Canadians ran him ragged, and by the time he had finished his workout with them he was exhausted physically and overwhelmed with admiration for his hosts. "Mad and Magnificent" were the words he used. "These Canadians have retained something in their characters which most of the men of Britain have lost . . . they're blunt; they're wild; they're rough and ready; they're uncut diamonds."

This is to see oursel's as ithers see us, and a surprising spactacle we find oursel's. Mad? Magnificent? (Well, perhaps; we won't quarrel with Mr. Cudlipp about that). Blunt? Wild? We have long deplored our politicians' inability to be either blunt or wild. Rough and Ready? Perhaps, in a moderate sort of way. Uncut Diamonds? Possibly; it is so hard to tell about a diamond that is uncut. It may be just a lump of coal after all. And many an uncut diamond becomes no more than a half-cut man. But we are not denying these fond impeachments; merely considering them.

This enthusiastic journalist goes on to describe our troops as possessors of a "sacred flame." We can readily believe this. We know what our troops did in the last war and we are deeply proud of their record; we know that our troops in this war are just as good. But can we be quite so sure of ourselves; do we deserve these compliments which have, apparently, been directed at Canadians in general? Everywhere these days we hear a cry for a more tangible will towards victory in Canada, and everywhere we see groups urging other groups to give the leadership necessary to inspire such a national feeling. But must we depend on a group; cannot we foster such a feeling within ourselves and for ourselves, without extraneous aid? Let's be a little madder, a little more magnificent, blunter if need be and wild if we must; let's learn how to be rough and above all, let's be ready. A more determined spirit at home will fan that "sacred flame" with which our troops abroad have impressed a British observer.

Practical Justice

The satisfaction which was felt when Premier King chose one of the ablest of French Canadian lawyers to succeed the late Ernest Lapointe as Minister of Justice has been greatly increased by the action which Mr. St. Laurent has taken to investigate the cases of certain internees. The late Minister's interpretation of the Defence of Canada Regulations was, so far as it was possible for laymen to judge, severe and arbitrary; moderate men felt distaste for the secrecy and rigor with which the regulations were invoked, and in more excitable circles there was wild talk of the Gestapo and the Star Chamber. Mr. St. Laurent's action in this matter has reassured the moderate men and has silenced the wild talkers.

Particularly unpalatable to a free people is the business of imprisoning men on no better apparent ground than the suspicion of the police. The intellectual ability of police investigators is widely variable and their suspicions are always the better for ratification by men who have a broader view of what is subversive activity and what is not. Pat Sullivan, for instance, may be widely regarded as a nuisance but internment is not for nuisances; nor is a wartime dislike of seeing wealth in the hands of persons of foreign birth a sufficient reason for holding James Franceschini.

Internment is a serious thing, and though it may be advisable to lock up all possibly troublesome persons at the beginning of a war it is bad policy to keep them locked up if that should prove to be unnecessary. Mr. St. Laurent's intention of investigating the cases of internees as quickly as possible will create a much more healthy feeling about the internment problem in this Dominion.

Nova Scotia's Disease Bill

The Legislature of Nova Scotia is considering an extremely interesting new law which will give medical health officers in that province the right to examine anyone, by force if necessary, for evidences of venereal diseases. The rise of such infection in that province recently, owing to the war and the increase in population from outside sources has made such a measure desirable. Hitherto such examination could only be made upon persons under arrest; the new bill provides much wider powers.

The recognition of the prevalence and harmfulness of venereal infections has been slow in coming in Canada, but there have been evidences in the past two or three years of a gradual awakening. Opposition to a realistic treatment of this problem came principally from people who combined ignorance of its true nature and effects with a distaste for discussing nasty subjects. Wartime, when many much nastier things have to be faced, is an excellent time to bring in legislation of this sort, and we hope that other provinces, Ontario among them, may follow the courageous example of Nova Scotia.

Such a bill should do much to control infection if it is made to work. The onus which it places upon medical officers, however, is a heavy one. Venereal disease is no prerogative of the poor, against whom such action as the bill provides for may most easily be taken, and it would be a courageous medical officer who would exercise his privilege in the case of a prominent citizen whom he suspected of spreading infection. Still, a measure of control is better than none at all.

The bill cannot be regarded as an infringement of the rights of the citizen. Citizens who believe themselves to be infected should see a physician, and if they neglect to do so they are acting contrary to the best interests of the population in general. The Nova Scotia bill protects the population against the irresponsibility and ignorance of some of its number.

WHITTIER TO ENGLAND

The common interest of Britain and America in the spread of spiritual ideals and democracy has been celebrated by many writers in both prose and verse.

The two stanzas of Whittier's which follow celebrate this unity of the two peoples. They may not be generally known, as they were not included in Whittier's Complete Poems. They were included in a letter of Whittier's to a Canadian correspondent, and were first printed in the New York Times of June 5, 1865:

O Englishmen!—in hope and creed,
In blood and tongue our brothers!
We too are heirs of Runnymede;
And Shakespeare's fame and Cromwell's deed
Are not alone our mother's.

"Thicker than water," in one rill
Through centuries of story
Our Saxon blood has flowed, and still
We share with you its good and ill,
The shadow and the glory.

Curious Case of Mme. Arsenault

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

NOT all the good actresses are on the stage. A fortnight ago Judge Gustave Marin, of the Sessions Court of Montreal, was confronted with a woman who must surely be, in her line, one of the best actresses ever to appear in this Dominion. For two years Antoinette Arsenault had worked as a munitions maker in Ste. Therese, Quebec, calling herself Andre Pierre Arsenault; a few weeks ago Andre proposed marriage, and was accepted, by Mimi Oulette. After a brief experience of marriage with the fraudulent Andre, Mlle. Oulette made complaints to her priest and to the police which led to the discovery of the deception, and now Antoinette Arsenault is to serve a jail sentence of 23 months, for having falsified her birth certificate and for having caused false information to be inserted in a marriage register.

AT first it seems incredible that such a trick could succeed, and that it should actually get as far as marriage seems fantastic. But a closer examination shows that such cases, though unusual, are by no means unknown; indeed the number of similar deceptions recorded in fairly recent history is surprising. A picture of Antoinette Arsenault shows a round faced man of thirty or so, somewhat dimpled, though no more so than many men, with heavy eyebrows and a small moustache. There is nothing particularly effeminate about the face; Andre Arsenault looks like thousands of other young men. Mimi Oulette is only 19 and from her photograph she appears to be unusually vivacious; apparently she is also characterized by a most unfeminine lack of curiosity.

MOST of the people who have taken an interest in the case have been baffled by Antoinette Arsenault's moustache. In the photograph it is definite, though light; a slight hypertrichosis of this kind is by no means unusual and a moustache which might pass as a trifling disfigurement in a woman could be encouraged with dye and pomade to form quite a respectable ornament for a young man. Nor would the voice give much trouble in a deception of this kind; the actual difference between a man's voice and a woman's is not so great as is supposed; many of us have had the experience of mistaking the sex of an unknown speaker on the telephone. The real difficulty would be to simulate the walk and bodily attitude of a man, a thing which most women find exceedingly hard to do.

NONE the less, many women have done it with complete success. In London, at the beginning of the seventeenth century, one of the most notorious of highwaymen and robbers was a woman called Moll Frith, who habitually dressed as a man, drank heavily and is said to have been the first woman in England to smoke tobacco. One of her greatest problems in life was to defend herself against the importunities of young women who were attracted by her daring and her masculine swagger. In the latter part of the last century a woman was discovered in the United States who lived the life of a trapper and hunter among the Indians for many years, and then returned to civilization and set up as a preacher, under the name of Rev. Joseph Lobdell. This phenomenon married, and lived happily with a wife for many years. Her real name was Lucy Ann Slater.

ANDRE ARSENAULT worked in a munitions factory; "John Coulter" worked as a laborer for the Belfast Harbor Commission for twelve years, doing the hardest and heaviest sort of work. John was married for twenty-nine years, until his wife left him, complaining that he was a drunkard. When he died it was discovered that he was a woman. An even more curious case was that of "Murray Hall," a noted Tammany politician who died in New York in 1901; this person was married twice, had a reputation for loose conduct with women, drank and smoked heavily and often engaged in fist fights. Actually "Murray Hall" was Mary Anderson, born at Govan in Scotland. A woman also was Ellis Glenn, a notorious Chicago swindler who came to trial in that city in 1905; her name was Ellen Glenn.

MANY of these women who assume the dress and habits of men seek out and perform the most arduous sort of work. A case in point is the curiously named Fernando Mackenzie, who served as a policeman and bodyguard to the governor of the city of Seville for many years. Fernando was a Frenchwoman, born in Paris in 1836; her father was Scottish. She had served as a soldier in the French army, but went to Madrid when she was 35 and joined the police force there; she married a widow, and pretended that her step-child was her own son. Later she went to Seville and served on the force for 30 years; she was only discovered as the result of a street accident which made it necessary to remove her to a hospital.

IT would be possible to name many other women who have posed successfully as men, if space allowed it. Why they should wish to do such a thing is a matter beyond the scope of a newspaper column, which has only the time to touch on the surface of matters. How they manage to maintain such a deception is another mystery. It is noticeable, however, that women who feel the urge to disguise themselves as men either marry or attempt to do so, and that in some instances even the wives are deceived; certainly there are instances on record where wives have been astounded to find that they had been married to women for several years! But not Mimi Oulette; she made discovery of her error fairly early in her married life and took steps to set matters right; as a result, Antoinette Arsenault is now behind bars.

• No Russ War for Japan?

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 24 —(AP)— Much as Hitler might like to see Japan strike next at Russia to match his promised summer "annihilation" campaign, it seems a remote possibility, at least until the Japanese-United Nations battle of air attrition in the south is fought out.

Current war accounts from Burma and Australia disclose heavy inroads on Japanese air power. To replace lost craft on fronts so distant from Japan is a growing problem for the foe. And it would seem almost a suicidal move for Tokyo to open another major front—against Russia — unless her planes had secured domination of the skies definitely elsewhere, which clearly they have not.

In reply to any Berlin pleas for joint action against Russia, Tokyo could list very substantial aid already given the Germans indirectly. Not least of these is the fact that Pacific sea lanes for supplying Russia with war gear were closed automatically with Japanese entry into the struggle.

ATTRITION AT SEA

That, coupled with forced diversion of British war efforts to the Pacific, and the tremendously increased strain on shipping to keep United Nations supply lines functioning in both the Pacific and the Atlantic, probably is the role Tokyo agreed to play.

There are now intimations that Japan is suffering from sea attrition herself. It is increasingly difficult for her to find shipping to feed her southern fronts, which are nowhere nearer home than 3,500 miles and separated by the 4,000-mile span from Burma to New Guinea.

A hint of that came in a German-inspired broadcast from occupied Oslo, urging Norwegian vessels in the Pacific theatre to put into Japanese or Japanese-controlled ports with the lure of triple-pay promises to crew.

In any case, weather conditions at this season around the north end of the Sea of Japan do not seem such as to invite an early Japanese move against Russia. Nor has there been any intimation that the Russians have reduced their Siberian defense force materially to provide means of pressing the winter attack in the west.

MAKING DESPERATE EFFORT

Whatever Japan's ultimate intentions toward Russia, at the moment she is meeting the most serious opposition of her conquest crusade both in Burma and Australia. As yet she has failed to achieve air superiority conclusively on either front or to disrupt seriously Allied communication lines in either the Pacific or Indian Ocean.

All previous Japanese victories, Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Java, were based on immediate seizure of air control to shelter her invasion fleets or forward surging armies. Mass attacks by air upon Allied bases in Burma and on New Guinea indicate desperate efforts to repeat that technique.

It is a more difficult task now at the end of long sea communication lines and against mounting counter air offensives by the Allies. A toll of nearly fifty Japanese aircraft brought down in four days in the Australian-New Guinea area is a damaging blow. Nor is there indication in official Allied reports that the air loss ratio both there and in Burma is not running consistently and heavily against the foe.

That is the most encouraging aspect of the Pacific war news at this stage. It also must operate as a deterrent on Japanese aggression against Russia.

A Bit of Nonsense

His Debt

"Your husband's very fond of yachting?"

"Well, not what you'd call fond of it, as it makes him feel pretty bad at times. But, you see, he made his money out of fish, and he feels he owes it to the sea."

Hair Raising

They had had a little argument. When the wife went into the hall she met the maid and became suspicious.

"Mary, were you listening?" she asked the girl.

"No, ma'am."

'Mary, don't deny it—your hair is still standing on end."

PETREL AND PRINCE OF WALES

Ed. Note.—Commander Polkinghorn referred to here is a brother-in-law of Mrs. W. R. Field of 215 Princess street. The Petrel was sunk near Shanghai and Commander Polkinghorn lost his life.

These are names to honour
Where British pride prevails:
Polkinghorn of the Petrel,
Phillips of Prince of Wales.

The rivetters roar in the ship yards,
The breed of men ne'er fails:
Polinghorn of the Petrel,
Phillips of Prince of Wales.

Spain was sure of her triumph,
France of her hundred sails,
More ships lay deep in Scapa Flow
Than Petrel and Prince of Wales.

Like wind in the rigging crying
The whip of a thousand gales:
Polkinghorn of the Petrel,
Phillips of Prince of Wales.

From out of a week's disaster
The spirit of those prevails;
Polkinghorn of the Petrel,
Phillips of Prince of Wales.

TOM McARTHUR IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE CURLING CLUB

By FRED D. CRAIG

Everything is set for the big game in Toronto tonight and the Petes and their legion of supporters here are confident that the final whistle will find the Soldiers out in front and an Ontario championship, the second in three seasons, in their grasp. Remembering the result of the second game in St. Catharines when the Merritton Redmen took them into camp to the tune of 6 to 3 in a fixture which the Petes had counted as surely in the bag, the Soldiers are not figuring the battle at Maple Leaf Gardens tonight as anything in the nature of a setup. They know that defeat means elimination for the Steel men from the St. Catharines suburb and that Scotty Mair will have his squad full of fight for this final test. And they also know that the Redmen have a habit of cashing in on comparatively few scoring chances so that the Petes are looking for a keen tussle on the big Toronto cushion. But they are looking for a win because they feel they have the stuff to grab off a third victory at the expense of Merritton and take the series and the title. The Petes will leave for Toronto by car at 5 o'clock this afternoon, while a special C.N.R. train that is expected to carry several hundred fans will pull out of here at 6 o'clock.

* * * * * *

As intimated last night there will be few changes in the lineup for tonight's battle. The Petes will have the following: Goal, Harding; defence, Crowe and Jopling; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins, Heal; alternates, Godfrey, Burton, Nichols, Blewett, Bennett, Reilly or Starr. Merritton is expected to lineup with the following list and we give their numbers for the benefit of Peterborough fans who may not know the Merritton players: Goal, Clement; defence, Desson (2) and Morgan (10); centre, Saunders (4); wings, Hand (6) and Melville (7); alternates, Brant (5), Spooner (13), Robinson (14), D. Rocco (9), Spancheff (12) or Elliott (3). The Peterborough club has received no announcement as to the officials for tonight's battle. So far there has been a different referee in each of the four games. McLean of Hamilton and Beef McKay also of Hamilton handled the two games at St. Catharines, Army Armstrong of Oshawa was the whistle-tooter here and D. A. Houston was the official at Oshawa.

* * * * * *

Writes Ken Colling in the Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer: "Out in Peterborough they are anything but satisfied with the arrangements set-up by the O.H.A. in their senior puck playoffs with Merritton. It seems the Petes named Oshawa as their home ice after it was an assured fact that playing hockey this late date was taboo, insofar as natural ice was concerned. The Petes are leading the series at two games to one, with one a tie. The drawn contest was played at Peterborough, so therefore Jim Ellis and Fred Scates rightfully argue the next game should be the replay of the original tie match and as the Petes named Oshawa as their home ice they feel that's where the game should be played. However, Billie Hewitt thinks otherwise and ordered the game played at the Maple Leaf Gardens. Under ordinary circumstances the Petes should take the measure of the Merritton sextette on any ice surface in the province, so let's go 'Soldiers.'"

Curlers End Season

Although the early arrival of spring cut short the season and left a number of competitions uncompleted Peterborough's knights of the stane and besom were able to report a very good winter when they assembled Monday night to wind up the season and elect officers for the next campaign. The club filled up with enthusiastic members this winter and a lot of good curling featured the campaign, despite the fact that Peterborough rinks had no luck in provincial competition. The two bonspiels held during the winter were very successful affairs, adding to the reputation of the local club for hospitality. Curling stopped much earlier than usual this winter and that condition will give once more to the arguments of those curlers who have long been favoring artificial ice facilities for this city. Just as are the hockey fraternity the curlers here are handicapped by lack of ice, sometimes when it is most needed, and artificial ice would be a great boon. It will probably have to wait until after the war however.

* * * * * *

Re-election of Tom McArthur as president, establishing a precedent inasmuch as there has been an unwritten law that no president shall hold office for more than one term is a tribute to the manner in which he has looked after the affairs of the club during the past year. Under his regime, control of the rink property has been obtained by the curlers and the fruits of that policy have been seen in the great improvement made to the plant. So much has been accomplished that the members of the club were unanimous in calling upon the 1941-42 president to carry on for another season. The only thing that went wrong was something that even such an enthusiastic worker as Tom McArthur could do nothing to control. The season was the shortest in the memory of old-time curlers. The first matches were played on the night of December 30 and the last curling on fit ice took place on the night of February 27, making the playing season less than two months.

Juveniles Are Out

Peterborough's Ontario juvenile series representatives, the Churchills, vanished from the stage for the season at Oshawa last night when they lost a sudden-death game to Port Hope by 2 goals to 0, the score coming in the last six minutes of a hard-fought and fast game. There was no score in the first and second periods and fourteen minutes of the final session had passed before the Port Hope kids scored the first counter of the game. Then with the Petes ganging up and battling desperately for the score that would have tied up the tussle again the Ontarios broke away with one minute to go and hung up a second goal to take the verdict 2 to 0. It was a tough loss for the Peterborough youngsters who were beaten 1 to 0 by Port Hope in the first game, squared the round with a 2 to 1 win in the second fixture and then were finally bumped off last night. They have played good hockey all season and developed some very promising material. Port Hope has a strong club and the Ontarios have the support of their home town. Over 400 Port Hope fans were in Oshawa for the game last night.

* * * * * *

Judging from the tone of the Toronto sport columns the Rangers-Leafs Stanley Cup series is all over already. The Leafs who lost their last five games on the road and were beaten 7 to 3 by Canadiens only two nights before the playoffs started are now suddenly the hottest team in hockey and the Rangers are in worse shape than the Normandie. The Patrickmen may be at that but the Toronto scribes should remember their hockey history. In a Stanley Cup series not so long ago Rangers lost the first three games to Boston Bruins and then came back to take three in a row and give Bruins a terrific battle for the seventh game. They had better not count those New Yorkers out too soon. They have a habit of bouncing back, especially if that rough-neck line starts clicking. Anyway, it should be quite a battle in New York tonight when the two leaders meet in the third game of the series.

Hits 20-Goal Mark

Twenty goals in a season, a mark coveted by every sharp-shooter in the National Hockey League, has come to be a habit with Roy Conacher, of Boston Bruins, sole surviving member of the famous Canadian athletic family now performing in the major loop. When the night of March 10, young Conacher got two of the nine goals Bruins poured into the Chicago Black Hawk nets, it sent him whirling through the 20-mark for the third time in his comparatively brief big league career. Twice in his previous three campaigns he has bagger more than 20 goals, collecting 26 in his freshman year of 1938-39 and 24 a year ago. As a sophomore he netted only 18 in the campaign of 1939-40, but was out a good part of the season with a broken wrist.

Joe In The Pink For New Tangle

FORT DIX, N.J., March 24. (AP)—If Joe Louis has slowed down, as some of the ballyhoo boys would have you believe, they should have let him work out in a dark corner today, where no prying eyes could get a peek.

Because the Bomber, beginning his last three days of work for his Army Emergency Relief Fund fight with Ample Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden Friday night, was about as slow as a Flying Fortress—and just as deadly. He dished out an assortment of bloody noses in a four-round workout with George Nicholson, and was so smooth doing it that you felt kind of sorry for Ample Abe.

Great Physical Specimen

The main attraction of the 1204th Special Service Unit put on his combination display of depth bombs and anti-aircraft fire after going through a stiff physical examination which not only pleased the army, but had Lieutenant Bernard Robbins of the Medical Corps gasping in awe at the heavyweight championship machinery.

"He's a text-book, he's so perfect," Robbins announced later. "He's absolutely perfect and an exceptionally normal human being — a fine physical specimen."

The examination was so rigid even John J. Phelan, the New York State Athletic Commission chairman, who has had Joe looked over for every one of his New York fights, admitted he had "never seen anything like it."

Phelan and Robbins, after discovering what made Louis tick, saw his dishing out his dynamite. He warmed up on Fitch, then made Blunt leave his nose dripping blood in the middle of the second round, and polished off the festivities on Nicholson.

Joe weighed 211 when they turned him loose and 208 when the party was over. He figures on scaling about 206 Friday night, three-quarters of a pound lighter than he was for Buddy Baer in January.

All-Star Teams

Following is the sixth of a Canadian Press series of National Hockey League all-star selections by hockey writers in N.H.L. cities. A concensus will be prepared later.

Squadron Leader

Probably the youngest squadron leader in the R.C.A.F. overseas is Sq.-Lr. Lyall B. B. Price of Montreal, son of Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price, officer of the Third Canadian Division. Price, at 21, is a flight commander at a Canadian bomber squadron.

Present Prizes As Local Curlers Close Shortest Season On Record

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club in the rink club room Monday night established a couple of precedents as a large and enthusiastic gathering of curlers observed the windup of probably the shortest season on record.

In the first place the meeting ignored an unwritten club law that a president shall only fill the office for one year by re-electing President T. F. McArthur, despite his protests, to serve for another term.

Secondly the primary and consolation prizes in a bonspiel event—the Neill trophy in which 46 rinks had entered, but which could not be terminated because of lack of ice—were decided by drawing cards.

The presentation of prizes, always a big event of the annual meeting, was necessarily curtailed because the premature end of the season prevented the completion of the club championship event for the H. F. Foote cup, as well as the leads and seconds and vice-skips competitions.

The four members of this year's managing committee, C. B. Westbrock, George Green, John McWilliams and J. E. Thomas were all nominated for the office of vice-president, and after a ballot had been taken and J. E. Thomas was elected, the other three were nominated for the managing committee and were again returned to their posts on that committee.

When the election of officers was called J. H. Sedgewick declared that it was a time when precedents were being scrapped and he accordingly moved, seconded by C. B. Westbrooke, that President T. F. McArthur be re-elected.

Unanimous For McArthur

President McArthur protested that the honor should be passed around, but the meeting was unanimous in support of the motion that he should serve for another year.

The complete list of officers elected was as follows—

Newsom Firm On Salary Or He Changes

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKELAND, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—Our old and esteemed pal Buck Newsom—one of the greatest pitchers that ever lived, on his own admission—finds himself in a position that might embarrass the average man here at the training camp of the Detroit Tigers. It even has Buck a trifle disconcerted.

Last of the important baseball holdouts, the big fellow from South Carolina is being permitted to work out to his heart's content. He is running and sweating and pitching to the batters. He is in surprisingly good condition, some 20 pounds lighter than he was a year ago, when, as the beaten hero of the 1940 world series, he was tooting around grandly in a car whose horn played "Hold that Tiger."

The only thing is, this time, that Buck doesn't have a contract to play for the Tigers and is being pointedly ignored by officials of the club. Buck is being given the "silent treatment."

It is tough stuff for the big man who pitched the Tigers to a pennant only two seasons ago, with 21 victories and five defeats, and who proudly proclaimed last year that he was making the largest salary of any pitcher in the game—$32,500. The club has offered him $12,500 this time, representing perhaps the most drastic reduction in baseball history, and Buck is so rebellious that it looks doubtful they ever can get together.

It seems more likely he will be with another club when the season opens. That will suit Buck, he makes it more than clear. In the clubhouse, streaming with honest perspiration, he kept saying: "I'll either pitch for 'em or again 'em. But whoever I pitch for will pay old Buck the salary he wants—not what they want to pay." Buck's figure is thought to be around $25,000.

"You bet it does! As a retailer, I'm the link, you might say, between manufacturer and consumer. And what affects each of them under these wartime conditions is mighty important to me."

1. "Take Mrs. Consumer. She and her family have to plan their shopping more carefully than ever these days. They have to know in advance how and where they can make their dollars go furthest. In order to find out, they read newspaper ads."

2. "Why? Well, they've always turned to newspapers for news . . . and that means buying news in the ads, too. Today, with all this big war news popping, more people than ever are reading newspapers . . . and paying even closer attention to the ads."

3. "It's plain to see what this means to manufacturers. They know the best help they can give me in moving their goods off my shelves is newspaper advertising here in this community. And today this is stronger, faster-acting support than ever."

4. "Then, too, manufacturers these days often have to change their sales or distribution plans overnight; and newspapers are the only place where they can keep their advertising in step with these sudden changes, and keep customers coming in here."

This retailer is right! Wartime conditions are changing the making and selling and buying of goods. And the service of newspaper advertising, to manufacturer, dealer, and consumer, is greater than ever before. Today, more than ever, manufacturers produce more sales for their retailers . . . and themselves . . . when they advertise in local newspapers.

RANGERS DISAPPOINTED IN ROOKIES SUMMON NEW HAVEN PAIR

Leafs All Ready Not A Mar On The Squad

NEW YORK, March 24.—(CP)—In modern Stanley Cup history no hockey club has lost the first two games of a play-off series and won the round.

That depressing bit of hockey history hung today over the New York Rangers who entered the Series "A" four-of-seven-game fight against Toronto Maple Leafs slight favorites to advance to the cup final and now find themselves short enders after two straight defeats.

Tonight Toronto will attempt to make it three straight, should they succeed the Leafs will have an opportunity to end the series before their home fans in Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night. If the Rangers take either of these games, a fifth will be staged here next Sunday.

To the Ranger Board of Management, the biggest disappointment of the two games was the showing of the rookies, Grant Warwick and Alan Kuntz, who were lost in the fast going. So tonight there is a possibility both will be removed. Lester Patrick called up Norm Burns and Norm Tustin from New Haven of the American League. Both men played several games woth the Rangers early this season. Burns is a centre-right winger and Tustin a left winger.

All was quiet in the Leafs' camp. The newly-repaired and valuable knees of Syl Apps and Bingo Kampman came through the week-end double-header in good shape. Coach Happy Day reported not an injury in the team. The players are eager to clean up the series in the shortest possible time and then tackle the survivors of the other series in the Cup final.

Toronto has not won the cup since 1932. The last time before that was 1922. So they believe maybe good things come in 10-year cycles.

The Rangers refuse to believe they are as outclassed as the 3-1 and 4-2 defeats showed. They recall that in the series "A" of 1939 Boston had them down three straight but the New Yorker won the next three and only bowed in the seventh game after 48 minutes of overtime.

Terriers Oust Athletics 15-3

By The Canadian Press

Portage la Prairie Terriers polished up their shooting eyes last night in preparation for their Western junior hockey best-of-five semi-final series against the speedy, high-scoring Fort William Hurricane Rangers opening at Winnipeg Thursday night. Terriers eliminated St. Boniface Athletics 15-3 in the Manitoba final.

The Portage la Prairie, however, no more than matched Hurricane-Rangers feats in Thunder Bay Junior League games. The Lakehead champions frequently slammed home 14 goals a game and recently reinforced the team for Memorial Cup playdowns.

They added Goalkeeper Fernand Groulx and Peter Wyrot, 180-pound mushing defenceman, both of Port Arthur West Ends, under a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling.

Calgary Stampeders and Lethbridge Maple Leafs fought 90 minutes to a 2-2 overtime tie in the Alberta senior championship last night and will play the sixth and deciding game tonight at Lethbridge.

Winner of the series will meet Port Arthur Bear Cats in the best-of-five Western Canada senior semi-final series opening at Calgary Thursday night.

Remember When—

By the Canadian Press.

Fred Perry, former amateur tennis champion polished off 44-year-old Bill Tilden in four sets at Madison Square Gardens five years ago to-night. Gate receipts were $30,000. Ellsworth Vines took Perry's measure in a long road tour that started the same year.

Goalie Eley Good But Fliers Whip Majors 3-1

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, March 24—(CP).—Looking back at it now, Jack Eley of Hamilton Majors may view with mixed feelings the reply he made recently to a suggestion that the Krauts might damage his reputation as one of Senior hockey's outstanding netminders.

"The Krauts?" he said then. "They're no harder to stop than anybody else."

On the face of it, that comment backfired last night when Milt Schmidt, centre of the Kraut line, scored a tie-breaking, second period goal as Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers deefated Majors 3-1 in the first game of a best-of-five semi-final series for the Eastern Canada Senior championship.

But whatever Eley's opinion today, most of the 6,834 fans who saw the game concede the 21-year-old Brandon, Man., backstop actually proved his point.

For while Schmidt's goal was the telling blow in Flyer's 12th straight Senior victory, both before and after that thrust Eley stopped a flood of rubber from the Kraut centre and linemate Woody Dumart—and generally handled things in a way that stamped him one of the chief hurdles in Ottawa's path to the Allan Cup.

Every time Dumart unleashed one of his blistering drives the crowd braced in anticipation, only to watch Eley pick it off like a baseball catcher. He beat Schmidt several times at lose range.

Apart from the 3-1 setback, Coach George Redding' Majors suffered a costly blow when Stan Robertson, 23-year-old left wing, crashed into the Ottawa goal and suffered a broken arm. The injury left two key players on the sidelines for the series, one from each team. Bobby Bauer, third member of the Kraut line, suffered a fractured collar-bone in practice Saturday.

Redding probably will replace Robertson with Leo Gasparini, 17-year-old forward from Hamilton Junior ranks. George (Jud) Snell of Winnipeg is subbing for Bauer at right wing on the Kraut line.

Majors took an early lead in the game on a first-period goal by Johnny Conick from Hugh Barlow but the margin stood little more than two minutes. Johnny Acheson hoisted the Airmen on even terms by converting a goal-mouth relay from Mike Hiller, and, as Flyers gradually assumed the initiative, Schmidt obtained his tally on a clever breakaway late in the second period.

Buddy Hellyer finished off a three-way attack with Linemates Allison (Pickles) MacNichol and Al Campbell 78 seconds from the final whistle to sew up the game.

The teams left last night to resume the series in Toronto tomorrow night, amid indiations that last-minute developments may force a mild controversy over venue of the third game, scheduled for Ottawa Saturday. Hamilton, it is understood, would like to have this game played on their own ice surface. So far, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials have frowned on the suggestion.

Two Calluras Chalk Up KO's

PROVIDENCE, R.I., March 24.—(CP)—The Fighting Calluras of Hamilton, Ont., Jackie and Angelo, went briskly to work last night and chalked up two more victories on the lengthening string of the aggressive brother team. Both won by the knockout route in the early rounds of what were to have been 10-round bouts.

Jackie, the Canadian featherweight champion, took six minutes 37 second, to vanquish Ted Christie of New York. Brother Angelo set the pace for the family with a second-round knockout of Jersey City's Bobby Henry in a secondary feature.

Jackie Callura floored his man 10 times—four times in thef irst round, four times in the second and twice in the third—before Referee Dolly Searle intervened and declared Callura the winner 37 seconds after the start of the round.

8 Teams Remain In Memorial

By The Canadian Press.

Eight teams were still in contention today for the Canadian junior hockey championship and Memorial Cup. Clear Point Maple Leafs were eliminated by Montreal Royals and St. Boniface Athletics by Portage la Prairie Terriers in games last night.

The survivors:

East

Maritimes—Halifax Canadians.
Quebec—Montreal Royals.
Ottawa District—Ottawa St. Patrick's College.
Ontario—Oshawa Generals.

West

Thunder Bay District—Fort William Hurricane-Rangers.
Manitoba — Portage la Prairie Terriers.
Saskatchewan—Regina Abbotts.
Alberta—Edmonton Maple Leafs.

First 30-Goaler

When Lynn Patrick, flying left wing of the New York Rangers "Power Line" notched his 30th goal of the National Hockey League season, recently, he became the first big leaguer to crash into the 30-goal bracket since Charley Conacher was firing bullets in the 1934-35 season. Conacher got 36 goals in that season. It is an oddity that 10 of Lynn's goals, or exactly one-third, were registered against the Toronto goaler, "Turk" Broda, who was the Vezina Cup winner, last season. The highest previous goals-total by a Ranger player was Bill Cook's 34, scored in the season of 1931-32. Patrick ocmpleted the season with 32.

AdamsConfident Of Shelving Canadiens in Two

MONTREAL, March 24.—(CP).—Jolly Jack Adams and his Detroit Red Wings cast their eyes on to-night's game with Canadiens, and while they weren't counting their chickens, there was a general air of confidence among them that they would polish up the best-of-three games Stanley Cup series in two straight.

Winners of the opening game in Detroit Sunday by 2-1, the Wings believe the have struck their stride and unless something unforeseen [illegible] then they'll be looking [illegible] for a new opponent after [illegible]

[illegible]adiens admit themselves they [illegible] have to make a complete form reversal if they intend to balance up the series and keep in the running for the coveted prize. Coach Dick Irvin has given his boys a sound going over for their showing at Detroit and he warns them not to fall into a complacent mood tonight, because this one is the "last chance."

Don Grosso was still held in high esteem by his confreres for scoring both the goals which gave Detroit its first win over the Habitants. The chunky sniper is being counted on to pace the attack tonight, along with his linemates, Eddie Wares and Sid Abel.

Both sides ere expected to line-up as in Detroit. Manager Adams said his club was free of injuries for the fray, while Canadiens had only a few scratches and Ray Getliffe's cut chin to report.

Getliffe suffered his four-inch gash in Sunday's game—claimed it to be from the stick of Detroit's Jimmy Orlando—without penalty.

While both mentors decided to stand pat on their lineups, Irvin said he may use his defensive line of John Quilty, Charlie Sands and Getliffe to keep watch on the Detroit trio of Wares, Abel and Grosso.

Should Canadiens win tonight the teams will return to Detroit for the decidnig game Thursday, with the ultimate winner meeting the survivor of the Boston-Chicago series in the semi-finals.

Bruins Expecting To Oust Hawks

BOSTON, March 24 (AP)—Boston Bruins held a one-game edge as they prepared to face off against Chicago Black Hawks at Boston Garden tonight in the second duel of their best two-of-three National Hockey League playoff.

The Bruins flew into town late yesterday to enjoy a good night's sleep at home before entering what they confidently expect will be the final game of this particular series. A Bruin victory would eliminate Chicago and send the Boston team against the winner of the Detroit Red Wings-Montreal Canadiens series.

Once again the Bruins will rely on Frank Brimsek, their brilliant goalie, to bear the brunt of the Chicago attack while they continue the tactics which gave them a 2-1 sudden-death overtime verdict against the Hawks on Chicago ice Sunday night.

Brimsek was spectacular in the opening game.

Hopes also ride heavily on Art Jackson and Herb Cain, the sturdy pair of penalty killers, who warded off Chicago threats five times Sunday night while the Bruins were shorthanded.

Scoring hopes still rest with sharpshooting Roy Conacher, who has Bill Cowley, the clever playmaker, back to set him up. Cowley was out for half the season with a broken jaw but he's in the thick of the playoff battle, wearing a special protective mask, and his presence in the lineup has given the battered Bruins an immense psychological lift.

Terriers Oust Athletics 15-3

By The Canadian Press

Portage la Prairie Terriers polished up their shooting eyes last night in preparation for their Western junior hockey best-of-five semi-final series against the speedy, high-scoring Fort William Hurricane Rangers opening at Winnipeg Thursday night. Terriers eliminated St. Boniface Athletics 15-3 in the Manitoba final.

The Portage la Prairie, however, no more than matched Hurricane-Rangers feats in Thunder Bay Junior League games. The Lakehead champions frequently slammed home 14 goals a game and recently reinforced the team for Memorial Cup playdowns.

They added Goalkeeper Fernand Groulx and Peter Wyrot, 180-pound rushing defenceman, both of Port Arthur West Ends, under a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling.

Calgary Stampeders and Lethbridge Maple Leafs fought 90 minutes to a 2-2 overtime tie in the Alberta senior championship last night and will play the sixth and deciding game tonight at Lethbridge.

Winner of the series will meet Port Arthur Bear Cats in the best-of-five Western Canada senior semi-final series opening at Calgary Thursday night.

Goalie Eley Good But Fliers Whip Majors 3-1

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 24—(CP).—Looking back at it now, Jack Eley of Hamilton Majors may view with mixed feelings the reply he made recently to a suggestion that the Krauts might damage his reputation as one of Senior hockey's outstanding netminders.

"The Krauts?" he said then. "They're no harder to stop than anybody else."

On the face of it, that comment backfired last night when Milt Schmidt, centre of the Kraut line, scored a tie-breaking, second period goal as Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers deefated Majors 3-1 in the first game of a best-of-five semi-final series for the Eastern Canada Senior championship.

But whatever Eley's opinion today, most of the 6,834 fans who saw the game concede the 21-year-old Brandon, Man., backstop actually proved his point.

For while Schmidt's goal was the telling blow in Flyer's 12th straight Senior victory, both before and after that thrust Eley stopped a flood of rubber from the Kraut centre and linemate Woody Dumart—and generally handled things in a way that stamped him one of the chief hurdles in Ottawa's path to the Allan Cup.

Every time Dumart unleashed one of his blistering drives the crowd braced in anticipation, only to watch Eley pick it off like a baseball catcher. He beat Schmidt several times at lose range.

Apart from the 3-1 setback, Coach George Redding' Majors suffered a costly blow when Stan Robertson, 23-year-old left wing, crashed into the Ottawa goal and suffered a broken arm. The injury left two key players on the sidelines for the series, one from each team. Bobby Bauer, third member of the Kraut line, suffered a fractured collar-bone in practice Saturday.

Redding probably will replace Robertson with Leo Gasparini, 17-year-old forward from Hamilton Junior ranks. George (Jud) Snell of Winnipeg is subbing for Bauer at right wing on the Kraut line.

Majors took an early lead in the game on a first-period goal by Johnny Conick from Hugh Barlow but the margin stood little more than two minutes. Johnny Acheson hoisted the Airmen on even terms by converting a goal-mouth relay from Mike Hiller, and, as Flyers gradually assumed the initiative, Schmidt obtained his tally on a clever breakaway late in the second period.

Buddy Hellyer finished off a three-way attack with Linemates Allison (Pickles) MacNichol and Al Campbell 78 seconds from the final whistle to sew up the game.

The teams left last night to resume the series in Toronto tomorrow night, amid indiations that last-minute developments may force a mild controversy over venue of the third game, scheduled for Ottawa Saturday. Hamilton, it is understood, would like to have this game played on their own ice surface. So far, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials have frowned on the suggestion.

Two Calluras Chalk Up KO's

PROVIDENCE, R.I., March 24.—(CP)—The Fighting Calluras of Hamilton, Ont., Jackie and Angelo, went briskly to work last night and chalked up two more victories on the lengthening string of the aggressive brother team. Both won by the knockout route in the early rounds of what were to have been 10-round bouts.

Jackie, the Canadian featherweight champion, took six minutes 37 second, to vanquish Ted Christie of New York. Brother Angelo set the pace for the family with a second-round knockout of Jersey City's Bobby Henry in a secondary feature.

Jackie Callura floored his man 10 times—four times in thef irst round, four times in the second and twice in the third—before Referee Dolly Searle intervened and declared Callura the winner 37 seconds after the start of the round.

8 Teams Remain In Memorial

By The Canadian Press.

Eight teams were still in contention today for the Canadian junior hockey championship and Memorial Cup. Clear Point Maple Leafs were eliminated by Montreal Royals and St. Boniface Athletics by Portage la Prairie Terriers in games last night.

The survivors:

East

Maritimes—Halifax Canadians.
Quebec—Montreal Royals.
Ottawa District—Ottawa St. Patrick's College.
Ontario—Oshawa Generals.

West

Thunder Bay District—Fort William Hurricane-Rangers.
Manitoba — Portage la Prairie Terriers.
Saskatchewan—Regina Abbotts.
Alberta—Edmonton Maple Leafs.

First 30-Goaler

When Lynn Patrick, flying left wing of the New York Rangers "Power Line" notched his 30th goal of the National Hockey League season, recently, he became the first big leaguer to crash into the 30-goal bracket since Charley Conacher was firing bullets in the 1934-35 season. Conacher got 36 goals in that season. It is an oddity that 10 of Lynn's goals, or exactly one-third, were registered against the Toronto goaler, "Turk" Broda, who was the Vezina Cup winner, last season. The highest previous goals-total by a Ranger player was Bill Cook's 34, scored in the season of 1931-32. Patrick ocmpleted the season with 32.

AdamsConfident Of Shelving Canadiens in Two

MONTREAL, March 24.—(CP).—Jolly Jack Adams and his Detroit Red Wings cast their eyes on tonight's game with Canadiens, and while they weren't counting their chickens, there was a general air of confidence among them that they would polish up the best-of-three games Stanley Cup series in two straight.

Winners of the opening game in Detroit Sunday by 2-1, the Wings believe the have struck their stride and unless something unforeseen [illegible] then they'll be looking [illegible] for a new opponent after [illegible]

[illegible]adiens admit themselves they will have to make a complete form reversal if they intend to balance up the series and keep in the running for the coveted prize. Coach Dick Irvin has given his boys a sound going over for their showing at Detroit and he warns them not to fall into a complacent mood tonight, because this one is the "last chance."

Don Grosso was still held in high esteem by his confreres for scoring both the goals which gave Detroit its first win over the Habitants. The chunky sniper is being counted on to pace the attack tonight, along with his linemates, Eddie Wares and Sid Abel.

Both sides ere expected to line-up as in Detroit. Manager Adams said his club was free of injuries for the fray, while Canadiens had only a few scratches and Ray Getliffe's cut chin to report.

Getliffe suffered his four-inch gash in Sunday's game—claimed it to be from the stick of Detroit's Jimmy Orlando—without penalty.

While both mentors decided to stand pat on their lineups, Irvin said he may use his defensive line of John Quilty, Charlie Sands and Getliffe to keep watch on the Detroit trio of Wares, Abel and Grosso.

Should Canadiens win tonight the teams will return to Detroit for the decidnig game Thursday, with the ultimate winner meeting the survivor of the Boston-Chicago series in the semi-finals.

Bruins Expecting To Oust Hawks

BOSTON, March 24 (AP)—Boston Bruins held a one-game edge as they prepared to face off against Chicago Black Hawks at Boston Garden tonight in the second duel of their best two-of-three National Hockey League playoff.

The Bruins flew into town late yesterday to enjoy a good night's sleep at home before entering what they confidently expect will be the final game of this particular series. A Bruin victory would eliminate Chicago and send the Boston team against the winner of the Detroit Red Wings-Montreal Canadiens series.

Once again the Bruins will rely on Frank Brimsek, their brilliant goalie, to bear the brunt of the Chicago attack while they continue the tactics which gave them a 2-1 sudden - death overtime verdict against the Hawks on Chicago ice Sunday night.

Brimsek was spectacular in the opening game.

Hopes also ride heavily on Art Jackson and Herb Cain, the sturdy pair of penalty killers, who warded off Chicago threats five times Sunday night while the Bruins were shorthanded.

Scoring hopes still rest with sharpshooting Roy Conacher, who has Bill Cowley, the clever playmaker, back to set him up. Cowley was out for half the season with a broken jaw but he's in the thick of the playoff battle, wearing a special protective mask, and his presence in the lineup has given the battered Bruins an immense psychological lift.

French Execute Pair Who Tried Pro-Ally Mutiny

VICHY, March 24—(AP).—Two French sailors who wounded the captain of the freighter Gabriel Guisthau recently in an unsuccessful plot to deliver the ship to the anti-Axis nations were executed by a firing squad at Oran yesterday after Chief of State Petain refused their clemency plea.

This was the second case of its kind this year, and the story as told here was:

The blockade-running freighter, part of a convoy guarded by French warships, was slipping through the Straits of Gibraltar in the dead of night when the armed seamen approached the captain on the bridge, ordered him to break away from the convoy and put into Gibraltar.

But the captain managed to flee the bridge, wounded slightly by one of the four shots fired at him.

While the captain was getting in touch with the engine-room in an appeal for help, a French warship whose crew had heard the shots pulled alongside, boarded the freighter, and put down the mutiny.

A third sailor involved in the plot was sentenced by an Oran military court March 13 to ten years at hard labor.

On January 21 the Navy Ministry announced that four officers of another French blockade runner, the 2,166-ton Formigny, had been condemned to death in absentia after they seized the ship's captain by force and locked him up off the coast of Portugal.

In that case, however, the sailors successfully turned the ship over to Britain.

Thirty-four Free Frenchmen were condemned to death in absentia and hard-labor sentences ranging from four years to life were imposed upon thirty-four others yesterday by the Clermont-Ferrand army court for implication in "an important affair of treason" in France's colonies.

Scorched Earth

bate was adjourned by G. S. White (Con. Hastings-Peterborough) after Defence Minister Ralston said he was not prepared to answer the Vancouver member at the moment.

Earlier the House had passed through committee stage the Bill authorizing outright gift to Britain of $1,000,000,000 worth of war goods and food, and other measures to liquidate the $1,087,000,000 in sterling exchange Canada now has accumulated in London.

Today Prime Minister Mackenzie King is to make his long-anticipated statement on the Government's plans for extending its program of mobilizing manpower for the war effort. It was anticipated Mr. King will announce appointment of a director of national selective service.

Little Mentioned.

Most prominently mentioned for this post was E. M. Little, director of the wartime bureau of technical personnel. Mr. Little, in meeting the demands of war industry for engineers and scientists, has been doing for more than a year the same sort of job as would fall on the selective service director, although his work has been on a much more restricted scale.

Mr. Green urged immediate planning for evacuation of coastal areas if the need arose and for decisions on adopting a "scorched earth policy" if the invader succeeds in landing on Canadian soil.

"The Minister may smile, and some may think this funny," he said. "But may I impress upon them with all the power at my command that things like this should be planned now."

Australia was preparing "desperately" to meet the assault of a powerful nation which was pledged to the destruction of Canada as well as other British nations.

"It may be that Canada's best defence on the Pacific will be the fighting in Australia," Mr. Green said. "For that selfish reason alone, if for no other, we should have troops standing beside the Australian troops."

Furthermore, Canada should join with Australia in demanding a Pacific council be set up in Washington and should be represented on that body.

People Still Don't Realize

One measure urged by Mr. Green was a campaign to bring into the minds of Canadians a realization of the seriousness of the situation. They should be made to remember every moment that men—including Canadians—were dying; that the horrors of war might be kept away from the Dominion.

It should be brought home to the people that bombardment of Canadian towns and cities might come at any moment, he said. Japanese might be in British Columbia at any moment, bayonetting prisoners "and raping and murdering women as they did in Hong Kong." The people should be made to realize "these ugly facts."

He called for creation of a strong, mobile striking force on the Pacific coast — one that could be quickly moved to any point where danger threatened.

Both the active and reserve armies should be increased, Mr. Green said, and British Columbia should be treated as a war front in the same degree as Britain is a front.

Home Guards, using every able-bodied man not in the active or reserve armies, should be mobilized, particularly on the Pacific coast, and there should be adequate fighting and defence equipment.

During the earlier debate there was a cross-fire of questions and answers for several hours on the gift-to-Britain measure, with Finance Minister Ilsley on the receiving end for the government.

Credit, Without Interest

Members of the New Democracy group again urged that any part of the $1,000,000,000 that must be raised by borrowing be obtained through issue of credit by the Bank of Canada, without interest.

Victor Quelch (N.D. Acadia) suggested that Canada's 32,000 gold miners be released for war work and that gold mining end until after the war.

This gold was going to the United States to be placed in a vault at Fort Knox, Ky., he said. If the United States wanted it to cover Canadian purchases in the United States it could be hypothecated and dug out of Canadian ground after the war.

Gold was of no practical value to the United States or any other country at the moment, said Mr. Kuelch. He said it seemed to him a waste of effort for 32,000 men to be engaged in digging it when they could be doing something more useful.

Mr. Ilsley said that was a proposition that was not related to the gift measure and one that he would rather not discuss at the moment.

The Japanese have been having things pretty much their own way in the southwest Pacific (except on Bataan Peninsula), but they're due for a rude awakening. The Australians and the Americans, with the help of Dutch forces that escaped from the East Indies, are preparing to strike hard at the Japanese, and their efforts have been intensified since appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander. Powerful striking forces of planes, vehicles and men are being assembled in Australia, with more pouring every week from the United States. Pictured ABOVE are some of the sights and people the newly-arrived Yanks are meeting "down under." The map shows the area in which the Australian-America forces apparently will battle the Japs.

New Registration Of All Workers

A new registration of all workers, insured and non-insured, in industries which now have insured employees is being carried on by the Unemployment Insurance Commission. It must be completed by March 31, the close of the fiscal year, when insurance books now in use must be turned in. The information gathered will be used to bring the Commission records up to date, and also to furnish information for a man-power inventory which the Government is making. This inventory is being made under the authority of an Order-in-Council passed under the War Measures Act.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission is now distributing the new forms for this registration to employers all over the Dominion. There are more than 150,000 employers with insurable employees in Canada, and the number of insured workers is over 2,000,000. The man-power inventory registration will, of course include many more than 2,000,000, embracing, as it does, insurable and non-insurable employees of industry.

The forms which are being distributed have been prepared with a view to ascertaining the skill and training of workers so that Canada's working strength may be utilized in the most effective manner. The war effort is constantly calling for more and more trained and skilled men. It is hoped, through the inventory, to discover workers with skill and training which may be of value in carrying on the maximum war effort. The registration cards are being sent to employers who will see that they are filled out in respect to all their employees. They will then be returned to the Employment and Claims Offices, of which there are more than 100 across Canada. Immediately after the last pay period in March insurance books must be turned in and new ones will be issued to cover the fiscal year opening on April 1. It is essential that the registration be completed and old insurance books be turned in by the end of this month.

Information in respect to the registration and the issue of insurance books is obtainable at any of the Employment and Claims Offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Yank In R.C.A.F.

BOSTON, March 24 — (AP). — Anne E. MacKay, a pretty brunette who is a corporal in the Royal Canadian Air Force, took the oath as a United States citizen in Federal District Court to-day and gleefully announced that she now is "a Yank in the R.C.A.F."

Corporal MacKay obtained a few days leave from her post in the personnel department of the R.C.A.F. to be sworn in along with 250 other new citizens. Born in Cape Breton, N.S., she has been living here with an aunt ever since she was four years old. She was employed by American Airlines until four months ago, when she joined the R.C.A.F.

Some Nazi Honey

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 24—(AP).—An "order" for Norwegian ships to sail to Japanese-occupied harbors in the Pacific and the Orient was broadcast seven times yesterday by the radio in German-occupied Oslo to Norwegian ships at sea.

The radio specified the ships should put in at Kusaie Island, Rabaul, New Britain, Penang and Saigon.

The crews would not be interned and would receive "humane treatment," the Nazi radio said. Ship owners were reported ordered to promise every man aboard the ship a cash reward and tripled wages.

could be made under steel limitations which also removed the possibility of any new pipe lines, Mr. Howe said.

Every effort had been made to provide a fair rationing system and the amount of gasoline allowed was the maximum "the government dares to release for these purposes."

Motorists could assist by obtaining their ration books before April 1 and by using less than their allowance of gasoline.

Your Chance To Help.

"All of you have been asking for a chance to help in the war effort," Mr. Howe said. "This is your chance."

Compared with a world supply of 1,500,000 tons of crude rubber in 1941 the non-Axis countries would have a supply of only 150,000 tons in 1942, one-seventh the amount needed for war and absolutely necessary civilian purposes.

Some supplies were accumulated prior to the outbreak of the war in the Pacific but neither these supplies nor synthetic rubber, which could not be produced until next year, would be available for ordinary civilian needs.

"Peacetime uses of rubber must stop for the duration," Mr. Howe said.

Retreading of tires would have to be restricted to commercial vehicles and buses and for transportation of war workers where no other means of travel could be substituted.

"All this adds up to the cold, hard fact that when the tires you now have are worn out your motoring is over until some considerable time after the war ends," Mr. Howe said. "You and I are using our last set of tires. Let's make them last a long time."

New Appointment

Shortly after the war he came to Canada as a member of the air board and has served with the Canadian Air Force and the R.C.A.F. ever since.

He proposed that he be permitted to steer a plane or speedboat fully loaded with high explosives into a Japanese aircraft carrier.

Famed New York Restauranteer Bustanoby Dies

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP).—Jacques Bustanoby, 69, last of New York's famous turn-of-the-century restaurateurs, died on Sunday, and his passing recalled for many New Yorkers the dead days of a golden era.

Bustanoby, who started his career as a waiter shortly after he immigrated from France, was considered a daring young man in the pre-First Great War days.

He introduced dinner dancing in his famous restaurant, the Beaux Arts, situated on 39th Street, and so shocked a group of moralists that they filed suit to force him to close his doors. The suit was defended successfully by a rising young lawyer of the day, Jimmy Walker, later New York's Mayor.

Bustanoby hired Rudolph Valentino as a dancing instructor at $10 a week to teach his patrons that New-fangled dance, the tango. runner of modern celebrity nights, with Nora Bayes singing her "Shine On, Harvest Moon," with Blanche Ring chanting "Rings on My Fingers, Bells on My Toes...." with Fritzie Scheff contributing an unforgettable "Kiss Me Again."

In spite of his success and the fortune he and his three brothers amassed before the First Great War he was unable to survive prohibition.

BRING A PARACHUTE

Last Friday afternoon George Hall, of this city now serving with the R.C.A.F. at Malton was over the city acting as observer in an Avro-Anson medium bomber. Actually he was less than 2,000 yards from his home, yet to get home on leave that same night he had to hitch-hike more than 100 miles. He could have used a parachute and saved a lot of time and energy, if it had not been for regulations.

ANOTHER HOARDER

For the second time in a week, a verified report has come in to the Examiner telling of people stocking up on canned goods. One woman purchased $8.93 worth of canned goods in one chain store, and when asked about it, replied: "I'm looking out for myself, you mind your business." It so happens that it is illegal to hoard anything, and $8.93 worth of canned goods is more than two weeks supply so it is reasonable to assume that if the case was reported, this woman would find herself charged in court by the Food Controller.

REPORTED MISSING

Flying Officer Robert McKillop, Brampton, has been reported missing on active service with the R.C.A.F. overseas. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McKillop and a brother-in-law of Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in this city. Mrs. Smart left on Sunday evening to be with her parents in Brampton. Flying Officer McKillop enlisted in June 1940 and went overseas in September 1941. Prior to his enlistment he assisted his father in the furniture and undertaking business.

SHE WASN'T HOME

Some time ago a girl employed in the Brinton Carpet Co., wrote her name and address on a yarn spool which was returned to a twine company in Kitchener. A young man in the factory answered with a letter, and then the young lady sent her photo—and it revealed a charming girl. On Tuesday four young men including the romantic one, motored down from Kitchener seeking work here, and they remembered to call on the lassie from the Brinton Carpet, but also the romance which had started so auspiciously was shattered, the girl wasn't home.

COUNCILLORS ABSENT

So many of the members of Port Hope council attended the juvenile hockey playoff last last night in Oshawa that their meeting had to be postponed because there was not a quorum of members.

KINMEN'S SPEAKER.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, former Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Legislature, and M.P.P. for Peel, will be the guest speaker at the Kinsmen Club's dinner Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock. The members of the county council have been invited to be present with the Kinsmen.

ANOTHER BUS HERE

Another passenger bus arrived in the city Saturday for the Peterborough Bus Lines. It is one of the number Frank Mitchell told the Council some time ago, had been ordered and would be commissioned as soon as possible. It will be added to the active fleet as soon as some finishing touches of signs and final details have been completed.

A DIFFERENT PERSON.

Ross Johnston, of Wilberforce, who is employed in a local factory is not the Ross Johnson who was convicted of theft last week and sentenced to jail.

CHANGES HIS PLEA.

Morgan Asling who pleaded guilty the other day to a charge of non-support asked this morning to be allowed to change his plea to not guilty and the case was enlarged until Thursday.

CARELESS DRIVING.

Donald Jamieson pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of careless driving and was fined $5 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. Inspector Reid explained that the accused had cut a corner and there had been a traffic accident but that the damages had all been paid.

PAY NO TAXES

An interesting display of information on life in the Canadian Army is shown in the south window at Grafton's Store, and the information includes all the data on rates of pay, clothing, pensions, rehabilitation and other pertinent facts. It is interesting to note that the soldier pays no national defence tax, nor income tax.

GOING TO LINDSAY

A delegation from the Peterborough Business Men's Association have been extended an invitation to attend a dinner meeting at Lindsay on Tuesday evening when a Lindsay Business Men's Association will be formed. Dennis Fitzgerald, Coleman Blewett and Fred Overend will make the trip and there may be others.

SEEKING CONTRIBUTIONS

Chief Constable Newhall warns the citizens that some person purporting to represent the Police Gazette of Vancouver has been visiting a number of Ontario centres soliciting subscriptions for the Canadian Police Spitfire Fund. Chief Newhall states that no person except a regular police officer or some one person bearing a certificate signed by the chief of the police department or Inspector James F. Reid, secretary of the fund is entitled to seek donations to the fund and he asks that any citizen who may be approached to communicate with the police at once.

AN UNUSUAL CHARGE.

Lee Shung, proprietor of the Hollywood Cafe, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge laid by Sanitary Inspector Ronald Mca-Pherson of not using a proper receptacle for garbage. City Solicitor Wilfrid Huycke said that there was no desire to ask for a heavy fine and the case was accordingly adjourned for a week in order to allow Lee Shung a chance to comply with the regulations. The accused said he had ordered a proper garbage container weeks ago and had not yet received it.

FISHING REELS SCARCE.

Fishermen throughout Canada are finding that fishing reels are mighty scarce, and dealers find none are available for ordering. Apparently all the reels that are to be had are the ones that have been carried over from last year. This condition can only be corrected by the manufacture of reels in Canada, as importation of reels is banned for the duration.

RAID ON HOTEL.

As the aftermath of a week-end raid on a Havelock hotel by Provincial Constables Price Morris and Archie Grayling and Constable Aikens of Havelock and Parcels of Norwood, Thomas Poulos, proprietor of the place, appeared in police court here this morning charged with keeping liquor for sale. Defended by D. F. Miller, Havelock, Poulos pleaded not guilty and the case was remanded for a week.

Range Pals Club Makes $40 For War Victims

The Range Pals' Club, which is a group of young people who meet regularly throughout the winter season in the homes of its various members in the district immediately surrounding the city, have on many occasions been the source of help to the city and district British War Victims' Fund.

Their latest enterprise came to a close on Friday night, when the draw was made for a hand-made bedspread donated by Mrs. R. Dyer of 451 Stewart street, a shawl in beautiful colorings direct from India, and a hand embroidered motto donated by Miss Elizabeth Smith of 735 Water street, for which they have for some time been selling tickets.

The members and their friends met for a social evening on Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sayer, where admission was according to their weight, when games of Bingo were held and at intervals candy was sold, the whole proceeds of which were for the fund.

The draw for the three prizes resulted in Miss Joyce Walker of Douglas avenue winning the first prize of the bedspread; the shawl from India was won by Mrs. F. Clark of R.R. No. 7, and the embroidered motto by Mrs. Mary Petrie. Harold Preston was the holder of the lucky door ticket No. 13, the prize for which had been donated by Mrs. A. Sayer. To Miss Doris Sayer went the prize for the selling of the most tickets for the draw, and the evening concluded with the serving of refreshments, and the members of the club wish to express their thanks to all who helped to make the effort such a success, and they are to be congratulated on the results obtained not only from this, but also for the real success which has attended all their previous efforts on behalf of the fund.

The North-End News, a small weekly, which ran for about three months and was responsible for about $12 being made for the fund over this period, is listed today with the balance of its funds on hand, having closed its books for the season. This group was made up of Joan Paterson, Shirley Whittaker, Rosemary Whittaker and Joan Brown, whose enterprise and initiative are to be commended in the results obtained for such a worthy cause.

Much Damage and Casualties

Radio reports direct from London today tell of the worst air raid over Britain since last May, with much damage to residential districts and business houses, with what is feared to be a high casualty list. The Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Fund functions to take care of all the needs of the people who have been stricken through such events as these, and this fund affords the opportunity for all to take a personal hand in relieving the serious distress which is thus occasioned. Won't you help? There is now $540 on hand toward the next donation of £500.

Soldier Held For Injuring Young Cyclist

Gunner D. A. Livingston, a Peterborough soldier who is stationed at Queen's Park Barracks, London, Ont., appeared in police court this morning to face a charge of reckless driving arising out of a traffic accident here Monday in which a fifteen-year-old boy was knocked off a bicycle and injured.

At the suggestion of the Crown the accused was remanded until April 8 for trial and released on bail of $500.

Livingston was driving his car north on Rubidge street and at the intersection of Townsend street the automobile collided with S. Armitage, 171 Rubidge street, who was riding his wheel east of Townsend street. According to the police report the bicycle was struck broadside and the rider and the wheel carried a considerable distance.

The boy was taken to the C.G.E. first aid post and afterward to Nicholls Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a cut on his head, requiring three stitches to close.

No Wage Rate Is Set For Farm Service Plan

OTTAWA, March 24 —(CP)—No wage rate has been set for women farm workers and legislative authority in this respect rests with the provinces, G. K. Fraser (Con. Peterborough West) was informed in a return tabled in the House of Commons yesterday.

The return said that in the farm service force plan carried on in Ontario last year, expense of which was partly met by the Dominion, the minimum wages were set at a growers' meeting prior to placements.

Radio Station Tests AlmostComplete

Within another couple of days, Peterborough's radio station CHEX will be almost ready to take the air, but the station is not scheduled to officially open until next Tuesday night. Painters are expected to have completed the studies upstairs today and will have completed a good portion of the downstairs offices by the end of the week. Chief engineer for the Northern Broadcasting Company, Jerry Kelly, who installed the 1,000-watt transmiter and studio equipment, told the Examiner today that most of his work will be completed in the matter of about two days. Furniture will be moved into the studios to-morrow.

Next Saturday's Examiner will feature a special radio edition in which will be found many photos of the studios in the Examiner building and the transmitter on the Duffus farm about two miles east of the city. In this edition you will find biographical sketches of CHEX's announcers, office and sales staff, as well as their pictures. Much information will also be found of an educational nature.

Salesmen have been busy for about two weeks lining up sponsors for the station's varied programs. The program director will have at his disposal about 3.500 electrical transcriptions from the Thesaurus transcription service as well as approximately 2,000 recordings when CHEX takes the air. Included in this is the latest dance music by famous dance bands of America, classical and symphonic selections and march music by America's best known artists and bands.

No Visitors Yet.

In addition to this extensive library of music, many varied transcription programs of your favorite radio plays will be heard.

A staff of ten members of the personnel of the radio station is in Peterborough at the present time and about five more members will complete the staff later in the week.

Of special interest to rural communities of this district and the farm folk will be a 45-minute program daily entitled "Farm Folks Hour," on which will be heard farm news, world wide news bulletins and music. Your regular noonday newscast will be heard for fifteen minutes immediately preceding the farm broadcast.

Adjutant Norman Buckley of the Salvation Army Temple is arranging for a half-hour Sunday night broadcast from the Temple from 7:30 until 8 o'clock, featuring the Salvation Army Band, Songsters, and soloists.

Those wishing to inspect the studios of CHEX in the Examiner building are cautioned they may buildin are cautioned that they may not do so until after the station goes on the air next week. Workmen will be in the studios all week making last minute checkups and installing fixtures. An announcement will be made later as to when visitors may see the station.

Work On Sewer Retarded By Early Spring

Spring freshets splashing out of winter three weeks earlier than usual, according to the records of City Engineer Parsons, overtook the Board of Works sewer job on McDonnel street at the Jackson Park creek and flowed into about a hundred feet of trench, creating an unexpected obstacle. Pumps failed to relieve the inflow of water which incidentally loosened sandy side walls of the trench, increasing the obstacle of too much water.

Mr. Parsons simply halted work at the end of that trench, and directed the men to begin digging further along to the east on McDonnel street.

"Our experience has been that Spring waters does not rise in the creek until this week," Mr. Parsons said. "If we had just another day's work at the end of the trench where we crossed the creek we would have come through safely, and it would have saved us considerable extra trouble in dewatering and excavation."

The route of this sewer continues along on McDonnel street under the C.N.R. to Gilchrist street, north to London, east to Donegal and north to Parkhill road.

It has already been laid from the corner of Walton and Weller streets, crossing the property owned by Jos. Minicola to Elm steet, east to Cambridge street, north to Murray street, east to Cross steet and north to McDonnel street.

Why Do the Work?

Some one enquired the other day why this work was begun by the city. The immediate reason was to provide a larger outlet for sewerage from the new community of approximately 1,500 people in the wartime houses north of Park Hill road and extending westerly to Jackson Park. And the council also decided that additional pipe capacity was needed to divert water from the McDonald-Aylmer street sewer.

In the ordinary course of residential requirements in the northwest end of the city this sewer would not have been laid down for the next five or ten years, but Wartime Housing Limited created an emergency, offering to pay half the cost of the sewer, and the council agreed to undertake the work at once.

The sewer which was built up Park street from Rink to Walton, twelve or fifteen years ago is twenty-four inches in diameter, and the same sized pipes are being laid in the new section all the way to Park Hill road. A nine-inch sewer already serves the Park street section from McDonnel street north, but the new line will prevent bottlenecking and overflows, and will carry the surplus water from the west end of Park Hill road and also drain all the Donegal and Downie street section north and south of Park Hill road.

Those who are interested in council affairs will realize that the new sewer is diverting water from Aylmer street to Park street, an impovement which the council took into consideation in a long view in providing for the sewerage needs of the city for years to come.

The Aylmer street sewer switches two ways at Rink street, turning both east and west to the trunk sewers on George street and Park street leading south to the disposal plant opposite the foot of Park street. This Aylmer street pipe line is already overtaxed with the volume of water flowing into it from a central section of the city, and the council decided that the Wartime Housing idea was altogether advisable apart from the fact the company was willing to assume half the cost.

8,506 Trainees Go Into Active Service

OTTAWA, March 24 —(CP)—The number of men called up for four months' compulsory training who have enlisted and been attested for active service during their training periods is 8,506, said a return tabled in the House of Commons Monday in reply to a question by G. K. Fraser (Con. Peterborough West).

(The defence department recently reported that the number of men who had been called up and received training to Dec. 4 under the four-month plan put into effect last spring was 32,779.)

Closer Understanding Is Urged Between English Speaking Lands

A plea to service clubs to work for the creation and nurturing of "a better, clearer and closer understanding between the English-speaking democracies" was voiced by George W. Harris, president of the Montreal Rotary Club, and public relations officer of the Sun Life Assurance Company, in an address before a joint meeting of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs here Monday.

"I wish we understood each other better," said Mr. Harris, who was speaking on the subject, "Rotary in Wartime."

As an example of what might be done in the direction of better relations between the democracies the speaker told of what had been accomplished by the Montreal Rotary Club which last year had sent two personal letters to the president of every Rotary Club in the United States, over 3,300 in all, telling them something of Canada's war effort and inviting them to visit Canada to do what they could to improve the exchange situation. The Montreal Club had also written to every Rotary Club in England expressing admiration for the manner in which the Britishers had been carrying on.

As another example of what service clubs could do as a war-time service, Mr. Harris told of the success of the Rotary concert troupe which had furnished entertainment to over 30,000 Canadian troops and of the lease-lend scheme by which the Montreal club had loaned funds to supply training depots with much-needed furniture and comforts, equipment that was paid for eventually out of canteen funds.

History of Rotary.

Mr. Harris was introduced by Rotarian D. T. Diplock and began by a reference to the origin and growth of Rotary—a historic sketch from which he said Kiwanians might also learn.

"Rotary in the first place," he said, "was not conceived as an altruistic movement."

Paul Harris, a young Chicago lawyer, had started the movement because he wanted friendship and also because he was ambitious and sought the companionship of other men from whom he eventually hoped to secure business and thus improve his professional standing. The Rotary movement would not have grown and expanded beyond the original club had not Paul Harris eventually realized that it must dedicate itself primarily to public service. Once that principle had been adopted Rotary spread to 90 countries and organized 5,000 clubs with 250,000 members.

"Rotary can only reach men of free minds and integrity of personal judgment," Mr. Harris declared. "There is no place for Rotary in the dictator countries."

Abased Science.

Pointing out that the dictator countries had abased science and used inventions for the purpose of destruction the speaker advised members of service clubs to be mindful of their power and influence. Service movements, he said, generally stood for the advancement of knowledge so that a sound judgment might be exercised.

It was at this point that Mr. Harris made his appeal to Rotarians and Kiwanians to work for a better understanding between the English-speaking democracies. In constant visits to the United States he had realized the need of such an understanding, he said.

President Gordon Miller of the Kiwanis Club voiced an expression of thanks to Mr. Harris for his inspirational address.

President Rev George Easton of the Rotary Club presided at the luncheon, which was largely attended by members of both service organizations and by the local staff of the Sun Life Assurance Company. The guests were welcomed by Rotarian Al. Lewis.

In Chaplain Service

Rev. T. S. Gault of Campbellford has been accepted as a chaplain with the Canadian Army and reports for duty with the rank of Captain on Thursday morning, March 26. He was rector of St. George's Anglican Church in Peterborough for four years, being transferred to Campbellford three years ago.

Increase Noted In Activity At Armouries

One of the best days since recruiting began for men for the Prince of Wales Rangers was Monday, when, it is understood, seventeen men applied for enlistment. Practically all of them belong to the city. An interesting feature of this report is that about fifty per cent. of the men came into he recruiting office after six o'clock Monday night.

So far, only men in categories A1, A2 and B1 have been accepted for active service with the Rangers. The B1 men are only accepted at the discretion of the commanding officer, it was stated. Only a limited few have been taken on strength in this category.

Women belonging to the Canadian Women's Volunteer Services have been aiding in the recruiting office for the Rangers. Each day sees new faces at the desk. They are distinguished by an arm badge.

Only one man was officially taken on strength Monday but, it is expected, that several of those applying for enlistment Monday will appear in the orders issued late this afternoon. Recruiting officials point out there are several inquiries daily from men who want to get what information they can before they prepare to offer themselves to the Rangers. Many of those who have obtained information have returned again and signed with the Rangers.

Taken on strength Monday was:

PTE. SANFORD JAMES JOHNSON, single; next of kin, father, Wilbert Johnson, Belleville, Ont.

Vacant Rooms Are Needed For Newcomers

Canadian General Electric Company expects to have employment for another 1,500 men and women. They will be workers coming from many parts of Canada to help in the production of war materials from the local plant, and they are going to need living accommodation.

H. A. Cranfield of the C.G.E. staff informed The Examiner yesterday that thirty new employees were due at the plant that day, that rooming and boarding accommodation seems to be fully occupied unless other citizens voluntarily decide to open their homes to some of these wartime citizens.

The staff house for 500 single men is being proposed on the basis of the probability that one third of the 1,500 more employees will be single men, that if the private homes of Peterborough can no longer absorb newcomers, then Wartime Housing Limited will have to undertake the erection of temporary accommodation.

The Canadian General Electric Company is appealing once more to citizens to consider the community's need for more rooms for incoming workers. Some people have summer homes. If they are going to be away from the city for months, why not rent their city homes until the Fall? At any rate if there are any vacant rooms, and some houses have more than their share of them, here is a chance to put them to use in the best of causes.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 25

Although this may be a day of very lively activity, initiative and fair progress, yet this success will have to be the result of personal application, determination and strenuous enterprise since there is little to be expected from superiors, employers or others higher up. In fact there may be definite antagonism from them, but this should not be resisted by impetuous, offensive measures.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an unusually lively and aggressive day, with some opportunity for accomplishment of high objectives but by personal cleverness and initiative rather than the encouragement or concrete support of influential personages. In fact there may be unlooked for opposition from such quarters, but handle the situation with finesse and compromise and not impetuosity or strife.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally talented, versatile and efficient, but its impetuosity, or high nervous tension may provoke those from whom it expects cooperation.

Range Pals Raise $40 For Fund With Raffle and Party

Members, honorary members and friends of the Range Pals enjoyed a social evening of games and contests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sayer, when the Range Pals sponsored an evening of games at which $40.00 was raised for the British War Victims' Fund. Admission was charged according to weight, which caused a great deal of amusement.

Bingo and community singing were enjoyed by the guests, after which the draw for the prizes took place. First prize, a hand made bedspread donated by Mrs. R. Dyer, 451 Stewart street, was won by Miss Joy Nice, Douglas avenue. Second prize, an Indian Shawl, was won by Mrs. F. Clark, R.R. 7. Third prize, an embroidered motto, was won by Mrs. Mary Petrie. The two latter prizes were donated by Miss E. Smith, Water street.

Mr. Harold Preston was the holder of the lucky door-prize ticket, No. 13, and won a prize donated by Mrs. A. Sayer. Miss Doris Sayer was awarded a prize for selling the most raffle tickets. Candy was sold at intervals during the evening and all proceeds for the evening were added to the fund.

The Range Pals are deeply grateful to those who helped to make the evening a success. The service of refreshments brought the meeting to a close. The next meeting, the last for the season, will be held at the home of the Misses Lorraine, Marion and Blanche Quinn.

Stylish Suits In Old London, But Not Fussy

Written for The Canadian Press
By BARBARA BRITON.

LONDON, March 24—(CP).—With uniforms all around them, London designers cannot but show military influence in their new spring models. It is a decidedly feminine influence, however. For instance, the svelte long lines of a Guards' officer overcoat are kept with their flattering slenderness in a new group at a well-known Regent Street woollen house but the coats are in pastel tinted wool and alpaca.

A young and newly famous designer apes the navy with his navy blue wool coats and even keeps the double pleats at the back. Yet he doubles the number of pockets, setting one split pocket above the other at the sides and near the shoulder and gives the softer raglan slope to the sleeves.

Lack of Frills.

Perhaps the greatest evidence of "service" outlook adopted by fashion designers is the complete lack of frills—or fussiness. It is now much more a matter of soft shades and clever line rather than of ornament and luxurious material.

Walk [illegible] one end of Bond Street to [illegible] other and you find no fussy evening dresses. Rather when evening apparel is shown it is of the long wool dinner dress type—with short sleeves as fabric economy. It is the same when you visit Knightsbridge, Kensington, and the whole row of department stores. Regent Street is always "tweedy," a brilliant collection it is true, but not a fussy note or a bead in sight.

Saving Materials.

Ingenuity of master craftsmen is apparent in the clever way London designers are saving material. There is nothing skimpy or patchy about the new suits, coats and dresses now being shown to the public in Spring presentations. But the yardage used is sometimes less than half that required in the extravagant days before rationing.

Heading the list of brilliant economists is Bianca Mosca, designer of international reputation. She made a yoke—and half revers of tweed for a plain jacket worn over a matching tweed skirt. And on a full length, slim tweed coat in wide plain design sets in a panel of the cross straight down the front extending from revers to hem. This gives an effect of fullness, yet no bulk and there is practically no overlap.

As To Zippers.

As great minds frequently think alike the idea of setting in godets of plaid material on the cross instead of kick pleats has been adopted simultaneously by most other houses. The zipper (metal) question has been settled by simply doing away with them altogether on dresses. Frocks buttoning — self-covered buttons—from neck to hem or from neck to waist at the back, and others with wrap-around or cross-over sashes catching in fullness at the waist are among the most popular and newest models shown by famous woollen houses.

Hold That Sugar, Says Gracie

Visiting in Canada, the inimitable English movie star, Gracie Fields offers a new tip to hostesses who are eager to help their country by saving sugar. Here's Gracie's formula: 1. Ask the guest if he'd like one lump or none. 2. If he insists on more, grab the sugar bowl and hold it safely out of reach. 3. Tell him he's too sweet to need sugar anyway.

DOROTHY DIX

PROMISCUOUS KISSER NOT GOOD BET FOR A HUSBAND
Beware The Man Who Is Too Free With His Osculations and Other Girls

Dear Dorothy Dix.—My boy friend and I are planning to get married. We are both in our thirties, very congenial, deeply in love and have known each other for years. We are looking forward to a peaceful home life and we are very fond of entertaining. However, my future husband is quite broad-minded on the subject of kissing. A pretty girl is like an invitation to him, and when I least expect it, there he goes. Whether I am around or not makes no difference. When I objected to this, he replied that I was heading for a very miserable life if I am as sensitive as all that. So as the date of the wedding grows nearer I find myself wondering.....I can take it now because I have other things to think about, but when we are married and he will be my chief interest in life how will I react to the sneaky feeling that he is kissing our prettiest guest behind the kitchen door? Then I will have neither my old reliable typwriter and my job nor my freedom to turn to, and I am getting panicky. What do you think?—PLEASE.

ANSWER.—Well, I think that a kissing bug lacks the more desirable qualities that a husband should possess and that a woman takes a big risk when she marries one. For one of the things all wives feel is that they acquired a monopoly of their husbands' caresses along with their wedding rings, and few of them are liberal-minded enough to be willing to share them with every pretty girl who comes along.

A wife may know that her husband's petting parties have no deep significance and that he only likes to pose before himself as a great lover whom no woman can resists. She may know that such affection as he is capable of feeling he gives to her. But all her philosophizing does not take away the bitter sting of also knowing that she is not the ONLY one with him. She is only one of many. He will always kiss the lips that are nearest, and his vows of devotion will be nothing but the conversational line that he has poured into a hundred feminine ears.

Hence the philanderer is always a poor bet as a husband, no matter how good-looking, how intelligent, how congenial and attractive he may be. For a woman's happiness in marriage depends upon her faith in her husband and her certainty that she can depend upon him, and she can have none of this assurance when she knows that he gets his kick out of life by flirting with other women.

No woman wants to wear herself out trying to keep up with a husband who is always in pursuit of a Glamour girl. Nor does she want to grow old before her time trying to look as young as a debutante. Nor does she want to like awake at night wondering what cutie her husband is out with.

She wants a husband with whom she can relax and take things easy, who will stand without being hitched, whose eyes will never go roaming after strange women, and who will prefer good, honest, home-made kisses, flavored with bacon and eggs, to stolen ones.

So, ladies, beware. Let the man who shows before marriage that he is a congenial philanderer, alone

Don't Neglect an Education

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a girl 16 years old and a junior in high school. I dislike school very much and am so unhappy because I have to go to school that I am becoming a nervous wreck and have lost 15 pounds in one month. I have also failed in a quite a few subjects because I can't seem to concentrate on school work. What I want to be is a model. I do nothing but think of this day and night. It has become an obsession with me and I think I will go crazy if I can't do it. But my parents still insist that I must go to school. Can you help me?—NERVOUS JANE.

Answer. — Evidently the first things that you need is to go to some good physician and have him give you a thorough examination. Your sudden dislike of school and inability to keep up with your school work is almost certainly due to something being wrong with you physically. Many girls at your age have nervous breakdowns that wreck their whole lives if something isn't done about them at the very beginning. So do urge upon your parents the importance of your having medical attention at once.

So far as going to school is concerned, try to realize that an education is a tool with which you will have to work all your life, and that your success or failure will depend upon how good a one you have. No matter what you undertake to do, you will need it. When you apply for a job the first question that will be asked you is whether you are a high school graduate or not, and if you have to say ou haven't even had that much education you will have to take a lower position and work for less wages than you would if you had finished the course you are so anxious to give up.

You may think that a pretty face and a slim figure is all the qualification you will need to become a model, and that only what is outside of the head, not what is inside of it, will count, but you are vastly mistaken. Modelling is a highly specialized profession that requires brains as well as looks, and the more intelligent you are, the more culture you have, the more education you possess, the better chance you will have to become one of the star manikins who know how to interpret a gown and sell it to the buyers, and who draw down fat pay envelopes.

Copper and Zinc War Materials

Copper and zinc are vital war materials. They are vital because every shell-case, from rifle and tommy-gun cartridges to the cases of 25-pounder shells are made of brass, and brass is an alloy of copper and zinc.

There are all kinds of zinc and copper articles around the average home which could and should be turned back to industry for use in war materials. There was a vogue recently for beaten copper ornaments of a more or less—mostly less—useful nature. The wire that carries light to your lamps, messages to your phones, heat to your stove and refrigeration to your ice-box is all copper; stripped of its insulation, this wire can be sent back to industry for immediate re-use.

Now, nobody wants you to tear your wiring out by the roots; but it would be pretty safe to bet that there isn't an occupied house in Peterborough that hasn't some old wire lying around from the last time the family had some electrical work done. All that should be gathered up for the salvage collector.

As for zinc, every housewife has some old zinc jar-rings lying round with no jars to fit them. It's time they stopped cluttering up the shelves and went back into industry. Zinc is also found in old batteries, so gather all those up; the old flash-light batteries, old · batteries and even that one you're hanging on to as a sentimental relic because it belonged to your first radio set—you know, the one you bought when Charlie McCarthy was a sapling.

Soo Junior Cop 1st B Crown In Eleven Years

SUDBURY, Ont., March 24—(CP)—Sault Ste. Marie Rapids won their first Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior "B" title in 11 years here last night with a 4-1 victory over McIntyre Juniors of Timmins, Ont., in the second game of a best-of-three championship series. Sault also won the first game.

There were two major penalties and one 10-minute misconduct during the rough game, which was highlighted by an argument in the second period during which McIntyre threatened to withdraw from the series because of a major penalty to Therriault. The McIntyre club protested Therriault had not drawn blood with a high stick, the infringement for which Referee Coutou handed out them major.

Kostenluk scored twice for Sault, McMaster the other two. Narduzzi was McIntyre's only scorer.

LONDON, March 24 — (CP). — Weather kept the Royal Air Force grounded again last night — the ninth in a row since Prjtish bomber fleets smashed at Cologne March 13.

One commentator said the past winter was the worst for flying here since flying began.

News From Training Camps

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 24.—(AP). — Purchase of Stanley (Frenchy) Bordagaroy of Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday increased the rumors of a possible trade between the National League champions and Detroit Tigers. The Tigers are trying to peddle Louis (Bobo) Newsom, holdout pitcher on whom all American League clubs except Washington have waived.

Brooklyn is expected to offer Joe Medwick, former star St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, whose place in the Brooklyn outer garden has been usurped by Augie Galan.

Bordagary's purchase hikes the number of Dodger outfields to nine.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Rumors persist that New York Giants and Philadelphia Phils will pull a four-man trade with Joe Orengo, one of three shortstops in the Giant camp, going to the Phils. Philadelphia wants Orengo because he is a long hitter, a scarcity among the men of Hans Lobert.

MIAMI—Manager Mel Ott of New York Giants to-day announced the beginning of the entire first team in an effort to break a losing streak that now stands at six and a record of only two triumphs in 13 starts. Philadelphia Phils will furnish to-day's opposition.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Rookie Harry Breechen, southpaw pitcher, is among those St. Louis Cardinals driving Manager Billy Southworth to distraction. As the manager pondered what to do with five left-handed hurlers, Breechen hurled four shutout frames against Cincinnati Reds yesterday.

Early Lake Rush May Find Help Shortage

By The Canadian Press.

Shipping along the continent's far-flung inland waterway—from the head of the lakes to the St. Lawrence—is headed toward an early opening and one of the busiest seasons in years as total war brings record demand for the tools to finish the job.

Wheat from bulging elevators, iron ore from the head of the lakes, coal and miscellaneous cargo await transit to ports along the 1,200-mile waterway, a survey by The Canadian Press showed.

Men and ships are ready. Navigation out of some ports has opened while elsewhere the clank of winches and smoke around the waterfront tells the story of preparations.

Most shipping men expect the big movement will be underway by April 15, the date when marine insurance takes effect. Ordinarily, heavy freighters don't start until then, but wartime demands and unusually mild weather may induce them to take the risk.

The season opened at Goderich March 21.

2,000 In Armed Forces.

Whether enough men are available for the mighty task is a matter of some doubt in various ports. The Canadian Seamen's Union in Toronto, however, reported plenty of unskilled labor but a shortage of experienced hands. Two thousand of the union's members have joined Canada's armed forces while others went to deep-sea work to help maintain the flow of supplies to Britain.

Scanning the elevator skyline on the Fort William and Port Arthur waterfront, where 138,000,000 bushels of grain are stored, officials smiled with satisfaction at the possibility of a nearly opening. Icebreakers which cleared a channel from open water, now are busy opening up various parts of the harbor.

General Lord Gort Personally Tests Gibraltar's Defences

A large scale training exercise by storm platoons from each infantry unit stationed at Gibraltar consisted of a competition over a difficult course including every type of obstacle to be met on the Rock. It was by no means a race, but a severe test to bring out the lessons of training, the control of troops, elementary tactics, field craft and marksmanship and included street fighting, scaling walls and climbing the Rock itself, finishing with firing on the range. Troops wore equipment and carried rifles, Tommy guns and grenades, and each platoon had with it two stretcher-bearers. His Excellency General Lord Gort, V.C., governor of Gibraltar and commander-in-chief, is pictured scaling a wall while personally testing the course.

Aces Head East Minus Two Top Defencemen

By The Canadian Press

Counted as one of the teams to be reckoned with for Allan Cup honors, Ottawa's Canadian Royal Air Force Flyers to-day find themselves in the happy position of holding an edge over their powerful opponents—Hamilton Majors—as the eastern senior field gunning for the Canadian crown was in its semi-final stage.

Last night the airmen were really on the beam as they opened their best of five game series with a 3-1 victory over the Majors in their fight for Ontario provincial honors and the right to meet the winner of the Glace Bay Miners-Quebec Aces series, which gets underway to-morrow night.

The Majors, however, lost the services of one of their high scoring star when Stan Robertson, 23 year old wingman, suffered a broken arm when he crashed into a goal post after being dumped by Walt Murray of Flyers. Coach George Redding will likely bring up young Leo Gasparani from Hamilton to fill in for Robertson for the rest of the series.

While this was the only senior game in the East last night, the hockey faithful were looking forward to the opening of the other semi-final playdown. Quebec Aces entrained for Nova Scotia minus two of their best defencemen, who are on the injured list. Lester Brennan will be out for the rest of the series with several torn leg ligaments suffered in the series against Shawinigan Falls, while veteran Mike McMahon is out with an attack of grippe.

McMahon is expected to return to the line-up for the third game of the series.

Second Game Friday

The second game of the best-of-five series will be played in Nova Scotia Friday, while dates of the remaining games have yet to be announced.

In the Eastern Memorial Cup hunt, the field was trimmed to four clubs also as Royals swept aside their Montreal Clearpoint rivals, 5-1, last night, to sweep the best-of-three game series for the Quebec crown in straight games. Royals now meet Halifax Canadians, Maritime champions, in a best-of-three affair, with the winner qualifying to meet either Ottawa St. Pats or Oshawa Generals.

Last night Generals took a lead in their best-of-five playdown with the Ottawans, when they pulled out a 6-4 win in the opening game.

The teams clash on the smaller Ottawa ice surface tomorrow night.

The series between Royals and the Maritimers opens in Montreal Friday night.

to recall right now all those years as well as I can the beginning."

"It's rather natural, Randy. You'll have to slowly forget the terrible things—"

"I don't want to foregt anything, Parris. Every hour of my life is precious. It's all right, Parris. I used to think a great deal about the future. I always dreaded Drake's growing old. It was frightful that he had to die as he did, but....poor Drake." Randy's eyes dimmed. "I'll be able to make sense out of it all some time, I hope. We mustn't lose sight of each other, Parris. You have been so good—so good."

"You two were my only friends, you know."

"Parris, I'm just 32 years old — will be 32 on my next birthday, and I feel as though I had lived half a dozen lives."

"I can understand that, too."

"Whatever was done, Parris, we did together, you and I—the only two people who really loved Drake." She looked up quickly. "Do you hear anything about Louise Gordon?"

"Not a word. I did hear that her condition was worse and that there seemed little hope of her recovery."

"Parris, all of that seems a mighty strange, dark business to me. There are worse things about it than we know."

"I'm afraid so."

Parris thought of what Randy had said about her age. His own age, as well. He didn't, of course, feel old as Randy did, but he had a disagreeable letdown feeling, as if many things, many courses were suddenly finished. He, too, had lived through experiences that had been too violent.

Mrs. Skeffington's denunciations of Kings Row came back to his mind. And yet, a clear, cool thread of reason that spun like a thread of crystal through his weaving thought and fancy told him the feeling was wrong. Kings Row was only a small unit in a diverse and fluctuating world. He, he—Parris Mitchell—was not Parris Mitchell of Kings Row, but Parris Mitchell of the world. So stationed, there was nothing in Kings Row that could ever reach through to touch him. He had only to think of the vast, interweaving effort of men in all places, and in all times who strove to connect and link up the scattered labors of the world into a beneficial whole, to have sense of his own destiny.

Late in the spring Parris crossed the Aberdeen campus one afternoon just as the public school across the way was being dismissed for the day. He heard the mixed chatter of the released prisoners, as clash upon clash of soprano dissonances chopped the air.

Parris watched the crowd of children thin and go away. Just a few years ago he had been one of them, he and Drake, Cassie, Randy, Vera, Peyton, and all the others.

He looked across the schoolyard, down across the hill, beyond the wide sweep of the creek with its plumy willows. He could see the soft-leafed grove of maples where his old home stood, where Elise lived.

Parris followed the road past the Macintoshes, across the bridge, along the sandy avenue just threaded with the scant shadows of the birches. Now, at last, he lifted his eyes toward the house. Elsie was standing on the terrace. She raised her arm straight above her head and waved, a gay, happy, childish gesture. Then she ran down the terrace steps on her way to meet him.

Louis Fighting For "Chappie"

FORT DIX, N.J., March 24 (AP)—It probably is asking a bit too much for Joe Louis to knock Abe Simon all the way from Madison Square Garden's ring to a Chicago hospital bedside in one hop Friday night, but the spirit will be there just the same.

Because in that hospital cot Jack Blackburn, old faithful "Chappie," often referred to as Joe's Mr. Brain, lies tussling with a cruel combination of rheumatism, sciatica and a near thing with pneumonia. He'll be missing from Joe's corner for the first time since the bomber tossed his first bomb.

"So this one," the champion explained today, "is for Chappie. I gotta win this one for him."

As a result, while the financial and artistic portion of this bout with ample Abe is for the benefit of the United States Army Emergency Relief—Joe is fighting for nothing "'cept my country"—the punches will be pitched for the grinning master-mind. Joe says Chappie had more to do, than even himself, in making him the champion. And just to be on the safe side, he'll get last-minute instructions from Blackburn by telephone tomorrow night or Thursday.

It was learned today that the "gate" would be between $125,000 and $150,000.

treasurer James Harkness.

In presenting his annual report President McAthur told of how the active curlers had secured control of the stock of the Curling Rink Company Limited since the last annual meeting, purchasing altogether 243 shares, of which 213 had been paid up by members. President McArthur expressed regret at the passing during the season of an active curler, in the person of William Burrell, and of a veteran curler of other years, Archie Moore. Mr. Burrell, he said, had been a member of one of the winning rinks and it had been arranged to turn over his prize war saving certificates to Mrs. Burrell.

A Good Financial Year

President McArthur also presented the financial report which showed receipts of $4,262.29 and expenses of $3,805.69, leaving a balance at present of $456.60, which would eventually be cut down to around $100. Had it not been for the fact that the club had spent around $1,900 in improving the rink property for this season it would have finished $2,000 to the good, President McArthur stated.

Reporting for the bonspiel committee, the president stated that 26 rinks had entered the Wes Champ and Morrow bonspiel, 28 the Canada Packers bonspiel and 46 the Neill cup event, and the net profit from the three was $139.70.

Ray P. Best, the club's representative on the Ontario Curling Association, reported briefly on the work of that organization and said that it was surprising what was accomplished by the O.C.A. He mentioned the fact that he had been elected second vice-president of the organization and hoped to see more Peterborough curlers interest themselves in the Ontario body.

Votes of thanks were passed to the press and to Umpire Herb. Martin and Auditor J. A. Robinson for their services on motion of W. M. Cruthers and Ray Bacon and on motion of R. F. Downey and J. A. Gibbs a vote of appreciation of the work done by President McArthur, Secretary Harkness and their associates in impoving the rink property was carried.

At the suggestion of D. B. Carlisle a message will be sent from the annual meeting to J. T. Braund, one of the club's hardest and most enthusiastic workers, who is ill.

Decide By Draw

The Neill Trophy competition had reached the semi-final stage when the ice ran out and the four rinks left in the running were those of Cecil Williamson, Elmer Metcalfe, J. A. Gibbs and George Sorenson. At last night's meeting cutting cards to settle the argument, Williamson won from Metcalfe and Gibbs from Sorenson. In the final draw Williamson was the lucky winner and he was presented with the Neill trophy and in addition there was a pair of shoes for each member of the winning rink. As runners-up members of J. A. Gibbs' rink received casseroles. The presentation was made by Coleman Blewett of Neill's.

The consolation event had reached the eights stage and the same process was used last night in arriving at a winner. B. Dench's Lakefield rink, with Ray Best drawing for them won the first prize, Westclox wrist watches, while second prize went to Norm. Hamley's rink, who received shirts as their pize.

War savings certificates were presented to the rinks winning the group honors in the regular scheduled games. The winners were as follows:

Group A—G. A. McCague, C. R. Hall, S. A. Lowe, J. G. Harkness, skip.

Group B—R. Carter, D. W. Hall, E. J. Williams, J. E. Thomas, skip.

Group C—T. McMillan, W. M. Burrell, Ross Williamson, E. M. Wall, skip.

Group D—W. J. Cripps, M. Wells, J. Richmond, skip.

NURSE RECOMMENDS MUSTARD POULTICE FOR NEURALGIA

...."The same treatment generally relieves lumbago" SAYS NURSE HOEY—

For over ten years, Mrs. M. Hoey of Regina, Sask., was a professional nurse and she is still very enthusiastic about the helpfulness of mustard in relieving aches and pains. She says: "Patients of mine who suffered with severe neuralgia up the back of the head or in the face have been quickly helped when I placed a mustard poultice across the back of the neck. In cases of lumbago I kept in mind the fact that these pains are neuralgic or rheumatic in character and therefore should respond to mustard treatment. I have had excellent results when using mustard poultices to help relieve lumbago."

Ordered Mustard Treatment

In her long experience, Mrs. Hoey says that whenever she nursed a patient who had pleural pains or acute chest inflammation the doctor nearly always ordered mustard poultices as part of his treatment. Then in spasms of coughing and accompanying weakness, where it was not practical to apply other remedies, the use of mustard was advised. It was often administered with good results. "I have great faith in mustard," said Mrs. Hoey, "as a safe, inexpensive, external help for many ills, aches and pains, but would advise calling a doctor if symptoms are at all serious."

Advantages of Mustard Bath

Epidemics of contagious Winter ailments may strike your community with little or no warning. The day you start feeling groggy with aches, soreness and depressed spirits, get into a mustard bath or at least put your feet into one. Men often prefer a stronger mustard bath than women or children, but every member of the family will find this treatment soothing and relaxing.

There is nothing to surpass Keen's Mustard. It is world-famous for high quality. Use it as a help in relieving local stiffness, rheumatic pains, neuritis, chills, and pleural pains. Any acute disorder or prolonged pain should, of course, be treated by a physician.

ERRORS AT TABLE SOCIAL HANDICAP

How Not to Call the Waiter

An ambitious pair, Sally and Jack, eager to go places socially. Too bad their table manners hold them back.

What glances of surprise from other diners as Jack shouts, "George, George" to the waiter. Doesn't he know the well-bred way is a quietly spoken "Waiter?"

And Sally, clutching her glass close to the brim, ought to know it's proper to hold it by stem and lower part of bowl.

It's simple to appear smooth and sophisticated when dining out—if you know the rules.

What if the menu lists foods that you don't know about? It's correct to ask what they are. And don't make your host feel cheap by ordering the cheapest dish.

Unavoidably late at a dinner party? Don't make profuse apologies, create a stir. Say simply "I'm sorry to be late," and explain your tardiness later on to your hostess.

Brush up on table manners for these modern times. Our 32-page booklet tells correct things to do at restaurants, clubs, formal and informal meals, buffets, teas. Explains right silver for each course and how to eat unusual foods.

For your copy of "Good Table Manners" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS THE JOB TO DO?

WHEN YOU have a specific job to do anywhere in life, it is up to you to accomplish it if you can. In bridge that is represented by the contract in which you find yourself. If you are in a contract of four-odd in some suit, and you are a gamester, you will concentrate all of your resources upon taking the necessary 10 tricks. If the contract, however, is only three-odd, then your first consideration should be to make sure of the necessary nine tricks, not going out of your way to risk being beaten for the sake of extras unless there are special reasons for doing so.

	♠ 10 8 5 ♥ K 9 2 ♦ K J 4 3 ♣ J 10 7
♠ Q 7 6 3 ♥ A J 3 ♦ A 10 8 5 2 ♣ A	W. N. E. S.	♠ K J 4 ♥ 7 6 5 4 ♦ 9 6 ♣ 8 6 4 2
	♠ A 9 2 ♥ Q 10 8 ♦ Q 7 ♣ K Q 9 5 3

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	Pass	2 ♣
Dbl	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

Follow this succession of tricks—diamond A, diamond 5 to the Q, club 3 to the A, heart 3 bringing the 2, 7 and 10 and club 5 to the J. Now you and I—and a kibitzer at the game—knowing West has the heart A, can see an easy way for South to make an extra trick, discarding both of his losing spades on the diamond K and J. He could overtake the club 10 with the K, use the Q to drop the last missing trump, then lead a heart toward the K. Thus he could surely get to the dummy to use the diamond honors for two spade discards, so that his only losing tricks would be one club, one heart and one diamond.

But South could not be sure West had the heart A. If he tried the given line of play and East held it, the dummy could never be re-entered to use the diamond honors at all, and hence there would be two spade losers. So, while in the dummy with the club J, he had to, as a safety play for the contract, lead the diamond K, letting East ruff and himself overruffing with the K. His next lead of the club 9 to the 10 put him back into dummy, where he was able to use the diamond J for one spade discard. Of course, he then lost a spade and a heart, in addition to the two minor aces, so he made exactly 3-Clubs.

Perhaps we should give West a merit mark for his under-lead of the heart A to the fourth trick, which caused all of the trouble.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ K 7 ♥ 8 7 6 4 ♦ A K 6 4 3 2 ♣ 8
♠ 8 6 2 ♥ A 9 3 2 ♦ Q 10 ♣ K J 6 5	W. N. E. S.	♠ A 5 ♥ K Q J ♦ 9 8 5 ♣ Q 10 7 3 2
	♠ Q J 10 9 4 3 ♥ 10 5 ♦ J 7 ♣ A 9 4

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West wins the first trick with the heart A, then leads the 2 to the J, what should East do immediately in an effort to beat South's 4-Spades?

Government Gag Threat Draws Fire Of The Whole British Press

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 24—(CP Cable)—The government's warning to the Daily Mirror to cease "irresponsible" criticism under threat of suspension has touched a spark to one of the most controversal discussions of internal affairs since the beginning of the war.

Britain's newspapers with few exceptions have been outspoken in their defence of the principle of freedom of the press and their editorial comments have found support in public utterances of a number of Members of Parliament as well as in resolutions of the National Council for Civil Liberties and similar organizations.

Most of the controversy has centred around the government's powers under defence regulation 2D. This regulation, introduced primarily for use in the event of invasion, gives the government power to suppress any newspaper without trial without right of appeal and subject only to the over-riding authority of parliament.

It was to regulation 2D that Home Secretary Herbert Morrison referred when he told the House of Commons last week of his warning to the Mirror and while only a few newspapers defended the Mirror itself, most of them condemned the government for bringing out this emergency legislation when it has less drastic powers upon which it can call if necessary.

Court Session Enough.

Defence regulations 2C empowers the government to issue a warning and if this is ignored the offending newspaper can be prosecuted in court. Newspapers contend these powers are sufficient under present conditions and any extension of them is viewed as a direct threat to the freedom of the press.

The widely-circulated Reynolds News criticizing the government for issuing the Mirror warning under section 2D instead of 2C, said the inference to be drawn is that the government "is presuming panic in order to strike at the freedom of the press to criticize and reflects criticism of the governments conduct of the war."

"Let the government take the Mirror into court," Reynolds said. "Unless it does so it will remain open to grave charges: That it is gagging criticism under the guise of protecting public morale and that it is tinkering with a principle of freedom which we imperil only at the risk of undermining the whole war effort."

Lord Strabolgi, the Labor peer, speaking at Wathamstow, said there were people who wanted to muzzle or tame the newspapers as had been done in France and decared this woud be "the greatest of all blunders." It was far better to tolerate criticism that might be exaggerated or too sweeping than to reduce the newspapers to subservience, he declared.

Parliament is considered likely to hear more of the Mirror case, although at the moment there is no indication there will be a full-dress debate which Mr. Morrison saiad the government was willing to consider should members request it.

Another Labor member of Commons, S. S. Silverman, has given notice that he will ask Prime Minister Churchill for assurance that the government "does not contemplate any action designed to limit the right of the press or the public to criticize the government or its conduct of the war."

In the Upper House Lord Nathan will present a motion to "draw attention to the freedom of the press as an essential element in the prosecution of the war."

Paper To Face 4 Counts April 1

OTTAWA, March 24 — (CP). — Magistrate Glenn E. Strike in police court today set April 1 as a date for the hearing of four charges under the Defence of Canada Regulations against Le Droit, Ottawa French-language newspaper.

Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier told the court he had received instructions from Justice Minister St. Laurent to proceed under a summary trial. Jean Genest, appearing as solicitor for Le Droit, asked for an adjournment for at least a week.

The charges were ordered laid by Justice Minister St. Laurent following publication in Le Droit of a news item dealing with British air raids on Renaud Industries in the Paris suburbs and an article in the column "Day by day" in which raids on occupied France were discussed.

Girl Guides Stage Sumptuous Banquet

GORE'S LANDING, March 24.—(ENS)—The banquet for Mothers and Daughters arranged by the Girl Guides on Saturday evening in the Library building, was a most successful and enjoyable affair. Thirty-one ladies sat down at 6.30 to tables decorated with flowers and candles in silver holders. A colorful salad plate followed by delicious home-made ice cream and cake was served by the daughters, who waited on table.

Community singing was held in between courses. Miss Mary Alice Harris, leader of the Guides, was in charge of the program, and proposed the toast to the King. This was followed by a toast to the Church by Marjorie Thackeray and replied to by Mrs. Johnson. A toast to "Our Mothers" was proposed by Eileen MacIntosh and (Mrs.) Eileen Harris responded. Joan Harris proposed the toast to the Girl Guides and Gwendolyn Harris replied to this.

Miss Emily Pratt sang two Sea Shanty songs, and later in the evening sang again, Mrs. Meggs was accompanist.

Bride And Groom Honored In Douro

LAKEFIELD, March 24 — (ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullock Douro, was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening when friends and neighbors numbering about one hundred gathered to present their son, Morely and his bride, the former Grace Parker, with a miscellaneous shower. Dancing to music provided by Leahy's Orchestra was enjoyed, and about midnight the guests of honor were read an address by Miss Marjorie Frankish expressing the best wishes of the community, after which Master Sanford Bullock wheeled in a wheel barrow decorated in pink and white and holding many pretty and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock were assisted in opening the parcels by Mrs. Hilliard Ray and Miss Lois Parker. Thanks was expressed by the groom. Following the serving of refreshments dancing was resumed until the wee small hours.

Wins Two Prizes On His Birthday

CAMPBELFORD, March 24. — (ENS).— Instead of the play which is usually sponsored by members of the Catholic Women's League here on St. Patrick's Day the local branch this year held a card party in their rooms on Tuesday evening. However, a touch of color was provided by way of several musical numbers from pianists Marie Crosson, Bernice Clark, and Marguerite Anderson at the close of card playing. Rev. J. V. McAuley awarded the prizes and a happy coincidence was that Vincent Farrell who took two of the awards, celebrated his birthday the same day. Bridge prizes went to Mrs. J. McMullen and George O'Sullivan, while the euchre prizes went to Vincent Farrell, who also won the door prize, and to Mrs. Emmett Kelleher.

Canuck Honored For Daring Channel Raid

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 24—(CP Cable)—Flt.-Sgt. J. W Creedon, South Paris, Ont., pilot of a Hudson aircraft of an R.C.A.F. coastal command squadron which attacked the German battleship Scharnhorst and Gneisenau off the Netherlands coats after the battle in the English channel last month, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal for a daring, low-level attack on a destroyer escorting the fleeing ships, it was announced today.

Creedon and two British members of his crew, Sgt. Howard C. Everett and Sgt. George Hancox, who also won the D.F.M., were named in a new list of nine awards arising from the gallant attempt to halt the flight of the battleships from their shelter at Brest. The "demon squadron' to which they belong is No. 407.

Sqdn. Ldr. William H. Cliff, commander of No. 42 squadron, R.A.F., who was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, led his "death squadron" of Beaufort torpedo-bombers in a formation attack which it is believed resulted in at least two hits being made on one of the big ship. The Distinguished Flying Cross was awarded two other members of Cliff's squadron and three members of No. 217 squadron, R.A.F.

Describing Creedon's courageous attack, the announcement said he descended through cloud at 400 feet and sighted the German destroyer directly below. Diving through fierce flak to 200 feet, the 20-year-old Canadian released bombs which straddled the enemy warship.

As he turned away to climb into cloud, his Hudson was attacked by a German Junkers 88. Everett, the rear gunner, opened fire with is turret guns and the enemy aircraft broke off the engagement.

Three* Beauforts and two Hudsons were lost during the engagement.

Dramatic Club Visits Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 24—(ENS).—"Rose O' Kildare," presenting the Dramatic Club of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum in the Memorial Hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of St. Paul's Church, drew a large crowd from the village and surrounding district.

Each part was well taken, with Nora Moher as Rose Creigan, the heroine of the play, which all centred around her romance and following marriage with the wealthy Maurice Fitzgerald (Clem. Galvin).

Music was provided by an orchestra between acts, and Mrs. D. Campanaro contributed the solo, "Little Bit of Heaven," and encore.

Apsley News

A euchre party was held on Friday at the Apsley Red Cross Hospital with eight tables played. The high prizes were won by Mrs. W. Reynolds and Jack Tucker, with consolation going to Miss Elsie Tanner and Mrs. D. Jeff. Lunch was served by the hostess, Miss Reesor, Reg.N., and helpers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McColl and baby, Mr. and Mrs. S. McColl, Lasswade, spent the week-end with friends at Toronto and Colbourne.

Master Jack Tucker, Lakefield, spent the week-end with his parents.

Members of the Apsley Women's Guild met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Stanley Windsor, to pack boxes for boys serving in England.

Out Of Action

London, March 24 (CP).

A Daily Telegraph dispatch from Perth, Australia, said today an Allied submarine now in friendly waters had hit a Japanese aircraft carrier with torpedoes on the night of March 3 off Bali and "if the carrier was not sunk it will be out of action a long time."

It said the carrier was believed to be a 27,000-ton vessel.

The dispatch said:

"We heard an explosion when the first torpedo struck. Flames leaped up from the carrier 150 feet high. Watching through the periscope, we could not see the ship for the flames."

Pork Price Curb Clamped On U.S.

By FRANKLIN MULLIN
Associated Press Financial Writer

CHICAGO, March 24 — (AP). — Wholesale pork price control began throughout United States Monday but meat and livestock trade experts withheld predictions as to the ultimate effect on prices housewives pay at retail counters and on farmers' return from hogs.

Each meat processor, big and small, has its own set of price ceilings on pork products. One big concern, for example, in complying with the office of price administration order, has established 500 different ceilings. The various cuts—cured, fresh, frozen and canned pork items—have ceilings as well as the different grades and brands of each cut.

Temporary ceilings apply to approximately 90 per cent of the pork items sold and are equal to the highest wholesale price charged during the period March 3 to 7. Since that time the average price of live hogs has advanced more than 20 cents per 100 pounds but wholesale pork cuts have shown a varying trend, although livestock men expressed belief no item has risen above the ceiling. Wholesale fresh pork loins here are off as much as 2 cents a pound in some cases.

The butcher shops—the retail end of the pork trade — unaffected directly by the office of price administration order, will be governed in establishing prices at their counters by the same factors they have always had to consider, such overhead items as cost of the store operation and materials. The only certainly will be that the pork they buy will not be higher than the ceiling.

Lard prices have been under control for some time and have been bid at ceilings for the last few weeks. The temporary ceilings on pork will prevail for 60 days and it was understood a permanent schedule then would be established.

Father 96, Son 66 Badly Burned In House Blaze

BELLEVILLE, March 24. —A father and son were critically burned early yesterday when their house was completely destroyed by fire in the Village of Gilmour, sixty-five miles north of here.

Both men are in the Belleville General Hospital. They are William McKenzie, 96 and Bruce, 66. Both are suffering from burns about the face, head and body. Dr. G. H. Stobie of Belleville is attending the injured men.

Fire broke out in the house shortly after midnight, and had gained considerable headway before it was noticed by Bruce McKenzie. He warned his wife and aided his father to escape from the house.

He returned with buckets of water in an unsuccessful effort to put out the flames, but only suffered other burns. Both injured men were taken to a nearby home until Dr. J. Nickle arrived to render medical assistance. The Martin ambulance made a record run over deep-rutted, muddy roads in bringing the two men to the hospital. Overheated stovepipes are believed to have been the cause of the fire, which completely destroyed the house and all contents. Mrs. B. McKenzie suffered only minor burns.

5 BRITISH CRUISERS WHIP DUCE FLEET, SAVE CONVOY

LONDON, March 25 (CP)—Light British forces set fire to an Italian battleship of the 35,-000-ton Littorio class with gunfire, rammed her with a torpedo amidship and damaged two Italian cruisers in a three-day running fight in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announced tonight.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced earlier today that the Italian naval force which set out to attack a British Mediterranean convoy on its way to Malta Sunday consisted of "one of the most modern and powerful battleship afloat," six cruisers and a flotilla of destroyers.

The British force consisted of five light cruisers and destroyers, a message of congratulations from Mr. Churchil to Rear-Admiral Philip Vian revealed.

In the Italian fleet one battleship of the 35,000-ton Littorio class with 15-inch guns; two cruisers with eight-inch guns of the Trento class; four six-inch cruisers of the Condottieri class, and a screen of destroyers.

Against them we had a six-inch cruiser, anti-aircraft cruisers whose heaviest guns were 5.25-inch, and destroyers.

There wasn't a single gun in the British squadron which could make more than a minor dent in the Italian battleship. It was like throwing a handful of nails at a rampaging elephant, and yet at the end of the battle every British warship was afloat.

The Admiralty reported damage to one British cruiser and three destroyers and light casualties among their crews in their successful escort of a convoy to the embattled island base of Malta.

In a later phase of the battle, 150 Axis bombers attacked the convoy, but this assault was beaten off, the Admiralty said.

It issued a special communique giving additional details of the engagement, which began Sunday and already had been reported in earlier communiques.

The telegram, addressed to Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, Commander in Chief, Mediterranean, read:—

"I shall be glad if you will convey to Admiral Vian and all who sailed with him the admiration which I feel at this resolute and brilliant action by which the Malta convoy was saved.

"That one of the most powerful modern battleships afloat attended by two heavy and four light cruisers and a flotilla, should have been routed and put to flight with severe torpedo and gunfire injury in broad daylight by a force of five British light cruisers and destroyers constitutes a naval episode of the highest distinction and entitles all ranks and ratings concerned and, above all, their commander to the compliments of the British nation."

Battle Outmatches Fiction

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 25 (AP)—With a valor matched not even in the most romantic fiction, a light squadron of British cruisers and destroyers sailed head on into an overwhelmingly powerful Italian fleet in the central Mediterranean, three times drove it away from a British convoy, and ultimately delivered the supplies to the beleaguered island of Malta.

It was a battle which will go down in Naval annals. For not in the recollection of any officer present had such a prolonged fight been won by so small a force against such great odds.

I saw the battle. With another American correspondent, Richard Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News, I was aboard one of the cruisers which charged straight into the guns of the enemy, cuffed him off, rained shells upon and around him, and finally pulled the convoy to safety.

It did so out of what had appeared certain destruction not only

Kill 40,000 In Centre, Timoshenko's Scouts In Taganrog

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 25 — (AP). — Russian dispatches reported to-day that the German armies have lost more than 140,000 men in killed alone since February 5, with the heaviest toll on the Kalinin front, where the invaders were said to have suffered 61,700 casualties up to March 21.

While Soviet forces struck fresh blows toward the west and smashed counter-attacks from German lines reported reinforced by 38 fresh divisions other Nazi losses itemized in communiques and special announcements gave these figures:

Central Front—40,000 killed between February 6 and March 5.

Leningrad Front — 16,000 killed, March 9 to 22.

North-western (Kalinin) Front — 14,000 killed February 22 to March 10.

Southern and South-western Fronts — About 10,000 killed March 7 to 12.

A special dispatch from Smolensk Province, west of Moscow, said that battles had developed, with Russian troops in possession of 12 districts and challenging the Germans in 10 others.

From Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Southern Army came a report that Soviet scouts had penetrated Taganrog, German-held port on the Sea of Azov, exchanged fire with the garrison tossed grenades into a barracks and retired.

Vital Burma Drome Falls To Japs

Chinese Fight Bitterly As Allied Key Goes N. of Toungoo

NEW DELHI, India, March 25. — (CP).— Chinese headquarters in Burma reported to-day that a force of 1,000 Japanese troops captured an airdrome north of Toungoo, key of Allied resistance, yesterday afternoon.

The communique said the situation on the Tungoo front was "serious."

Chinese forces were sent to dislodge the Japanese, the communique said, and a "heavy battle" was in progress this morning.

A combined force of Japanese cavalry and infantry in civilian dress cut the road from Toungoo north to Mandalay 20 miles above Toungoo yesterday, the Chinese said, but added that the "Chinese forces drove out the cavalry and mopped up the plain clothes men."

Earlier reports had said Japanese patrols had turned the Chinese flank and cut the Toungoo-Mandalay road eight miles north of Toungoo. But the latest communique said that the main Japanese force still was 20 miles south of Toungoo and that the Chinese continued to hold their outpost line.

Japs Hit Hard In Air.

However, in this sector the communique also reported fierce fighting, now raging for the third day, and it acknowledged continued Japanese air superiority in this sector in reporting four air raids yesterday on the Chinese forces.

There was no word of the situation on the western, or Prome, flank of the Allied line which is held by British and Indian forces.

For the fourth straight day British Headquarters announced a Japanese aerial smash aimed at their own airpower when, the communique said, a coastal landing ground was bombed yesterday by 26 enemy raiders but only slightly damaged.

Both sides apparently were waging an air warfare above the Burmese battlefronts which may have a heavy influence on the outcome of the struggle in interior Burma's jungles and rice fields.

Tokyo Blacks Lights Many Nights

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP).—The United States Navy told today of highly successful raids on Japanese-held Wake and Marcus Islands, which so disturbed Japan, reports from Pearl Harbor said, that Tokyo's lights were blacked out for several nights.

Enemy small boats, seaplanes and numerous shore installations were destroyed, the Navy said, at both the strategic Pacific islands. The attacking forces, meeting "little opposition," lost one airplane at each. No United States ships were damaged.

Marcus Island is only 950 miles from Tokyo and 3,000 miles from Pearl Harbor, and so far as is known, the attack there was the closest United States Navy forces, with the exception of American submarines, have carried the war to Japan.

Several prisoners were taken at Wake, picked out of floating debris after two Japanese patrol boats were bombed, shelled and sunk.

The raids on Marcus Island, which lies 760 miles west-northwest of Wake and about 2,600 miles north-west of Honolulu, carried the American vessels, obviously including an aircraft carrier, to within 990 miles of Yokohama.

The report on the Wake Island raid was the first announcement

Japan Ready For Siberia Experts Say

Before Hun Spring Blow Need Vladivostok As Base To Hit Alaska

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—The military consensus as spring heralds the great battles of 1942 is that the advantages to Japan of an invasion of Siberia outweigh the dangers and the attack may come soon —before the Nazis launch their drive in Western Russia.

Even though Japan is deeply involved in the Southern Pacific, military sources point out that the rewards of success in an assault on Siberia and Vladivostok, the U.S.S.R.'s big Pacific port, are too rich for the Japanese general staff to ignore.

First and most important is Vladivostok.

United States bombers based there would be within easy range not only of Tokyo and Yokohoma but also of Nagasaki, the great Japanese naval base, which is only 655 miles by air.

On the other hand, Vladivostok could be a secondary Japanese base for attacks on Alaska.

Secondly, there is the grand strategic design of the Axis based on diversion of United Nations forces. Only the Soviet, so far, has been able to concentrate its armies on one fighting front.

Red Forces Weakened?

Observers generally agree that Japan may be spurred to attack on the belief of her generals that the U.S.S.R. has drained at least some power from Siberia.

Conversely, it is pointed out, the Japanese have used relatively small forces in Malaya and Java. Authoritative estimates put Japan's current strength in the South Pacific now at a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 15 divisions—225,000 men at most—and say that only four of these, three in Burma and one split between Java and New Guinea, are actively in the field.

Three divisions form only a small party of the Japanese army, mobilized since 1937 from a nation of 70,000,000 or more.

BERNE, Switzerland, Mar. 25 — (AP). — Seventy-five Serbs have been executed in reprisal for the killing of a police chief in a bold attack on a main Belgrade street, a Budapest dispatch to the Neue Zuercher Zeitung reported today.

The killers were not found.

Moresby Raids Weaken; Sure It To Hold

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

MELBOURNE, March 25.—(AP)—Rising Sun bombers struck their third consecutive blow at Port Moresby today and, although the raid was the weakest of the three, it underscored the belief that the Japanese regard the south coast New Guinea port as the gate which must be forced to open the way for invasion of Northern Australia.

In contrast to the mass assaults on the town yesterday and Monday, only three bombers were seen in the attack today and these dogged in and out of the high clouds in a display of new respect for the hard-hitting ground defences. Fighters which probably accompanied the big planes apparently remained still higher, out of sight in the cloud banks.

There were no casualties or damage.

Prime Minister John Curtin voiced confidence that the steadily strengthening Allied defences would not only hold the port but from it would hit back at the whole far-stretched Japanese assault front in the New Guinea area.

The Australian view of the importance of the Southwestern Pacific area had been reinforced by the "calamitous trend of events"

Vast Barge, Glider Fleet Ready, His Air Force Rested If Hitler Out To Gamble

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The warning given in the House of Commons by Sir John Anderson, member of the war cabinet, that the Germans may attempt to invade England this spring isn't just "sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

An effort at invasion certainly is a possibility. I should say, however, that such an extremely hazardous operation would be undertaken by Hitler only as an act of desperation if things go badly for him on the Russian front.

The point is that if he could knock Britain out by a lightning stroke, while standing the Reds off, he would have dealt the Allies a blow which at the least must be described as catastrophic. He then could devote all his energy to the Bolshevists.

Hitler's apparent strategy is to try again to break into the Caucasus and the Middle East to get supplies. That's his logical route to victory, and his preparations point to this being his major effort—either a direct smash through the Russian left flank into the Caucasus oil fields, or a movement through Turkey—maybe both, if the Turks can be bullied into granting free passage of their territory.

Should the present murderous Russian offensive develop so as not only to block this program but, as the Bolshevists predict, to threaten a debacle in Hitler's ranks, then would be the moment when he might make a colossal gamble with an attempt to crush Britain. Maybe the answer is being written right now in the great counter-offensive which the Nazis are attempting with 600,000 fresh troops. The Reds claim the slaughter of Germans is so heavy that the German attacks seem to be "passing through a mincing machine."

The Nazi leader is in better shape for a blow at Britain now than he is likely to be again. He has a vast fleet of invasion barges ready. For months now his air force has been largely inactive, presumably being overhauled and tuned up for the Spring fighting. Meanwhile his factories have been pouring out new and more powerful warplanes, and transport gliders are reported to have been manufactured in great numbers. He has the troops, and he has a pretty husky navy.

The perils of an adventure in invasion have been vastly increased by the high state of British preparedness. The Fuehrer missed his big chance way back at the time of Dunkirk, when he had John Bull hanging on the ropes. As it is, Britons have been getting set for just such an emergency for almost two years.

There probably are 3,500,000 men under arms in the British Isles, including the home guard, which has in its ranks many men over military age. The regular troops have been rehearsing invasion tactics intensively, and have been hardened by mimic warfare which has provided every perilous emergency which an invasion could conceivably produce. Moreover, as Sir John Anderson stated, civilian "invasion committees" have been set up in many parts of the country to plan for the needs of the various localities.

Tough As Rap At Britain

Torres Strait Air Rule Can Save Australia

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP). —Official dispatches from the southwest Pacific gave United States military observers an indication today that any attempted Japanese invasion of northeast Australia might be as difficult as a German invasion of Britain.

A communique disclosed that American fighter planes had swept over the Torres Strait, which separates Australia and New Guinea. The Torres Strait is 100 miles wide, 75 miles more than the Strait of Dover. Air superiority over the Strait would balk a landing attempt in northeast Australia.

The War Department said that nine P-40 fighters took part in a raid on the New Guinea city of Lae, 400 miles from the nearest Australian base, March 22. The fighters escorted six bombers, which were credited with destruction of three heavy enemy bombers, 10 fighters and two unidentified aircraft.

Two American fighters were lost in the foray. A direct hit was scored on a Japanese ammunition dump.

In the Philippine theatre the army reported that a successful attack was made on a Japanese motor column in the southern island of Mindanao. The enemy suffered heavy losses while only one attacking soldier was killed.

Japs Grab The Andamans

1st Indian Territory Loss As Enemy Moves West

NEW DELHI, India, March 25.— (CP).—The Indian government announced to-day that the Andaman islands in the Bay of Bengal have been occupied by the Japanese.

The Andaman islands are a chain north of Sumatra and some 350 miles south-west of Rangoon. They lie along the sea routes to Calcutta, chief eastern Indian port, 650 miles to the north-west, and would be a stepping stone for the Japanese in their westward thrust toward India itself and toward the British naval base of Trincomalee on the island of Ceylon.

This occupation was the first Japanese seizure of Indian territory.

The Andamans first came under an attack on Feb. 27.

Chief target in the first attacks was the airdrome at Port Blair, principal town in the island group. These raiders were presumed to have come from bases in enemy-occupied Burma some 400 miles to the east.

The group consists of 204 jungle-covered islands, which from 1858 to 1921 were used as an Indian convict settlement and where since 1868 Britain has operated a large meteorological station for shipping.

Quebec Member Lacombe Ejected From House, Interrupting Capt. White

Defiance Of Speaker Brings 1st "Naming" In Commons Chamber In Decades, Apology Expected Before Return Permitted

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP).—Liguori Lacombe, stocky 47-year-old lawyer of St. Scholastique, Que., who was elected to the House of Commons as a Liberal in the 1940 general election, became last night the first member to be ejected from that Chamber in decades.

He was removed in custody of J. A. Laundy after being "named" by Speaker Glen following repeated warnings because of his interruptions and defiance of the Speaker's orders.

During the debate on the manpower plebiscite a few weeks ago Mr. Lacombe, attacking the Government on this policy, left the Liberal ranks where he sat since 1925, announced formation of a new "Canadian" party, and took a seat at the extreme lower end of the Opposition front line. Mr. Lacombe's new party, he said, was pledged to the defence of Canada before any outside military commitments were considered, and was definitely against conscription.

His suspension from the House last night was, formally, for the one sitting, and he may be permitted to resume his seat this afternoon.

But procedure to be followed was not definitely decided and it may be necessary for him to tender an apology to Mr. Speaker, or to stand in his place in the House and receive a reprimand from the Speaker.

Since he moved into Opposition Mr. Lacombe has had many clashes with the chair on points of order and last Friday during one such incident Prime Minister King suggested that if he persisted some disciplinary action might be necessary.

Start of the Fracas.

Last night he first clashed with the chair when he protested loudly that he could not hear the assistant clerk reading the orders of procedure on certain bills.

"Louder, please," he shouted. "I want to hear something, as a Member of Parliament. I want to know what is going on. On many days I do not hear anything."

Speaker Glen advised him what subject was before the House—the resolution of Finance Minister Ilsley for a supplementary war appropriation measure of $135,000,000 for the current fiscal year—involving Mr. Speaker leaving the chair so the House might go into committee on the whole.

"Mr. Speaker, you are not leaving the chair before I rise to a point of order," Mr. Lacombe said. "I was insulted by the Prime Minister last Friday as a private member of this House."

He attempted to cite "the Honorable Mr. Gladstone in 1872" when he was interrupted by the Speaker with an order to take his seat.

"You do not wish to give me fair play in this democracy," Mr. Lacombe shouted.

Speaker Glen ruled that Capt. G.

that the Japanese had permanently occupied it and were attempting to fortify that central Pacific Island which they captured from United States Marines Dec. 23 at a heavy cost in men and ships.

Use 219 Bombs on Wake

At Wake, a navy communique said, 219 bombs from aircraft and many shells from cruisers and destroyers were rained on shore installations and a landing field.

"Two enemy patrol boats were sunk, three large seaplanes at anchor were demolished, and the aircraft runways and a part of the defence batteries were damaged," the Navy reported. "Our loss in this engagement was one aircraft."

The Wake Island raid occurred Feb. 24. The task force was commanded by Vice-admiral William F. Halsey, senior air force commander in the Pacific, who led an attack Jan. 31 on Marshall and Gilbert Islands which resulted in destruction of 16 enemy ships and 41 aircraft.

On March 4 Vice-admiral Halsey's forces which had hit Wake Island a week earlier struck at Marcus Island.

The attack, by air, was executed just before dawn and the Navy bombers which roared over the Japanese base dropped flares to illuminate their objectives. "No enemy aircraft or ships were present," the communique said.

"Heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered while our planes dropped 96 bombs on the small island, resulting in considerable damage to hangars fuel and ammunition storages. radio installations and aircraft runways. Our loss in this engagement was one aircraft."

Special Radio Device.

The Navy did not specify what sort of radio installation was believed to have been in operation on Marcus Island, but there was speculation it had been a radio-locator device for detecting the approach of American ships or planes toward the heart of the Japanese-dominated area in the Western Pacific.

Naval authorities suggested that the great value of Wake and Marcus Islands to the Japanese has been in extending the effective patrol range of their aircraft, particularly, far in front of their most strongly-defended area. Planes operating from Wake, for instance. might be relied upon to detect any westward fleet movement from Hawaii and planes operating from Marcus similarly could patrol a vast area of ocean lying south and east of the Japanese mainland.

The Navy communique indicated the task force leaders had been somewhat disappointed in meeting so little opposition and having so little opportunity to wreak important destruction upon the enemy.

The Littorio is one of Italys newest class of four capital ships. Completed May 1, 1940, she was reported to have made better than 30 knots in speed trials. Her heavy guns are nine 15-inchers.

Italian broadcasts said the sea fight lasted without break for five hours during a storm so severe that manoeuvring was difficult and in fog so thick that sometimes only the gun flashes of ship could be seen.

announced yesterday that the call-up age was being extended beyond those who were between 21 and 24 at July 1, 1940, and those who have reached 21 years since that time.

National War Services Department officials said that on the basis of 1940 national registration figures there were 58,031 single men and childless widowers in the class reaching 27 this year. 52,645 reaching 28, 45,608 reaching 29. and 93,845 reaching 30. Also available for call were the men entering the group liable for call by reaching 21 years of age.

More then 100,000 men have already reported for training since the compulsory plan was made effective in 1940.

Past experience has been that about 60 per cent of men called for compulsory training will pass their medical examination in Categories A and B and be available for call.

In future, under the provisions announced yesterday by Mr. King, a man suffering from slight impairment of vision. a poor dental condition. or malnutrition may be required to report to training camp where attention will be given these defects.

If his condition requires hospital care, he may be required to report to the Pensions and National Health Department, and, if his condition is considered menable, he will be given the opportunity of treatment to bring him up to the military service category.

Will Be Kept In.

The government announcement made clear that men in the new age group liable to call will probaby be held in the army when their four months' training is completed. Since March last year, trainees have been retained in service for the defence of Canada.

National registration figures showed there were 989,739 single men and childless widowers in Canada between the ages of 19 and 45, representing the military age under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Recent National Defence Department announcements covering the volunteer reserve army indicated that only men older than 35 would be recruited for this force — now more than 140,000 strong—which receives its training after civilian working hours and during week-ends.

This has been taken to mean that eventually compulsory military training will be extended to men to the age of 35, leaving the volunteer reserve force which is liable to call for service in the event of an emergency, for men beyond what are considered the best ages for service in a modern army.

Full Compulsion If Volunteer Call Inadequate

OTTAWA, March 25 — (CP). — An enlarged national selective service program for mobilization of manpower was in motion to-day, compulsory in an indirect measure but with the promise of full compulsion if that becomes necessary.

The plan, designed to increase the available supply of manpower for the services and essential industry and to place Canadians where they may perform the most useful war service. was presented to the House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The program provides compulsion only in that farm workers will be forced to remain on the land; civilians may be kept out of non-essential occupations if they are needed for essential work; and employers may be forced to release skilled technicians who wish to go into essential industry and to reinstate them later.

For the armed services the main new provisions is the raising of the age limit for compulsory service in Canada from the present maximum of 26 years to 30 years, and a proposal for extension of the liability for service to all eligible residents of Canada, regardless of citizenship.

Mr. King, in a lengthy address to the House, described the series of Orders-in-Council which he tabled, putting the new plan into effect without th ncssity of parliafect. without the necessity of parliamentary action.

He said the program involved "the negative compulsion of restriction" but declared that if voluntary methods failed full compulsion would be invoked "without fear or favor."

Labor Minister Mitchell, who will administer the mobilization plan, said later it is "the biggest and the toughest" project ever attempted in Canada and one that some other countries might adopt "if they are to survive."

There may be some hardships, Mr. Mitchell said, "but the people must realize that they are in the twilight of civilization."

Since no Bills are involved in the selective service program it is anticipated the new project will be debated during consideration of Finance Minister Ilsley's war appropriation measures.

An outstanding feature of the program is an elaborate campaign to induce women — married and single—to take jobs in industry so men may be released for enlistment in the forces and for work in essential war industries.

The existing policy of voluntary enlistment for service outside Canada and compulsory service within Canada is not altered in the new program.

But henceforth farmers. farmer's sons and agricultural workers will not generally be subject to compulsory training. This provision applies to those who were wholly or mainly occupied in agriculture at March 23.

Neither will men in that category be permitted, except under conditions laid down, to leave farm work for another occupation.

A large number of civilian occupations were placed in a "restricted occupations" list and henceforth no male person may be hired in such occupations except those outside the ages 17 to 45, those physically unfit or those with special permits from the national selective service office.

As a means of obtaining necessary manpower for war work it is provided that professional technicians consenting to leave their normal occupations at the request of the government for war work, must be reinstated in their former occupations on equally favorable positions at the conclusion of their war duties.

Other provisions in the new program provide free treatment for those rejected by the armed forces on physical grounds if medical authorities believe they can be made fit by treatment, on their signed agreement to enlist when cured; for training of personnel manager for plants; and for an elaborate collection of employment, wage and working data through the unemployment insurance commission.

Labor Minister Mitchell will have administrative jurisdiction over the manpower mobilization scheme, with other departments — navy, army, air, national war services, munitions and supply, agriculture and pensions and national health—participating.

But actual administration will be under a director of National Selective Service, E. M. Little, general manager of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Co., of Quebec, and an associate director, Paul Goulet, Montreal stockbroker.

These executives have a large organization of regional officers, appeal boards and advisory committees.

Mr. King described the government's national selective service method as "the negative compulsion of restriction," as opposed to "the positive compulsion of allocation." By the method the waste of manpower in unessential activities would be prevented.

"While the government has not hesitated and will not hesitate to apply compulsion where compulsion will serve to increase the total war effort," Mr. King said, "the government has no desire to add unduly—which means wastefully—to government machinery.

"Compulsion will be applied without fear or favor wherever in the opinion of the government its use will aid in the achievement of a maximum war effort.'

Take 17 Of 50 Hun Tanks Near Kalinin

Nazis Paying Heavily In Counter Pushes That Get No Place

MOSCOW, March 25 — (AP). — Soviet forces were reported to-day to have killed 16,000 Germans on the Leningrad front alone during the two weeks ended March 22 in battle against invasion lines newly reinforced by 38 or more divisions.

The Government Information Bureau officially credited both regulars and guerillas with heavy inroads upon Hitler's military manpower, but said there were no substantial shifts in position yesterday.

Red Army troops based in the Leningrad sector destroyed 86 German planes and captured such loot as 78 field guns, seven tanks, two armored cars 90 mortars, and 424 machine-guns in addition to killing 16,000 men from March 9 to 22, the Bureau said.

The mid-day communique said more than 600 Germans had been killed or wounded in two local fights on the western and southern fronts and that two populated places had been captured. It said the Germans lost 13 tanks out of 35 in one of the fights while in another southern sector area 14 German tanks were destroyed.

A reserve division counter-attacking on the Kalinin front was routed by Russian capture of 17 of its 50 screening tanks and slaughter of 700 of its men.

The Red Meat Grinder

The army newspaper Red Star said German losses in counter assault against Soviet pressure on the Central front were so great that the operations could be described as the equivalent of passing through a meat grinder.

Guerillas have killed 4,257 Germans, destroyed 340 supply trucks, derailed 16 trains and blown up five gasoline tank cars over a brief period in the region of Orel, Nazi-garrisoned railroad city 200 miles south of the capital, the Moscow radio said.

Soviet fleet units sank a German submarine in the Barents Sea, it was announced.

37 Auxiliaries Are Represented At Cobourg Presbyterial Annual Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 25 (ENS)—More than one hundred and fifty delegates, representing 37 auxiliaries in the Cobourg Presbyterial, attended the 16th annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society for an all-day session at St. John's United church on Tuesday. Coming from all parts of this important district members, who began arriving at nine o'clock in the morning, were officially welcomed by the Presbyterial President, Mrs. S. Gray, of Garden Hill, who presided for the meeting. Assembling in this town for the first time in eight years the ladies were cordially greeted on behalf of the local organization by the honorary president, Mrs. G. W. Hammond, while Mrs. J. R. Bick, a representative of the Seymour branch of the United church, responded.

A highlight of the meeting and a fact which made delegates particularly anxious to attend, was the presence of Miss Winnifred Thomas of the Toronto W.M.S. office, who not only lent her ingenuity to arranging the most interesting portion of the afternoon program, but in simple direct language that made a deep impression on the gathering, delivered the evening address as well. In this she made an appeal that could hardly go unanswered, for the continuance of missionary work in war time.

The morning session was devoted primarily to general business and welcoming delegates together with a devotional period and the appointment of committees.

To more adequately demonstrate the theme "Do you know our work?" the five fields in which the W.M.S. is particularly interested were reported on by various delegates. The first of these, on China, was presented by Mrs. J. D. Mills of the Campbellford branch, who told something of the vast amount being undertaken in this important field. She told delegates the principal field was in South China and Honan province, where some 50 million Chinese from the occupied territories had fled. Here the work is threefold—evangelistic, educational and medical, and in the latter are not only doctors, nurses and missionaries but trained native workers as well. She said the mission stations stood as a sanctuary to the many victims of the war. Reporting for Western Canada, Mrs. May Roberts of Colborne said that 26 missionaries located in 18 centres there were contacting students in schools and organizing various church groups. Considerable time is set aside for work among the Indians and the Japanese, many of whom appear loyal to Canada and have demonstrated this by assisting in enterprises designed to raise funds for the war and by helping the Red Cross. Africa, where work began in 1886, was given by Mrs. Anderson of Brighton; and Eastern Canada, where there are 7 missionaries 'at large' was described by Mrs. George Helson of Warkworth. Following these five talks Mrs. E. C. Roberts, president of the Campbellford branch conducted a quiz designed to illustrate the knowledge members had of the various fields. The following committees were appointed

Death Of a Reformer

It is interesting to notice that in the score or more of editorials which have so far appeared in the press of this Dominion referring to the death of James Shaver Woodsworth, the leader and founder of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, not one has failed to speak in the highest terms of his courage and his complete sincerity. These have not been the usual editorials evoked by the death of a national figure; these have not been empty phrases of regret, beneath which a sigh of relief is clearly audible. Few newspapers in Canada had any sympathy with Mr. Woodsworth's views, but there were few which did not respect him.

The late leader of the C.C.F. was a reformer, and he chose to lead the hard life of a reformer, accepting the disapproval of the multitude as a circumstance of his life no more to be heeded than the weather, and having his sole reward in the thanks of those whom he served, for thanks was their sole riches. In a country which is perhaps the most conservative and cautious democracy in the world he espoused a brand of socialistic doctrine which was necessarily unpopular and, when war came, a pacificism which found little support, even in his own party. We owe him a debt of gratitude. Canada lags considerably behind Britain in social and political thought, and Mr. Woodsworth brought to the Dominion a breath of the advanced spirit which is commonplace enough in Westminster, but rare on Parliament Hill. It is not necessary to agree with a reformer's views to feel that their expression may be stimulating. For twenty years Mr. Woodsworth served as adrenalin to our body politic.

A man who really knows what he thinks is always in a preferred position and will always win the respect of other thinkers, even though they may disagree with him. The important men in the more powerful political parties placed a high value on Mr. Woodsworth's parliamentary utterances for they knew that he gave the true opinion of a minority. His enemies were to be found chiefly among those who did not think, and who resented anyone who attacked their deeply rooted prejudices.

Mr. Woodsworth was well-known in the Peterborough area, for his wife, formerly Lucy L. Staples, was born in this district, and one of his daughters is Mrs. Ralph Staples of Cavan. He had many friends in this district who will mourn him sincerely.

A great troubler of Parliament, Mr. Woodsworth will trouble it no more. There is no doubt that this sincere man will be more deeply missed than would a dozen of those who never give any trouble at all.

An Insoluble Problem

Our valued contemporary, the Chatham News, has published an editorial which interests us very much; it is called "Nasty Reading," and it discusses the problem of the magazines which find their way into this country and which are of doubtful benefit to the reading public here. With some parts of the News editorial we are in complete agreement, and with other parts we disagree as completely. The subject, therefore, is one which may profitably be discussed at greater length.

The magazines in question are described by the writer as "those that appeal to the baser instincts of nature and exercise a bad influence morally." We cannot quite agree with this. The magazines in question deal very largely with sex, and we deny that sex is a base instinct, though it may be treated basely. Nor do we believe that such magazines have a bad moral influence on anyone whose moral fiber is of average durability. A child which has been given a good home training may be exposed to these magazines without any fear that it will be corrupted by them. Crime has a fascination for the young and for many adults, but reading about crime will not make a criminal of a child which has a good home life. Conversely, the banning of these magazines from Canada will not prevent criminality from breeding in bad environment.

The News continues: "The gaudily painted or scantily clothed pictures of women on the covers make an appeal to curious youth, who seek to acquaint themselves with things that might better be imparted in the home, or the schools, or by the family physician." Then let the home do its duty in this matter. But we submit, with all the tact at our command, that there are things which young people cannot learn at home and which they must know. The News says: "The real cure lies in encouraging a desire for a change of mental food; then to provide it in a palatable form." Precisely, and here again the duty of the home is clear. But in what "palatable form?" It is a fact that much of the greatest literature deals with the same subjects as the offensive magazines, that is, crime and sexuality. But who can doubt that it is better for the young to learn of these things from Shakespeare, Chaucer, Tolstoy, Balzac and others than from the pulp magazines? The formation of taste must come in the home and in school.

On the whole, we are against banning things from Canada, unless they are obviously cheaply obscene publications. Banning leads to such stupidities as the present refusal to allow James Joyce's Ulysses, a modern masterpiece, to enter the country. The people who impose bans rarely distinguish between obscenity and art. The cure lies, as the News suggests, in a more determined education of taste in the home and in school. When that is accomplished we shall not need to worry about the magazines with thg gaudy covers. But, unhappily, the dispute about tastes is a never-ending one, and involves some extremely personal matters, and so the problem must remain insoluble, until the millenium, when all men are pure in heart.

Don't Be Surprised

The Gallup Poll of Canada is an exceedingly earnest institution, and like many earnest institutions it is somewhat lacking in understanding of human nature. Despite its official manner, it is unable to conceal a certain surprise that eight per cent. of Canada's population has not heard about the forthcoming plebiscite, and that 42 per cent. of the population think that they are being asked to vote for or against conscription. We are not surprised; a little sad, perhaps, but not surprised.

In every country there is a cetrain part of the population which takes a keen interest in national and international affairs and is able to offer intelligent opinions about them. This is the part of the population which does most of the talking and writing, transacts most of the business, and controls, directly and indirectly, most of the voting. It is the part of the population which is meant when references are made to "the people."

The rest are either frankly uninterested in public affairs or have a badly scrambled idea of what is what in the great world. Many of them are young people who do not feel that politics is any concern of theirs and who do not use their votes. Some are people whose confusion of mind prevents them from getting any theoretical matter straightened out in their heads. Some are simply ignorant. These people are, in a sense, carried by their keener and more responsible fellow-citizens, and it is always a slight shock when their true state of mind is discovered. These are the people who, being more easily stirred emotionally than intellectually, fall under the spell of rabble-rousers and demagogues.

Their existence is a matter for sorrow, perhaps, but not for deep concern. They have always existed, and always will exist, though their numbers are being whittled down by the general spread of education. Why, a woman was found in England recently, by a mass-observation group (a form of English Gallup poll) who had never heard of Hitler, though she knew that there was a war on. Has she any relatives in Canada?

Are You a Blood Donor?

It is expected that the men who have pledged themselves to give blood for the Overseas Blood Bank will be called upon in about six weeks. Although the local Red Cross has already a long list of donors this is a type of work which can be made to accommodate almost anyone who is willing, and it is expected that the list will be considerably longer before the collection of blood actually begins.

The making of blood plasma is one of the most remarkable scientific discoveries to emerge in the present war, and we may be proud that the method originated in Canada. The new technique allows the blood to be dried to powder, which may be restored to its original usefulness by the addition of the proper proportion of distilled water. This simple but revolutionary discovery will be the cause of saving many lives in the future, as it eliminates the former bulky method of transporting blood and so allows large quantities of the plasma to be kept at field hospitals and emergency depots.

The giving of blood is not a painful or even an exhausting business. Blood donors rarely find that it makes any difference to them, save for the small amount of time that it takes, but they do a very real service by their donations all the same. At present men alone are being asked for blood, though there is no real reason why women should not become donors also. They will be called upon if ever the supply should become dangerously low.

Projected Jewish Army

After some time spent in considering the matter the British Government has agreed in principle to the formation of an international Jewish army, to fight under British command, but under the standard of the Star of David. The status of such an army would be that of the Free French, the Free Poles, the Free Belgians and similar groups. It looks, however, as though "agreement in principle" was as far as the scheme would get at present, as shortage of shipping, equipment and other difficulties make it impossible to realize in fact.

The inspiration for this Jewish army comes from the Zionist colony in Palestine, and it has received some encouragement in the United States as well as in Britain. The Palestinian Jews are eager to fight, as was shown when 140,000 volunteered for active service, out of a population of half a million. There are in the world approximately fifteen million Jews, and half of these are in Axis-ruled countries; Palestinian Jews are eager to assert their nationalism by fighting to free their oppressed brethren.

It is precisely this matter of nationalism which is the fly in the ointment. British and American Jews do not, in the main, wish to be considered as a race apart. They maintain that that being a Jew is a matter of religious belief, and not a matter of race, and they have no desire to be regarded as aliens. Although the Jewish army scheme has the support of such prominent Jews as Dr. Abba Hillel Silver and Dr. Chaim Weizmann it is strongly opposed in some Jewish circles, and recently 62 American rabbis placed themselves on record as being against any such move.

Apart from this strife within Jewry itself the scheme presents the British Government with some delicate problems. If they arm the Palestinian Jews, will it drive the Palestinian Arabs into the camp of the Axis? Britain has already refused to allow the formation of a Home Guard in Palestine for this very reason and the results of the formation of a Jewish army might make the Middle East more of a wasps' nest than it is at present.

As the situation stands the formation of the Jewish army must wait until matters in the East are less unsettled than is now the case. Meanwhile, there is nothing whatever to prevent Jews who are eager to fight the Axis from joining the armed forces of Britain or America, and they have done so in large numbers. Evidently there are many Jews who are happier under the Union Jack or the Stars and Stripes than they feel that they would be under the Star of David.

STARRY NIGHT

The dew lies thick, the leaves are silver-wet—
Now I look out on night
And skies never more exquitely set
With points of trembling light.

High, high and higher — till the sight grows dim
And the sense reels—arise
The glittering armies of the seraphim,
The wardens of the skies.

How many a night have I looked out unmoved!
How through my hand has run
The glimmering stardust sands of time beloved—
And half the count is done.

Life was a house, I ignorantly thought—
A house of narrow walls;
Content, no wider dwelling-place I sought—
But now the arras falls.

Now and no sooner, looking out I see
Life not in part but whole—
And glory, glory and eternity
Press in upon my soul.

Cripps Mission To India

By HAROLD G. LASKI

THE decision to send Sir Stafford Cripps to India with a body of Cabinet proposals on which he is to negotiate with the different interests there has been received with almost unanimous approval.

Of all the leading figures in English public life, none, I think, possesses the good-will of India in a greater degree than Sir Stafford. He has been a firm friend of India's right to self-government. He and Mr. Nehru understand one another; I remember vividly a week-end with them both in the country three or four years ago when we discovered in exhaustive conversations how much good-will can do to overcome obstacles in the way of a settlement.

I shall not anticipate the discussion of the terms the War Cabinet has authorized Sir Stafford to offer. But I make the comment, first, that I think the decision not to publish them before the negotiations was a wise one. Had they been public property, it is certain that every interest in Britain as well as India would have subjected them to a torrent of pressure. The necessary give and take of discussions of this kind become quite impossible if each item of the agenda is to be debated in the full blare of pressure constrained at every point to put forward the most extreme demands they can in order to avoid the attack of the less responsible of their supporters.

THERE are hopeful as well as difficult elements in the situation. First and foremost is the fact that there is a general recognition here that a settlement is imperative, above all, in light of the Japanese danger. Second, it is clear that the proposals that Sir Stafford is taking out not only command his own approval but would not have done so unless they had gone far beyond any offer previously made to India.

Thirdly, it is no secret that the British Government now realizes that to win the full co-operation of India in the war effort is not only essential to victory but also vital to the establishment of our own bona fides in the rest of the world, not least in the United States and the Soviet Union.

It is a minor point but a relevant one that Sir Stafford Cripps has staked his reputation on the outcome of these discussions. If he is successful, nothing can prevent him from being, Mr. Churchill apart, the outstanding figure in British politics; he defines himself as the next Prime Minister. If he fails, he is likely to lose all, because there is no organized party behind him to keep from being dissipated very rapidly the almost mythological reputation he has built up since his return from Moscow. In this case, he becomes just one more in the long succession of able men who have broken themselves in the endeavor to put Anglo-Indian relations on a permanent footing.

We must not underestimate his difficulties. The simple formula of majority rule is not applicable to the Indian situation. It is useless to imagine that at this stage at least 70,000,000 Moslems will accept the power of a Hindu Raj to determine their future. There must be safeguards for the mixed Anglo-Indian population. There must be means found of attracting the princes into a future association with the British in India which at once humanizes their present-quasi-despotism power and at the same time prevents their relation to a genuinely Indian Government from becoming reactionary.

THERE must be a discovery of those psychological foundations which enable the Indian millions to give their full energies to the war effort. Though I think it is true that not a little of the Indian problem is the creation of British interests on the well-known principle of divide and rule, it is neither fair nor true to attribute all of it to British malevolence.

Frankly, it is by no means as simple a problem as Mr. Nehru (Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian Nationalist leader, successor to Gandhi) imagines; and the light in which Mr. Jinnah, the Moslem leader, sees it, would be fatal to the future of India, would mean, in fact, its Balkanization.

India, no doubt, owes an immense debt to Mr. Gandhi for what he has done in awakening it to a sense of its national consciousness and self-respect; but I must say with all the emphasis I can that the terms in which Mr. Gandhi sees the Indian problem are unrelated to the realities of the modern world. I venture to say with great respect that the economic support behind Mr. Gandhi's outlook would, in my judgment, be fatal to the future of the Indian masses.

I have no more regard for those mill owners of Bombay and Ahmedabad who supported him than I have for the Lancashire mill owners of a century ago, whose habits the American reader can discover for himself in Dickens' "Hard Times" or Mrs. Gaskell's "North and South."

SIR STAFFORD in essence has a threefold problem. He has first and foremost to convince politically-minded India that we are as honest in our recognition that, in Disraeli's phrase, the keys of India can no longer remain in London, as we have been to persuade Mr. de Valera that we have no desire to dominate the national life of Eire. I have no doubt at all that this is the conviction today of the overwhelming majority of Englishmen. They realize fully that a sullen India is a danger and not an advantage to our future.

His second task is to persuade the different Indian communities to discover terms upon which a unified British India can grow into a habit of mutual trust. He has to make, that is, a provisional accommodation out of which the will to a final settlement based on the inescapable unity of India emerges from the minds and hearts of the Indians themselves.

And thirdly, he has to make the princes, some of whom dispose of territories as big as small European countries like Holland and Belgium, to pass at a step from their present phase of quasi-feudal despotism into that atmosphere of constitutionalism which alone befits the idea of a self-governing India; 70,000,000 subjects of the states cannot be left to the untender mercies of men many of whom still live with one foot in the Ritz Hotel and the other in the 14th century.

I do not venture to predict the outcome. I do know that whatever courage and patience and a deep sense of justice can do, Stafford Cripps will do. I know, also, that he has carried with him to India the heartfelt anxiety of every Englishman who wants to win this war, that he may be wholly successful. For a free India would be the greatest victory we have won since 1939. It would prove beyond dispute that we do indeed fight for freedom and democracy.

Real Action Near in Russia

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 25 —(AP)— Renewed Nazi bombing of England's Channel coast, including the Dover bridgehead, has probably achieved one result sought by Berlin. It has revived apprehensions that Hitler may attempt an invasion.

To the extent that this resurrected invasion spectre serves to lessen Anglo-American aid to Russia in the critical weeks ahead, it would be a distinct advantage to Hitler. For there seems good reason to believe that events to come in Russia will go far to shape the pattern of the war as a whole for this year.

There is meagre detail as to the actual battle contours in Russia. Official reports from Moscow and Berlin do little to clarify either the tactical or strategic elements involved. Unofficial advices indicate, however, that the Russians have driven deep thrusts above and below the wide centre battle perimeter and are threatening both flanks of the Nazi line.

MASSING NEW ARMIES

Rumor credits Russia with massing new armies in both areas, northeast of Smolensk and southwest of Kharkov, for simultaneous attempts to lop off the right and left arms of a German attack. London reports of German armies strongly on the move again lend color to speculation that these Russian stabs may have forced Hitler into premature offensive action. It will be weeks before conditions free his massive mechanized forces for the swift action for which they are designed.

Northeast of Smolensk the Russians are credited in Scandinavian reports with having brought up fresh armies to launch a final drive at vital German communication lines. Advance elements have been noted perilously close to such key junctions of all Nazi northern communications as Vitebsk, Nevel, Velikie Luki and even Pskov. They are controlling cogs in German supply routes for all forces north of Smolensk to the Leningrad area, and for Smolenk itself.

HOLD TWO SALIENTS

Southward and under cover of the siege of Kharkov, the Russians are reported to have thrust a second drive almost to the banks of the Dneiper near the Kremenchug crossing. If that is true, they have a hold on two salients on the north face of the great southern bend of the river from which to attempt to cross into the Dneiper Plateau in rear of German armies holding the Taganrog front west of Rostov.

If they lack the power to drive either of these dangerous wedges forward to exploit their winter victories fully, the Russians will have failed to attain decisive results. The real test, both of their strategic design and their new armies, is now at hand. A few weeks at most should see developments on those two fronts, as well as in the centre before Moscow, on which some conception of the probabilities in Russia for this year can be based.

Of the two most westerly Russian spearheads, that to the south seems most immediately important. It is aimed at cracking the Nazi grip along the Sea of Azov coast east of the Rostov doorway to the Caucasus and its oil wells. A Russian victory or defeat there could alter the whole war pattern very quickly.

Committee for Total War

CITIZENS who wish to figure out what the Committee for Total War has in its mind these days have to do their figuring on the strength of obscure hints in the editorial pages of the Committee's journalistic organ, as the Committee itself is now entirely inexpressive. Two such hints emerged in those columns last Saturday. It became clear that the Committee has transferred its admiration from Mr. Meighen to General McNaughton; and it became clear also that it was no longer putting any faith in the project of detaching some of the leading English-speaking members of the Cabinet from their fidelity to Mr. King. Its approval of Mr. King's chief lieutenants is now fast disappearing; the Canadian people, we learn, "have shed a good deal of whatever confidence they once possessed in their Ministers, and even the stock of Colonel Ralston, once high, has fallen low through his failure to assert himself for an invigoration of the national war effort." On the other hand "little faith is placed in the ability of the Opposition groups to effect any improvement at Ottawa."

This looks very much like a renewal of the attempt which was made quite early in the war to draw General McNaughton into the political arena as a means of getting rid of Mr. King and establishing a "National Government." In one respect General McNaughton is a much better means to that end than Mr. Meighen, for there is not a word of exaggeration in the Globe and Mail's language about the universal esteem in which the Commander-in-Chief is held by the Canadian public; they would follow him politically, if he called upon them to do so, as unhesitatingly as his troops would follow him in battle. In another highly important respect he is much less promising. We gravely doubt whether General McNaughton regards it as his mission to get rid of Mr. King, at any rate at present, whereas we have no doubt that Mr. Meighen has always regarded it as his mission to get rid of Mr. King at any time when the opportunity seemed to offer. In other words, General McNaughton would do the Committee's job well, if he could be induced to undertake it; Mr. Meighen was easily induced to undertake it, but cannot do it well.

If it were true that the Canadian people have shed a good deal of their confidence in Mr. King's leading Ministers, General McNaughton might feel that something needed to be done about it, and that he was possibly the man to do it. But the Globe and Mail produces no chapter and verse for that assertion. The public, we suggest, is suspending judgment, a little impatiently it may be, to see what action "for an invigoration of the national war effort" will be taken on the strength of the results of the April plebiscite. It regrets the necessity for the delay, but understands, perhaps somewhat vaguely, that important considerations of national unity afford a reason for it. We know of no evidence that Mr. Ralston's stock is at a lower quotation than this time last year, and Mr. Ilsley's has been rising, not spectacularly but steadily, for a long time; he is a man who reacts well to responsibility. The present Cabinet may not be all that could be desired by the "young men in a hurry" who are among its most active critics, but it is far from being a weak Cabinet, and we see no sign that the voters regard it as such—Toronto Saturday Night.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly. Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

I and my Father are one.—John x, 23-30.

A Bit of Nonsense

A fair motorist was driving along a country road when she noticed a couple of linemen climbing a pole. "Fools," she exclaimed to her companion, "I suppose they think I can't drive a car."

Most of the car-owning families have never purchased a new car. They depend upon second, third or fourth-hand cars for their transportation.

Too Progressive

After pulling up a young lady who was driving a car, the policeman said to her sternly:

"And, miss, did you know that not only were you on your wrong side, but you were travelling at 50 miles an hour in a built-up area?"

"Oh, isn't it marvellous?" exclaimed the sweet young thing. "And I only learned to drive yesterday!"

"Perfect" Answer

From small beginnings, the family row had become a raging storm. The woman drew a long breath and addressed her husband.

"You're crazy, you're worthless, you're shiftless, you're bad-tempered" —she paused for a final effort—"and you're a thorough liar!"

"Well, my dear," said hubby, with a soothing smile, "no man is perfect."

Of Course

Mother was slow to comprehend what seemed so perfectly clear to little Sue. The pride of the family was talking about a "fedder."

"A 'fedder'?" mother questioned.

"Why, you know, Mummy," patiently explained Sue, "it's a leaf from a chicken."

Subsidies Loom To Hold Meat, Groceries Down

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP).—First of a series of mo es aimed at maintenance of the price ceiling on groceries and meats—a program which seems likely to result in payment of Federal subsidies on a wide range of essential food products—has been taken by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

An order was made public last night which will have the effect of reducing in some cases the cost of certain meat and meat products to retailers. Effective immediately, the order permits any retail store to buy me t and meat products obtained from cattle or hogs at a cost not greater than the highest price paid by that store to the same packer or wholesaler during the basic period, September 15-October 11 last.

Previously a meat seller, under the maximum prices regulations, could charge all his customers the highest price obtained from any individual customer during the basic period, providing the usual discounts and terms of sale were maintained. Now packers and wholesalers must observe their individual maximum prices to each store.

Hits The Packer

The order made public last night lessens the burden on many retailers but in effect makes more difficult, than before the position of the packer. Livestock prices are higher than they were a year ago because of increased demand at home and heavier cattle exports to the United States, along with Britain's orders for bacon.

The price ceiling does not affect the price which farmers receive for a steer; but a ceiling does apply when the meat reaches the butcher. Higher livestock prices thus reduce the packers' operating margin, as does the order reducing the prices which some butchers will have to pay for meat.

Difficulty has also been experienced in the highly-competitive grocery trade, and it has been recognized that even with all possible economies—through elimination of "frills" and general simplification of merchandizing methods—assistance will still be necessary if the ceiling is to be maintained.

An official of the board said the board has "decisively rejected" any suggestion that the price ceiling on meat and groceries be raised. It takes the view that such goods are essential, and their cost to the consumer must not rise.

As an alternative, it was said, the Board must arrange subsidies for products which cannot be kept under the ceiling by other means. In the case of some imported goods the need for subsidies may be eliminated by reduction or elimination of tariff duties.

38 Rescued By Canadian Navy

Battered by mounting seas, the grounded after section of an Allied merchant freighter lies grounded on the reefs off Sable Island, near Canada's coast. In a daring exploit of seamanship and at the cost of one Navy man's life, 38 seamen were rescued from the wreck. Before these photographs were taken by a patrol plane of the R.C.A.F., the forward part of the ship had broken away carrying 10 men to their death in the icy waters. The upper photo was taken before the rescue. BELOW the abandoned ship is shown barely visible above the surging waters.

Fall Wheat Has Wintered Well

Fall wheat came through the winter in fine condition, David McIntyre of Otonabee remarked to the Examiner today.

"I just drove down from Lindsay, and I saw more snow up in that section than in our own township," he said. "There was no damage of any extent in the wheat fields, that I noticed, but we are not out of the woods yet."

F. C. Paterson said a day like this one, with considerable front during the twenty-four hours, could do a lot of damage to a field of wheat that looked green after the snow had gone.

"Three weeks from now will tell the story," he said. "From all accounts the crop wintered well. I have seen a few brown spots, but they are not of any account."

MacArthur Out To Help Press Get War News

United Nations Headquarters, Australia, March 25 — (AP). —Gen. Douglas MacArthur, though saying "I am an old censor myself," has pledged himself to get news for newspapermen covering his headquarters rather than suppress it.

The general's promise was made yesterday during his off-the-record discussion with correspondents and it was permitted to be published today.

'My main purpose," he said, "is not to suppress news but to get news for you.

"The reason for efforts by the United States and Australia to inform the public what is going on is that if it does not know the truth its imagination operates, thereby reducing confidence.

"Silence will begin to react against you. It therefore is a crime. It is important that the public should be told so it can summon confidence and determination of puropse in support of the war effort.

"I want your help, without which we cannot get that maximum effort needed to win.

"I am an old censor myself. What I have said does not mean what we give out here you have to take and use or that you are limited to canned news and cannot use your brilliancy.

"It does not mean you must abstain from criticism but I hope that before you criticize you will avail yourselves of the facts. If you do you will find most criticism disappears.

"When you start to tear down public confidence in military leaders you practically destroy an army.

"I am always glad to give you my full knowledge or opinion on any subject but as background only."

Must Have Public Support.

The supreme commander of the United Nations in the southwest Pacific declared there has been "nothing more astonishing in the progress of this war, which is really the application of the mechanics of force to human nature, than the position occupied by public opinion.

"One cannot wage war under present conditions without the support of public opinion, which is tremendously moulded by the press and other propaganda forces.

"Men will not fight and die without knowing what they are fighting and dying for. The care with which the enemy keeps the truth from his people and tries to incline their minds toward certain channels and to implant certain ideas shows the weight he lays upon it.

"In the democracies it is essential that the public should know the truth.

"The old days called for a censorship embodying a method of control in which the emphasis was placed upon preventing the leakage of information of military values

"The censorship of these days has gone infinitely beyond that.

"There is almost a voluntary censorship now. No one wants to help the enemy. The moment the public knows that anything printed has inadvertently or unwittingly helped the enemy it will demand that such aid be stopped."

Exchanging Envoys

THE Paris radio broadcast a report today that Yosuke Matsuoka, former foreign minister, had been appointed Japanese ambassador to the Holy See while Cardinal Morelli would be apostolic delegate to Japan.

The broadcast was recorded by Exchange Telegraph.

Matsuoka, largely responsible for Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy, has been out of office since last July.

Getting Ready For Plebiscite

Vincent Eastwood, Sr., who has been appointed plebiscite returning officer for the riding of Peterborough West has already opened his office at 383 Water street, Room 15, and preparations for the local carrying out of the plebiscite vote on April 27 have been commenced. Douglas Hammond is acting in the capacity of plebiscite clerk.

Mr. Eastwood announced this morning that the same polling booths used at the last Dominion election will be used on this occasion as far as possible and owners of these properties are asked to get into touch with him.

It is provided that the candidate who had the highest vote at the last Federal elcetion, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., shall have the privilege of naming the enumerator and the deputy returning office for all the polling subdivisions which have odd numbers while the candidate with the next highest vote, R. M. Glover, will name the officials for the subdivisions having even numbers. In all some 108 enumerators will be required, one for each polling-subdivision.

The deputy returning officers will appoint their own poll clerks, it is explained.

Hot Bath Good For Relaxation

After a tiring day, or a late evening, sleep is often impossible due to over-exhaustion. It is unwise to attempt to force sleep by reading or eating when overtired. What you need is rest—complete relaxation of the nervous system. The warm bath induces relaxation more than almost anything else. The value of the hot bath, according to an eminent authority, lies in its effect in increasing circulation.

To make the bath particularly refreshing, add one or two tablespoons of mustard to it, mixing it first in a little cold water in the tub and then running in warm water. This prevents the dry mustard floating on top of the bath water. The action of a mustard bath on the skin is to produce a pleasant feeling of warm drowsiness that invites deep, restful sleep.

It is interesting to note that Romans used mustard in their baths in the days of the Caesars. In fact Hippocrates, who practised what he preached and lived to the ripe old age of 104, in 460 B.C. stressed unmistakably the medicinal value of mustard, just as many modern doctors say, "Nothing that has been concocted for acting upon the skin has the value that is to be found in pure mustard." It is one of the old simple herbs still proving its worth.

23 Men Adrift 11 Days In Rickety Boats

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—A crew of 23 men and four officers who spent 11 days on the ocean in two rickety lifeboats after an enemy sub torpedoed their ship, arrived in Brooklyn Saturday safe, well fed, and as one weary seaman said, "happy as hell."

They were survivors of a United Nations merchant vessel — shelled, machine gunned, and sent to the bottom on the night of March 5 off the Atlantic coast. All crew members were picked up by a large general cargo ship 11 days later.

A U.S. Navy Ensign authorized this statement by Tom Brevet, 3rd officer aboard the ship, the 66th officially announced victim of enemy submarines off the United States Atlantic coast since Jan. 14:—

"At 8.25 p.m. the night of March 5, I was on the bridge when we were attacked by shell fire. The sub machine-gunned us; The captain sounded the alarm bell and we put on full speed ahead on a zigzag course for 10 minutes. After the captain sent out an SOS, the two boats, one of them leaky, went over the side. Then the sub fired a shell from 50 yards away, and the ship rolled over.

"I jumped in the leaky boat; for 11 days we alternated in bailing out water. The two boats kept close together most of the time. The third day out we signelled a plane overhead. We got no answer. For a three-day period there was no wind. We were fortunate as to food—six biscuits a day, some milk, three cups of water, pork and beans.

"On the 11th day, we saw smoke, and the ship picked us us."

CANADIENS, CHICAGO FORCE THIRD GAMES IN "B" AND "C" SERIES

Chicago Hawks Blank Bruins In 4 to 0 Tangle

BOSTON, March 25 —(CP)—Earl Seibert has been considered all season as Chicago Black Hawks' only real contender for all-star recognition in the National Hockey League this season, but without Seibert Hawks won one of their most impressive playoff victories last night.

Chicago's 4-0 shutout against Boston Bruins to square their best-of-three Stanley Cup quarter-final series at one win each was no more of a personal victory for Goalie Sammy Lo Presti than it was a triumph for the tireless back-checking chores Coach Paul Thomson exacted from every one of his Hawks. Bruins, winners 2-1 in the first game, were outskated and outplayed all the way.

The first period was the only time the game looked close. In the second Hawks rapped home three in the first 11 minutes and for the remainder of the game held a reasonable edge, counting again early in the third.

The 30-year-old Seibert, star defenceman and one of the most able veterans in the N.H.L., heard reports of the game from hospital bed in Chicago. Forced out of action with a sinus infection, it is not known whether he will be fit enough to play in future Chicago games this season.

A Kitchener Product

Seibert is completing—or perhaps has completed—his 12th season as a professional. Born in Kitchener, Ont., his last amateur club was the Kitchener Greenshirts (junior). He turned professional in the 1929-30 season with Springfield Indians. This has been one of his greatest seasons.

But when Hawks started to move last night, even presence of Seibert wouldn't have made much of an improvement in the club. Bill Mosienko got the first goal in the fourth minute of the second period from Bob Carse and Red Hamill. Alex Kaleta bagged his first of three scoring points with Hawks' second goal six minutes later, from Bill Thoms and George Allen. Bill Carse got the third that period, from Kaleta.

The third-period goal was scored by Allen, with Kaleta and Bill Carse drawing assists.

Third and deciding game of the series will be played here Thursday night, the winner advancing to meet the winner of the Montreal-Detroit series in another best-of-three round to decide an opponent for the winner of the Toronto-New York series in the Stanley Cup final.

Three Shutouts Recall '36 Feat

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP).—Three shutouts were scored in as many National Hockey League playoff games last night—six years to the night after a similar mark was put on the playoff books in 1936.

Last night, Montreal Canadiens defeated Detroit 5-0, Goalie Paul Bibeault getting the shutout; Chicago Black Hawks evened their series with Boston Bruins, winning 4-0 with Sam Lo Presti in the nets and New York Rangers turned back Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0, while Jim Henry was impregnable in the Ranger goal.

On March 24, 1936, Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens played 116 minutes 30 seconds of overtime before the Wings won out, 1-0, Norm Smith getting the shutout. That was the year Detroit won the Stanley Cup, Boston defeated Toronto 3-0, with Tiny Thompson in the nets, and New York (now Brooklyn) Americans turned back Chicago 3-0, Roy Worters receiving the credit.

Shutouts also were scored on April 2, 1927; March 19, 1929, in the days before the playoffs were put on a sudden-death-overtime basis, and on March 23, 1935. Two games were involved in each case.

In 1927, Boston and New York Rangers played to an 0-0 tie while Ottawa Senators were walloping the Canadiens 4-0. In 1929, Boston shut out the Canadiens 1-0 and the Rangers and Americans played to a 0-0 draw. In 1935, Boston defeated Toronto 1-0 after 33 minutes, 26 seconds of overtime; Montreal Canadiens and Chicago battled to an 0-0 tie.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Hail to the Petes, 1941-42 O.H.A. senior B champions. Coach Jim Ellis's speedy crew brought a successful campaign to a brilliant close in the Maple Leaf Gardens last night when they defeated Merritton Hayes Wire Redmen 6 goals to 2. That victory gave the Petes the series by 3 games to 1, with one game tied. That the better team won the round the sporting Merritton crowd were the first to admit. Although beaten on their second appearance in St. Catharines and tied at home on soft ice, the Petes dominated the play even in those two games and in their three wins their superiority was convincingly demonstrated. Merritton tried hard, gave the best they had every time out and went down fighting to a better club. The Merritton management and players took defeat like real sportsmen, were quick to congratulate the Petes after last night's victory and the two outfits parted on good terms after a fine series for the honors. Fred Cameron, Merritton manager and other Redmen executives have made a decided hit with the Petes by the manner in which they accepted defeat and by their attitude throughout the series.

Every member of the Peterborough organization is entitled to credit for helping to bring Peterborough its second O.H.A. championship in three seasons and its first senior B title. The morale and team-spirit of the whole crew throughout the season would put any college team to shame. There has been marvellous harmony throughout the whole campaign. No crabbing, no jealousy, nothing but a real desire on everybody's part to co-operate in winning a championship. No player has been looking for glory and all that has mattered all season is that the team should win. Your columnist has travelled around with many sporting organizations in the past 38 years but fails to remember one in which the team spirit was so high and the harmony so great as in this new championship outfit. There are no temperamental Tommies in the 1942 Petes; just a bunch of level-headed boys who have had a whale of a lot of fun playing together and a whale of a lot of respect and affection for each other. For the wonderful spirit that has existed, primary credit goes to the boys themselves with an orchid or two to Coach Jim Ellis and Manager Fred Scates who are both deservedly popular with the players.

The Petes have had a great season and are undoubtedly convincing champions of their division. After dropping their first game on their own ice, a 6 to 5 loss at the hands of Belleville Reliance the Scates-Ellis team got rolling and they swept through the schedule games to take first place with nine wins and three losses, and a lead of two full games over their nearest opposition. Meeting Whitby Palm Billiards in the group finals the Petes took the best-of-five series 3 games to 1, winning both games here, losing one at Whitby and finally grabbing off the group title by beating Whitby 9 to 3 in a game on Oshawa ice. Collingwood Shipbuilders were the Petes next opponents and they were bowled out in two rough games. The Soldiers took the first one in Collingwood 6 to 4 and playing on Oshawa ice as their home rink defeated the Northerners 10 to 2 in the second game. Then came the final series with Merritton which the Petes have taken 3 games to 1 with a fifth game tied. Altogether the Petes have played 23 O.H.A. games this season, winning 17, losing 5 and tieing one. Strangely enough only nine of the 23 games were played at home. Proving themselves one of the best road teams in Peterborough hockey history, the Soldiers have played 14 games, including eight out of their 11 playoff battles on foreign ice. Ten of the away-from-home fixtures have been victories.

Petes Had The Punch

As for last night's game there was no doubt in anybody's mind as to the superiority of the winning team. The Petes had too much drive and dash for the boys from the St. Catharines' suburb, and the scoring punch of the razzle-dazzle line who came up with four goals and helped Don Crowe pick off a fifth was more than the Redmen could deal with. The second line also turned on the heat but were outlucked time after time. Harding was fine in the nets and the work of the defence was sound as it has been all season. As in the game at Oshawa the Petes' margin of victory on the play might easily have been considerably larger. Clement beat them often and they helped him a bit by some off-the-target shooting. But the winners skated miles, did not forget to backcheck and never stopped trying. The result was a convicing win that satisfied everybody at the Gardens that the better team had been crowned with the victor's laurels.

* * * * * *

Many well known Peterborough old boys watched the Petes bring home the bacon. One was Les Ascott, Argos rugby star. Another was Nels Foster, former Peterborough junior player, who is wearing the blue of the navy. And another celebrity, a man who was long connected with Peterborough hockey and who saw the Petes perform last night was Billie Breen who trained several Peterborough championship teams in the old days and still has a soft spot in his heart for this city. Breen who once used to condition Fred Whitcroft, Harold Armstrong and other Peterborough stars of yesteryear and who doesn't look much older than he did then had a great time fanning with Rollie Glover, who with Secretary W. A. Hewitt and Past President Jim Sutherland, the dean of Kingston hockey, watched the battle from up in the press-box. The president of the present Peterborough club was a player on a number of squads trained by Breen who was a comedian as well as a trainer. There never was a dull moment when he was around, especially when he produced an old tin whistle and insisted on playing it.

A Reversal Of Form

It was a night of startling reversals of form in the Stanley Cup playdowns last night. In the first place the New York Rangers really got rolling to whitewash the Toronto Maple Leafs 3 goals to 0 at New York and put themselves back into the running for the Stanley Cup. Then the Chicago Black Hawks, after having been beaten at home Sunday night 2 goals to 1 went into Boston and scalped the Bruins in front of all their own folk 4 goals to 0. Canadiens completed the shutout parade by shellacking the Detroit Red Wings 5 to 0, the biggest trimming in the playoffs so far. The latter two games were a bigger surprise than the result at New York. After all the Rangers had finished first in the league race with one of the highest scoring records yet hung up and it wasn't in the cards that an outfit like that should be beaten three times in a row. They outplayed the Leafs all through the battle and won 3 to 0. And that was without any help from the Hextall-Patrick-Watson line which has still to be heard from.

* * * * * *

The margin piled up by Canadians in shellacking Detroit and the 4 to 0 win of the Black Hawks over Chicago were real upsets. True Canadiens had made quite a stand in Detroit before yielding a 2 to 1 win but not even the most frenzied Montreal rooter looked for a 5 to 0 victory in the return game. The Flying Frenchmen played the Wings off their feet and Jack Adams must have had plenty to say when it was all over. As for the Chicago-Boston game, Frankie Brimsek had made such a good job of stopping the Hawks at Chicago that another Bruin victory on the same pattern was looked for. Instead of that the Black Hawks turned it on to blank the Rossmen 4 to 0.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: It was Honey Tompkins' third championship in three years. He was with the Petes when they won the intermediate A title two years ago, helped Kingston Combines to win the senior B title last year after being picked up as a military replacement and now is back again on another senior B winner.... The Globe and Mail report says the Petes were full value for their win, showing rare combination on the offense.... There was jubilation in the Petes' dressing room as the players trooped in after their victory.... Merritton officers and some of the players dropped in to shake hands.... After the blurbs in the Toronto papers yesterday the Rangers just naturally had to smear the Leafs all over the scenery.... Weakest feature of the Petes' work was their shooting. They tossed away a lot of chances by firing off the mark when within range.... Art Heal crashed into Hand with a heavy body check near the end of the second period and the Merritton winger to retire from the game with an injured leg.... Jim Sutherland, Kingston's grand old man of hockey was rooting hard for Honey Tompkins last night recalling the help the Peterborough player had given the Combines last season.... Bruce Bennet's parents were up from down Belleville way to see him perform last night and the little centre player had to fire a goal for their benefit.

Canadiens Jolt Red Wings In 5-0 Lacing

MONTREAL, March 25 — (CP)—Detroit Red Wings today were counting on the charm that has been with them on home ice for the past several weeks to work in their favor when they clash with Canadiens in the third and deciding game of their best-of-three Stanley Cup playoff series in Detroit tomorrow night.

Manager Jack Adams, however, told his charges in no uncertain fashion that they better not depend on any mystic powers if they hope to wipe out the humiliation of last night's 5-0 lacing which enabled Habitants to square the series at one win apiece.

The Red Wings who had looked much the better team in gaining the series edge with a 2-1 win at home last Sunday, found the order reversed in the second meeting as Canadiens literally ran rampant through them and were held to but five goals only by the brilliant work of Goaler Johnny Mowers.

Neither club showed the 11,398 Forum fans they're going to be any shakes along the cup trail unless they show decided improvement, but the wiseacres were of the opinion that Detroit couldn't be as bad as they were last night two games in a row, and figured Canadiens will face a tougher assignment when the clubs meet in tomorrow's payoff struggle.

After playing on even terms for little more than 12 minutes, Canadiens got the break they were after when Pat McReavy took a tripping penalty. The Habitants swarmed around the Detroit net to pepper Mowers, but it was a lone dash from the centre area by Rookie Jim Haggarty that started the Canadien splurge. The youngster took his own rebound off Mowers' pads and pushed the puck along the ice into the net.

That seemed all the incentive Canadiens needed, for over the next two periods they outplayed the hapless Wings easily, and picked up two more goals in each session.

Terry Reardon got the second Canadien goal on a play with Toe Blake and Butch Bouchard got to Mowers for his first goal of the campaign to send Canadiens three up. The last two Canadien goals in the third frame came for the sticks of Joe Benoit and Gerry Heffernan, the last while Alex Motter was serving a penalty.

The only outbreak of temper was when Toe Blake exchanged blows with Mowers, when the latter charged Blake from behind.

Referee Bill Chadwick gave Blake a minor penalty and awarded a penalty shot to Canadiens, which was protested by Manager Adams. Charlie Sands, however, failed to make good on the attempt against Mowers.

4 Local Rinks Enter Bonspiel

Four rinks from Peterborough will enter the Brereton-Raw bonspiel, now going on at the Toronto Granite club, on Thursday, March 26, it was announced from Toronto yesterday.

The play is now in full swing and many rinks have been turned away because of the great numbers attempting to enter the 'spiel.

Ray P. Best, Peterborough, last year's bonspiel winner, will play A. E. Woollard of Bobcaygeon.

J. H. Sedgwick, Peterborough, will play W. S. McKimmie of Lachute, Quebec.

T. F. McArthur, Peterborough, will play D. H. Charlton of Lakefield.

R. F. Downey, Peterborough, will play J. Curtis of Fenelon Falls.

Unknown Rookie Beats Best At Pinehurst NC

PINEHURST, N.C., March 25 —(AP).—Les Kennedy, a 24-year-old unknown rookie who had never finished higher than a tie for fifth place in the winter meets, beat a field of golfing greats here yesterday in the first round of the 72-hole North and South Open championship.

Kennedy, playing in at the fag end of the day, shot an eyebrow-raising 32-34—66, six strokes under par, equalling the course record and taking the lead from defending champion Sam Snead and the 1940 king, Ben Hogan, who already had posted fine 67's.

Trying for birdies on eight of the first nine holes and for an eagle on the other, No. 5, Kennedy bagged four birdies. Coming back he had the course record in his pocket until he three-putted on the 16th hole.

Until yesterday Kennedy had never been a threat. But he worked hard on the full winter circuit and finished tenth in Bing Crosby's tournament on the West Coast and tied Henry Pickard for fifth in the Beaumont, Texas, open — his best previous effort.

Two shots back of Snead and Hogan came seven stars at 69; Lawson Little, the one-time amateur champion; Byron Nelson, former open and P.G.A. champion; Craig Wood, the current national champion; Lloyd Mangrum, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.; Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio; and Purvis Ferree of Pinehurst.

Bracketed at 70 were Rut Coffey of Hagerstown, Md.; John Kinder of Plainfield, N.J.; Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich.; Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass., and Ellis Maples of Plymouth, N.C.

The 71 list included Henry Picard, Ray Mangrum, Jimmy Hines, Felix Serafin and Johnny Palmer, from nearby Badin, N.C.

The low amateur was Frank Allan of Pittston, Pa., with an even par 72, tied with Joe Kirkwood Jr. of Daytona Beach, Fla., son of the trick shot artist.

Hamilton Ready To Pull Out If Game Refused

By the Canadian Press.

A question which has been in the forefront in Eastern senior amateur hockey gossip this past week as to the relative potentialities of Quebec Aces and Glace Bay Miners in the Allan Cup playdowns for Dominion honors, will be partially answered to-night when these two teams open a best-of-five Eastern semi-final series in Glace Bay, Nova Scotia.

While the teams prepared for the important test, the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association announced in Montreal that negotiations were under way with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to have one game of the series played in Quebec City. The second game is slated for Glace Bay on Friday, with the original schedule calling for the remaining tilts to be played in Montreal.

In the other Eastern semi-final picture, Ottawa's Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers and Hamilton Majors readied themselves for the second meeting of their best-of-five affair in Toronto to-night. Winners of the first game, 3-1, Flyers were quietly confident they could trim the Majors again.

Talk that Hamilton would withdraw from the series after to-night's meeting unless the governing body granted a game be played in Hamilton, still was in the air to-day. Some decision on the request will likely be made by C.A.H.A. officials to-day.

Except for the absence of Hamilton's Stan Robertson who broke his arm in the first game at Ottawa, it is believed the teams will be unchanged. Majors said last night they would appeal to the C.A.H.A. to obtain a suitable replacement for Robertson and would not use Leo Gasparini, a junior they intended to bring up.

Meanwhile on the junior hockey front, Oshawa Generals and Ottawa St. Pats were prepared for to-night's game in Ottawa. Generals are expected to find the situation a little different on the smaller ice surface at the Capital, than the big Toronto Garden where they beat St. Pats 6-4 in the first game of their best-of-five series.

The other two clubs remaining in the Memorial Cup hunt from the East, Halifax Canadians and Montreal Royals, are not scheduled to open their best-of-three affairs until Friday night when the Maritimers appear in Montreal.

Lethbridge Cuts Calgary Out 3-1

By The Canadian Press

In the senior division of Prairie hockey Lethbridge Maple Leafs advanced to Allan Cup interprovincial competition last night by defeating Calgary Stampeders 3-1 in the sixth game of their scheduled best-of-five series. The Maple Leafs will begin a best-of-five western semi-final against Port Arthur Bear Cats at Calgary Thursday night. Port Arthur holds the Thunder Bay-Manitoba titles.

In the other senior western semi-final, Kimberley Dynamiters of British Columbia and Saskatoon Quakers of Saskatchewan begin their series at Saskatoon the same night.

In junior company, the highly-touted Fort William Hurricane Rangers, the best of the Thunder Bay loop, are expected to give the Manitoba champions, Portage la Prairie Terriers, a stiff battle in the western semi-final best-of-five series starting at Winnipeg Thursday.

Edmonton Maple Leafs, Alberta champions, and Regina Abbotts, Saskatchewan champions, will start their western junior semi-final best-of-five series at Regina Saturday.

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP) — There seems to be no end to the surprises connected with Friday's Louis-Simon fight... 'Called For Rain' Taboo In Ball Broadcastings

OTTAWA, March 25—(CP).—In Canada as well as in the United States baseball fans who listen to broadcasts of games probably have heard the last of the umpire's familiar cry—"Game called on account of rain."

Canadian regulations mean that "radio stations simply don't broadcast weather reports any more, except under special conditions," said an official of the Radio Censorship Department on Tuesday.

(An announcement from Washington last night said that such broadcast reports would violate the wartime censorship.)

"Existing censorship directives governing weather broadcasting are pretty explicit on the matter," the official said.

He added that Canada and the United States are working "hand-and-glove" in radio and press censorship.

While the regulations contained no specific reference to baseball broadcasts, the informant said broadcasters were well aware of the spirit of the directives and were advised to consult censorship authorities for ruling on doubtful questions.

Newspapers west of Montreal and east of British Columbia generally will be allowed a little more freedom, but readers in coastal areas will simply be told the game will not be held.

PETERBORO SOLDIERS CAPTURE O.H.A. SENIOR 'B' CHAMPIONSHIP

Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal Trio Score Four Of Goals As Merritton Is Beaten 6 to 2

Outskating and outplaying the Redmen over the whole route Peterborough's Soldiers defeated the Merritton Hayes Wire team 6 goals to 2 at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, last night to take the final O.H.A. Senior B series 3 games to 1 and bring Peterborough its first championship in that division.

The victory of the Petes was even more decisive than the final score would indicate. Although Merritton attacked oftener than in the game at Oshawa last Wednesday and had more scoring chances than they had then the winners did most of the attacking throughout the entire three periods.

The Redmen scored the first goal and were on even terms at the end of the first period, with the score 1-1 but the Petes had dominated the territorial play. Two quick goals by Bun Kingdon spaced only 20 seconds apart gave the Soldiers a 3 to 1 lead at the end of the second period and they ran in three more in the final twenty minutes before the Redmen finally registered their second counter in the last minute of play with the winners shorthanded through a penalty to Joe Blewett.

It was the stream-lined, free-wheeling, razzle-dazzle line of the Petes that carried the scoring punch in the final dash for the championship. The Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal trio fired four goals and collaborated with Don Crowe in bagging a fifth. Bun Kingdon, climaxing the most successful season in his hockey career sparked the sniping line by figuring in five of the Petes' six goals. He scored two himself and had assists on three more. Held scoreless for the first time in the series, Honey Tompkins nevertheless had a big hand in four of the Petes' counters, grabbing off four assists. Art Heal, skating miles, both on the attack and in decidedly effective back-checking, rounded out the fine performance of the first line by driving home two markers.

They Had No Luck

The Petes' second line showed a lot of good hockey but was badly outlucked when it came to scoring. This was especially true of Joe Blewett. The leftwinger was fairly flying and four or five times he cascaded down the ice and whirled round the Merritton defence only to have Clement block his shot or miss by inches. Bruce Bennett fired the only goal credited to the line during the battle.

In goal Ray Harding had considerably more to do than in the last game and he came up with some fine stops of close-in shots. In front of him the defence combinations of Crowe and Jopling and Godfrey and Burton checked very effectively and all four rushed more than usual, with the result that Crowe, Jopling and Burton all figured in scoring play and Godfrey might have with any luck.

Clement was again the Merritton star. The Redmen's goalie had a flock of shots to handle and he made a fine chore of it, foiling the Petes on numerous occasions by smart saves. In front of him Desson played a lot of defence. The starting line of Saunders in centre and Melville and Hand on the wings was much the better attacking division, although young Brian Robinson, the junior right-winger of the second line was a standout individually on a number of shifty rushes.

Mostly From Peterborough

One thousand fans, the vast majority of them from Peterborough or Peterborough old boys and girls saw the battle and gave the Petes plenty of encouragement in their battle for the championship. Three hundred travelled to Toronto by special C.N.R. train and many others motored to the Queen City. They were rewarded by seeing a convincing win by their favorites. It is true that the Soldiers have given better allround performances in earlier games than they did last night when a lot of their attacking plays just failed to click but in spite of that fact they had the fight and the drive and the will-to-win and came though like real champions to take the honors. They skated faster than the Redmen, back-checked more consistently, broke faster and had more teamwork than the boys from the Niagara peninsula. In the five-game series the Petes won three games and tied, as against a solitary win for Merritton and that record leaves little doubt as to the superiority of the new Senior B champs.

Although Merritton had the first shot of the game, a weak drive from Saunders' stick that Harding handled easily the Petes soon began to put on the pressure and several passing plays by Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal line came close. When the second line took up the attack they were even more dangerous. Twice Joe Blewett raced through the Merritton defence, only to fire straight at Clement the first time and hit the post on a second attempt, after trying to pull the goalie out. Nichols also had a couple of glorious opportunities after nice rushes but failed to click.

Merritton Score First

After all these close calls Merritton broke into the scoring column first. They got a break when Kingdon, Heal and Tompkins were all trapped back of the Merritton blue line when a passing play was broken up. Joe Desson raced out from the Redmen's defence area, flanked by Hand. A wide pass, perfectly timed, to Hand beat the Petes' defence and the right-winger fire a beauty into the corner of the net to put the Steel men in front. They did not stay there long, however, for less than three minutes afterward Kingdon set up a perfect scoring play for Art Heal and the little left-winger cashed in smartly. Kingdon slowed up until Heal coasted in behind the Merritton defence and then relayed a forward pass to his line-mate who beat Clement from four feet out to tie up the score. The Petes had a number of chances to flash out in front before the end of the period but their attacks failed to jell or were beaten off by Clement.

Speedy dashes by Joe Belewett featured the early stages of the second period. The left-winger did everything but score on two or three of those raids. Later the razzle-dazzle line took up the attack with so much zip that two or three times they had not only Clement but a couple of his teammates piled up in front of the Merritton net to keep the rubber out.

Two Quick Goals

The Redmen succeeded in holding the Petes at bay for some time, despite frequent close calls but at last two quick goals by Bun Kingdon, the first coming at the 13:20 mark and the second 20 seconds later spelled the end of the championship trail for the Redmen. Kingdon fire the first at close range, picking a corner, after a passing play with Honey Tompkins and right from the faceoff the Petes stormed in again and Kingdon scored from a mixup in front of the Merritton cage with Tompkins and Drake Jopling drawing assists on the play.

Merritton tried to fight back and young Robinson was in twice on clever stick-handling plays but was smothered before he could get a shot away. The period ended with the score still 3 to 1. The third period was not two minutes old when the Petes went further out in front with the sniping line getting together on a scoring thrust. Tompkins and Kingdon combined through the defence. Clement flopped to block Kingdon's shot but the rebound was picked up by Heal who back-handed the rubber squarely into the middle of the empty cage.

With the Petes three goals up the pace slacked appreciably and there was some ragged hockey in the next few minutes. Joe Blewett drew the first penalty of the game for slashing but almost immediately after Spancheff was chased for hooking Bennett after the latter had got a breakaway. A little later Tompkins and Morgan got into a mixup and were sent off together but nothing much happened when they were off. When Nichols got the gate after the sides were even again the Petes kept up the pressure even although shorthanded and Don Crowe put them four goals up by back-handing a rebound into the net after Tompkins and Kingdon had figured in an attack.

A minute later Bruce Bennett made it 6 to 1. Nichols started a rush, passed to Burton outside the Merritton blue line and the defence player put Bennett into the clear with another neat pass. Bennett's quick shot caught the top of the net, beating Clement all the way.

With Joe Blewett off Merritton got the last score of the game in the final minute. Melville did the trick. Left unchecked in front of the Petes' net, he took a pass from the side by Robinson and back-handed a close-range shot past Harding.

How They Look In the Majors

Jack Sords Sizes Up the Big League Teams

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, March 24.— Those Brooklyn "Bums," good enough last year to win more games than any other Flatbush team in history, rate another "win" ticket this year.

The so-called experts are divided in their play on this race, but the heavier stuff may go on the Cardinals because of their spirited 1941 fight for the flag despite crippling injuries. Be that as it may, but the Dodgers can't be counted out of any predictions and probably will be a close second choice of all selectors.

Most of the same faces are back, and that means top pitching, timely hitting, good defensive play and an aggressive manager. The rookie contingent isn't so heavy, but it backs the customary possibilities.

Vaughn Added.

Draft has taken one regular infielder, Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, who enlisted in the service on the west coast, and Claude Corbitt, a rookie.

Winter trades added Johnny Rizzo, outfielder, from the Phils; Arky Vaughn, the Pirates shortstop, and Don Padgett, the hard-hitting catcher-outfielder of the Cardinals.

The pitching staff, headed by Whit Wyatt, 22-game winner, and Kirby Higbe, also a 22-game winner last season, is well fortified with the holdovers, Hugh Casey, who won 14 last season; Curt Davis, 13-game winner; Fred Fitzsimmons, who managed to add six more wins to his big collection, and Larry French, Johnny Allen, Tom Drake and Newell Kimball.

The new pitchers include Bob Chipman, southpaw star with Atlanta last season; Ed Albosta, a 15-game winner with Durham before he worked in a couple of games for the Dodgers late in the season; Ed Head, 18-game victor with Montreal; Chet Kehn, 16-game winner with Montreal; Al Sherer, 14-game victor at Montreal, and Jack Kraus, 18-game winner at Durham. Chipman, well-liked according to newsmen covering the camp, won 17 games for Atlanta last season.

Dapper Liked.

Mickey Owen is the No. 1 catcher with Herman Franks, back from last season, in the No. 2 slot. Big Babe Phelps was sold during the winter. Cliff Dapper, a big backstop from Hollywood, is catching the eye of the Dodger staff in the Havana camp and he may win the job as Owen's chief understudy.

New infielders include Les Burge, a left-handed batting first baseman who socked the ball for a .311 average with Atlanta last season, and Vaughn, who hit .316 for the Pirates.

In the outfield, Manager Leo Durocher is looking over Tom Tatum, who hit .347 for Nashville until the Dodgers brought him up late last season and then shuffled him off to Los Angeles; Jack Graham, from Montreal, and Rizzo and Padgett.

The old infield standbys, Dolf Camilli, Peewee Reese and Lew Riggs are ready for duty and Joe Medwick, Pete Reiser, Dixie Walker and Augie Galan will take care of the outfield chores.

Rangers Perk Up To Snatch One 3-0 On The Leafs

By H. M. PETERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 25 —(CP)— The Stanley Cup series between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers, which after the first two games appeared to be a walkover for the Leafs, today was a real contest, thanks to a sparkling 3-0 victory the Rangers scored last night.

Calling upon the seasoned brilliance of the Colville brothers-Shibicky line that this year has been overshadowed by the play of Phil Watson, Bryan Hextall and Lynn Patrick, the Rangers outplayed the Leafs on the offence, out-steadied them on the defence and gave ample support to their young goalie, Jim Henry, who achieved his second professional shut-out.

The Rangers, National Hockey League champions, and the Leafs, their runners-up, will resume the four-of-seven series at Toronto Saturday night in the knowledge that it must go at least five games. Whereas before last night there had been talk the Leafs might clean it up in four games, now predictions were freely expressed in New York that it might go a full seven games before the cup finalist is decided.

The fifth game will be played here Sunday; if sixth and seventh games are needed they will be staged at Toronto on March 31 and in New York April 2. Toronto opened the series with a 3-1 victory at home last Saturday and followed it up with a 4-2 decision here Sunday.

A space of four minutes early in the second period proved to be the Leafs' downfall in the third game, and left winger Nick Metz was the goat. He held Bryan Hextall against the boards and went off with a penalty.

Peering over the side wall, he watched Alex Shibicky score on a well executed play in which both his linemates and Patrick had a hand. Five Ranger forwards broke in a wave across the blue line, Patrick carrying the puck, he shuttled it ahead to Mac Colville who relayed it to Neil Colville. While defenceman Bingo Kampman and Wally Stanowski tried desperately to intercept the puck Neil sent it flying across the rink to Shibicky who blazed a 20-footer between Goalie Turk Broda's right leg and the post.

With the teams at full strength, and Toronto pressing for the equalizer, little Grant Warwick snared a loose puck and gave a blueline pass to Alan Kuntz. The left winger raced in around defenceman Bob Goldham, faked a pass to Warwick and suddenly shot. Broda, uncertain as to Kuntz's intentions, was caught off guard and the puck hit into the cords behind him.

Those two goals would have been plenty as the play went. But the Rangers scored again in the third period. Defenceman Art Coulter started the play and after a relay to Neil Colville the puck went to Mac Colville who pivoted quickly and sent the rubber sliding across the ice, aimed at the corner of the net. Broda jabbed out his foot, but the puck was deflected off his skate into the goal. It was Mac Colville's third goal of the series, giving him top honors in that department, as he scored both Rangers goals in the second game.

Thinks Leafs Done

After the game Coach Frank Boucher declared the Rangers are on the upsurge and expressed his belief that the Leafs cannot again achieve the peak they achieved in the first two games in which he conceded they outplayed his squad

On the other hand, Coach Happy Day asserted that while the Rangers held a clear edge in the third game, they still have to win at Toronto to get back on even footing and he did not believe they could do it.

Day used the same squad that had run roughshod over the New Yorkers, while Boucher made one change. He benched veteran centre Clint Smith, who appeared stale, and dressed young Hub Macey, using him and Alf Pike alternately between Warwick and Kuntz.

Both squads came through the three games without serious injury, although Boucher reported Bill Juzda, young defenceman, had a charley horse which he hoped will be clearel up by Saturday.

Present Reserve Training Useless—White

OTTAWA, March 25 (CP)—Capt. G. S. White, (Cons-Hastings-Peterborough), said Tuesday in the House of Commons that Canada's reserve forces, as now constituted, are "practically useless."

He was speaking in resumed debate on Finance Minister Ilsley's resolution for a $135,000,000 supplementary war appropriation bill for the current fiscal year.

He said the reserve army was being trained only in parade ground drill and bayonet practice. They had no modern arms, he said.

"If an emergency arises it would be criminal to expect them to engage and fight an enemy equipped with modern weapons," Capt. White said.

He asked what Canada was doing about the spring offensive.

"Our spring offensive will come April 27 when the people will be asked to vote yes or no to a meaningless question," he said, referring to the man-power plebiscite.

He prophesied Canada would be bombed and possibly invaded.

"What happened in Hong Kong and Singapore can and probably will happen here," he said.

"Are we still living in a fairyland and saying it can't happen here?" he asked, urging immediate and intensive training of the reserve army with modern equipment.

Post War Plans Well Up

Pensions Minister Mackenzie says more progress has been made in Canada in planning for post-war reconstruction than in any other country.

He spoke in the House as a House committee was set up to review the work of departmental and other committees in that field and make further plans.

The minister made only a brief statement on the motion to set up the committee which was one of a number of items advanced on the House of Commons order paper. Altogether the House made more progress in advancing business yesterday than in any other day this session.

Apart from hearing Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement on plans for manpower mobilization and setting up the post-war committee the House:

Gave third reading to bills providing for a $1,000,000,000 gift to Great Britain, amending the Prairie farm assistance act and providing for the continuance of wheat acreage reduction bonuses;

Set up a committee of ex-servicemen from the last war and members serving in the forces in the present war to investigate and report on administration and distribution of canteen funds;

Debated a resolution from Finance Minister Ilsley, preliminary to the introduction of a supplementary war appropriation bill of $135,000,000 to wind up war expenditures for the present fiscal year;

Voted suspension for the sitting of Liguori Lacombe of Laval-Two Mountains, leader and sole House member of the new "Canadian Party," for disregarding rulings of the Speaker.

Mr. Mackenzie told the House he would make a full statement on what has been done so far and what is proposed by the government with regard to post-war reconstruction when the new committee starts its work. He said he did not expect the committee to complete its task this session.

Wheat Bill Still On

The amendment to the prairie farm assistance Act and the wheat acreage reduction bill are two of three measures embodying the government's 1942 wheat policy which were considered by the Agricultural committee. The third bill which raises the guaranteed minimum price for western wheat from 70 to 90 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, is still before that committee.

Debate on the supplementary war appropriations bill brought a number of suggestions from Dr. Herbert Bruce (Con. Toronto-Parkdale), including:

Appointment of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps overseas, as "Minister of War and deputy Prime Minister."

Shorter speeches in the House by reducing the present 40-minute time limit on speeches to 15 minutes;

Abolition of Hansard; the official report of debates, for the duration of the war.

3 Million Ready For Ontario As Tax Deal Ends

TORONTO, March 25 — (CP). — The Ontario Legislature its work interrupted by the negotiations that preceded the transfer of corporation and income taxes to the Dominion Government, reconvenes to-day and will deal immediately with legislation to validate the tax transfer.

The session opened on February 11 and adjourned just one week later on February 18 when Premier Hepburn admitted he could not proceed with his budget until an agreement had been reached with Federal authorities on the tax matter.

Last Thursday Premier Hepburn announced the two Governments had made a deal; the Legislature would reconvene on March 24 and validating legislation would be pushed through as speedily as possible so that the province would obtain a certain portion of the subsidies before the end of the fiscal year March 31.

Some $3,000,000 is at present in the Federal Treasury which will be paid over immediately the agreement is validated by the Legislature. This amount is part of the $28,964,039 which the Dominion has undertaken to pay the province annually in return for acquiring sole taxing rights on income and corporations. The figure constitutes the revenue realized by the province from these sources for the year ending March 31, 1941.

A Gas Tax Refund.

Under the arrangement Ontario is also guaranteed the same revenue which accrued from the gasoline tax in that year. In 1941 the net revenue from this tax was $26,608,290 and should this year's receipts drop below this figure as a result of rationing the Federal Government undertakes to make up the difference.

Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, the Conservative Leader who made the original suggestion that the Legislature adjourn until the tax transfer had been completed, will not be in his seat to-day and the Opposition will be led by Leopold Macaulay, member for York South. Col. Drew is in Ottawa participating in the inquiry concerning the dispatch of Canadian troops to Hong Kong.

S. White (Con. Hastings-Peterborough) had the floor and that Mr. Lacombe was out of order.

"If you wish I will go out of the House," Mr. Lacombe said, "but you are being unfair on this question, absolutely unfair."

"If the honorable member continues to defy the chair I shall have to name him," Speaker Glen warned. "I hope he will not impose that unpleasant duty on me."

"Mr. Speaker, it is not you, it is the government that is doing this," Mr. Lacombe replied. He then remained silent while two Liberal members, W. A. Fraser (Northumberland) and W. G. Weir (MacDonald) crossed the floor, apparently to reason with him.

Some minutes later Mr. Lacombe crossed the chamber to take a seat by War Services Minister Thorson and his conversation with the minister prompted Mr. Speaker to ask him several times to be quiet.

The Final Warning

But Mr. Lacombe made several interruptions of Capt. White's speech and Speaker Glen declared: "My patience is almost exhausted. The honorable member is deliberately defying the chair. I cannot allow that to continue and I warn him now that if he persists in further interruptions I shall certainly name him."

A few minutes later Mr. Lacombe again interrupted Capt. White who was still speaking.

"I am compelled by the honorable gentleman," Speaker Glen said, "to take a step which I hoped I would not have to take. If he has any explanation to make of his conduct or any apology to make to the chair, I shall be glad to hear it now."

"I am not Hitler in this House of Commons," replied Mr. Lacombe, who by this time was sitting beside a Liberal member in the government front row of benches. "I am not a Quisling in this House. I am a Canadian, that is all."

"Apparently there is no explanation and no apology to the chair or the attitude of the honorable member," said Mr. Glen.

"I therefore name him—Mr. Liguori Lacombe. The honorable member will withdraw."

The sergeant-at-arms moved to Mr. Lacombe's side as Finance Minister Ilsley arose to complete the formality.

"I believe," he said, "that the practice is that the minister leading the House or the senior minister present moves that the honorable member be suspended for the remainder of the sitting. I so move."

Mr. Speaker put the question and declared it carried as Mr. Lacombe, protesting verbally, but not physically to any apparent extent, was led from the chamber.

Lee Would See Japs Eye To Eye

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP).—When Hong Kong fell to the Japanese, Wing Kim closed his Tom Lee Chinese laundry in Brooklyn. Lee, as he was known to his customers, considered the fall of the city a personal blow, for his wife, Rena, was there.

He locked his doors and placed a sign in his window telling his customers he was joining the United States army and they would find their laundry in a nearby shop.

Lee's one big ambition was, and still is, to get a personal crack at the Japanese, but after he signed up with Uncle Sam's forces he was assigned to an artillery unit training in North Carolina.

In a letter to the Daily News today, Lee called himself "Valueless Me," and made it clear that he wanted no part of long distance artillery.

Said he:

"I am now learning big guns department with which I would never be able to see the enemy with my own eyes, even when my course is complete.

"So I wish somehow to make me able to join the machine-gun corps so in the future I can see the enemy in my own eyes."

$16.88 FOR FUND

City Treasurer Shaver informed the finance committee of the council last night that he had on hand $16.88 from the sale of tins cans. The money will be given to the British War Victims as directed in a motion by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Sullivan.

IT CAN HAPPEN....HERE

Here's a paragraph glimpsed in a main street magazine arriving on the stands today: "What we need in Canada, as is needed everywhere, is a universal and deadly serious realization that the war can be lost. It will serve very little useful purpose if we wait too long for that realization....Even 1943 may be too late."

MILK FOR BRITAIN.

The Brinton Carpet Company's employees made their fourth contribution on Tuesday to the Milk for Britain Fund, J. A. MacDonald of the Royal Bank, treasurer of the fund, announced today. This fourth contribution amounted to $5.00. A donation of $1.70 is reported by the Kinnettes from Barbara Wallace of 241 Prince Street, who recently broke her leg and charged her friends for putting their names on the cast.

COUNCIL MEETS APRIL 7

The April meeting of the city council will be held on Tuesday the seventh instead of the first Monday of the month which is a statutory holiday as Easter Monday.

ARRESTED IN CAFE

Three Millbrook men, arrested in the Hollywood Cafe last night appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of drunkenness and asked for an adjournment until Friday. His Worship demurred at the delay but finally when he learned that the police witnesses were not available he remanded the trio until Friday, setting bail in each case at $50.

THE WRONG ADDRESS

A story from Cobourg the other day dealing with the case of a man named Fred Turner who had been arrested there, gave Turner's address as 72 Park street, Peterborough. The Cobourg police have been informed that that was the wrong address and that Turner really boarded at another Park street address during the time he was in Peterborough.

Discharged Men Exempt From Poll Tax

A proposal by Alderman Swanston that men who have been discharged from military service be exempt from poll tax in 1942 and 1943 was adopted by the finance committee of the council last night.

"Some men who volunteered for active service and have been in one or another branch have been discharged as unfit for military duty," Alderman Swanston said, "and the council has the authority to exempt them from poll tax. I think we ought to do that much for them."

The members of the committee endorsed the suggestion, and although it was mentioned that exemption might be granted for the duration of the war, Mayor Hamilton said it would be better to specify the term and extend it later.

Alderman Dutton moved the resolution embodying the exemption and Alderman Swanston seconded it. Presentation of discharge papers is the only requirement of applicants.

Hold Newspaper As Vital War Service

OTTAWA, March 25.—(CP).—Elliott M. Little, director of National Selective Service, said to-day that he agreed with Labor Minister Mitchell that newspapers should be regarded as an essential service and nothing should be done to deprive them of qualified persons to ensure their efficient publication.

Mr. Mitchell, at a press conference last night following announcement of the National Selective Service plan by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, saiad newspapers should be looked on absolutely as an essential service in Canada.

"Of course, if a newspaper has more employees than are required, steps should be taken to deal with such a situation.

"On the other hand, if newspapers needed more help we would be sympathetic to transferring men from non-essential work if such would be feasible."

Mr. Little said nothing would be done to disturb key men in newspaper work.

In the United States, keymen in newspaper and radio activities were offered deferment of services provided the draft board was shown in each individual case that the man was essential.

In an order-in-council tabled yesterday by the Prime Minister an "essential" work was defined as that "appearing to the Minister of Labor to be essential for the defence of Canada or the efficient prosecution of the war or essential to the life of the community."

It was understood that war services boards were also accepting the viewpoint that newspapers were essential to maintenance of public morale and were therefore a vital part of the war effort. This would mean that men who could not be spared from newspaper officves would be granted postponements in compulsory training.

Dr. Karel R. Rybka To Address Club

Dr. Karel R. Rybka, guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A. will discuss conditions under the present regime in Central Europe, his somewhat provocative title being "Which came first, 'Mein Kampf' or Hitler."

Dr. Rybka, noted in the field of Canadian Engineering since 1928, graduated from the University of Prague in 1923. Returning to Czechoslovakia in 1937, he obtained his degree of Doctor of Science, and will speak from first hand information obtained in Europe at that time.

Toronto representative of Walter J. Armstrong, consulting engineer, Dr. Rybka has designed the mechanical work for some of our largest buildings, notably the Royal York Hotel, The Toronto Stock Exchange, Maple Leaf Gardens and Eaton's College Street store.

His work in connection with the buildings at Genelco Limited, has made him a weekly commuter to this city, and Supper Clubbers will appreciate this opportunity of learning of the actual conditions in this important part of the war scene.

Nine Applied For Enlistment With P.W.R's

There has to be a first time for anything that happens—and so it is with the Prince of Wales Rangers. The Examiner published pictures of the first officer, first N.C.O. and the first private to be accepted for service with the unit. They were first in each branch of the unit. To-day we have to report the unit had its first sick parade. R.Q.M.S. James Field was reported under the bed clothes one day this week with an attack of flu. Fortunately the attack lasted but a few hours, and the R.Q.M.S. is back on duty again. No picture will be published of the R.Q.M.S. on that account.

A recruiting committee has been formed to arrange for publicity and Major R. C. Honey has been appointed to head the committee as chairman. Members of the committee are Second Lieut. R. O. Standish, Second Lieut. Lorne C. Bateman, Sergts. Hull and Weir, and Corpl. E. J. Guerin.

It will be the duty of this committee to bring to the public attention all matters of interest which will encourage recruiting for the Rangers. It has been tentatively planned to use the radio, theatres and newspaper as mediums to get their message across to the public.

It was pointed out this morning that those contemplating enlisting with the Rangers may come to the Armoury at night and be medically boarded. In this way, they would lose no time from work and it also affords convenience for everyone in general.

Corpl. E. J. Guerin of the Rangers was inadvertently mentioned as being appointed to the rank of acting lance-corporal, while actually he is a full corporal. Our apologies.

Following seventeen applications for enlistment with the Rangers on Monday, nine more presented themselves at the recruiting office yesterday to be medically boarded.

The first trade pay allowances to be made known on orders appeared to-day. Pte. E. Elias and Pte. P. Cavanagh, who were sent to the Rangers as clerks will draw trade pay in Group C.

Acting Sergt. J. F. Burnham has been ordered to proceed on a course of instruction to the District Pay Office at Kingston in the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps.

Three more men have been added to strength. They are:

PTE. HAROLD DAVID WHITE, Married. Next of kin, wife, Mrs. Mildred Winnifred White, 145 Hunter Street East, Peterborough.

PTE. LEO JOSEPH ENGLISH, Single. Next of kin, mother, Mrs. Margaret English, 565 Bethune Street, Peterborough.

PTE. CECIL ALLAN BOWES, Single. Next of kin, mother, Mrs. Edna Bowes, 127 Rubidge Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Obituary

FRANK PATTERSON

The death of Frank Patterson, 49, in hospital last Thursday has left a gap that is hard to fill. He was a loving son, husband, father, friend and neighbor and his tragic death is mourned by a host of relatives and friends. The funeral was held Saturday.

He was born on the 5th line of Dummer and attended public school at Cottesloe. He was a son of the late Archie Patterson and Martha Small. Frank went west at the age of 17 and he and his uncle, John Patterson and three sons took up vast tracts of land and called the new town, Dummer, Sask.

Being mechanically minded he gave up farming and entered the garage business at Avonlea, Sask. Five years ago he came east and settled at 90 Hunter street W., Peterborough and continued his calling where in this time he made a host of friends which was testified at his funeral on Saturday, by the throngs who attended and the great number of floral tributes.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and three children, Grant, Gordon and Vera and also his mother.

Pall-bearers were: George Kearney, Lorne Scott, F. Blackburn, Percy Edwards, Harry Clancy, Frank Turner.

Flower-bearers were friends of the deceased.

His pastor, Rev. H. L. Roberts of George Street Church spoke in highest praise of the deceased and brought a message of comfort to the bereaved from the text "For me to live is Christ, to die is gain."

The large funeral cortege proceeded to Warsaw Cemetery where Rev. Roberts conducted the burial.

Plenty Of Visitors

BROCKVILLE, Ont., March 25—(CP)—Directors of the Thousand Island-St. Lawrence River-Rideau Lakes Association at a meeting here last night agreed that in spite of all the hardships of motor travel people will holiday this summer regardless of the restrictions but will take shorter trips.

Consequently the Association will carry on a similar publicity campaign in the same manner as during the peak year of 1940.

Inspecting The Military Training Centre

Major-General T. V. Anderson, D.S.O., inspector-general of the forces in Eastern Canada, visited the training centre for six hours on Tuesday. He showed a personal interest in the trainees and on several occasions called out individual men and questioned them as to their rations, their quarters and their training. From LEFT to RIGHT the party is seen in one of the camp kitchens: Major C. L. Wallbridge of the Training Centre staff, and second-in-command; Lt.-Col. L. F. Grant, G.S.O. 1, Kingston; Brigadier Logie Armstrong, O.B.E., D.O.C., of Military District No. 3; Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, O.C. of Training Centre; Major-General Anderson and Corp. William Hurd of Centre's cook staff.

Inspector General Visits Military Training Centre

Maintaining his long reputation as a soldier for taking in every detail, Major-General T. V. Anderson, D.S.O., Inspector-General of the Forces in Eastern Canada subjected the Military Training Centre here Tuesday to a six-hour inspection. At the end of that time he expressed satisfaction with the camp and the manner in which it is conducted.

The Inspector-General was accompanied by Brigadier Logie Armstrong, District Officer Commanding Military District No. 3, with headquarters at Kingston. Major Garrow, who was also in the party and during the day inspected the administrative records of the camp. Brigadier Logie Armstrong was accompanied by Lt.-Col. L. F. Grant, general staff officer for the Kingston Military District. Colonel Grant conducted an inspection of the training program and watched three platoons, one from each of the three training companies undergo an examination in tests of elementary training, the first in gas, another in first aid, and still a third in their training in the use of the rifle.

The Inspector-General and entourage arrived at the Centre sharp at 9.30 o'clock and within a minute and a half the inspection was under way. The inspecting officer was accompanied on his tour of the camp by Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Centre.

Interest In Men

As in the past General Anderson showed personal interest in the men undergoing training, and at various times throughout the day men were selected by him at random and questioned regarding their quarters, training and food. The sleeping quarters were first to come under the eye of the inspecting officer, and from there General Anderson paid a visit to the men's kitchens. Here he found a class of 18 cook trainees dressed in their "whites" undergoing instruction in the carving of a side of beef. The inspecting officer was informed this was one of the regular periods of the cook trainees' daily instruction by Lieut. W. A. Bowerman, officer in charge of the class.

The Salvation Army canteen was inspected and during his visit the General had a friendly chat with Captain H. W. Tyson, the Protestant chaplain at the camp. An inspection of the camp hospital following, the inspecting officer stopping to chat with some of the soldier patients confined to bed. On leaving the hospital he expressed his appreciation of the excellent arrangements to Captain C. D. Hewitt, R.C.A.M.C., officer in charge. The addition to the sergeants' mess since the last inspection appeared to meet with the approval of General Anderson. The new quartermaster stores building, in charge of Captain D. A. Loomis, was the next objective of the inspecting party, and here General Anderson inspected the clothing records and other documents in connection with the stores. The party then visited the new dental clinic and medical inspection building, the General questioning Captain Jolly, Canadian Dental Corps, and Captain P. W. Earles, R.C.A.M.C., regarding the appointments of the new building.

The entire inspecting party were guests of Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler at lunch, and following the repast the party spent two hours in the Centre Orderly Room where the administrative records were examined in detail. The party left the Centre at 3.30 o'clock for an inspection of the Canadian General Electric plant.

Driver Is Given Term Of 10 Days

Robert Hamilton, R.R. 11, Peterborough, was found guilty of drunken driving by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Tuesday afternoon and sentenced to ten days in jail. As the car he had been driving when he became involved in an accident and was subsequently arrested was his own property, an order was issued that it should be impounded.

The charge originated in an accident on George street near the C.P.R. station in which a car driven by Hamilton collided with an automobile driven by John Ascott, Keene road and the evidence of the crown witnesses was heard at the morning session.

In the afternoon Hamilton testified that he had had two drinks of beer at 4 o'clock on the day of the accident and none after that and as a passenger in his car testified that the accused was sober at the time of the accident.

However Magistrate Langley found the accused guilty on all the evidence.

T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared for Hamilton and the prosecution was in charge of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Student Given Month In Jail

One month in jail was the sentence imposed upon David William Joyes by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had found the Windsor student who has been taking a special war training course at the local Vocational School guilty of stealing a purse and $14 in cash from Mrs. Frank McCarthy.

Although Joyes swore that he had not touched Mrs. McCarthy's purse or money and accounted for expenditures he had made by stating that he had $18 with him when he came to Peterborough to start his course, His Worship found him guilty on the evidence of Mrs. McCarthy and the other crown witnesses. Joyes had been boarding at the McCarthy home when the money was missed.

In cross-examination by Crown Attorney McElderry the accused admitted having been given suspended sentence on a theft charge in Windsor and also to having been sentenced to imprisonment in the same city on a charge of vagrancy.

Joyes had no lawyer and told the magistrate that he had nothing to say when asked if there was anything he had to offer in the way of argument.

Acquit Collins Selling Count

Declaring that the crown had failed to prove that the accused was in sole control of the premises, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning found James Collins, Douro street, not guilty on a charge of keeping liquor for sale.

The charge arose out of a raid made by provincial and city police on a cottage on the River Road, north of Nassau several weeks ago and the evidence in the case was heard last week, after which Magistrate Langley reserved judgment until this morning.

"I have come to the conclusion that the presumption under Section 149 does not arise in this case," said His Worship. "The prosecution has not proved that the case of ale and the five bottles were in the possession of the accused."

Magistrate Langley pointed out that the quantity of beer having regard to the number of persons found around the premises that night was not excessive.

"The evidence suggests that it was a place for gambling rather than a place for drinking," the magistrate added. In dismissing the case His Worship told Collins that the circumstances were very suspicious but that he did not think that technically the crown had proved its case.

A second charge against Collins of operating a common gaming house was withdrawn by the prosecution and the accused pleaded guilty to being found in a gaming house and was fined $10 and $3.25 costs.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Collins and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted.

Norman Andrew Passes Away

Agent of the Massey-Harris implement Company for the last thirty-four years, Norman Andrew died at his home, 316 Pearl avenue, Tuesday.

Illness several months ago compelled him to give up his work in the firm of Hall and Andrew, Simcoe street, and intimations reaching his friends of late had virtually abandoned hope of his recovery.

Mr. Andrew was born near Welcome, son of the late Samuel Andrew and his wife, Jane Galloway. He had lived on the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway near the Lillico farm prior to moving into the city.

As Massey-Harris agent he was widely known throughout the farming district of this county and its adjoining townships. He was regarded as an expert in the repair of farm machinery and always advised the best care of those machines. Hall and Andrew's shop has been something of a rural forum, and a source of information for Examiner reporters, who will greatly miss Norman Andrew and his sound, homespun philosophy. One of his fixed opinions affirmed that the successful farmer combines industry with a broad outlook, and was not given to travelling the country in an automobile.

Mr. Andrew is survived by his wife, the former Muriel Caldwell, and two sons, Samuel Andrew, a signalman in the fifth armored division of the Royal Horse Artillery regiment and Norman at home; and also by one sister, Mrs. Edward Butler of this city.

The funeral will take place Friday at 2.30 p.m. from the family residence, 316 Pearl avenue, to Little Lake cemetery, and the service will be conducted by Rev. George S. Easton, D.D., of Trinity United church, of which Mr. Andrew was a member.

War—25 Years Ago

MARCH 25, 1917.—German torpedo boats bombarded Dunkirk. British force advanced up the Diala River, 60 miles northeast of Baghdad. French government protested to neutrals against acts of barbarity committed by Germans in evacuated French territory.

Brisk Demand Reported For Seed Grain

Most cheese factories will begin operations about two weeks earlier than usual in Northumberland county, the Department of Agriculture's weekly report comments. Available seed oats is limited, but very few lots of barley are being offered for sale. Maple syrup opened at 75 to 80 cents a quart.

First prize Erban oats sold at $1.65 a bushel at the Quinte Seed Fair, Hastings reporter mentions. The twelve 10-bushel lots averaged $1.33. Top lot Cartier brought $1.55 and average price of seven-bushel lots was $1.26. Top ot O.A.C.-21 barley sold for $1.40 a bushel; average for seven-bushel lots $1.31.

Ontario county reports considerable demand for good work horses. Growers are making many requests for good seed potatoes. Frontenac says very little hay is being sold. Farmers owning sugar bushes are tapping fewer trees because of the shortage of labor.

Glengarry and Stormont report maple syrup at $2.25 a gallon with a fair run of sap. More sows will be kept in the county according to the recent farm survey.

Hay is selling at $14 to $18 in Grenville behind a fairly active demand. "Farmers are becoming more and more concerned about the labor situation."

Leeds reports output of cheese far in excess of 1941 at this time of the year, and some factories which were closed all winter are already opening for the season. Farmers report difficulty in getting bran for dairy cattle grain rations.

Spring crop of lambs is arriving in Lanark. One breeder counted fifteen lambs from seven ewes. Seed grain is in demand here and there, and elsewhere there seems to be a surplus. Indications point to sufficient supply for local needs.

Western Ontario

A few glimpses of western Ontario may be quoted from the report. Production of eggs and cream is running high in Bruce township. Plans for 1942 show an increase in the number of hogs to be marketed.

Grey county says the new lamb crop is generally good. One ewe had six lambs, four of them surviving. When the snow has gone off the fields the wheat is in excellent condition.

Alreay forty Halton farmers have applied for High school students, seed supplies are being picked up rapidly.

Champion barley sold at $4 at the Perth county seed fair. Proceeds went to the British War Victims' Fund.

Brant says enquiries for horses are increasing, and stocks of seed grain have been pretty well cleaned up. Snow is all gone and wheat is looking in grand condition.

Increasing demand for dairy cattle is evident in Lincoln. The supply of milk is barely sufficient to meet the requirements of the whole milk trade. Clovers are coming through in good condition.

Quite a number of Middlesex farmers have to buy hay and straw, and a great many are buying grain and concentrates. Young pigs are selling at $4 each. "There is much more than the usual interest in soy beans and acreage will likely be considerably increased.

Seed grain is scarce in Wentworth, and fall wheat looks in fair shape.

Production Minister

LONDON, March 25 — (CP). — A British Government representative, possibly of ministerial rank, will be sent to Washington to preside over various bodies set up to co-ordinate United States-British supplies production, an official spokesman said on Tuesday.

Lord Beaverbrook, former Minister of Production, now is in the United States advising on the creation of an international organization, the spokesman said.

The Government representative will be sent as soon as the organization is completed.

Thanks Cabled To Citizens By Lord Mayor

In the light of the most recent bombing of southeast coast towns in England which occurred on Monday night, it must come as an added source of satisfaction to those who were represented in the 16th donation of £500, which was cabled to the Lord Mayor one week ago today, that this help was on hand to play a part in helping those who had been stricken in this the latest attacks of the enemy. His Worship Mayor James Hamilton has received an acknowledgment of the arrival of this donation from the Lord Mayor of London, which reads as follows: "My grateful thanks further contribution five hundred pounds, being sixteenth donation from your citizens." The original copy of this cable is being forwarded to Rev. R. M. Patterson, the fund's representative in Omemee, for them to keep as a souvenir, in the light of their contribution being the largest contained in this particular donation.

Recently, Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church was represented in these columns with a fine donation, to which further help of $1 is added in today's list to bring their total up to $51.15 per A. I. Edmison, the treasurer of the church.

Two personal donations are listed, both of them no doubt actuated with a desire to be of help to those suffering in Britain in their own personal way.

From Keene, through the fund's representative, D. D. Brown, two penny-box collections are noted, and the box at the Regent Theatre under the benevolent eye of Gordon Miller takes the spotlight with the day's largest listing, yielding some $8.40 when collected by the secretary of the fund on Tuesday, among which was 515 of the lowest coins of the realm, with no less than six quarters and one 50-cent piece also included in the lot.

In her report, given with the assistance of branch secretaries, Mrs. Partridge announced there were 1,031 members in the Cobourg Presbytery of which 772 were annual and the remainder, 259, were life members. In all Canada there are approximately 65,000 W.M.S. members.

Model W.M.S. Meeting.

Following the luncheon which was served by ladies of the local branch, the gathering returned to the church auditorium, where Miss W. Thomas proceeded to demonstrate a model W.M.S. meeting. She was assisted in this by Mrs. A. Smalle of Warkworth, who acted as secretary with Mrs. Waite of Wooler giving the annual report for the W.M.S.; Mrs. Leckie of Frankford the report for C.G.I.T. groups, and Mrs. F. Sherman the report on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. R. Crego of Roseneath gave the treasurer's annual statement, showing a slight increase over 1940 which she felt gave the Presbytery "cause to congratulate ourselves." Mrs. Crego was of the opinion that despite the needy work being done by the Red Cross at the present time "saving human souls is more important and W.M.S. work should come first." Her statement of contributions disclosed 35 Afternoon Auxiliaries gave $5,719.92; 5 Evening Auxiliaries, $1,041.14; 4 Mission Circles, $121.44; 1 C.G.I.T. Circle, $5; [illegible] Mission Bands $510.42; 7 Baby Bands, $31.67, making a total of $7,429.59, or an increase of $24.59 over the preceding year, but nevertheless $1,570.41 under the $9,000 allocation. A vocal solo by Mrs. Allan Watson of Campbellford followed a dedicatory prayer by Mrs. McKague, and then the installation of officers was conducted by Rev. G. N. Maxwell. Mrs. H. L. Partridge gave the report of the nominating committee as follows: President, Mrs. S. J. Gray, Garden Hill; Past President, Mrs. S. Terrill; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. A. M. Smalle, Warkworth; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. J. B. Reynolds, Port Hope; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Eldred Lean, Camborne; Corresponding Secretray, Mrs. H. L. Partridge, Colborne; Treasurer, Mrs. R. Crego, Roseneath; Secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. Fred Sherman, Brighton; Secretary of Missionary Circles, Mrs. G. Cole, Port Hope; Secretary for Affiliated C.G.I.T. Groups, Mrs. H. H. Lackey, Frankford; Secretary of Mission Bands and Baby Bands, Mrs. Malcolm Waite, Hilton; Assc. Helpers' Secretary, Mrs. Edward Morton, Cobourg; Supply Secretary, Mrs. Wm. Calder, Grafton; Community Friendly Secretary, Mrs. H. Ireland, Hilton; Literature Secretary, Mrs. May Roberts, Colborne; Missionary Monthly and World Friends' Secretary, Mrs. N. Chestnut, Fenella; Secretary of Temperance and Christian Stewardship, Mrs. George Helson, Warkworth; Press Secretary, Mrs. Harry Hastings, Gore's Landing; Librarian, Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Welcome.

Evening Session.

That missions must go on even in wartime was the theme of the address delivered by Miss W. Thomas which was the highlight of the evening session. As evidence of the value governments placed in this work she pointed out that both British and Canadian officialdom acquiesced in sending money abroad to support missions. To further justify war-time missionary work she recalled that Lord Halifax had recently stated it was an essential part of the churches' program in time of war. Miss Thomas pointed to the courage displayed by workers in Honan, China, who remained at their posts while the Japs swept down through the province and added that while the missionaries had remained at full strength in Africa, Trinidad and India many had moved Westward when war came to China and 120 are in the unoccupied territory at the present time. Answering the question "Has Christianity failed with the world in such a sorry plight?" Miss Thomas told a story that served to illustrate. "Suppose you were going to build a new church and had engaged the best architect to draw plans. When the work had progressed you decide to make some alterations—no cellar under the north wing, an arch left out in one place and a pillar left out in another. The building subsequently collapses. Would you blame the architect? The lesson of the war is not that Christianity, when tried and followed, has failed, but that all else has failed, and only when we take our Christianity more seriously can we hope for lasting peace."

Turning to the future the speaker declared the opportunity that would face the Christian Church in India, when it gains independence, would be tremendous. Even now, she said, many cultured Indians are Christians at heart. "This is the end of a period of missionary work in these countries (China and Japan) and when the war is over we will begin a new period but only love of a very sincere and high quality will open the door to the missionary in Japan again." She saw the need for more extensive work in mining and fast growing industrial centres and was of the opinion that serious attention should be given the Japanese in British Columbia "where no other organization has a bigger stake in this work than the United Church." At the conclusion of her remarks the members of Brighton Evening Auxiliary presented a short play illustrating Stewardship.

Capitals Whip Indians 4-3 To Even Series

By The Canadian Press.

The four clubs still in the hunt for American Hockey League honors trained their sights on tomorrow night's encounter, and they all realize that there will be no road back if they drop that one.

The semi-finals reached an all-even stage on both fronts last night as Indianapolis Capitals came through to beat Springfield Indians, 4-3, and even their best-of-five game affair at 2-2, and Hershey Bears walloped Cleveland Barons 4-1 to deadlock their best-of-three series at one win apiece.

For Indianapolis, last night's verdict over Indians, who won the Eastern division title hands down, was additional proof that the fighting qualities which brought them from the depths to the top of the Western section standing during the regular schedule, still holds good.

Falling behind a 3-2 count early in the third period, the Caps battled desperately to get back in the fight and shortly after the halfway mark, Doug McCaig evened the count on a solo effort. Then with little more than two minutes of playing time left, Gus Geisebrecht, who was with Detroit Red Wings this season, took Jud McAtee's pass on a breakaway to score the clincher.

Hard On O'Flaherty.

It was a tough one for the Indians to lose and especially so for Peanuts O'Flaherty, who scored all three of the Springfield goals. Twice O'Flaherty came through to put Indians back on even terms with Caps. His first marker nullified Les Douglas' first period goal, then he got his second after Jack Keating tallied for Caps midway through the second period. His third tally was the one which gave Indians their first lead of the contest.

Pete Kelly and Fred Thurier laid their ground work for two of O'Flaherty's goals, while veteran Eddie Shore gave him the pass for the other.

Indians were still without the services of their regular goaler, Earl Robertson, who is on the injured list, but Mike Karakas turned in an effective game as a substitute.

Hershey displayed plenty of class in whipping their western section rivals in an action-packed tussle, and despite the three-goal edge in the final tabulation, Barons were in the fight to the last second.

Veteran Bob Gracie, who tallied two of the Hershey goals, started the scoring followed by a goal from the stick of young Bob Kirk. Don Deacon, who returned to the Baron lineup after being away sick for nearly a month, made an auspicious return by scoring the only Cleveland goal midway through the first period.

Barons wound up the scoring in the second period, when Art Pettinger and Gracie came through with clean-cut goals.

The teams resume their series in Hershey with the winner taking on either Springfield or Indianapolis, who are scheduled to settle their differences to-morrow on Indianapolis ice.

Kingston Spiel Sees Skitch Lose In Finals

KINGSTON, March 25.— A High Park rink skipped by Ken Miles won the Whig-Standard Trophy at the Eastern Ontario Bonspiel late last night, beating Percy Skitch's Ontario Tankard winning Lindsay quartette 11-7 in the title round.

The feature match of the day's play was between two Kingston rinks when the four skipped by Howard Reid won from Jack Sands' powerful rink by a one-shot margin in a thrilling quarter-final match. Sands was one up after a tied ninth end, but lost the advantage when Reid's rink scored a three which was enough to win, as Sands was held to one shot on the last end. The verdict was uncertain until the final rock was fired.

Good progress was made in the second event for the Gourdier Trophy and the semi-finals were reached. A start was made in the second consolation for the Four Roses Cup, a new award in the annual bonspiel.

3 New Divisions

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—The United States Army brought three additional divisions—the 77th, 82nd and 90th—into being today. The units are the first of 32 infantry divisions to be added this year as part of the army's initial stage of expansion to 3,600,000 men.

News From Training Camps

LAKELAND, Fla., March 25 — (AP).—In Detroit Tigers' first 11 Grapefruit League games, of which they won only three, the Bengals' team batting average was .198. Of the 71 hits, only 20 were for extra bases—two home runs—and most of those off rookie hurlers.

ANAHEIM, Calif. — News that Pitcher Vern Olsen will be lost 10 days is so much more gloom for Chicago Cubs, who have lost eight of their last nine stars. X-ray pictures show that Olsen suffered fractures of two fingers in his lift hand Sunday when hit by a line drive off the bat of Myril Hoag, Chicago White Sox outfielder.

DELAND, Fla. — Eddie Lyons, Washington Senators' version of Pepper Martin, looks like sure-'nough big league material to Bucky Harris. The 18-year-old candidate for regular second base honors has the old college try for every play. Yesterday against St. Louis Browns he spilled three opposing infielders and took two tumbles of his own.

PASADENA, Calif.—If holdout First Baseman Dick Seibert doesn't agree to Connie Mack's bonus terms soon, Philadelphia Athletics probably will start the major league season with this infield combination—Ken Richardson at first, Crash Davis at second, Javk Wallaesa at short, and Buddy Blair at third.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Manager Hans Lobert of Philadelphia Phils is keeping his fingers crossed. He has discovered a new slugger and can't believe all the good luck is true. Ronald James Northley, an outfield candidate, has put together 12 hits in 24 times at bat for a .500 average.

Salvation Army Band Grant Raised To $250

The city's grant to the Salvation Army band was increased from $175 to $250 by the finance committee last night. The grant to the Prince of Wales Rangers is $500, but no assistance is being given to the Peterborough Brass Band for the reason that it has not complied with the council's requirements relating to permanent possession of instruments.

The committee with Alderman Cotton presiding also decided to pay expenses of the Women's Auxiliary of the St. John Ambulance Brigade up to $200, on Alderman Dutton's motion seconded by Alderman Sands.

Mayor Hamilton said the women's group had carried on training for seventeen months at the Y.W.C.A., but when that accommodation was no longer available, Alderman Cotton explained, the corps moved to the fire hall where their class meets every Tuesday night.

SPRING HATS ARE ALWAYS A GOOD TONIC TO WOMEN'S SPIRIT

For Outdoor Fun

A woman's personality changes with her hat, but she always needs plenty of "wearable hats." This new "Whip-away" beret meets the mood for outdoor fun.

Spring Hats Complement To Hair-Do

Hats will be slightly insane—as usual. This condition is insurable but quite harmless. "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men"; and if a woman chooses to wear her little bit of nonsense on top of her head, where everybody can see and enjoy it, why should anyone complain? It does no harm and it give the men something to be witty about.

Your new Spring chapeau will be chosen to complement your hear-do, so don't make things too difficut for yourself. It may be of felt, straw, silk or velvet. It may be adorned with ribbons, feathers, flowers, veils, vegetables or fruit. It may be a trim tailored felt with a shady brim or shaped like something out of a surrealist's nightmare. Only one thing is certain; if you choose wisely it will suit you perfectly; in fact it will be your hat and couldn't possibly belong to anyone else.

Tailored felts are still smart, but the brims seem to be wided and curved in more dashing lines than before. They come in soft powder blue and dusty rose; in bright red; and in the old reliable navy, brown and beige.

The perennial beret is with us again—twisted into many weird and wonderful shapes—but still undoubtedly a beret. It may blackout one eye or puff high above your top-curl or pompadour. It may be made or felt or silk or straw. It may be adorned with feathers or plain; but it will certainly be smart.

Every smart girl loves a sailor hat. Whether it's little and perky or big and flattering; whether it's smartly plain or smothered in flowers. Small sailors look good with tailored suits, especially if they're given that slight touch of insanity in the trimming which relieves the severe sanity of a practical suit.

Pill-boxes and skull-caps have become spring-boards for flights of fancy. A hat in one shop-window was covered with exotic pink blooms whose stems gathered on top to make a green tuft on the pale blue pill-box. Skull-caps frequently serve as anchorage for huge bouquets, bows of veiling or organdy, or immense and ridiculous taffeta bows, or even peculiar contortions of straw or felt. All very smart, if you get the right one for you.

Bonnets are still with us; but not, thank goodness, in such numbers as formerly. They are small and demure, trimmed with flowers and veiling.

Veils, by the way, are very much in evidence. The nice thing about veils is that when they wear out, the hat is still good. Your veil may be tied in a bow on top of your head or under your chin; or it may even hang over your face, where veils were meant to be. There's no telling what kind of hat you'll find a veil on next. They may be adding a touch of romance to tailored felts or giving the finishing touch to a sartorial flower-garden. Your veil may make you exotic and alluring or slyly provocative, according to your choice.

And when you're buying a hat, remember that nothing can spoil your entire ensemble more quickly and completely than the wrong hat. You don't look right; you don't feel right; you aren't right; if your hat isn't the perfect complement to your costume and to your personality.

Always A Spring Favorite

Mother and daughter fashions are spring favorites. These dresses are made of everfast spun rayon in a linen-like weave with crisp white pique rococo scroll.

Dresses Must Be Smart, Pretty, Ultra Feminine

Suits are smart and convenient, and all very well in their way, but there comes a moment in every woman's life when a suit no matter how feminine its accessories, just won't do. She has to have a dress, and that dress must be smart, pretty and ultra feminine.

Skirts will be slightly longer and narrower this year but still full enough to permit graceful lines and freedom of movement. Rayon and cotton seem to be the predominant materials, with prints and stripes taking precedence over plain colors, although these will be worn. Combinations of plain and figured materials will be very popular.

The range of printed rayons and cottons is amazing. They range from soft, daintily printed rayons and delicate muslins, dimities and organdies, with tiny floral designs, to bold designs in vivid glowing colors spread over grounds of black or white.

Tailored styles with pleated or gored skirts are practical and popular for business and sport. These will be smart in any kind of stripe, in rayon for spring and cotton for summer. Tailored frocks that button down the front are fashionable, comfortable and easily laundered

No woman's wardrobe is complete without one of those wonderfully adaptable frocks that can change to suit any mood or occasion simply by a change of accessories. These are the plain black or navy frocks that are made to wear a variety of removable collars and cuffs. There is such a variety of pretty accessories in the way of frilled and lacy soft collars; crisp organdie collar and cuff sets and the more staid starched variety that it is worth having one of these dresses just so that you can have the fun of choosing the accessories to go with. And there are beautiful clips and necklaces that add a touch of "dash with dignity" to plain neckline.

Dirndls are still smart, especially for 'teen-age girls, but they will not be so full as formerly. In fact, the fullness tends to gather at the sides or in front.

Another popular fashion is the popular pleated skirt which has suddenly gone all formal on us in a two-piece dress in heavvy crepe with accordion-pleated skirt and torso length bodice on smart and simple lines. One of the smartest of these is a deep rust skirt and beige bodice.

Pockets are very much in evidence in the less formal frocks. They are big, roomy affairs, meant to be used but small nevertheless. They are frequently fastened with big flashy buttons.

Jacket dresses, emulating the popular practical suit, are going to be popular. Many of these ensembles have a printed or doted dress with a plain jacket in the predominant color of the dress. Redingote dresses along the same lines seem to be coming into popularity. Polka dots and plain color are a happy combination of this style.

Peplums, flounces and ruffles round the hips—if you're not too "hippy"—are very smart indeed, in navy or black crepe, semi-tailored dresses. Sometimes the dresses have the trim in figured material on the plain which adds a note of style and interest to your costume.

A novel idea for summer is the fruit and vegetable cotton prints that are coming out now. They are cute for children's dresses and make gay and amusing sport clothes and casual dresses or mother and big sister, too. They come with white or colored backgrounds and the more colorful fruit and vegetable scattered over it in their natural colors.

Seersuckers have been getting gayer and more daring since its introduction some years ago. Now this convenient, washable fabric comes in gay prints as well as stripes, sometimes even in combinations of the two. One of the most striking has great exotic blooms of red and blue and green sprawling over a black background. Seersucker makes grand housecoats and beach clothes.

Rayon is with us in so many guises that it is sometimes hard to recognize. There are rayon dresses and dress materials so fine and soft as to seem almost like silk; others have a texture like fine wool. There are rayons that look like linen and wash and wash and wash; and they don't crush and crease like linen either. And they all come in such a wide range of beautiful colors and such a bewildering variety of designs that you will probably go crazy choosing your spring wardrobe.

Jacket Suit

Soft lines, color and fabric for spring is this jacket suit of boucle wool.

Canada Follows U.S. Lead Skirts Are On 'Thirty' Scale

Fixed prices, fixed wages have become household words, but the latest development is fixed fashion.

Standardization of women's clothes hasn't yet been announced in detail, but the same principle as that followed by the regulation of men's clothing will be followed according to reports from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. For instance, skirt lengths will be thirty inches for size 16. Box coats of the same size will measure 43½ inches from neck seam and including hem.

There are to be no more three-piece suits, and no more wool interlinings. Patch pockets also are out, unless on yoke-lines or unlined sports coats. These rules apply to the custom tailors as well as the manufacturers.

Even ladies' bloomers have not escaped attention. The elastic used in the waist and knee bands is needed for more important work. So new waistbands and cuffs have been evolved.

Setting styles for women's hats is a problem even the Wartime Prices and Trade Board would hesitate to tackle. But the retailers got together and solved the difficulty. Prices are to remain the same, and the retailers have resolved to carry on without seeking Government subsidies on imported materials.

Co-operation such as this is going on in every industry, the board announces. Former rivals are pooling resources and experience to make sure all needs are filled.

The threatened stocking shortage has been solved. Substitute materials, rayon and cotton, have been put under a price ceiling to ensure fixed prices. Four standard colors have been set and the import of raw silk prohibited.

If the supply of base metals on hand is carefully conserved there should be no shortage in costume jewellery. Shavings from the wings of Spitfires are utilized to make brooches and bracelets, and simulated pearls can be made in Canada that vie in lustre with the genuine article.

In textiles no new design or pattern can be made on any rayon fabric or dress if the wholesale price is $24.75 per dozen or less. Thus the cheaper-line dresses will retain their present patterns. The reason is to conserve the fabrics and to divert the copper used for engraving plates into war uses.

Three words the board is trying to incorporate in all their rulings on clothes are simplification, standardization, and economy.

Canadian women who have been asking: "What can I do to help?" now have their answer. Retailers are endeavoring to keep prices down, and it's up to the women to see that their clothes follow the regulations set forth.

Light Coat Necessary

Even if you have a three-piece suit, a light coat is a necessary part of your wardrobe.

Coats this year are tailored, but not severely so. In fact, many coats, in spite of their tailored cut, are the wrap around type, fastened with a tie belt. Others are box-shaped, full or three-quarter length, loose fitting and comfortable with deeper armholes. Most of them seem to have deep, roomy pockets.

A favorite color for coat this spring is beige, in camel-hair or polo-cloth, or wool boucle, with other brown shades crowding it. Heather tweeds, and plaids in subdued and pastel shades are also popular, and there are a few bright checks, but these seem to appear chiefly in odd skirts and jackets. In the more formal styles, navy blue is the favorite, often decked out with a white collar.

The useful but not too smart trench coat has won new honors this year by appearing in much superior materials and in smarter, more carefully cut styles. It looks as if the trench coat is here to stay.

CUT OUT "AIRSCREW"

LONDON—(CP).—The Air Ministry has banned the word "airscrew" meaning propeller of an aircraft, from all official correspondence and conversation because it has frequently been confused with "aircrew." From now on "propeller" will be the accepted term.

SIMPLICITY WILL PREDOMINATE IN THE 1942 DRESS SILHOUETTE

Fashion-Wise Woman of 42 Seeks Practical Clothes Of Strong, Durable Fabrics

The fashion-wise woman of 1942 is shopping for practical clothes this spring. With good materials growing scarce and clothes rationing looming on the horizon, she knows the coat or suit she buys this spring may have to last many springs. She knows that her war work will increase and her clothes must stand up, as she must, to the strain of increased work.

And so she looks for strong durable fabrics in practical colors; and for smart, simple fashions that will not date and of which she will not tire. She will still look her best. She may even look better than before, but she will do it with a greater view to comfort and economy than formerly.

Because she knows she must wear it a long time, the fashion-wise woman will probably spend more than she might have done for a suit-length, a new spring coat or a dress. She will choose the best wool suitings and coatings; materials that will stand up to long hard wear and still look smart and fashionable.

She will choose colors that do not date and of which she will not grow tired; she will avoid delicate shades that show dirt and spots and have to be cleaned frequently; she will be sure the colors are fast; and she will take care to co-ordinate her wardrobe, so the colors do not clash, and so that her accessories will be interchangeable.

Mrs. and Miss Fashion-wise will choose smart simple fashions that are as old as clothes and as young but not as foolish as this spring's hats; simple dresses that can be varied with trimming and accessories to suit various occasions; tailored suits and coats and pretty, but practical, washing blouses.

A Spring Revival

Big fashion revival this spring is the long jacket man-tailored suit. It is always very flattering in a crown tested spun rayon and wool twill made feminine by satin-bound trim.

Gloves Come Many Colors

The old adage, "Men must work and women must wait" is somewhat changed today. More than 78 per cent of all women are not merely waiting—they are actively engaged in some type of work.

The sight of women in uniforms will stir every woman to do her bit. As in the last war—so it is true in this war—fashions turn to suitability.

Busy women will wear more suits this year than any Spring for some 20 years and Spring is always the season for suits.

Uniforms for women will be strikingly tailored. Women, out of uniforms, will wear suits—but—they will be definitely feminine and their suited apparel will be softer with ladylike touches accentuating their gentle femininity. Varied colors in fabrics—solid or plaids and stripes—dresses with plain or contrasting gay jackets, affecting the appearance of suits—and then suits and more suits! All worn with the most flattering accessories. Smart small hats or large queenly halos! frou frou jabots and sweet lacy blouses; lots of jewelry; tidy shoes; last but not the least important—beautiful gloves to flatter busy hands.

Hatlessness is passing—but even during this fad, gloves were generally worn. There is, in fact, a decided increase in glove wearing. Women are becoming more and hand conscious. Many people are able to read character from the size and shape of your hands and certainly, all can easily read to what degree you are fastidious by your hand and glove grooming.

Our busy women strive to maintain their acknowledged well groomed appearance. To meet the strenuous activities of today, they are demanding the best in wearability. Willingly, they are accepting the necessarily increased prices in all wearing apparel—but, they insist — rightly so, upon quality.

Plays Big Part in 1942 Fashions

Faille is playing a very important part in the 1942 spring fashion picture. Ultra feminine and smart is this suit-frock in a crown tested rayon faille with frilled lingerie jabot.

Accessory Wardrobes Vary In Interest This Season

Big dates, little dates and all the in-between dates are taken care of in the Spring calendar of accessories. There are colorful pick-ups in practically endless variety—versatile and very vital. The simplest costume can be accessorized to quick-change from streamlined efficiency to glittering glamour, to keep pace with accelerated activities, this purposeful new season.

Jewelry Magic

Spring jewelry is nothing if not ingenious, with wood, shells, vegetables, and even cereals playing new and fascinating roles.

"Pretty" jewelry with a very feminine turn of mind, is interpreted in cord necklaces with flower front drapes made of looped cord, with glittery glass leaves. There are earrings to match, and also bracelets—in stark white so beloved of navy, or soft pastels in natural flower colors.

Watermelon seeds, combined with plastics, have been cleverly contrived to form daisy and sunflower motifs for lei necklaces, and other native-looking jewelry. The humble Indian corn has been strung and twisted into ropes, dyed in brilliant shades, or left in natural color, for rope necklaces light in weight, but smartly massive looking.

Highly polished shells, in graduated sizes, make fragile, lovely looking costume jewelry that take naturally to enamel tints and delicate coloring—and sing their own praise with faintly tinkling sound effects.

Patriotic Gloves

Gloves are very flag-minded for Spring, and divide the color honors between red, white and blue—red to ignite dark costumes, white to wear with everything, and blue true to the Navy. They are equally enthusiastic, in classics or novelties; in sueded fabrics or rayons—and all three will do their bit for Navy as a basic costume color.

Beige tones feature importantly in Spring glove collections, too, in soft neutral tones that blend with everything, and are particularly elegant when merged with neutral background colors for dramatic prints that need no color emphasis in accessories.

Purposeful Purses

Handbag fashions are full of purpose this new season—roomy and utilitarian, color co-ordinated, or dressy and dress-makered.

Snakeskins are leading a colorful life for Spring, in everything from subtle beige to dynamic bright shades, in big, bold handbags in perfect step with co-ordinated shoe fashions dyed-to-match.

Faille handbags take to pleats and shirrings, in dressy little versions for special afternoons, tea or cocktails. Black takes the lead, but there's plenty of color excitement, too—bright greens, red and purple, with white for good measure.

Belts and Bags

Belts and bags display a strong affinity of feeling, in leathers that repeat their detail in belt buckle and bag clasp—either self-covered, or in plastic. It's a neat tie-up, full of costume consciousness, and smartly relates the dress with the accessory. The practical advantage, of course, is that the belt can be worn with many dresses, with the same smooth accessorized effect. And then, too, the bag is quite self-sufficient by itself, to wear with beltless dresses.

JUST TIN COATING

The tin container used for food is really a steel can with only 1.25 per cent tin applied as a thin coating.

Beautiful Catcher

Hats make the costume and this one is a pale pink felt with a mass of flowers and organdy bows at the front.

Washable White Lambskin Gloves

Featured this spring is the washable white lambskin. These gloves are finger free with pinked edges and "open and shut" leather tabs for easy entrance and exit.

Suit Jackets Are Longer Pockets Used

Suits have always been fashionable but not as they are this spring. Because suits are smart, practical and hard-wearing, and because they form a solid foundation for any girl's wardrobe. They can be varied to suit any occasion simply by a change of accessories.

Suit jackets are longer this year than they have been, pockets are made to be used; and skirts are a little narrower than formerly. In fact suits, generally speaking, have a "let's get down to business and no nonsense please" air about them. Colours and materials add considerably to this impression; the prevailing shades are black, grey and brown, in sturdy, durable wool suitings and very mannish styles.

Not all, however, are so severe. They are gay loud checks, comfortably informal tweeds; and the new plaids in soft pastel colors. Plain pastel shades will be popular too, especially among fashion conscious teen age youngsters. But the most popular colors will still be the basic ones mentioned before.

Although most of the new styles will be severely tailored; some will be more informal. A blouse effect in the jacket, accompanied by a set in tie-belt, is smart and attractive in the softer suit materials. Pleated skirts will be popular with younger girls.

Your suit may be a two-piece or a three-piece. You may have a plain coat to match the predominant color in your jacket and skirt; or you may reverse the match. Both will be smart. The new deeper armholes in the coats, plus the loose, boxy styles, will make your topcoat fit easily and comfortably.

A great variety of materials is being used in suits this year. Fine soft wools are used in the pastel shades; strong durable, heavy-duty men's suitings, pinstriped or plain, will be much used; heavy spun rayon will be smart for summer suits. Mixtures of wool and rayon wear well and keep their smart appearance remarkably well.

There is no better foundation for any wardrobe than a good plain-tailored suit. It can adapt itself to any situation and is a sound and solid basis for a dozen attractive costumes in as many different occasions. It bears up well under the wear and tear of an active life; it doesn't date; and you don't tire of it and it keeps its smartness even after it has worn thread-bare.

A Handy Jumper

Perfect for active war work and sportswear is this striped cotton percale jumper with roomy pockets.

Shorter Skirts

The length of women's skirts, governed by fashion edicts in the past, may nave to conform to prices board rulings. The prospect was that to conserve supplies of materials short skirts would be encouraged, with the lengths allowed for different sizes set forth specifically.

Smart Styles In Blouses

You'll want a blouse to wear with your new spring suit. In fact when you see the variety of smart and pretty styles you'll probably want a dozen.

There are sedate tailored shirt-wait blouses in fine white cotton, striped or plain; and smart little tailored washing blouses, colored or white, with short sleeves, cool for those warm spring days when you dare not drop your jacket for fear of a change in the weather.

For that gayer, but still informal occasion, there are vivid stripes in cotton or silk, or rayon prints. A tailored jersey silk, smart, stylish and long wearing, is useful for these occasions too.

And for that occasion when you must be ultra feminine the ant number of soft sheer blouses in white, pastel or vivid shades; with short puffed sleeves or long full ones; lace-trimmed, foaming with ruffles or possessed of that quiet elegance that only tailored sheers can achieve.

Ladies

The latest style for Spring is the Mannish tailored suits.

We have them in stock now, so why not step out on Easter with one of our suits at very reasonable prices.

We also have a large supply of dresses, newest fashions always in stock. Also sport jackets.

Budget may be obtained in accordance with War Time Prices and Trade Board Regulations.

COTTONS ARE HEADED FOR TREMENDOUS SUCCESS THIS YEAR

For Busy Spring Days

Highlighted for busy spring days is the street-length "dress-up" dress. Designed by Rembrandt in a crown tested rayon sheer crepe with important fashion notes in matching lace on front peplum.

Sweaters Are To the Fore

Blossoming forth in new designs and patterns, sweaters are very much in the forefront this spring. It all seems to be a part of the general movement toward comfort in clothing. Hence, Argyle sweaters, Jacquard effects of blue and red, soft duo-tones and shades that border on pastels, fancy cable stitches..the sweater definitely has arrived.

HE LIKES THE SUN

Essentially a deep-water dweller, the broadbill swordfish comes to the surface to satisfy its weakness for sunbaths.

Economy Is Fashionable And Fun Exciting Ways To Save Smartly

There is a new army in the country this Spring. It is an army of Waste Wardens.

Economy is fashionable. Budget-stretching is rapidly becoming the great American sport. It is all part and parcel of the great defense program to which everyone is rallying.

Women have been quick to realize they cannot all be air raid wardens, knit for the Red Cross, drive official cars and teach classes. But every woman who has a home and a family can be a Waste Warden. In everything she buys, in everything she throws away, she can war on waste. She saves for her family and she saves for defense.

Making over last year's frock, cheating the garbage pail of left-overs, and hounding the family to turn out lights as they leave the room can be a dull, penny-pinching routine. Anyone can save by "doing without" but the creed of the Waste Warden is to seek out new, smart ways of thriftiness which effect economies without lowering the family's living standards.

This development of a Waste Warden army which began in February is an effort to aid women to find new and adventurous ways of saving, to find ways to reorganize their home, their family's wardrobe and their budget on a more far-seeing economical basis.

Keep New Clothes Fresh

The Waste Warden's life is not a scrimping, penny-pinching routine. She will, of course, buy a new Easter frock and hat to look her very gayest and keep her family cheerful and proud of her.

But as she buys these clothes, this Spring more than ever before, she is thinking of ways to keep them fresh and new looking, so they will wear longer. Maybe a hat box will keep the fragile flowers on her new Easter bonnet fresh and uncrushed. She considers shoe bags seriously, to keep her shiny new pumps off the closet floor.

Certainly she will protect her new costume—and all her other good clothes—with dress shields. Shields cut cleaning bills and they are insurance against perspiration staining. If time is valuable, she will buy new pin-in shields that take "a minute to pin it." For her sweaters, her silk suits and jacket frocks, there are pin-in colored shields. If her frocks have the wide arm-holes or dolman or angel style sleeves, she will probably prefer a braform with shields attached or a brief bolero garment which she slips into half a second. These are especially good in summer because the batiste back absorbs perspiration, thus preventing discoloration of the blouse back of pretty print frocks.

A well-rounded hosiery wardrobe is another Waste Warden economy. Once silk hosiery was worn from breakfast to bedtime, but today, weather permitting, economy-minded women are wearing socks for morning housework and errands. Their sheerest hose are party-going luxuries and a heavier, more serviceable stocking takes them shopping, to town and through dinner at home.

Fashion Tricks

Rehabilitating last year's frock is another saving the Waste Warden can effect with flair and smartness if she goes about it efficiently.

Applique trim, for instance, is fashion news this Spring, and a large shoulder bouquet of a colorful flower motif cut out of a remnant print and appliqued flat onto the fabric gives bright new life to a dark frock of yesteryear. A row of large flower motifs applique around the bottom of a shortened taffeta evening rock with the same applique repeated in the bodice and perhaps a new ribbon belt repeating the same colors, will revive an evening frock for the younger generation that dances every Saturday night.

Ricrack braid is another fashion important trim this year. It borders necklines, outlines dolman sleeves, simulates yoke and peplum treatments on some of the smartest sports and street dresses. Available in many costume colors and in eleven different sizes, it proffers a bold, dramatic, media for giving a completely new 1942 feeling to last year's dress.

Lace or organdy ruffling bought by the yard gives new softness to tired necklines, dresses up pockets, outlines torso waistlines and daintily finishes off long sleeves that have been cut short.

Partners In Shoes

Perfect partners for spring walks are the gay tyrrolean shoes of soft Bucko. Romany (Left) has bright colored stitching. Tailorite boasts red calf binding.

"Deliberate Contrasts" Are Boon to Boys, Mothers

The certain people-who-know have decided youth will have its fling this Spring and Summer. Try and stop them anyway! So prepare yourself for an array of boys and youths wearing outfits that won't match in either color or pattern.

But don't get frightened, mothers and girl friends!.... You'll like the idea. For a long time stylists (they're plenty or 'em catering to the younger males too!) have shuddered at the weird and accidental combinations boys insisted on wearing. Coats and trousers, shirts and ties and other parts of the boy's wardrobe actually fought with each other in color. The boys didn't really mean it to be bad, but some of the effects were terrific.

"Give them contrasting clothing DELIBERATELY," the stylists said, and they'll like them even better—and our outraged sensibilities (as well as those of mothers and girl friends!) will be soothed." Sure it's been done before, but never on the scale which Spring and Summer will see it. The shopper for boys' apparel can now go into his or her favorite store and ask to see "Some of those DELIBERATE CONTRASTS which you are showing for boys." No longer is sheer change going to dictate the effects of contrasting outfits. Deliberate planning has given it the advantage of good taste.

Three-Piece Suits Popular

For example, the trend toward three-piece suits will continue. This suit features matching coat, also one pair of trousers (usually in a fancy pattern in a plaid or herring-bone idea), but the second pair of trousers will be in a solid color to contrast with the fancy coat.

Go on over to that hat rack now and the same idea has been carried through to this important part of the boy's outfit. The hat body itself may pleasingly contrast in harmonizing tones to the color of the suit you just bought—or the "deliberate contrast" will be presented in the relation of the hat band to the hat.

Take that tie that Johnny so carelessly reaches for in the morning. It's under his chin and he's behind it where it doesn't bother him too much if it doesn't go well with his shirt or suit. But how about us? We're in front of it and have to suffer. That's why a vote of thanks again goes to the "deliberate contrast" stylist who suggests the correct color to go with each shirt or suit.

Beautiful Buttons

You can buttonhole a lot of smartness, with a button wardrobe for Spring. The new buttons are very beauty-conscious in hand-painted miniatures of exquisite detail, flower shapes of translucent plastic that looks like rose quartz, jade or alabaster; and ceramics in pottery colors of hand-moulded design.

D.S.O. FOR NAVY MAN

LONDON (CP).—Lt. Cmdr. F. H. E. Hopkins of the Royal Navy, who led an attack by torpedo-carrying Swordfish planes which resulted in sinking Italian liner Victoria in the Mediterranean, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

Cape Coat Really New Fashion

The cape coat is one of this spring's really new fashions and is being featured in a crown tested spun rayon and wool twist. It is extremely figure flattering and the young cape is dashingly clic-tailored yet feminine.

Cavan News

Mrs. Mervin Smith and small daughter are visiting friends at Balmoral, Manitoba.

Miss Hasel Preston and her nephew, Barrie Smith, accompanied them.

Jim Cook, who is training as an airplane mechanic, at Sunnyside, Prince Edward Island, is spending his leave visiting friends in Cavan.

Messrs. Ray and Gerald Staples, Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples.

Mr. A. Monk of Bethany took the service in Cavan church on Sunday evening; the Rev. W. E. Honey conducted the service in Bethany United church.

Cavan Farm Forum met at William Seymour's on Monday evening. There was interesting discussion concerning what is going to be done when the boys come home from the war, and the many problems to be met. A sing-song and refreshments were part of the evening's program.

Tan In Front Sportswear

Tan is slated to be the important color this year in men's sportswear. All shades of tan—bar none—will be seen this season.

Tans can be either warm or cool. A tan that has a blue or green cast is cool; one with a red or yellow cast is warm.

Many other colors as well will be featured this year. It has been proven that men like color, and though they do not always admit this, most would like to be sold on the idea. For centuries men wore reds and purples, until conservatism turned the pendulum in the other direction towards sombre shades.

But it was sportswear that introduced color and individuality into the picture again. Gradually, it is creeping into daytime and even business wear.

A Natural Affinity

Spring hats and hair-do's have a natural affinity. This new bluebonnet blue felt turban is softly draped and fitted to both head and coiffure.

MEN'S HATS DEMOCRATIC

Star Gray Is New Color Men's Suits

Brown and blue are battling it out for the title of color of 1942. The backers of blue seem to have stolen a march when they came through with Star Gray which is blue. The millenium seems to have distinctly gray when compared with blue. The millenium sems to have come since some of the manufacturers got around to blending together blue and brown, which has produced a color suitable for both sport and town wear.. Ask for Brownstone. Cheviots, shetlands, tweeds, saxonies, flannels, unfinished and clear-faced worsteds seem to take to both Star Gray and Brownstones...something new under the sun.

The Glen Urquhardt plaid is a ruling favorite this season with many a variation finding popular acecptance in various sport jackets. This spring is a bonanza for the man whose eye is captivated by new designs. There are striped suits with suggestions of plaids and diagonals hidden in the background.

Garbardine is slipping into high gear this spring with the introducton of a gabardine suit with modest color stripes on the solid colored background. One of the leaders of the new gabardine for the man-about-town is a fine stripe of rich blue on a tan gabardine. The gray flannel, the old stand-by—has taken unto itself new honors this spring by adopting a few colored stripes itself. The two-button, double-breasted model with lapels rolled to the button and adorned with soft red stripes is a real suit for town or country.

Covert top-coats are meeting a difficult rival in the popular tan diago-

Boys Prefer Styles Like Dad

Junior follows his big brother when it comes to school clothes and here he picks a herringbone single-breasted model for his first long pants suit. Note the plaid wool tie. This suit comes without a vest and with a sweater that can be substituted in cold weather.

Always Stripes

Stripes continue in flannel suits. This one is of Air Force blue and soft red stripes. The trousers are somewhat narrower and the coat a little louder than last season's.

Victory Suits for Men Only Minor Stlye Changes

WASHINGTON, Farch 25.—(AP)—The United States War Production Board recently issued an order permitting only cuffless, pleatless and frill-less "victory suits" to be manufactured for men and boys from March 30 on.

Ruled out entirely are two-pants suits, vests for double-breasted suits full-dress coats, and cutaway coat and double-breasted tuxedo coat.

Overcoats, too, came under the order which is expected to save 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds of wool for the armed forces. They will be shorter and less full than present topcoats of overcoats, and will have no belt, cuffs on sleeves, outside patch pockets or fancy backs.

To the casual observer the only noticeable change in men's suits will be the absence of trouser cuffs. W. P. B. said. The board feared an abrupt style change would start a buying rush for "victory suits" which would defeat conservatism aims of the order.

Suit coat lengths will be ¾ of an inch shorter than the average now worn, and topcoats and overcoats will be two to four inches shorter.

Spotlight Is On Lounge In Men's Spring Style

It is ten years since men's clothing has seen a major style change. Controversies have raged over jacket lengths, trouser cuffs, pleats, buttons, but there is real news this year in the lounge suit, which is being discussed as an important style for 1942.

For the past ten years the drape model has held undisputed sway in the realm of men's apparel. But ten years is a long time, and to those young men who are beginning to tire of the drape and ask for something new, the lounge is the style to offer.

The lounge has been building up to its present position for the last two years. Says Men's Wear Merchandising, "Undoubtedly there will be many who will still feel that they want extremely wide shoulders, close-fitting waistline and exaggerated trousers. These men will call lounge an 'old man's suit' because of its straight lines and smaller shoulders. These were the same chaps who laughed at the full chests on drape suits and demanded rope shoulders instead. Lounge is here and it's a new style for the clothing man to show and talk about, and should be stressed in clothing this spring. Lounge in sports clothing, especially jackets, will be most important this season."

BALKED SCUTTLERS

MELBOURNE — (CP). — The George Medal has been awarded Petty Officer John Humphries, Royal Australian Navy for descending 12 times into the flooded engine room of a captured German ship in order to close the bilge sections, damaged when German seamen attempted to scuttle the vessel.

In Top Coats

Also shown up in the topcoats for spring this year are stripes. This single-breasted grey tweed coat has the four-button fly front and broad shoulders. It is typical of the practical useful coat of the year.

MORE COLOR IS BEING FOUND IN MEN'S CLOTHES THIS SPRING

Varied Styles Will Afford A Greater Individuality

A man's hat has always been the one article of clothing with which he most instinctively expressed his character and opinions. In a democracy like this where individuality flourishes, as opposed to the regimentation of dictatorships, hat styles have naturally come to be more attractive with each passing season.

There is a decided swing away from the old notion of the "all-purpose" hat which saw service both in town and country. In line with the notable trend toward special clothes for sports and leisure wear, a new line of sports hats especially designed for this purpose is getting more attention, and the idea has been received with favor. A good complement to the sports and leisure time hat is the hat with upturned brim, which is being advanced this spring as an ideal and new looking hat for town wear.

Brims Are Flanged

The new popularity of the upturned brim is a natural follow-up to the acceptance of the more flat-set brim. It is expected that brims will get no wider, and several widths are popular, some sections favoring the trend to narrow brims and others preferring the wingy brim effect. Many hats are flanged so that brims can be worn up or down.

The color in greatest demand in nearly all sections of the country is brown, and the many neutral browns harmonize well with other colors in clothing. Gray continues to be very popular although its range will be somewhat restricted because of the scarcity of light fur. Blues and blue-grays which were well received this fall are expected to continue in favor. Tannish grey-green tones such as khaki and covert are popular young choices.

Novelty Trims

A fresh note which is at least partly the result of the scarcity of light felt is the light-contrast band and binding. In some cases the trim is just a shade lighter than the body and in others it offers decided contrast.

There are many other novelty trims. The two-tone and three-tone woven grosgrain stripe effects are used, as are the gabardine types of band in rayon, cotton or wool. Off-color contrasts of band and body continue, but are usually less extreme than when they were first introduced several seasons ago.

A hat that has been popular in the Southwest for some time and is now rising to national favor even in big cities, where it is something really new and high-styled, is the flat-set lightweight felt with narrow band and binding.

Smart Simplicity In Men's Hats

There is smart simplicity in these spring hats. Note the brims and the bindings. These are the hats which will be popular this Easter.

"Mexican Masquerade" . . . .

By CECIL CARNES

CHAPTER I

All characters and situations in "Mexican Masquerade" are fictitious. Any resemblance between them and living persons or actual situations is purely coincidental.

FRANKLY, I don't feel quite right about this, even yet. Even after Kay wired me to go ahead.

It's Allan's story, I keep telling myself. Allan's—and the state department's. No longer the secret he made me swear to last September, because there was talk of it in Mexico City at Christmas time. But still Allan's story.

And there are all the loose ends I've no way of tying together. I don't even know where Allan himself is, now. London last I heard. More likely India by this time. Or even Chungking. He's a valuable man . . .

What happened to Asia, and was she as beautiful as he said Did they find Baron Sagoya? I thought of him when I saw those news pictures of Kurusu, smiling so warmly and innocently, clutching that modest black brief case so mockingly symbolical of good will, as he arrived in Washington to "discuss" our difficulties with Japan. Such a smooth one the Baron must have been; specialist in treachery behind a toothy mask.

And Escobar! His an even more enigmatic smile, brighter in his handsome face. He, of all the people who figured in that strange, dark business off the coast of lower California, interested me most as Allan shared with me the story—or as much of it as he could tell. I wonder about Escobar, sometimes—wonder how clearly it all came back to him the day Pearl Harbor was struck and a continent awakened to war.

Finally, I'm ashamed of myself. How smug I must have sounded! "Those Japs down there—probably operating on their own," I had said to Allan. "They're specialists in two-bit intrigue, sure. But no major threat. I'd sooner fear rats in cages than your 'yellow devils'."

Lord! I feel lower than the auto production curve when I think of the knowing look on Allan's face when he heard me out and then said, smiling thinly, "We'll see."

Allan's story or not, there are those who think it should be told—Kay not the least among them. Not that we have more to learn of whom our enemies are, but only that we have much yet to know of where they have been and of how they have been dealt with.

It was just last summer . . .

SHIMMERING heat waves almost hid the sandy road as Allan Steele, in his travel-stained sedan, crested a hill and came thankfully in sight of his journey's end. At the foot of the slope, hardly a mile ahead, nestled the small fishing village of San Saba, slumbering peacefully in the torrid blaze of a July sun. Beyond the straggling houses, the blue-green waters of the Gulf of California made a cool and refreshing vista.

Both hands gripped on the jerking wheel, tooling the sedan more like a man riding a bucking bronco than driving a car, he worked his way onward until what he believed the worst road in Lower California, if not in all Mexico, blended imperceptibly with the main street of the town. The buildings on each side of him were shuttered and no visible sign of life met his roving gaze. He glanced at his wrist watch; it marked the hour as 2 o'clock.

"Siesta," he murmured aloud. "Everybody's asleep."

Yet he questioned the notion even while voicing it. He had an uneasy feeling as he drove slowly through the village that eyes were peering at him from behind the bolted doors and shielded windows. Hostile eyes, sinister, calculating. . . .

He grinned half mockingly at the thought as it crossed his mind. He analyzed it and traced it accurately to its source. It obviously derived from the nature of the errand which had brought him to this off-track corner of the world, where he was not only a stranger in a strange land but very possibly an object of deep suspicion in certain dubious elements in the native population.

Yes, that was the reason for his uneasiness, he decided; that, plus a mild attack of stage fright pardonable in an amateur. After all, he reminded himself apologetically, this was the first jog of its sort to which he had ever been assigned.

He made no stop in the village. By cautious inquiries that morning he had ascertained the exact location of the small hotel which was now his goal. Two miles south of San Saba, the chance-met Yuma Indian had told him, on the shore of the gulf; the Senor Americano could not miss the road which led to the right where the main street of the village ended in a pier.

Allan found it. He turned the sedan into a wagon track, a little rougher if anything than the one he had followed all morning, whose tortuous course paralleled every indentation of the coast line. He wished for the thousandth time that the Mexican government had extended its network of fine roads to include the peninsula.

THE heat was something you had to feel to believe. He drove doggedly for half a mile, climbing another low rise of land. At its top he halted the car in the welcome shade of an old gnarled pine which looked as if it might have been there since the days of the Conquistadores. He was glad of a chance to ceol his motor, to rest his weary forearms, and to smoke one of the American cigarets with which he had prudently stocked up before crossing the border at Mexicali.

Meanwhile, he took advantage of his present elevation to study the lay of the land spread out before him. He followed the winding road with observant gaze to the point where it dove into a thicket of eucalyptus trees and vanished. The trees were so tall and sturdy that Allan figured it must have been a century since some philanthropist planted them there to make an oasis of coolness in this desert of heat. . . .

Set far back in the grove was a rambling structure of stone which he assumed was the hotel he was seeking. The Inn of One Thousand Delights was the modest name bestowed on it by its Chinese proprietor, Sun Su. Allan grinned morosely. Right now he'd settle for just two delights if they'd take the shape of a long cold drink and a long cold bath.

He fished in a pocket of the car, pulled out a pair of field glasses and trained them on the building. Didn't look too bad, he thought; looked as if it might be cool inside the heavy walls, and those palm leaves and bamboo shoots that seemed to be growing out of the roof indicated the hotel was built around a patio. Allan liked patios, especially when they ran to shady booths, attentive waiters and iced fruit drinks with straws . . .

A movement caught his eye. A man had come out of the front entrance. The glasses revealed him as tall, slender, and fairly young—about 32 or 33, Allan's own age. He was wearing a uniform which the American recognized as that of the Rurales, the famous Mexican mounted police, and the glint of metal on the shoulders of his tunic marked him as an officer.

Mildly surprised by the spectacle of another lunatic abroad at such an hour on such a day, Allan watched him swing lightly into the saddle of a horse that had been tethered near the door. He put his steed in motion and came up the road in the direction of San Saba, riding with the easy grace which Allan had long since concluded was every Mexican's birthright. Horse and man drew rapidly nearer at a brisk canter, vanishing, reappearing and vanishing again as they took the curves of the road.

ALLAN put aside his glasses, took a last pull on his cigaret, dropped the butt on the floor of the sedan and touched the starter. The engine came to throbbing life. He was about to set the car rolling down the gentle slope ahead when he paused to watch the Mexican again. What was the fellow doing now? he wondered.

The officer had reined in abruptly. He was abreast of a clump of tall cactus that edged the road, and evidently his attention had been attracted by something that lay in the narrow strip of shade at the base of the thorn mass. From where Allan was watching, the object resembled a big bundle of rags. He saw the rider dismount and walk toward it, leading his horse; he saw him drop to his knees beside the bundle—

And then the peaceful scene exploded into the wildest melodrama. Three men on horseback came galloping from behind the cactus which had concealed them. The charged down upon the kneeling officer, shouting and waving naked machetes as they stood in their stirrups.

Either their shouts or the pounding of hoofs had given warning to their intended victim—warning and the fraction of time he needed to defend himself. Lithe as a panther, he sprang erect, turning in the air as he did so. When he caught his balance he was facing his attackers, his rear protected by the clump of cactus. In the same moment he whipped out his straight, military machete and got it up in time to turn aside a sweeping blow from the first horseman to reach him. Quick as a snake strikes, he followed the parry with a lightning lunge. The point of his blade drove into the flank of the man's horse; the animal screamed, reared and tried to bolt. The officer swung to meet the others as they arrived, his sword playing before him in a semi-circle of flame from the reflected rays of the sun.

"Hot tamale!" gasped Allan. "A holdup!"

Russians Use Air Sledges To Attack Nazis' Rear

This radiophoto from Moscow shows a Red army detachment in air sledges operating in the rear of the German forces. The air sledge is more or less of an innovation of the Russian army that is proving highly practical in the current winter warfare. Notice how the men are deployed with a machine-gunner covering them.

With The Boy Scouts

SCOUT CRAFT SHOW

A meeting of the executive committee and the various sub-committees of the scout craft show will be held in the local association headquarters on Thursday evening of this week at 8 p.m. Every member is expected to attend.

During the past week Assistant Commissioner E. Wolfe, accompanied by the skipper completed their visit to every troop and pack in the city. At each meeting a talk was given on the coming craft show, the boys showing great interest and making promise to support the show 100%.

Several boys mentioned items not listed for competition. It is the aim of the committee to give every encouragement to each and every boy in the craft of hobby in which he is interested, and boys can submit, with the sanction of the committee, any article that he has made. One scout asked about knitting, the answer is decidedly Yes.

Don't forget the dates of the display. May 5, 6 and 7.

AT ALL SAINTS'

During the visit to All Saints' we noted that Scouter Art Rose is getting his troop into good shape again and has the assistance of three old scouts, Lloyd Williamson and Bob Brighton as A.S.M.'s with Hugh Brightman as troop leader. The attendance has jumped to 95% which is some going.

During the past month a going up ceremony was held, but we regret that the lads' names are not available this week. Also three boys were invested into the great brotherhood of scouting through the investiture ceremony of scouting. These boys were Bob Greene, Ross Kidd and Gord Parks. We wish them all good scouting.

Scouter Ingham of Saint Andrew's visited the troop last Friday.

WITH ST. LUKE'S

Another busy crowd of cubs were in the jungle working on articles for the coming craft show. Some boys have already completed their wood work.

Akela Morrison of St. Andrew's pack was a visitor and spoke to the cubs on the importance of practising for the cub program, to be put on during the coming show. The practice night will start the first Thursday in April and will continue every week till May. They will be held as follow; Thursday, April 2, at St. Andrew's; April 9, at St. Luke's; April 16 at Mark Street; April 23 at St. Andrew's, and may be April 30 at St. Luke's.

All practises will start at 7 o'clock p.m., sharp, and will last one hour. The officers would appreciate the co-operation of the parents for these practises by allowing the boys to attend these meetings, as it is essential that the groups get together for these practices. These meetings will be in addition to the regular pack meetings.

We were glad to welcome Hewitt Hamilton back to the pack after his illness. All cubs are requested to be present at the next meeting, as items of importance are on the agenda.

ST. JOHN'S

We are missing the reports of both the cubs and scouts and trust that our reporters are not sick or absent without leaves.

The crew will not meet this week but is welcome to attend the meeting of the scout craft committee at the headquarters. Their assistance will be needed when the craft display opens; so why not come along now?

Large Audience Enjoys Jan Chamberlain

A fine Canadian artist, Jan Chamberlain, gave a recital in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening. Jan Chamberlain is an exponent of the difficult art of the monologuist and last night she brought a varied group to vivid life for a large and appreciative audience.

Miss Chamberlain shows a delicate sensitivity to the subtleties of accent and dialect and not once in her program did she commit the all too common error of "over-doing" an accent. Her voice, though a trifle high and light, is pleasant and expressive and admirably suited to her art. Her command of facial expression is superb, but the same cannot be said of her gestures, which seem to be lacking in smoothness and finish. She had, also, one or two personal mannerisms which cropped up in all her sketches, spoiling a little the illusion of complete change from one character to another. Her portrayal of each and every character, however, showed sensitive understanding and imagination.

Perhaps her best performance was her portrayal of a cockney charwoman in a London air raid shelter, in which she carried her audience with her from laughter to the heights of tragic emotion and returned naturally to the dry cockney humor of her beginning.

Another sketch which brought gales of laughter from the audience was her portrayal of an elderly, fussy school mistress supervising the closing exercises of a girls' school. Her change from this character to that of a lazy, gum-chewing shop girl was remarkably good.

"Christmas, Now and Then," was good, but, somehow, one felt that the sketch itself was not quite so true to life as some of the others. A study in social contrasts, in which Miss Chamberlain portrayed in turn a social worker, a woman in a slum tenement and a wealthy woman, was splendidly done. She won the majority of her audience with her first sketch, a whimsical, sentimental tale of an Irish waitress in a highway lunch counter near New York, who wanted to become an actress.

Havelock Girl Wed In Toronto

The marriage of Helena Doris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Davies, Armadale avenue, Toronto, formerly of Havelock, to Ewart M. Haake, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Haake, Deloro, was solemnized last Saturday in St. Paul's Anglican church, Runnymede, Toronto, by Rev. E. W. G. Worrall of King, Ontario, formerly of Havelock, assisted by Rev. Edward Morely. Wedding music was played by Mrs. D. Ramsey Sims, and the church was attractively decorated with tulips, daffodils and snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in a coat style afternoon dress of powder blue silk crepe with a fitted waist and long sleeves. She wore a navy blue off-the-face felt hat and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Edith Lawrence, as Matron of honor.

Mrs. Lawrence was gowned in a turquoise blue jersey two-piece afternoon dress and black felt hat, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Stewart Bonter, Brownsburg, Quebec.

A reception was held in the bride's home, her mother receiving the guests in a beige silk crepe dress with a corsage of rose-buds. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a purple afternoon dress with a corsage of lily-of-the-valley. After a short honeymoon, the bridal couple will live on University avenue, Kingston.

Evelyn G. Brown Is Wed To Eldon D. Preston

The United Church at Trent River, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when Evelyn Grace Brown, second daughter of the late Thomas Brown and Mrs. Brown became the bride of Eldon Douglas Preston, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Preston of Norwood. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, evergreens and flowers The Rev. J. Wilkinson of Havelock officiated and the wedding music was played by Miss Ruby Preston, sister of the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Jerrine Brown of Trent River sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride was charmingly attired in a long white satin gown with a train and a finger-tip veil of white silk net held by a cap of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Jerrine Brown, sister of the bride was bridesmaid and wore a long gown of ice-blue georgette with silver trimming and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Little Marina Morton, niece of the bride, was flower-girl, quaintly attired in a long pink satin frock and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jack Preston. The ushers were Mr. Lloyd Fleming and Mr. Frank Dunham.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received wearing a black French crepe gown with a white corsage. She was assisted by Mrs. Preston, who wore a block velvet dress with a corsage of roses. A buffet lunch was served to fifty guests with Mrs. B. Roger and Mrs. J. B. Bolauder pouring tea. The table was decorated with pink and white streamers and candles. Assisting with the lunch were Miss Hazel Waters, Miss Phyllis Brown, Miss Florence Shearer, Miss Reta Glenn, Miss Ila Fee, and Mrs. Gordon McCullough.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the bridesmaid, a gold compact, to the flower-gril a gold compact, to the flower-girl ware, to the soloist, a pen and pencil set and to the best man and the ushers, billfolds.

Many pretty and useful gifts and sums of money were presented to the happy couple.

The bride travelled in a grey tweed suit, large red felt hat and accessories to match. After receiving congratulations and best wishes from a large number of relations and friends, the young couple left for a short trip. On their return they will live in Seymour West.

Czecho-Slovaks Use Less Sugar

Two native Czecho-Slovakian women, now residents of Canada, demonstrate the fine sugar-less pastry they have been making in their country for years. "Too much sugar spoils the flavor," says Mrs. J. Mrs. Macek wears her country's festive costume.

Korean Customs Fascinate Guests At W.M.S. Tea

The streets of Korea must be a gay sight, with children in gay rainbow stripes, women and girls in soft pastel shades of silk, and men in white, go about their daily business. This is the conclusion anyone must have come to who attended the Korean tea held yesterday at the home of Mrs. D. B. Avison, 170 London street. Mrs. Avison received her guests in true Korean style and, besides showing the pretty Korean costumes, demonstrated a Korean meal for her guests.

Koreans eat sitting on the floor, or on cushions, before low tables, and all the food is put on the table at once, there being no such thing as courses. The meal that Mrs. Avison served included the two essentials of any Korean meal, boiled rice and a very hot pickle, called "Kimchee." The pickle is essential in order to insure digestion of the rice. Also included in the meal was clear beef soup, which kept hot in a fascinating little stove which sits right in the middle of the table; cold meat and fish, both of which are dipped into a very salty sauce of soy beans; a peculiar-looking vegetable called bean sprouts; fruit and nuts; and tea. The tea is served in pretty little cups which have lids, but no saucers, and which are held by the finger-tips of both hands. The entire meal was served in dishes of polished brass, which the Korean women polish with sand.

About the walls were hung pictures by Korean artists, remarkable for their beauty of color and design, which were executed in an amazing variety of materials. A picture of Hankow palace was hand-carved, in minute detail, from cork; an extremely life-like lion and lioness were embroidered in gold thread on silk.

Tea was poured in the dining room by Mrs. B. Shortly, Mrs. J. W. Kelly, Mrs. B. W. Manning, Mrs. G. D. Carlisle, assisted by Mrs. Charles Renaud, Mrs. G. Millar, Mrs. F. Merrett, Mrs. J. H. Vance, Mrs. H. Girven, Mrs. G. Baird. The tea-table was covered with an unusual cloth in two shades of linen and centred with a brass bowl of forsythia, the flower of Korea, flanked by four yellow candles in holders of polished brass fashioned in the shape of open lotus blossoms. Tea was poured from china tea-pots of oriental design and much of the China was Korean or Chinese.

Mrs. R. L. Roberts, Mrs. James Brown, and Miss E. L. Might received the guests, and Mrs. W. Harris and Mrs. W. McMillan assisted Mrs. Avison. Mrs. Fanning was in charge of the guests book and Mrs. M. McIntyre, Mrs. J. M. G. E. Latimer, Mrs. J. Tinney, Mrs. R. Parnall, Mrs. J. H. Rowe, Mrs. H. G. Walker assisted in the living room and pointed out various objects of interest to the guests. Of interest to housewives would be the lovely blue Chinese carpets, which can be put into the tub and washed, like blankets. Another interesting article was a beautiful brass tray, exquisitely carved with a picture of the Korean Hospital, built under the supervision of Dr. Avison's father. This tray was presented to him by the staff of the hospital.

King's Own Class Enjoys St. Patrick Supper

A delightful St. Patrick supper was held by the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Church in the Sunday School auditorium, with an attendance of thirty members and eight visitors. The party took the place of the regular meeting. After partaking of the sumptuous repast, Mrs. G. Harris, president of the class welcomed her class members and their guests and presided over the program. Greetings were brought to the King's Own Class from the Sunday School by its Superintendent, E. R. Frost, the junior superintendent, Ken Meredith and from the church by the pastor, Rev. Fred. W. Craik, who all expressed good wishes for the progress of the entertaining class.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Norman Buckley, was introduced in gracious words by Mrs. W. K. Sloane.

While the speaker did not choose a definite topic, her highly inspirational address was based upon various scriptural portions.

Two beautiful Irish songs were contributed by Mr. S. Hanlon, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. F. Doig, while an innovation in entertainment was introduced when Mr. Howay presented his dog "Pat" who performed some very clever tricks.

Following the program the meeting reverted to business for the month, when the usual reports were brought in. A call was received for volunteer workers to aid in the salvage collection and the members responded unanimously to help in this worthy cause.

Money was also voted from the class funds to the Overseas Parcels League for the British Minesweepers' Auxiliary.

A welcome will be extended to the class members for their April meeting at the parsonage, 136 Romaine street, when Mrs. F. W. Craik will be the hostess.

Farmerettes Hear Talk On Farm Labor

The Game Room of the Y.W.C.A. was the scene for the fourth annual Farmerette Get-together of this spring season. As the farmerette's guest, Mrs. Lansfield of the Toronto Bureau Farm Work spoke to the girls decked strikingly in her farmerette uniform. After Mrs. Lansfield's recent urge for farm labor, to both boys and girls of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Schools, her zeal, enthusiasm and encouragement toward this group was greatly appreciated by all members.

A mother and daughter banquet was suggested in order to attract publicity toward this newly formed organization of Peterborough and this may be carried out at a later date.

At our Niagara Fruit Camp (it was stated) there will be a few necessary alterations and improvements made. One of these will be the organizing of camp fun and recreation. The other is this business of uniforms.

The latter will be made of a fine navy twill, tailored in style with short sleeves and large patch pockets. These uniforms will be sported only on the roads and in town and should assist the girls to a great extent with all those difficulties with which they may come in contact, during their stay in the fruit belt.

Mrs. Lansfield again stated that application form blanks may be in the P.C.V.S. school office and also at the Agricultural Bureau on Simcoe street.

Another successful meeting closed with refreshments and each member resolved to do her best in this new vital war effort.

MARRIAGES MOSTLY WRECKED BY LITTLE THINGS IN LIFE

Nagging, Bossing, Carelessness in Appearance and Laziness Worst Sins.

A GROUP of psychologists studying the ups and downs of matrimony, have sent me a questionnaire in which I am asked, judging from the innumerable letters from disgruntled husbands I have received, what are the things that men object to most in their wives Well, first and foremost, is nagging. There is nothing that gets under a man's skin and makes him wish that the fool-killer had gotten him on his wedding day like being continually prodded by his wife's tongue. There is no sin that his wife could possibly commit that he can't overlook easier than having her tell him over and over every day of his life about what he should do, and eat, and wear, or remind him of some fault that he has, or drag up out of the past some mistake that he made 20 years ago. It is the "don't forget to put on your rubbers," "don't drink two cups of coffee, it is so bad for your digestion," "don't put so much salt on your food," "don't sit up reading at night," "don't smoke in the house," "don't drive so fast," "don't bring your horrid old friends home to dinner," "don't do this," "don't do that" that are like the continual dropping of water on a stone that eventually wears out the strongest love.

As long as a wife tells her husband a thing one time and then lets it ride she can lead him around like Mary's little lamb. But when she becomes a repeater it gets his back up and he balks like an army mule and would kick over the traces and run away if it were not for the children.

Hide the War Paint

Next in the category of things that men object to in their wives is cold cream, which greases the slide to more divorces than almost any one thing. No man yearns to kiss a cheek that is glistening with lard, and when his wife appears before him with her war paint off and her wrinkle eradicator on, she ceases to be a Lady Love, for she has served notice on him that the romance is over, the mystery ended, and she doesn't care how she looks to him.

The next thing that men object to in their wives is bad housekeeping. Most men marry to get a home. They are tired of living around in clubs and hotels and boarding houses and eating mass production food that tastes as if it had come out of the same pot, and they dream of coming at night to a home where the lights will be burning for them, and a smiling wife will welcome them, and there will be a savory dinner of the things they like best, cooked the way they like it, waiting for them.

Don't Like Lazy Women

Picture, then, their disappointment when they get wives who are too lazy and trifling to keep a house that doesn't look like a pigsty; who set them down to meals that would give an ostrich acute indigestion, and who make them get up and get their own breakfasts while they turn over and take another snooze in the morning. If you will notice, you will see that philanderers nearly all have a lean and hungry look. The well fed husbands are fireside sitters.

Husbands object to bossiness in their wives. They don't mind being "managed" by their wives, but they want them to use some finesse in the way they do it. It makes them sore for their wives to lead them around like a dog on a lease and make it plain to all and sundry that they rule the roost. When you hear a wife say "I won't let my husband do this or that," or "I make my husband do so and so," you are beholding one of the victims of matrimony who should either wear a martyr's crown or a dunce's cap, you don't know which.

A common complaint that men make against their wives is the way

Mrs. Allan B. Colerick Addresses 'Y' Members

Mrs. Allan B. Colerick addressed the meeting of the Board and committee members and their friends held in the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs Colerick is a member of the War Services Committee of the National Council and she brought news of the war services which the "Y" is providing.

She told how, at the beginning of the war the Y.W.C.A. had offered its services to the government and how the task of finding rooms for industrial workers, aiding the wives and mothers of soldiers had been turned over by the government to the Association. The "Y" now has three main tasks: to build and equip huts and hostels for girls in the services, military nurses, land girls and industrial workers. In Britain 400 of these have already been established and many more are needed. The British Y. W. must also provide clubs and recreation centres for evacuated women and children, and must provide hostels for bombed out families. The last two of these have not yet become necessary in Canada. The first is becoming a real problem.

Mrs. Colerick said that she believed that the Y.W.C.A. began its war work in the fall of 1938 when the world conference was held in Muskoka That conference should have been held in China, but war conditions made it impossible. There were women at that conference from all the countries of Europe, even from Germany, and it was then that they began to realize how close they were to war.

In Canada, since the war began, Association everywhere have made enormous extensions of their rooms registry and travellers' aid facilities. At all the large military centres they have provided hostess houses at the very gates of the great camps. These hostess houses are places where soldiers can meet their wives, sweethearts and mothers, and where girls in the services can take their men friends. They have served over 1,000,000 in the past year. They also provide overnight accommodation in emergencies. They have been the scene of christenings and weddings. In Halifax, seething with people, a tremendous transient population of soldiers and sailors wives and families create a terrific problem. Mr. Colerick said that the Association in Halifax seemed literally to grow beds from its walls, so great has been the demand for emergency accommodation.

In the evening Mr. Colerick again spoke, this time to an assembly of "Y" members and their friends. This meeting was presided over by Mrs. K. Choate, president of the Students' Council, who explained the functions of the Council and announced the speaker and the program.

Featured in this program were the very fine moving pictures which Mr. Downer has been taking of the various "Y" activities.

Also a feature of the evening was the presentations, by the clubs and societies of the contributions to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, and a description of the means by which they were raised.

The Junior and Babies' gym contributions were presented by Barbara and Gladys Lewis; the intermediate school girls by Patsy Martin; the Junior Supper Club, whose contribution was given by Mrs. Choate, since, exams being in progress, none of the members could be present. The Friday Night's Supper Club's contribution was given by Judy Clarke; the gym girls' by Phyllis Perdue, the evening gym by Mrs. J. Forbes, the 38 Club by Phyllis Flett, Women's Day Out Club by Mrs. Sinclair, the residence, by Mary McKee, the old country club by Mrs. Lewis and the gym Swim Club, Ina Robinson.

After the reception refreshments were served, coffee being poured by Mrs. G. Young and Miss Mary Mitchell. A contest, "Know you 'Y'," was won by Mrs. F. Gray and Mrs. F. Dunford.

Whatever your washing method . . .
you need Sunlight's "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" for those extra dirty parts

As no doubt you know from your own wash-day experience, the very dirty parts of clothes are by far the most difficult to get really clean. Any cleanser—powders, flakes or bar soap—will remove the ordinary dirt. But wherever grime is concentrated you can't do without the Sunlight Soap method of washing clothes.

Sunlight safely gets the dirt from the extra soiled parts because of its "extra-soapiness," which enables you to get right at the stubborn dirt at once. There is no need to rub the soap hard. Just a light touch is sufficient to leave a thin film of Sunlight in contact with the dirt; sufficient, too, to remove the last tiny speck of grime. Women who use the Sunlight method have found it the easiest, safest and most thrifty way of getting clothes clean and white.

With household cleaning, as well as washing, Sunlight's "extra-soapiness" gives real help. A touch of Sunlight wherever dirt is troublesome loosens it instantly and removes it completely. And Sunlight is as gentle to your hands as it is to the finest fabrics. It is all good soap right through.

Rome Claims 19 Hit In Convoy

ROME, (From Italian Broadcasts, March 25—(AP).—The Italian High Command claimed to-day that a total of 19 British warships and merchant vessels were sunk, damaged or at least hit in an air and naval engagement that ranged from the Gulf of Sirte off the Libyan coast into the Eastern Mediterranean.

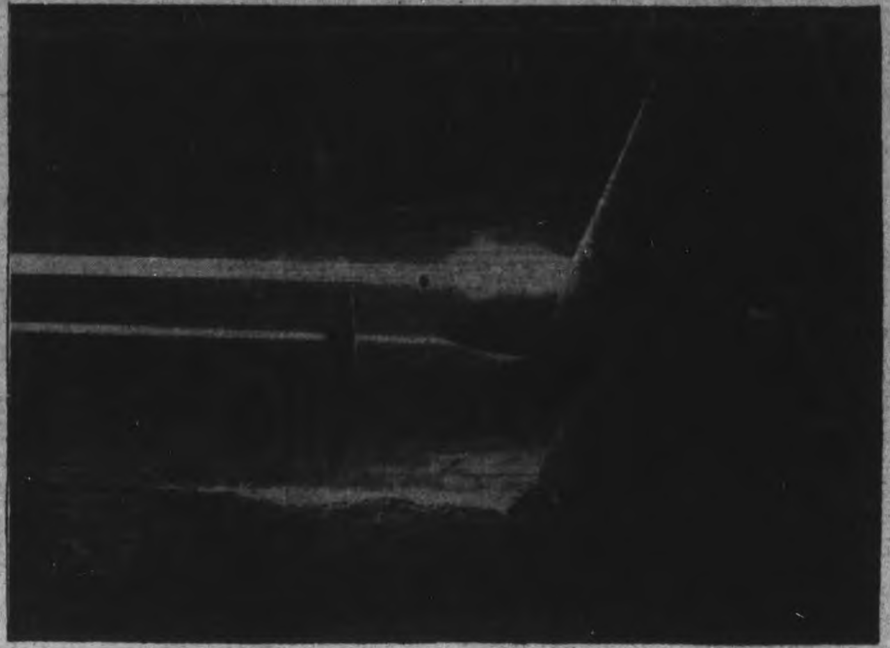
Torpedo-carrying planes, three of which were reported lost in the operation, were credited with sinking a cruiser, an unidentified naval unit and a 10,000-ton merchant ship, while German bombers which joined in the attack on the convoy were said to have sent another merchant ship to the bottom.

(British sources said last night that some of their ships had been hit, but none sunk.)

Listed as damaged were three cruisers, a destroyer and three merchant ships, all by Italian torpedo planes, and two merchant vessels, by German bombers. Italian warships were said to have scored hits on one cruiser and two destroyers, while a "naval unit" was torpedoed by an Italian submarine.

All of this action took place in Gulf of Sirte, the High Command said. It claimed that in the Eastern Mediterranean a British naval squadron "probably returning from the battle area" was attacked last night by Italian planes which hit a cruiser with two torpedoes and registered one hit on a large destroyer.

Hurricane's Guns Blaze



This remarkable picture shows the guns of a Hurricane aircraft of the fighter command firing a burst of 1,600 rounds at night. To secure the luminous effect a proportion of one tracer bullet in four rounds was introduced.

For Thursday, March 26

The sidereal opertions for this period may be read as perplexing if not obscure in the interpretation of definite auguries. The predominant factor is an encouraging one for attacking major objectives, with originality and perhaps surprising tactics, backed up by practical and tested systems or techniques. But these must have the support of influential personages whose cooperation may be secured by diplomatic, secret, subtle or shrewdly organized strategies.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which subtle undercurrents may be the source of success and surprising progress and prosperity. There are certain astral angles of the obscure, elusive or inspirational which may be at work beneath the surface to bring this about, but supported by individual creative ability and ingenuity of a thoroughly practical and demonstrable character. This sound procedure may bring the required assistance from high places which would not be amenable to direct and abrupt action.

A child born on this day while having sound as well as exceptional constructive abilities, may also gain by secret, subtle or unique means of attracting support from those in power.

Last week or so the acting cub master, who is the sout master as well, decided to leave the pack, and to mind his own troop. This almost left the pack to be all by lonesome selves, without a leader. But our friend and A.D.C., Mr. Wolfe, together with our chaplain, Rev. Dr. Grant, got together and managed to find one man who was willing to learn about cubs and give some of his time to the work we are trying to do with young boys. Thus we are saved from disbanding the pack. This man is Mr. Henry Jones, one of the Jones boys who live on Lock street and works at t he carpet factory at the south end of the city. We wish "Hank" all the luck and success in connection with the new work he is setting out to do.

But, no, our troubles are just beginning. How long we are going to have our new leader, no one knows and how long we will have our scout master is only a matter of a short time. Yes, the big bad wolf who is waiting at our door trying to nab us and our freedom, requires all able bodied young men of Canada, including that of the leaders of our group. Thus we are standing face with an evermore seriousness as to the future of scouting at Sacred Heart.

That future, however, is not too dark, as we still have our older boys, the patrol leaders, who are ready to carry on. Yes, and we believe that with support from the parents and all the people, they can do it, too. They are willing even to the extent that while they still have their scouter with them, they are willing to give up two more nights a week to be further trained in scout work, so that they may be prepared. So it is that the patrol leaders will meet every Wednesday night, and every second Sunday morning for special scout training in leadership. Patrol system is surely proving useful; last week all the games were run by the P.L.'s and instructions, too. And they made a good job of it.

A new patrol had to be organized, with David Jones as patrol leader. They call themselves the Bull Dogs, although they really like to be called the nickname of the P.L. "Horse." They will make a good patrol. This move was necessary as the troop has been built up to 24. Some six new boys joined during the last week, and we wish them good luck in their new adventure of their young lives. These new boys are: James Butcher, Fred LaPlante, Harold Shaughnessy, Ernest Mills, and Victor SCremasco. Now we have a full troop we only hope that they will make good scouts and that soon we will obtain more help to lead them and to give them instructions.

Two patrols, the Beavers and the Foxes, dared the first day weather of the Spring, and went out to a hike to Bears' Creek, but alas they almost got drowned; no, not in the creek but in the mud, and as it was reported one of the boys dare not go home in fear that the clean pants he was wearing may need some cleaning. Oh, well, that's just one of the vanities of life.

That patrol competition is shaping out nicely, with the Foxes leading the Beavers, with the Bull-dogs closely running with their tongues hanging out, while the Eagles need to spread their wings out wider to catch up in their flight for victory.

At the last court of honor meeting, P.L. Frank Lucano was appointed as treasurer, to mind the $9.50 on hand, plus what we may have in the future.

Hikes are to be had in patrols, with the scouter attending when invited by the patrol leader to pass tests.

DOWN AT ST. GEORGE'S

During our visit down south we were glad to see our old friend, George Houghton, on the job again and although the pack and troop are both small in numbers, feel that Vince Hains-Howard and Scouter George are doing their best to get the group reorganized. We understand that they are not yet registered, but that papers were turned in to one of our senior officers who mislaid same. We would urge St. George's to get registered right away so that their boys can take part in the various activities that the cubs and scouts of Peterborough are preparing.

MAY 24TH JAMBOREE

At the last association meeting the matter of the annual jamboree was discussed, and it was decided to go ahead as usual. It was felt that, although transportation problems may omit many of our usual out-of-town visitors, it would be beneficial for the district to go ahead with the plans. A committee was chosen and many items for the grounds committee was recommended. The one main item was the possibility of placing a pump on the grounds. This matter was left for investigation as to costs.

PRESENTATION TO A. THORNE

At a meeting of the Mark Street Scout Troop on Friday last, Assistant Commissioner E. Wolfe presented our travelling assistant Scouter Alex Thorne with his certificate and Woods badge as for the completion of his Akela's course. Alex has been helping at Mark Street for the past month and it was felt that the farewell talk was very fitting for such a presentation.

Scouter Thorne is assisting with the St. Andrew's group, but is always prepared to give help where needed.

A.R.P. TRAINING

It was reported that many of our senior scouts are taking up the basic course for Air Raid Precaution work, and that some of St. Johns Rovers were also present. Would urge that every scout over 16 years will attend these courses that take place on Sunday afternoon or Monday evening in the Lyceum on Simcoe street. If you cannot make it Sunday, attend them on Monday evening.

Suggestion Book Entries Are Few

The "suggestion book" in City Clerk Outram's office gets real results. Entries so far have been few, but they are quickly followed by action.

For the last month there have been only a few odds and ends, minor complaints and proposals.

On one page, Alderman Sands reported Wolfe Street, between Park Street and Monaghan Road, full of holes, breaking automobile springs. He suggested that the holes could be filled with cinders as a temporary relief to traffic.

The item was reported to the City Engineer's office that de- but gravel and stones were used instead of cinders. The final comment from the engineer's office was: "The whole road will have to be broken up and oiled."

That is the way it works, but it is not getting enough work to do, although the Board of Works department has about all they can handle.

4 Fliers Killed

WINNIPEG, March 25—(CP).—Four airmen attached to No. 5 bombing and gunnery school of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Dafoe, Sask., were killed, another was seriously injured, and a sixth man escaped unhurt, when two training planes collided in mid-air six miles from the school's airdrome yesterday.

The dead are: Sgt.-Pilot Harry Naoum (4577 Park Avenue), Montreal, pilot of one of the planes; L.A.C. D. F. Hood, Vancouver; L.A.C. G. G. J. Hower (716 Railroad Street), Allentown, Pa., U.S.A.; L.A.C. E. P. Harris, Speers, Sask.

Seriously injured: L.A.C. C. G. Harris, Speers, Sask.

Ontario Given Square Deal

TORONTO, March 25.—(CP)—Premier Hepburn told the Legislature yesterday that the province and the municipalities were nearly $17,000,000 better off under the agreement to vacate the fields of corporation and income tax than they would have been had the Sirois report been accepted.

The premier made this statement during the closing moments of a session which saw first reading given to the bill validating the transfer of these taxing powers to the Dominion Government. Mr. Hepburn agreed with the view of Leopold Macaulay, acting opposition leader, that by vacating these fields of taxation the Legislature was reduced to the status of a "glorified county council."

17 Rejections

Cornwall, Ont., March 25 (CP)

LIFE for Gerard Meilleur of Cornwall is just one dreary round of service rejection slips. He's got 17 from army, air and naval units in which he sought to enlist.

Now he's displaying a letter from the National Defence Department rejecting his proposal to serve as a human torpedo or carry out any sort of suicide assignment.

Actually Meilleur, whose sight and hearing are defective served for a time in the Prince Edward and Hastings Regiment at Picton —but was discharged.

Finding life as an armed canal guard too dull, Meilleur plans to seek a munitions factory job.

Requests 30 Days To Fix Pay Issue

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The war production chief, Donald Nelson, asked Congress to-day to give him a 30 day time limit to obtain voluntary suspension of double-pay for overtime through agreement with leaders of United States organized labor before enacting legislation on the matter.

He promised the House of Representative Naval committee that he would ask for legislation himself then if he was unable to obtain that agreement, but simultaneously entered opposition to suspension of federal maximum hour legislation and a ban against closed shops in industries handling army and navy contracts.

"The men at the bench are juts as patriotic as you or I," he told Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.-Ga.) of the committee, who with Representative Howard Smith (Dem.-Va.) drafted the far-reaching measure.

"The present law," he said, "does not prevent men from working more than 40 hours a week. It has not set the pattern for the length of our work week in our war industries. It governs wages rather than the hours in which a man may work."

He told the committee that men in the "highly strategic" machine tool industry now were working an average of 55 hours, that those in the shipbuilding industry averaged 48 hours, and those in aircraft plants 49.

"If we abolish the 40 hour week by law," he said, "we do not gain one hour of additional work in our war industries; but naturally we create a widespread demand for increases in wage rates, throw the entire wage structure out of adjustment, and remove an important incentive for labor to shift from non-essential industries into war production jobs."

they monopolize the home and use it for their own exclusive use and benefit, without regard to the poor saps who support it.

He Wants Part Of House

It is a rare thing for a man to have even so much as a closet that he can call his own and, if he has, his wife hangs her party dress in it when her own clothes receptacles overflow. There is never room for his collections, which are relegated to the basement or the attic where he can't get at them.

And many men weep upon my shoulder because their wives take them for granted. They are starved for affection, for tenderness, for a little jollying from their wives, for some sign that they still love them instead of regarding them as merely cash registers that they can punch when they need money to pay the bills.

Marriage is a queer business any way you take it, and queerest part of it is that little things wreck it oftener than the big ones. And husbands find it harder to stand their wives, "ways" than they do their faults.

COWBOY SONGS FOR FUN WITH FRIENDS

"Chisholm Trail" a Favorite

Any get-together is more fun with a cowboy songbook. From the first bar of "The Old Chisholm Trail" everyone melts into good fellowship!

'Woke up one morning on the Chisholm trail,
Rope in my hand, a cow by the tail,
Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya, youpy ya!
Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya!"

Then there's that great favorite, "The Texas Song," full of a cowboy's lonely longing:

"The hard, hard ground will be my bed
And the saddle seat will hold my head.
I'll make my home on the wide, wide range,
The people there are not so strange."

And the beloved, sentimental "Heart in the Heart of Texas," all moonbeams and starshine:

"There's a Heart in the Heart of Texas Beating true blue just for me—"

A thrill to sing all your favorite verses! Our songbook has words and music of 18 ever-popular cowboy songs, including "Red River Valley," "The Cowboy's Dream," "Git Along Little Dogies." Piano and some guitar accompaniments.

For your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of songbook.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE AGAINST ANOTHER

WHEN TWO principles seem to come into conflict, with both in operation at the same time, it is necessary to weigh one against the other and select that which seems the more important in the particular circumstances. Ordinarily, if you hold an ace in the hand which plays just after the dummy, and you see the guarded king of that suit face up on the table, you like to wait for somebody else to lead the suit, so you may knock off the king. But there are occasions, especially when the suit is trump and the dummy is in position to ruff losers of some short side suit, when it is better to lay down that ace and another trump, to prevent a couple of ruffing tricks.

East just naturally handed this contract to South on a silver platter. West led the heart A and, upon getting the Q from East, offered a second heart, which the J won. Almost without taking a look around, East led his heart K, and his first chance to set the contract was gone. South ruffed this, led the club A and another club, which he trumped with the dummy's spade 7, offered the last heart from dummy and East foolishly ruffed low with the spade 5, South over-ruffing with the 9, ending all chance to set it at all. The last club was then ruffed with the spade K, two diamond tops were taken and the diamond 2 ruffed with the spade 10. East had to use his now blank A on the spade 4, and the last two tricks went to the Q and J.

When East won the second heart, his play should have been the spade A and then the 5. By so doing, he would have prevented any club ruffs. By ducking one diamond, South could have used that suit later to discard club losers, but that very duck would have been the setting trick. Even after the first club ruff, when dummy led the fourth heart, East still could have beaten it by ruffing with his A, instead of the 5, and then returning the 5, which would have left South with a losing club he could not ruff.

Canadian War Workers Take Aptitude Tests

If a woman seeks employment at one of the rifle and machine gun ammunition plants somewhere in Quebec province, she does not simply walk in, give her name, and find herself hired. She must first be interviewed by a specialist. If she gets by this first step, she proceeds to an examination room, a corner of which is shown here, and undergoes various tests. The two tests illustrated in this photo might be called the jig-saw and mirror tests. At the RIGHT, squares are being fitted in their appropriate places, and at LEFT, an applicant draws an object, only the reflection of which appears in a mirror, with both left and right hands. There follows arithmetical and classroom tests to determine ability, speed and discrimination.

Gilmour Man 96 Dies Of Burns In House Fire

TWEED, March 25 — (ENS). — Terribly burned about the face and body, 96-year-old William McKenzie, Gilmour, succumbed to his injuries in the Belleville General Hospital after being one of the central figures in an ehoric rescue from his blazing home one mile east of the north country village on Saturday night.

Bruce McKenzie, 63-year-old son of the fire victim, was also severely burned, and at present is in hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. His wife suffered slight burns.

The younger McKenzie received his burns while carrying his flame-enveloped father from the burning dwelling. Flames seared his head. Unable to extinguish them while staggering out of the home, he suffered burns about the face and body. His fingers were seared with flames as he later tried to extinguish the fire from his blazing clothing.

The blaze is believed to have started from faulty stovepipes early Saturday evening. Noticing the blaze, the younger McKenzie ran outside to get a bucket of water. the well was some distance from the house, and by the time he returned the structure was blazing.

Remembering his father was in the house, he dashed in the bedroom to find his parent's clothing ablaze. He carried the aged man to eventual safety, but the severe burns took their toll Sunday night and the elderly man died.

The two men were taken to a neighbors house following the fire, where they were treated by Dr. W. Nickley. Later they were taken to the Belleville General Hospital.

The home and contents were a complete loss.

The late William McKenzie was born 96 years ago in the Township of Seymour, Northumberland county, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McKenzie. He took up farming as his life's work, and after residing in the township where he was born for many years, he removed to Gilmour, and resided in that vicinity for the past fifty years. In religion he was affiliated with the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving him are one daughter, Mrs. Bert Hinchcliffe, Dryden, Ont.; two sons, Alexander McKenzie and Bruce McKenzie, both of Gilmour; one sister, Mrs. Mary McKenzie, near Peterborough.

Ship Alaze At Sea

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 25 (CP)—A ship fire was still burning off the Nova Scotia coast yesterday, more than 36 hours after it first broke out.

Agents for the ship here said that explosions caused by the fire had broken the vessel in two and that the aft portion had floated free from the flames and now was grounded on another reef a quarter of a mile away.

The fire broke out on the vessel some time after she grounded. The entire crew escaped in lifeboats.

MILLBROOK

Club Will Raise Flowers To Boost Funds

MILLBROOK, March 25—(ENS). Mrs. D. L. Lunn was hostess for the March meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle at her home on Friday evening, the president, Mrs. W. Henry Gray, being in the chair, and the attendance unusually large, over twenty members and visitors being present. During the worship period Mrs. Elsie Poulson read the lesson and Jean Burnham led in prayer, after which Ruth Thorne and Marian Seymour sang an appropriate duet, Margaret Smith presiding at the piano. The president announced the public meeting to be held in the church basement on April 23 when slides will be shown and a two-act play presented.

The matter of having members grow flowers suitable for winter bouquets during the summer months and having same for sale in the fall, was given consideration and committees appointed to look after help from various friends in this project. The fact that finances are in satisfactory shape at the end of the first three months was noted with gratitude, the regular offering from the envelopes, tried for the first time this year, having proved a success.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs took up the study book dealing with the life of a Chinese boy, and also read an article covering the trip by air to China of an English doctor, which while it had its humorous side, showed something of the personal discomfort necessarily suffered under present war conditions. Marjorie Skitch was appointed temperance secretary, after the president had read the ten-point standard, and during the social hour contest, in the form of a spelling match on Chinese names prepared by Bea McDowell and conducted by Leitha Edworthy, proved instructive and interesting. Mrs. Lunn and her daughter Betty served candy before the guests left for home.

Among hostesses who have entertained in recent days in connection with the "diminishing teas" being sponsored by the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church, were: Mrs. J. McKnight and her sister, Mrs. M. Perrin, who had 20 guests, and who chose Friday at 5 p.m. for their party; Mrs. Franklin Bannister and Miss M. E. Needham, who invited 15 for Wednesday afternoon at the former's home, Bank street; Misses E. L. Hetherington, Luella Kennedy, and Mrs. J. Ridge, who had three tables at the tea hour at Miss Hetherington's home, King street east; Mrs. Edmund and Miss Thelma Ball, who had three tables for tea at 6 p.m. on Thursday. The guests including Mrs. J. W. Wright, Mrs. Ivan Ivan Gray, Mrs. A. R. Payne, Mrs. W. R. Howard, Mrs. T. A. Campbell, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, Mrs. Melville Ball, Mrs. R. A. Ford, Rev. A. and Mrs. Sisco, Reeve W. E. Ball.

Archdeacon Moving

The announcement made by Archdeacon William Simpson, on Sunday, of his impending removal to the parish of Cartwright, with residence at Blackstock, was received with deep regret by the several congregation of the parish of Cavan, where he has served acceptably for the past 11 years. Removal will be by the end of April, and it is not definitely known, as yet, who will succeeed Archdeacon Simpson here. The increasing work of the Archdeacohry led to the authorities arranging the change, the one church to be served lightening the work of the parish for the clergyman in charge.

Dr. G. H. and Mrs. Needler of Toronto are spending a few days with Mr. A. A. and Miss Henrietta Needler.

Mr. T. A. Campbell entertained the cribbage club at his home on Wednesday evening, among the members present being R. A. Ford, Douglas Sheppard, H. A. Kerr, M. W. Ball, Homer Oullette, T. W. McCamus.

Mrs. J. Lancashire is at present visiting in Toronto at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Allen Gray. Mrs. Linden Saunders spent the week in Cobourg visiting Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell. Marvin Winslow of Winnipeg is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Winslow, south of Millbrook.

U.S. SYNTHETIC RUBBER FIND SOLD OUT TO NAZIS

Bare Oil Firm Held Patent Out On States

Stifled Output Behind Present Shortage; Other Cartels Do Same

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP).—Thurman Arnold, assistant United States Attorney-General, testified today that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had developed a synthetic rubber that was cheaper, better and more plentiful than any the Nazis had and had turned it over to German interests before the United States entered the war.

Arnold told the Senate defence investigating committee that until a consent decree entered into yesterday, Standard had "held back even in this rubber shortage' in making the patents on the synthetic product available to American rubber companies.

When Arnold read documents he said showed Standard had 'stifled' the production of synthetic rubber in this country, Hugh Fulton, committee counsel, asked:

"Then Standard developed synthetic rubber in this country that was cheaper and more plentiful than Germany had?"

"That's right," Arnold replied.

"And turned it over to Germany?" Fulton inquired.

"That's right," was the reply.

"And not to our own rubber companies?" Fulton asked.

"That's right," Arnold said.

Cause of Present Shortage.

The assistant Attorney-General, who is chief of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, previously had testified that cartel arrangements between Standard and the I.G. Farbenindustrie of Germany "are the principal cause of our present shortage of synthetic rubber."

Arnold said, however, that "These arrangements were not entered into with any desire to aid or assist Germany."

"The sole motive," said the Assistant Attorney General, "was an attempt on the part of the Standard Oil to get a protected market to eliminate independent competition, and finally to restrict production in

Cheer By Churchill - 'Successes In 1942'

LONDON, March 26 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today that the Allies "cannot lose this war except through our own failure to use our combined, overwhelming strength and to use our multiplying opportunities that will present themselves to us."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Central Council of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations, his political party, the Prime Minister said:—

"I cannot offer any guarantee that we are at the end of our misfortunes.

"It would be foolish for us not to be prepared for further heavy blows, but just as last year I warned you that we could not have successes unchequered by reverses, so now in 1942 we need not expect to have reverses unrelieved by successes."

'A year ago," Mr. Churchill related," we were alone. Now three of the greatest nations in the world are sworn to us in close alliance and are fighting at our side in all their growing power.

"Whereas a year ago all we could do was to fight stubbornly and doggedly on as we had done when we were alone in former wars—and not without ultimate success—we have now at our side mighty allies."

The Prime Minister declared that Britain had preserved free speech, but added "there is a limit which I must have respected."

"I cannot allow propaganda to disturb the army or weaken the confidence of the country and the armed forces in the qualities and character of our devoted corps of officers," he said.

No Time For The Past.

"The time has not come to form judgment about the past — all our thoughts, all our willpower must be concentrated upon what lies around us and before us."

Mr. Churchill told the party he hoped that "when the whole story has been told it will be said of the Conservative party: 'They strove for peace too long. When the war came they proved themselves the main part of the raft upon which the salvation of Britain was founded and the freedom of mankind regained'."

The Marquess of Salisbury was unanimously elected President of the Conservative Association for the coming year. He told the meeting that the party would be "essential" in post-war reconstruction.

Mr. Churchill told of an "unbroken series of 'misfortunes" and declared:—

"We must examine searchingly and repeatedly our own conduct and the character and quality of our war effort in every form and direction.

Describing the war as "very hard," Mr. Churchill said, "its numerous and fearful problems reach down to the very foundations of human society. Its scope is worldwide and it involves all nations and every man, woman and child in them."

Back To Stone Age

"Strategy and economics are interwoven. Sea, land and air are but a single service. The latest refinements of science are linked with the cruelty of the stone age. The workshop and that fighting line are one. All may fall. All will stand together. We must aid each other. We must stand by each other."

"We must confront our perils and trials with a national unity which cannot be broken and a national force that is inexhaustible. We must confront them with resilience

66 Hun Planes Jump Murmansk, Arctic Base Take Beating Leave 11 Behind In Icy Wastes

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, March 26—(AP)—The German air force has struck with 66 planes at Murmansk, Arctic Russian base, and lost 11 of them while causing no damage, a dispatch from the Arctic front said today.

(The German high command claimed yesterday that German airmen had damaged a merchant ship and shot down eight fighter planes in a raid on Murmansk, a northern anchor of Russian battle lines extending to the Black Sea).

The Russian dispatch said that more than 100 planes, raiders and defenders, fought over the city at one time. It reported the first German wave was made up of 18 bombers and 11 fighters, the second of 11 bombers and six fighters, and the third of 20 aircraft.

Soviet fighters and anti-aircraft gun crews shared in shooting down 11 raiders and two others were damaged, the account said.

A strengthening of German air forces was indicated by dispatches from various combat zones relating incidents in which Nazi planes outnumbered the Russians in one case by 27 to three.

No Compromise, Shall Win, Or Die Says M'Arthur Pledging All US Aid

CANBERRA, March 26—(CP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur pledged tonight that "there can be no compromise; we shall win or we shall die, and to this end I pledge you and the full resources of all the mighty power of my country and all the blood of my countrymen."

At a dinner in Parliament House, the American commander declared his confidence—the "unbreakable faith of a free man"—in ultimate victory.

"There is a link that binds our countries together," he declared. "I have come as a soldier in a great crusade of personal liberty as opposed to perpetual slavery. My faith in our ultimate victory is invincible.

"I bring you tonight the unbreakable faith of a free man."

Prime Minister John Curtin, who pored over battle plans with MacArthur before the dinner, declared that under the general's leadership, "the war can be fought with dynamic energy and inflexible purpose."

Mr. Curtin declared that Gen. MacArthur had the fullest confidence of Australia's War Council.

"Forced as we are to battle on our own soil," Mr. Curtin said, "the plans we are making are not matters for publication. I have no doubt that just as we can surprise the enemy we will gratify ourselves. News of what we have done and not news of what we intend will be the only kind of news which the War Council can from now on make available."

Gen. MacArthur, in his new role of United Nations supreme commander in the southwest Pacific, plunged into conferences with the Commonwealth's leaders as soon as

Padding Relief Riles Hepburn

TORONTO, March 26.—(CP).—Premier Hepburn and his Minister of Welfare, Hon. Farquhar Oliver, issued a warning to-day to Toronto in particular and other municipalities in general, that the Provincial government would not countenance a general ballooning in relief costs under the new system whereby the province pays 50 per cent.

The Premier said certain members of the Toronto City Council, "are putting a premium on indolence, and if it is not stopped, I'm prepared to recommend action be taken by the government."

(Toronto has already budgeted relief costs for this year that will amount to $512,338 more than 1941 with only half the number of persons on the rolls.)

"Local politicians should not be in a position nor permitted to play football with relief," Mr. Hepburn continued. "Neither should they use relief for their self-aggrandizement. They are trading on the adversity of some, dangling bait in their faces, to the discouragement of those who are willing to work and have to pay their taxes.'

Mr. Oliver said a maximum would be established on what the province will pay in relief costs and if a municipality exceeds it, the additional amount would have to be borne by that municipality. The maximum likely will be 50 per cent. above the Campbell report of 1932 which has been the basis for relief assistance in the province for years.

The Welfare Minister said Toronto is planning allowances about 140 per cent. above the Campbell report.

New Trainees To Fill 8th Division

Camp Enlarged 50 P.C. 7th Division Now Trained 4 Mos.

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 26—(CP)—Practically all of the men who will comprise the 7th and 8th army divisions, formation of which has just been announced, will be men called up under the compulsory provisions of the National Resources Mobilization Act, Defence Minister Ralston said at a press conference today.

The minister also disclosed that nearly all the men needed to fill up the 7th division are now on hand and have received their four months' basic training. He said most of the men in the 6th division, mobilized some time ago, are men called up compulsorily and like those to go into the 7th and 8th division are of the class which can not be sent overseas under the present law unless they volunteer.

A division commander for the 6th division will be appointed very shortly, said the minister. Organization of the divisional troops and divisional headquarters is under way.

"Our overseas program for 1942 as announced by the Prime Minister in January stands," said Col. Ralston. "According to present intentions there will be no change. The additional formations being mobilized for home defence will not reduce the number of men to be sent overseas."

(The 1942 overseas program calls for formation of a two-corps army, the sending overseas of the 4th (armored) division and another army tank brigade and the provision of all the ancillary troops and reinforcements needed to support the larger establishment.)

Camps Enlarged.

The minister also announced an increase in basic training facilities of 50 per cent. to handle 15,000 men instead of 10,000 a month, and said the compulsory call-up for April will require 7,000 men.

Col. Ralston also gave figures to show the extent to which the Army has men to fill its enlarged establishment. He said there are between 50,000 and 60,000 men on hand now either in training centres or trained and not allotted to units. In addition there are the infantry

30 In One Raid

LONDON, March 26 (AP).—Thirty German dive bombers were destroyed or damaged yesterday in one of the greatest air battles ever fought over embattled Malta the Air Ministry reported tonight.

The R.A.F.'s Spitfires and Hurricans worked such havoc among the attacking force, the Ministry said, that at least half of the raiders were not able to return home or else landed riddled by machine-gun bullets and the splinters of cannon shells.

Cripps Indicates India Action About Saturday

NEW DELHI, March 26 (CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps' journey to India bore fruit today when Maulana Abdul Kalan Azad summoned the Congress Party's executive committee to a meeting next Sunday to consider the British government's plan to grant India greater autonomy.

Political observers attached considerable significance to the announcement, recalling that Azad—who conferred yesterday with Sir Stafford Cripps as President of the Congress Party—had said only a few days ago he would call such a meeting if the British emissary's proposals were worth considering.

Mohammed Ali Jinnah, leader of the Moslem League, who also talked with Sir Stafford yesterday, has called a meeting of the League's working committee for Friday.

Sir Stafford, meanwhile, said that M. K. Gandhi, powerful champion of India's long campaign for independence, would arrive here tomorrow from Wardha at his invitation for a conference.

He said his talks with Azad and Jinnah were extremely cordial and declared he expected to see the latter again after the meeting of the Moslem League Committee.

Sir Stafford said he could not make a definite statement on the outcome of the talks he already has had with Indian leaders, but indicated he might "have some interesting information for you Saturday."

Quarry Blast Kills 29 At U.S. Pit

Rocks 50-Mile Area 14 Children Hurt School Half-Mile Off

EASTON, Pa., March 26—(CP)—Hundreds of pounds of dynamite exploded prematurely at a limestone quarry of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company four miles north of Easton today, killing at least 29 men and shaking the countryside for miles around.

Investigators said the death toll may reach 32.

The explosive was stacked on trucks and on the ground around the rim of the pit. Most of those killed were eating a mid-morning lunch nearby when the blast let go with devastating force about 9:30 a.m., EDT.

Sixteen other men were at work in the bottom of the pit and escaped injury.

The blast was felt as far away as 50 miles. Windows were shattered in homes and buildings in an 18-mile area.

Fourteen children in grade school half a mile from the scene were injured slightly by flying glass from broken windows. Two were detained in an Easton hospital. Together with 56 classmates the children marched calmly from the building under the supervision of two teachers, who gave first aid to the injured in the school yard.

Wives and relatives of the workers—some crying; other hysterical—crowded into a plant building not far from the quarry to await identification of the mangled bodies.

State police said 25 tons of dynamite had been assembled in the quarry for a major blasting operation that was to have blown away one entire side of the quarry.

Fears All Killed

William Miller, 38, fire chief from Nazareth and one of the first officials to reach the scene, said apparently all the men working in the quarry were killed.

"There were bodies scattered around for an eighth of a mile," he said. "I saw a leg here or an arm there. They were terribly mangled.

"I found several children were cut by flying glass, but none of them was injured seriously."

Leonard Sabatino, owner of the coal company, across a highway from the cement plant, said "it was

London Tightens Censorship To Nip Wild Tales

LONDON, March 26 (CP)—Brandon Bracken, Minister of Information, announced today there will be stricter censorship on press dispatches leaving Great Britain.

He said this action is being taken in response to concern in some quarters over allegedly "irresponsible and exaggerated messages" sent from London in recent weeks.

He said the restrictions also would apply to the representatives of the Dominions and Colonial press, that the Dominion governments had been informed, and added:—

"There is no intention whatever of preventing criticism. What I have to do is to stop distortion of our war effort here, which has caused consternation in some of our Dominions, upset our friends everywhere, and has been eminently useful to Dr. Goebbels."

His announcement said:—

No Compelling Experts To Move

OTTAWA, March 26 (CP)—While physically-fit men of military [illegible] prohibited under new regulations from taking jobs in non-essential commerce and industry unless they have special permission, there is no provision for compelling workers now holding such jobs to move to other, more-essential employment.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, announcing the extended National Selective Service Plan, however, said that "compulsion . . . will be applied without fear or favor wherever in the opinion of the government its use will aid in the achievement of a maximum war effort."

Even highly-skilled professional technicians, in demand by war industry, are not to be forced into more essential work. Employers are compelled to release and subsequently reinstate, such men when they agree to move at government request into more important work, but this provision does not extend at present to the average employee.

Lord Beaverbrook held the first of a series of talks with President Roosevelt last night at the White House, soon after his arrival by plane from Miami.

There is also talk here of the establishment of an Allied Food Board to co-ordinate the purchase, distribution, and planning of agricultural products.

750,000 Call on Balkans Kicks Back

Hitler May Have To Increase Garrisons As Double-Crossing Threatens Revolt

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 26—(AP).—Nazi machinations to get at least 750,000 men from the Axis' Balkan junior partners to help fight Hitler's wars were charged today by British diplomatic sources who gleefully predicted they might prove a boomerang.

Instead of getting men, said these informants with close continental connections, Hitler may have to increase his own garrisons in south-east Europe to squelch an unsought war situation aroused by distrust and reawakened old enmities stirred by his recruiting efforts.

"Frankly," said one observer, "we are delighted with the situation."

Futhermore, they declared Nazi plans to overawe Turkey with tales of German army masses on her European frontier and actual Bulgarian troops concentrations there have "not had the slightest effect on the Turks," in fact, British-Turkish relations recently have been cemented despite Hitler's efforts to weaken them.

Bulgaria and Hungary are under severe German pressure to provide troops for an Axis spring offensive against Soviet Russia, according to this analysis.

King Boris of Bulgaria, now the Fuehrer's visitor, is said to have been offered a slice of Rumanian territory and post-war control of the Dardanelles in return for the services of his army.

Bulgarian troops, however, would be an unlikely choice for the Russian front for two reasons, it was pointed out—the Bulgars are Slavs who feel a close racial kinship to the Russians and the Communist party is stronger in Bulgaria than in any other Balkan state.

Hitler and Boris were reported in Switzerland last night to have talked somewhere on the eastern front concerning Bulgaria's role in future Axis operations. Their conference was described in Berne as staged with growing Rumanian-Hungarian friction and intimations of German spring plans aimed at Turkey as the backdrop.

British sources described jealousy of Hungary as the prime factor in the Balkan situation. Except for a token force on the eastern front, Hungary has retained her army at home and escaped being garrisoned by a German-occupying force.

Now, however, Hitler needs the Hungarian army, probably the best-equipped and best-trained in the Balkans, according to British informants, and is offering more of Transylvania—already partly regained from Rumania—as bait.

Thus Rumania, which has suffered heavy casualties in Russia, has thousands of her troops far from home and has been drained of her oil output, emerges in the unenviable position of "fall guy" for Hitler, the informants say.

"This mixture of national greed, envy and ambition in the Balkans," one well-posted Briton summed it up, "has created a situation familiar to many others in Balkan history. Whenever a large outside power begins promising slices of territory in exchange for military collaboration, the situation is one which can develop into war very swiftly.

There was no disposition in these or military sources to discount the menace of any German move through Turkey and along the southern shore of the Black Sea—which, they expected, would be synchronized with a spring attack on the southern Russian front.

Quarter Of Jap Ships Gone

Means Caution For Any Further Pacific Moves

LONDON, March 26.—(CP)—Since start of the war in the Pacific Japan has lost about one-quarter of the 4,000,000 tons of shipping she originally had available for troop transport, the Allied review of international affairs, "Free Europe," estimated today.

The publication said that in any further extension of Pacific operations Japan would face a shipping problem and "must exercise caution, for about 130,000 tons of shipping are needed to transport a modern division with equipment."

Noting that United States troops can be concentrated in the British Isles twice as quickly as they can be transported to Australia, "Free Europe" recommended a two-point program to aid the Russians and prevent a German-Japanese union:

1. Japan's forces must be contained on all present fronts; Australia and Northern Burma thus must be defended.

2. The German military machine must be attacked from two or three sides simultaneously, because once Germany is smashed the defeat of Japan would follow.

RAF Swarms Over The Ruhr

3 Squadrons Of Canucks Included In 100's On Raid

LONDON, March 26— (CP Cable)—Hundreds of British bombers, including 3 squadrons blown by Canadian airmen hammered at industrial targets in the Ruhr Valley last night in one of the heaviest attacks yet undertaken from the air against Germany.

A let-up in bad weather permitted the R.A.F.'s bomber squadrons to resume the offensive. The Air Ministry said the targets were "very heavily bombed," and annonuced 11 planes are missing.

The aerial losses also covered the night flights against St. Nazaire, Nazi submarine base on the occupied French coast, and the mine-laying flights which sowed "many mines" in enemy waters.

The Italian communique reported British scouting planes also were over Milan and Turin, big industrial cities of Northern Italy, but said no bombs were dropped. The Germans communique mentioned R.A.F. raids on southern as well as western Germany.)

Many photographs were taken over the Ruhr, the Air Ministry said, and confirmed 'reports of our crews on the results achieved in recent raids, particularly on Cologne."

CANADA GOING TO MOBILIZE TWO ADDITIONAL ARMY DIVISIONS

Boosting Air Force Adding Units To Both Coasts

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 26 — (CP) — Every effort is being made to strengthen and deepen Canada's coastal defences but there can be no guarantee against attempted attack, Prime Minister Mackenzie King warned the House of Commons yesterday.

In a war review during a crowded three-hour sitting of the House Mr. King announced new plans for enlarging the Army and Air Force and said Naval force increases were limited only by the possible speed of ship construction and personnel training.

He told the House that:

1. Two new army divisions, the 7th and 8th are being organized as a "mobile reserve" for defence on both coasts;

2. The Air Force is being increased in all its branches and its basic coastal defence developments are either completed or in course of completion;

3. In spite of Japanese successes in the Far East attack upon Canada is just as likely on the Atlantic as on the Pacific coast;

4. Canadian should not misinterpret the government's post-war reconstruction program as indicative of a belief there will be an early termination of the war; and ingenuity which are fearless and, above all, with that inflexible willpower to endure and yet to dare, for which our island race long has been renowned.

"Thus, and thus alone, can we be worthy champions of the grand alliance of nearly 30 states and nations which, without our assistance, would never have come into being but which has now only to march on together until tyranny is trampled down."

A Partial Text.

Selected passages from Prime Minister Churchill's speech today before the Central Council of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations, his political party:

A year almost to the day has passed since I addressed you here. We had then made our great recovery after the collapse of France. . .

But perhaps you remember that I went out of my way to warn you we should not expect to have successes unchequered by reverses. Since then we have had an almost unbroken series of military misfortune. . . .

The Battle of the Atlantic, upon which all the time our power to live and to carry on the war effort depends, after turning markedly in our favor for five or six months, is now for the time being—and only for the time being—worsened again.

I cannot offer this morning any guarantee that we are at the end of our misfortunes.

We are engaged in a deadly grapple with two heavily armed opponents, both of whom have been preparing for years and bending their whole national life to fulfilment of the gospel of war. . . .

In such a situation it would be foolish for us not to be prepared for further heavy blows, and I am not here to speak smooth words or to make cheering promises. But this I will venture to say:

That just as last year I warned you that you could not expect to have successes unchequered by reverses, so now in 1942 we need not expect to have reverses unrelieved by successes.

When we look back over the sombre year that has passed and forward to the many trials that lie before us, no one can doubt for a moment the enormous improvement in our war position....

Whereas a year ago all we could do was to fight stubbornly and doggedly on as we had done when we were alone in former wars—and not without ultimate success—we have now at our side mighty Allies.

Must Not Fail Allies.

We must, therefore, examine searchingly and repeatedly our own conduct and character and the quality of our war effort in every form and direction. We must make sure that our fellow countrymen and our Allies have the best service from us which we can give....

Naturally, when one is burdened by the very hard labor of the task and its cares, sorrows and responsibilities, there may sometimes steal across the mind a feeling of impatience at the airy and jaunty detachment of some of those critics who feel so confident of their knowledge and so sure of their ability to put things right.

If I should be forced—as I hope I shall not be—to yield to such temptation, I hope you will remember how difficult it is to combine an attitude of proper meekness and humility towards assailants at home with those combative and pugnacious qualities which are the spirit of the offensive and counterattack which we are all agreed were never more needful than now against the foreign enemy.

We must confront our perils and trials with that national unity which cannot be broken and a national force that is inexhaustible...

Thus, and thus alone, can we be worthy champions of the grand alliance of nearly 30 states and nations which without our assistance would never have come into being, but which has now only to march on together until tyranny is trampled down....

Skips Formalities

Dispensing with all formalities, Gen. MacArthur went at once to Mr. Curtin's chambers after receiving at Parliament House the cheers of a small group of officials, among whom was Army Minister Francis Forde.

Members of the War Council were present at the conference between the Prime Minister and Gen. MacArthur—prelude to a series of important military sessions in which cabinet minister and senior United States and Australian army officers will participate next week.

After these meetings—which will fill in the details of the plan roughed out by Gen. MacArthur and Mr. Curtin today—it is expected the names of the men chosen to command the Australian armed forces under Gen. MacArthur will be announced.

Appointment of Australians to these posts will enable the Australian forces to preserve their own identity while permitting supreme authority to rest in MacArthur's hands.

The General came here by automobile from his headquarters, "Somewhere in Australia."

Accompanying the General were his Chief of Staff, Maj.-Gen. Richard Sutherland, and his Deputy Chief of Staff, Brig.-Gen. Richard Marshall.

An army spokesman, meanwhile, announced that Gen. MacArthur had a narrow escape from injury in the Philippines when he was caught in an air raid with his chauffeur orderly.

They hurried to the nearest shelter, but the orderly was wounded before their reached it. The General was uninjured and from the shelter kept a close watch on the progress of the raid.

It is believed in some quarters that Lord Beaverbrook's trip to Washinton is concerned primarily with closing this gap in the inter-governmental machinery although there has been no official hint of the purpose of this visit.

For some time it has been recognized here that a War Production Board was necessary but one of the delaying factors has been the overhaul of the British Supply Ministry, occasioned by the replacing of Lord Beaverbrook by Oliver Lyttelton who formerly represented the British War Cabinet in the Middle East.

units already formed and ready for inclusion in the 7th Division.

The Overseas Army requirements for 1942 amount to about 100,000 men. The formation of the two new divisions for Canadian defence will require about 35,000 men. Thus approximately half the men required for the combined home and overseas establishments in 1942 are now in uniform and at various stages in their training.

Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, Chief of the General Staff, was with the minister at the conference which was attended by about 10 newspaper correspondents and was called for the purpose of amplifying the Army announcement made in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday.

Expect Most To Volunteer.

General Stuart said while the 6th, 7th and 8th divisions will consist of men who are not required to go overseas it should not be assumed they could never be used outside Canada. After a unit is trained, equipped and develops its "esprit de corps' most of the men would volunteer to go overseas if their commanding officer informel them the unit has been asked to go. Then it would be simply a matter of replacing those unwilling to go before the unit could be ready for movement.

Col. Ralston declined to say where the new divisions would be located except to say they would be mobile reserves that would provide defence for both the east and west coasts. Those formations assigned to Eastern Canada will be so located as to be available to meet attack on either the Atlantic coast or in the St. Lawrence Valley.

Speaking of training facilities, Co. Ralston said:

"We have had a capacity for 10,000 to 11,000 a month. We are increasing these facilities with the objective of handling 15,000 men a month. The permanent facilities are not yet completed but we have made special arrangements and are now taking care of 13,000 to 14,000 a month."

The average monthly requisition for men called up in the last four months was 5,300. For April the requisition is 7,000. (This week it was announced the age limit for men to be called has been raised to include single men and childless widowers up to 30 years of age as of July, 1940.

General Stuart said conversion of the 4th division into an armored division for overseas service is proceeding. The armored fighting vehicle training centre at Camp Borden is used to train officers and non-commissioned officers who go back to their units and instruct them in their new jobs.

All Units To Be Represented

When the two new divisions are mobilized practically every infantry unit of the reserve army, formerly the non-permanent active militia, will be represented by a battalion in the active army either on home defence or overseas, said Col. Ralston.

While there are enough unallotted infantry battalions mobilized for the 7th Division there are few if any artillery and engineer units unallotted to divisions, and these formations for both divisions will have to be modilized from units of the reserve army.

On the west coast, the minister said, a close liaison is maintained with United States forces. There is a United States Army liaison officer at Victoria and a Canadian army liaison officer at Seattle and officers from the two forces visit one another as occasion requires.

A joint defence plan for the West coast providing for co-ordinated operations of both forces stands ready to be placed in effect the moment an invasion is attempted.

world markets in order to maintain that control."

The agreements between Standard Oil and the German Dye Trust were ended by a consent decree announced yesterday, in which the company agreed to free to American industry its patents on synthetic rubber.

The company, six subsidiaries and three top officials were fined a total of $50,000 for violation of the anti-trust law. They pleaded nolo contendere.

Arnold said he wished the case to be considered not as one which singled out the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, "but as a dramatic illustration of the viciousness of an industrial practice that restricts production in order to dominate the market."

"Such practices must not be allowed to continue because they directly hamper war production," he said. "We must uncover these practices during the war when they are hurting us....They must not be allowed to be reinstated after the war or we will find ourselves in the same situation all over again.

Arnold said that there was "essentially no difference between what the Standard Oil of New Jersey has done in this case and what other companies did in restricting the production of magnesium, aluminum, tungsten carbide, drugs, dye stuffs and a variety of other critical materials vital for the war."

"So long as such cartel agreements continue to exist," he added, "the inevitable result will be shortages in essential materials.

"Not only is production restricted but experimentation is restricted. These world cartels have made us dependent upon foreign nations for many of our most vital supplies by preventing production at home."

Big Help to War, Now.

Arnold said he believed that yesterday's consent decree would be a substantial contribution to the war program and would do something towards removing this existing cartel arrangement."

The company said it agreed to the decree and did not contest the anti-trust charges because its war work was more important than obtaining possible court vindication by trials which would take months.

Arnold said Standard Oil Company correspondence disclosed that its product, Butyl, was satisfactory for making inner tubes and could be used in producing outer tires.

He said it could be produced more cheaply than natural rubber, adling that Standard had offered to make some agreements with rubber companies which precluded their using the product in tires and confined their use of it to the high-priced specialty field because of the royalties they would have to pay.

Drunken Youth Assaults Woman Aged 74

The story of how a 19-year-old youth went to a recent hockey match at Oshawa and became so drunk that he does not remember anything that happened after the beginning of the third period until he found himself in the hall of his rooming-house on Dublin Street hours afterward was told in Police Court this morning when the boy was charged with assaulting an elderly woman.

From the evidence given by the Crown witnesses it was apparent that considerable had happened in the interval.

Their testimony indicated that on his arrival home from Oshawa the youth had gone into the bedroom of the 74-year-old woman and had struck her in the face. The evidence told of the woman being found in the hallway with her face "a mass of blood."

The accused testified that it was the first time that he had been intoxicated. He told of having drinks before the game at Oshawa and during the contest and said that he remembered the first four minutes of the last period. After that he said his mind was a blank until he remembered being spoken to in the hallway of his rooming-house. He realized then that he must have done something wrong.

P. D. Scollard, who defended the youth, said that the boy had never been in any trouble before, and that he had had a lesson that would remain with him all his life. "I suggest that there would be nothing gained by sending him to jail," defence counsel said.

Magistrate Langley intimated that if a suitable bond were provided he would allow the accused to go on suspended sentence. One of the conditions of probation would be that the boy would refrain from drinking for two years.

The case was enlarged until tomorrow.

"Hitherto the censorship of press messages going abroad has been confined to interception of any information likely to be useful to the enemy in a military sense. That is what we mean when we speak of security censorship.

"Secondly, it has always been understood that with the exception of cases of some serious infringement of security by publication in this country, correspondents are free to send abroad extracts of anything that has once been published at home.

Not Wide Enough

"These rules have, I regret to say, proved not altogether adequate for the protection of certain essential interests of this country abroad, where on several occasions the true position has been gravely misrepresented and stories emanating from London have been published which would only foment ill feeling between ourselves and our allies or neutral countries.

"In the future censors will be empowered to exercise stricter control with a view to stopping any press message calculated to foment ill feeling between the United Nations or between them and a neutral country, a measure which is a sure essential in time of war.

"Similarly extracts from home publications which are submitted for cabling abroad will in the future be subject to the same rules of censorship now applied to the case of original material.

"There is no intention or desire to apply these new instructions in any arbitrary or unreasonable manner. They are, in fact, designed solely to prevent the outside world from receiving a distorted picture of conditions and events in this country and to protect this country's essential interests.

Injuries Are Fatal To Toronto Teacher

NEWMARKET, Ont., March 26 — (CP).— Miss Isabel Pollock, Toronto school teacher, died in hospital to-day, her 28th birthday, from head injuries suffered on Sunday in a fall from a speeding ice-boat on nearby Lake Wilcox.

Miss Pollock was to have been married in June to H. B. Helling of Toronto, who was with her at the time of the accident.

She was born at Dartford Hastings County, Ontario, and was educated at Warkworth Public School and Campbellford High School. She was a teacher at Toronto Allenby Public School.

Axis On The Move

CAIRO, Egypt, March 26—(AP) —Despite the sandstorm blowing in Libya "considerable enemy mechanized transport movements were reported in areas south of Tmimi and north of Mekili yesterday," British General Headquarters announced today.

"Our armored cars were shelled in the Aleirna area," said the communique. "Later in the day some enemy armored cars were forced to withdraw from a position slightly north of Al Kima."

Offensive patrolling, including "Hurricane sorties" by the R.A.F. in protection of Britain's forward troops, continued.

Wants Ottawa Action

TORONTO, March 26 (CP)—Premier Hepburn said today he was "dumbfounded" to discover the new speed law of 40 miles an hour announced by Supply Minister C. D. Howe was to be a matter for enforcement by the provinces and not by the Dominion as a War Measure Act. The premier said he had asked Attorney General Gordon Conant to approach officials at Ottawa and determine definitely just what was expected of Ontario in the matter.

Daring Ski Raid

MOSCOW, March 26—(AP).—Soviet troops have freed several hundred prisoners confined at the German 16th Army's Staraya Russa base by a daring ski raid and repulsed counter attacks in the same northwestern front area, the Russians said today.

Chinese Lines Stiffen In Burma

Japs Use 'Chutists To Stir Natives Against British

NEW DELHI, March 26—(CP).— Mounting Japanese pressure against United Nations' lines in Burma from south and east—including the use of parachutists to foment native uprising—was indicated by the British headquarters communique today.

From the south, a large "mixed force"—presumably including Thais or anti-British Burmese along with the Japanese—was reported within 40 miles of Prome in the push up the Irrawaddy valley toward that town and the rich oilfields of Inner Burma.

On the east, where a Japanese push over the Thailand border apparently is aimed at Mandalay, Chinese forces are said to have been dealt heavy casualties by the Chinese on the Toungoo front. The communique said United Nations' losses were "remarkably small," owing particularly to the sturdy resistance of the Chinese.

Another enemy force, also apparently of considerable size, was reported in the area to the southeast, between Tharrawaddy and Minhla, 20 miles north.

No contact has yet been made in the direction of the mountain range separating the Irrawaddy and Sittang Rivers, the communique said.

It reported the enemy was dropping isolated parachutists, presumably for the purpose of organizing Burmese "fifth columnists."

The war bulletin added that British airmen and members of the American volunteer group disabled about 10 Japanese planes and damaged many others in a raid on the Chiengmai airfield in Thailand on March 24.

(This was the surprise dawn swoop yesterday in which the A.V.G. already has been credited with destroying or damaging 40 to 50 enemy planes).

Shirts Going Up

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—(AP). —When the government hands down its expected order for United States garment manufacturers to lift women's skirts a little to conserve materials, the motion picture industry will be glad to cooperate. What's more, some feel it might not even be too bold for those with trim, curvaceous limbs to raise the figure—and the skirts—to possibly 24 inches. "And this is no idle chatter, either,' says Universal's shapely Anne Gwynne.

SERVICE!

RAISING a good flock of good pullets is one way to serve your country, this year—and one way to make money for yourself, too. Britain needs eggs. Canada needs eggs and poultry; and egg prices are holding right along at 10 to 12 cents above last year.

Fill your brooder house with Braund's chicks. They come from carefully culled, high-producing, profit-making breeders—the kind of birds you yourself would be proud to own. And they're Purina Embryo-Fed . . . fed for strength and vigor before they're hatched, inside the shell. That helps them get away to a "flying start."

When every day in the starting period means so much in health, strength, and growth...and so much in profits later...you just can't afford to pinch pennies on your starting feed. We use and recommend the old reliable Purina Startena. It costs only a cent or so per chick more than the cheapest starter —and where will you spend a cent to better advantage?

Statements in this advertisement have received Government Approval only in so far as they refer to Baby Chicks.

Bridge Players Switch To War Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 26 (ENS) —At least one of this town's numerous bridge clubs has realized the transcendant importance of war work and though they have not entirely forgotten the game they have recognized that their small organized groop, could by combining their efforts, do something to help the national effort. It was early in January that these ladies conceived the idea of turning their attention to some patriotic endeavor, but not till several weeks later, when they had completed a 49 piece layette containing a crib quilt, several flannelette blankets, dresses, gowns, etc. subsequently sent to the British Bomb Victims; children's sweaters and a bundle of new and used clothing to the Salvation Army—that they decided to adopt the name "Thumb's Up Club." Their latest enterprise is a bingo party schedule to be held in the parish hall here on Saturday, at which time a draw will be made on the quilt made by the eight members—Mrs. J. Heffernan, Mrs. R. J. Belshaw, Mrs. W. J. Callaghan, Mrs. W. Brady, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Russell Long, Mrs. Earl Craighead, Mrs. Bruce Wallace. The entire proceeds of the quilt, expected to be upwards of $50.00 and the bingo, will go to the B.W.V.F.

School Pupils Filling 17 Ditty Bags

PORT HOPE, March 26.—(ENS) —A well attended and most interesting meeting of the Home and School Association was held on Tuesday, March 24, in the Central school.

As visitors entered the main hall of the school there was a splendid display of baby clothes, knitted sweaters, bonnets and bootees including six complete layettes which have been made and donated by members of the Home and School club and friends.

The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" after which the business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. D. Wanner.

Mrs. Wanner was appointed as delegates to the Ontario Federation of Home and School associations in Toronto on April 6, 7 and 8, while Mrs. Harold Jordon will also attend in connection with the kindergarten work of the schools.

The president named the nominating committee of Mrs. J. Giffen, Mrs. Lorne Plummer and Mrs. Sherry.

Mrs. Jordon reported that seventeen ditty bags were being filled by the children of the seventeen public school rooms of the town, by money which each room was earning in some individual way and that the children of the "Cavalcade of Canada" were donating a radio for the minesweeper and $10 in cash to the Chinese Relief Fund.

Mrs. Wanner introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Cecil Moore, who gave an interesting address on "Around the Clock with the Empire."

"Now that we are beginning to feel the pinch of rationing we are more than ever interested in where our household articles come from.

"As you rise from your mahogany bed do you ever stop to think that the mahogany probably came from British Honduras, across the Caribbean Sea from Jamaica. The cotton house dress you slip on may have had its origin in Barbados near Trinidad. If it is a linen dress you don, it will be of linen thread from Ireland and certainly your breakfast cloth will have originated in that controversial part of the Empire.

"As you make your coffee, you contact Britishers who have toiled to reap a coffee harvest which grew on the hillside of Kenya in British East Africa. Your grapefruit came from Bermuda and the sugar on it from Jamaica. Your one touch with Canada will be your cereal and cream.

"If you do some baking in the morning, you may use allspice, cloves, nutmeg or cinnamon which have travelled from Ceylon or British West Africa. The raisins gave you a touch with Australia and the peanuts were a product of Sierre Leone in West Africa.

"If you are serving lunch from your best teakwood table you should visualize the forests of India or Burma and the men who cut down the teakwood in these dense forests.

"If you prepare a fruit salad for luncheon, you may make first a lime jelly, the limes from British WestIndies, and so also are the oranges you will add later, with a dash of Australian lemon, with sliced pineapple and apricots. All the fruits that man desires can be grown within the Empire. You may add to your salad bananas grown in the West Indies, rolled in almonds from Palestine and garnished with olives from Cyprus. When you top off with tea, you have enjoyed part of a crop that was carefully gathered by British subjects in India or Ceylon.

"You relax in the afternoon by a drive in your car which travels on rubber tires from rubber trees started from seedlings which originated in the Congo and were transplanted near Singapore.

"When dinner time comes, you will season, your pepper from British Malaya, the fish caught off the coast of Newfoundland, which is garnished with rice that grew in Burma. Your vegetables will be Canadian, but sago pudding would put you in touch with Borneo.

"If you have caught cold during the afternoon ride, dose up with quinine obtained from the bark of a Jamaican tree, rub your chest with camphorated oil from British Malay. If not already cured inhale eucalyptus oil from Australia and to avoid future colds take cod liver oil from Newfoundland."

The matter of attendance recognition was discussed as it had been the custom to give $1 to the room who had the largest number of parents present at each meeting and a banner of some sort was suggested, this to be looked into by the president and further discussed at a later meeting.

The evening was brought to a close with the singing of "God Save the King" and the serving of a cup of tea and sandwiches.

Popular Missionary Addresses Y.P. Group

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 26 (ENS) —More than eighty young people of the three churches in the Seymour Circuit joined for a social evening and banquet held at Tabernacle church Monday evening. The affair which was arranged by members of Tabernacle Y.P.U. (English Line), attracted wide attention by virtue of the fact that Rev. A. G. Williams, Field Secretary for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund for the United church, was guest speaker. He gave a highly interesting address revealing some of his varied personal experiences during his five years as missionary on the Island of Formosa. However, for the Young People he had a special message on the important part the church played in the daily life of a country, declaring that when the church failed to play its part the people tended to become demoralized. He was introduced to the gathering by Rev. J. R. Bick of the Seymour Circuit. For the program which followed the banquet, arranged by members of Tabernacle Women's Association, Alex Stephens, president of the Tabernacle Y.P.U. presided, and extended a hearty welcome to the visiting organizations. Mrs. Aylmer Petherick at the piano and Miss Norma Arkles, both of Zion Y.P.U., led in community singing, and when the chairman had proposed the toast to the King Lieut. Alex. Turnbull rendered vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Bick. A violin solo by Raymond Tinney was the only other item on the program and at the close expressions of thanks were tendered by Vice-president Norma Arkles of Zion and by President Everett Parr of Hoards.

It is charged workers at his plant were showered with bonuses, parties, and insurance policies in order to keep down the company's enormous profits.

Extra Labor Follows Cloth Shortage Red Cross Branch Of Seymour Told

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 26 (ENS) —Something of a surprise was given members of the Campbellford and Seymour branch of the Red Cross Tuesday afternoon. They were told that a possible shortage of cotton and flannelette would increase the amount of work to be done by members in future. It means they will now require two instead of the usual one top with the second being used as a lining in place of the usual flannelette, and as a result double the amount of patches are required. An appeal was made during the afternoon for any material that would be suitable for tops or linings. The usual amount of work was accomplished during the meeting and another quota was asked for.

It was revealed that the request for medical instruments had been well responded to by members of the local profession and that two boxes of these supplies had been collected and were forwarded with the shipment made on Friday. These instruments will be sent to Russia where they are badly needed. The following is a summary of the articles shipped in the nine large cartons:

Navy quota—30 turtle neck sweaters, 10 aero caps, 15 pairs navy mitts, 30 pairs sox, 25 pairs seamen's sox, 5 navy scarves, 15 alternative caps, 10 pairs gloves, 45 pairs sox.

Bomb Victims—73 quilts, 1 dress (4 years), 1 dress (6 years), 1 dress (8 years), 1 pair bootees, 1 scarf, 1 pair mitts, 2 towels and 2 wash cloths, 6 packages shaving cream, 6 pairs bloomers, 3 pairs sleepers, 2 gowns (girls), 10 infant nighties, 15 women's gowns, 5 units containing 5 skirts, 5 blouses, 5 cardigans, 5 bloomers, 5 sox, 5 pairs mitts, 5 cakes soap, 5 winter coats.

Mobilization Of Manpower

At this time it is impossible to do more than express a tentative opinion about the steps which the Government has announced for the mobilization of manpower. As yet the changes are in the proposal stage; when the proposals have been put into action we shall be better able to judge how they work. On paper they appear to be sensible and far-reaching and they should do much to strengthen the country's industrial and agricultural system, which has been increasingly unbalanced by the stress of war.

It is not yet known how many more men will be put in uniform by the raising of the age for selective service. The moves to conscript non-British subjects and to select trainees by lot, however, should prove popular. The introduction of an element of chance seems to take some of the flavor of compulsion from this sort of military service. It is interesting to hear that the Government wants approximately 200,000 more men for the fighting services to go on active duty; obviously these demands will strain even an augmented training system.

The exemption of farm-workers from military service and their confinement to the farms will meet with opposition from no one but the farmers themselves. The easy money to be made in war industries has already lured many young men from the farms, and many who have been contented to remain on farms up to now will be seized with a desire to do other work, human nature being what it is. Everybody knows that farm work is hard and ill-paid, but it is vitally necessary to the country, and the Government action has come none too soon to prevent a complex and unsatisfactory agricultural situation.

The move to bring women into industry will surprise no one. Women have done wonders in Britain, and have done splendid work in some industries in Canada. The belief has been exploded that women are erratic or careless workers, incapable of taking heavy responsibility. In many fields they are as competent as men, if not better. Exploded, too, is the idea that a woman's ambition is either to do housework, or to sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam; women are as fond of working with machinery as men are, and the economic bar to their doing so has now been removed. By all means let them get on with the job, for we know that they will do splendid work. Just what will be done after the war with the large numbers of women who have acquired a taste for constructive labor is another matter, and one which cannot be settled now.

The Prime Minister's statement to Parliament on the mobilization program concluded with an assurance that compulsion would be used when it was necessary, although every care would be taken to put workers at such tasks as they themselves preferred. This is wise, for as Mr. King pointed out, "it is obvious that the greater the measure of willingness that can be preserved, the more effective the service will be." It is reassuring, however, to know that the negative compulsion imposed by the establishment of a table of restricted industries will give place to a more positive compulsion if this should prove necessary.

It is to be hoped that the mobilization program authorities will be able to use the information so laboriously collected in 1940 by the national registration. It would be pleasant to feel that the money which was spent on that elaborate scheme had not been entirely thrown away.

The Puzzle Of Vichy

Not until the war has been over for many years will facts be available which will make a just estimation of the Vichy government possible. We may expect that, when that times comes, historians will give us a full and dispassionate account of the workings of that body, but just now Vichy is a puzzle—an unsavory puzzle.

Some things, however, are clear enough. The men of Vichy are not anxious for an Allied victory. Marshal Petain dislikes Britain and doubtless by this time he has extended his dislike to include the United States; he is also an opponent of democracy. Collaboration with Germany hurts his pride but a democratic victory would hurt it much more. If the Marshal has any clear idea of France's future it is undoubtedly as a free Fascist state. Remembering what democracy had become in pre-war France it is possible to understand this view without sharing it. Darlan undoubtedly sees a career for himself as a powerful and trusted German subordinate. His hatred of Britain is of long standing.

French collaboration with Germany under the Vichy rule shows some curious examples of face-saving. Petain will not consider overt military collaboration but he condones extensive industrial collaboration. He will save the honor of the sword, but he is less concerned about the honor of tradesmen. This business of dividing national honor up into sections, some of which may be betrayed with less shame than others, is essentially an old-fashioned and impractical idea in keeping with the Marshal's pseudo-aristocratic world-outlook. It is unpalatable to the people of France, who regard the honor of their country as being all of a piece.

The extent of this industrial collaboration has only recently become known to the general public. A British Press Service report says that French heavy industry is all working directly for the German war machine. Radio Brazzaville says that 85 per cent. of France's motor car production is going directly to Germany, a yearly output of 33,000 vehicles. The Renault, Peugot, Matford, Delahaye and Citroen firms are all making tanks and trucks, and the Hispano firm is making aviation precision instruments. When some of these factories were bombed by the R.A.F. recently Petain made an impassioned and bitter attack upon Britain, who had, in his opinion, turned against a former ally. Doubtless some of the Marshal's bitterness was the result of shame that this shady industrial collaboration had been exposed in such a dramatic manner.

Strong accusations have been made against Vichy recently by Pierre Cot, formerly aviation minister in republican France. It is his belief that the French fleet and French African bases would now be in Nazi hands if Petain did not fear that such military collaboration would cause a popular uprising and the overthrow of his government. Such an overthrow would, of course, mean German military rule in France, and the end of any hope of a French-controlled Fascist state there. Cot claims that 85 per cent. of the population in the Occupied Area is desperately opposed to any collaboration with Germany, and that 75 per cent. of the people in the unoccupied area are of the same opinion. He calls upon the Allies to put aside any show of friendly relations with Vichy and to do whatever is possible to help the rebellious majority among the people. Such action is considerably complicated by the great number of secret organizations which now exist in France; she had too many parties before her fall and now she has too many groups of would-be liberators.

The position of the Vichy government could hardly be less secure. It lacks the trust of its own people, and it is under constant pressure from its conqueror. And so it goes on, playing its own complicated and miserable game, unhappily conscious that, whoever wins the war, it will very probably lose the peace.

Be Careful Of Your Tires

Motorists are expected to conserve both gasoline and rubber these days. The conservation of gasoline is done by the rationing system which begins on the first of April, but the conservation of rubber is, to a great extent, in the hands of the motorist himself. Tires cannot be bought and prudent motorists will be anxious to keep their present ones in service as long as possible. A number of hints have appeared which tell them how this may be done, and we restate here such of those hints as are generally thought to be most useful.

The first suggestion for preserving your tires is to drive at a moderate speed. Above forty miles an hour wear increases rapidly; a tire is said to wear out 62 per cent. faster on a car driven at 60 miles an hour than it does on one going 40 miles an hour. Tires become very hot at high speeds, and this softens and weakens the rubber. Drive at a moderate speed unless you have a really good reason to rush.

Do not let the pressure of air in your tires fall too low. Tires lose about two pounds of air in a week and this should be restored regularly. It is a mistake, also, to over-inflate a tire. Tires will wear longest when kept at their proper pressure.

The wheels of your car should be kept in proper alignment, as deviation drags the tires sideways and wears them out. It has been estimated that a wheel which is one-half inch out of alignment drags its tire 87 feet sideways in the course of running a mile.

Brakes which are in proper condition save wear on tires. If brakes are adjusted unequally an undue strain falls on one tire and wears it out more quickly than the others.

It is a good plan also to change the wheel positions of your tires every two or three thousand miles. The strain on the rear tires of a car is appreciably greater than that on the front, for the power drive is through the back wheels. Do not let two of your tires wear out while there is still life in the other two.

We have many virtues in Canada, but frugality is certainly not one of them. We must learn to be frugal in this war and we have the best of teachers, which is necessity. Begin to save your tires now, for when you need new ones your need may last for a very long time.

Don't Leave It Too Late

There are roughly 8,500 vehicles in this district which cannot be operated after the first of April unless their owners have gasoline ration books; so far only 5,000 books have been issued. It must be understood that, once the proper date has gone by, there will be no recourse for any foolish virgins who have failed to assure themselves of oil, let them plead as they will. The Government has assured the people of this Dominion that gasoline rationing is necessary and that it will be strictly imposed.

If you are among those who have not yet applied for a book, please do so at once. There are certain to be many who will leave this task until the last possible moment, and they will tax the authorities severely, and will waste a great deal of their own time. Do not let them waste any of yours. Get your ration book today, and having got it, put it in a safe place.

NOTE AND COMMENT

All the best people are carrying their own parcels nowadays.

The Chatham News reports that there is a Peeping Tom abroad in that city; maybe they have a Lady Godiva there too.

A series of tests show that a girl can dress in 45 seconds if she has to. But a Gallup Poll on this matter would tell a different tale.

Great Britain has been warned of an impending coal shortage. So we may be able to carry coals to Newcastle, after all.

A Toronto baby has swallowed twelve coupons from a gasoline ration book, or the equivalent of sixty gallons of gas. Whereas formerly it could only crawl, we hear that the little one now runs like a top.

The Japanese assert that their conduct is governed by a lofty code of chivalry. But like all codes of chivalry, it is only understood and practiced by a small aristocratic class, and by them only in relation to one another. Chivalry bears much the same relation to ordinary good conduct that badminton bears to tennis.

A report from Espanola tells of five girls, 15 and 16 years old, who have been mailing letters for Nazi prisoners. The appeal of the captive to the female heart is an old story, but we suggest that this type of romantic sabotage and unconscious Fifth Column work be stepped on severely. The Nazis are trained to take advantage of anything which may help them, the silliness of schoolgirls included.

The Kingston Whig-Standard says: "On the road to Berlin there is plenty of room for all three types of driving. With Britain driving down the left-hand side, Russia driving down the middle, and the United States and Canada driving down the right hand side, and all of us maintaining complete harmony and co-operation, we can make an admirable three-lane, one-way highway of it."

MARINERS

Always some chart shall lead such mariners
Back to the blue, bright waters, in their eyes;
The sun is laughing and the spindrift whirs
Against their dreams, the long tides fall and rise.
The sky is a vast lexicon and on
Its azure pages they read as we read
A book; their courses, and their map are drawn
Upon the stars, by which their proud ships speed.

The music that is burning in them is
The music of the spheres and what they hear
Is that first sea that broke in Genesis
Against the vast shores of a hemisphere,
Reeling in sudden light when once God's word
Spoke out of darkness and the waters stirred.

A World Of Wooden Men

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

WHEN Tony Sarg died a fortnight ago the world lost a master in an art which has few practitioners, the art of making and operating marionettes. Tony Sarg's world of wooden men and women travelled all over this continent, all over Europe, over most of the globe, in fact, and everywhere it went it excited wonder and delight. It was a very old type of entertainment to which a pleasant American flavor had been added by a man of striking humor and originality. Tony Sarg was a great man of the theatre, even though his proscenium arch was no more than five feet high.

MANY of the children who saw his beautifully made wooden people, thought that marionettes were an original thought with Tony Sarg. In fact the art is as old as history. There were marionette shows in ancient Egypt; the Romans took great pleasure in them; in the islands of the East Indies there are marionette shows of gods and heroes and devils which are older than any man can calculate; there were marionettes in the Middle Ages, and there were wonderful marionettes, still to be seen in museums, in the eighteenth century; there are still marionettes in England, for is not the Punch and Judy show the greatest of street entertainments in that island? But it was Tony Sarg who first made marionettes really popular in the United States; it was he who brought the old art to the new world.

SARG'S marionettes were often seen in Canada, usually as a part of the Christmas display in a large department store. They drew crowds of happy and excited children, and a very considerable audience of adults as well. The fact of the matter is that marionettes are creatures of infinite fascination and it is almost impossible for any one who is not a curmudgeon to resist them. Their charm is the charm of the miniature; they are so small, so elegant, and they have such a curious movement; it is strangely human, and yet it has a lightness, a spring, a jauntiness, as it were, which is never seen in mere humanity. They have an infinite range of emotion, but they are never intense or boring, as live actors, and even more, the shadow actors of the screen, are apt to be. Watching them, it is easy to understand why the foremost genius of his time, the mighty Goethe, loved to watch marionette shows, and why he loved to pull the strings himself; the inspiration for the greatest of his work, the tragedy of Faust, came from an old German marionette play which he saw many times.

TONY SARG made and showed scores of marionettes but there were two of his creations which were perennially popular; the first, for children, was a donkey which played out a little scene with a clown, finally kicking him about the stage; the second was for adults and it was the figure of a mop-haired pianist who played and thumped upon a concert piano until finally it collapsed on him. Sarg did not often play whole plays with his figures. He specialized in a sort of marionette variety show, with many rapidly changing scenes and dozens of marionettes. In Europe, on the other hand, puppets generally perform a drama of some length, and often do shortened versions of such well-known classics as "She Stoops To Conquer"; it cannot be said that these performances are as satisfactory as those by human actors, but they have their own special charm. The famous marionettes of Paul Brand make a specialty of opera, and perform several quite acceptably. Pergolesi's "La Serva Padrona" is one of their best, and they also do the little opera which Mozart composed when he was twelve, "Bastien et Bastienne." The music and singing is done backstage and the movements of the figures are cleverly co-ordinated with it.

THERE are never many companies of marionettes in the world, because the art of controlling the figures is difficult to acquire, and takes much the same sort of patience as ivory-carving or cutting intaglios. Also, it requires a great deal of dramatic ability, and most people who have dramatic ability like to display it in person, and not by means of a puppet, while they themselves remain hidden. Generally marionette troupes are made up of families, where the art is taught by parents to children, and the skill is regarded as a family possession. But some of the best marionette shows have been made and worked by men who were attracted to it as a miniature art in which a kind of limited perfection was possible. William Simmonds, in England, has made some charming figures, and Harro Siegel of Berlin and Richard Teschner of Vienna have made puppets of breath-taking beauty. Remo Bufano, an American, specializes in enormous marionettes, and some of his which were shown at the New York World's Fair in 1939 stood twelve feet high. Almost every great city has a puppet show, depending principally upon children for audience; New York used to have one, and may still have it, run by a family of Italians; Paris had the charming Luxembourg Puppet Theatre, directed by Robert Desarthis. There are several such theatres in Britain, and every year before the war exhibition in a gallery on Leicester Square, in the heart of the city's theatre district.

TONY SARG was 59 when he died. In his way he was a predecessor of Walt Disney in the art of the animated cartoon, and he was a popular illustrator of children's books. During his life he gave happiness to millions of children and adults, and managed to enjoy himself at the same time. He has left no lasting mark in the world perhaps, but many people will remember him with affection, and he will always have his place as the man who interested the American public in one of the oldest of the theatre arts.

• Jap Front Shoved Back

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 26 —(AP)— Raids by the United States Navy on Wake and Marcus Islands are officially disclosed to have found both inadequately manned by the Japanese.

That is perhaps the most significant aspects of those operations and similar previous raids in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands, although they also represent a start toward nullifying strategic and tactiful advantages Japan gained by her surprise attack in the Pacific last December.

The point that most impresses this observer is that Japan is too definitely feeling the strain of war on distant fronts to be able to muster in the deep Pacific air or sea power adequate to guard outposts of high strategic importance. Her air, naval and shipping losses are beginning to count.

Aside from that, the raids on Wake and Marcus clearly indicate that both have been wiped out as useful to Japan, perhaps for the duration of the war. Her front in the Pacific has been pushed back. And those or other Pacific islands might be wrested from her soon to become Allied advance bases of attack.

PROGRESSIVE STEPS

Yet the primary purpose of those American task force raids must be extending the protection area for American-Australian communication sea lanes to the southward, busy with the flow of troops and war gear westward for General McArthur.

The Japanese have been definitely pushed back in the North and Central Pacific by progressive steps. Not only has the threat of Nippon's closest bases to Hawaii been greatly relieved, but a pattern has been set for a continuing step-by-step, island-by-island, advance westward to within close air and submarine striking range of the Japanese coast and the bottleneck of Japan's China Sea war traffic. That is the Achilles heel of her whole conquest concept.

With Wake blasted out of action, a next target of the United States in the westward rolling sea-air action could be Guam or more strongly manned Japanese bases in the Ladrones or other Japanese islands northward. Once that inner line of enemy-islands outposts screening the whole China Sea and its approaches from the east was widely breached, the road to a decisive victory that could strangle the Japanese conquest at its source would begin to open up.

MAY AFFECT RUSSIA

That may still be distant. The trend of battle in the Australian zone must shape largely the nature and direction of American naval operations for the present. And these raids in the North Pacific are necessarily having a double effect on the Australian front. They are giving additional protection to American-Australian supply lines and forcing a heavy concentration of enemy sea and air forces northward to guard against more extended forays.

There is another possible effect. Rumors of an impending Japanese attack on Russia to aid a Nazi spring-summer offensive on that prime battleground persist. The American naval raiding so far west in the Pacific might well increase Japanese uncertainty as to what it portends sufficiently to halt or delay execution of reputed Japanese plans regarding Russia.

• A Letter from a Dead Man

THE writer of the following letter was a hostage shot by the Nazis in Paris. His crime was that he was a Jew. He was born in Warsaw, lived in France for 15 years and was a naturized French citizen. He was arrested during a raffle, or police roundup in Paris.

The letter was found in his clothes by the Red Cross after he had been executed. It was brought from France by an acquaintance of the family. It was written in French; this is a translation.

My dear wife and child:

Dear Sarah and my dear little baby, I am now at Rue de Grenelle, suburb of Drancy, with the 15 others. We didn't know our fate all day long, but an hour ago an officer came in with a chaplain to announce that tomorrow at 11 o'clock we will be shot. I was taken by chance—it's my fate.

All my life has been based on honesty and work. I have suffered, trying to bring up our child and to live happily with you. But, as you see, the war has broken our lives, and this is the result. However, I never would have believed that this would be my fate, despite my complete innocence. I die innocent, with a clear and honest conscience.

Dear Sarah, I beseech you, in spite of my absence, keep up your courage; you are the mother of our child, who must be brought up the way I have always hoped. It isn't worth the trouble to cry over me, you cannot save me nor our dear child that way; but when he grows up, tell him the whole truth and the cause for my foreshortened life, and you, Sarah, if you can improve your living conditions and bring up our child respectably, dont' cry after me—it won't do any good! Too bad that my unhappy fate is to die, innocent though I am; my wish was always to spend a harmonious life with you, but—too bad! What can you do? One thing I would have wished, and that would have been my last wish—if I could only kiss you and hold you in my arms, and kiss our dear child. I embrace you just the same in my daydreams.

My dear Maxime, you are too little. I cannot see you nor kiss you, but I constantly think and dream of you. I always picture you as a big boy, understanding well what I say to you. When you grow up, I, your father, wish that you always walk in the path where I would have led you, and I hope that you will always do the right thing, and that your mother will bring you up well.

And now it begins—the end of my verdict. They are hurrying me. I fall innocent, but I shall remain always in your heart. Remember your father.

And you, comrade of my life, dear Sarah. I embrace you with my whole heart and my last tears.

I kiss you and our child once more. You have been faithful in our life together, and this is the end.—From P.M.

JAPS METHODICAL

THE Japs have demonstrated the value of methodical and secret preparation, down to the most minute detail. . . .well illustrated in this story from Hollywood:

A beautiful movie star had employed Japanese help for many years. The day after Pearl Harbor she asked her butler: "You wouldn't cut my throat, would you?"

"No, no," he replied with the greatest fervor. . . . "That gardener job. . . . Me burn house."

HIGH FLIGHT

Oh, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings,
Sunward I've climbed and joined the tumbling mirth;
Of sun-split clouds and done a hundred things,
You have not dreamed of, wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence, hovering there—
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My meagre craft through footless halls of air.

Oh, oh, the long delirious burning blue;
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace
Where never a lark, or ever an eagle flew.
And while with silent lofting mind I've trod
The high, untrespassed sanctity of space
Put out my hand and touched the face of God.

Formosa Is Ideally Located For Thrust Against Japan

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26. — (ENS).—Formosa, whose strategic position astride the Japanese supply lines in the Pacific 90 miles east of China, make it ideal as the location for a thrust against the Empire of Nippon, formed the interesting subject of an address here on Monday. The speaker was Rev. G. A. Williams, formerly a missionary with the United Church, who spent several years on this mountainous island, and he delivered his address before members of the Rotary club.

Declaring the island occupied "the spotlight position of the Far Eastern scene" by virtue of its strategic location, it had others assets as well which made it an inviting spot to thrust at the Japanese. Some 250 miles long and 50 miles at its widest point, the island is the home of between five and six million Chinese, who live primarily on the great plains which lie in the midst of mountains about forty of which are ten thousand feet high. These plains, he pointed out, lend themselves admirably to air fields for an invasion army and are likewise useful for defence. It also claims military importance, thanks to its naval coaling stations and oil supply and to Japan it forms an extremely vital link in the chain of conquest in the south Pacific. However, from the United Nations' standpoint the five million Chinese inhabits might be regarded as one greatest fifth column forces yet disclosed in the present war. Although the Japanese have striven to weld these people into allies in time of war, the speaker declared, "I am positive they would be glad to throw off the Japanese yoke, and that they would turn upon the Japs giving every possible aid to our own people.'

Conquest in 1895

Since the Japanese conquered the country in 1895 about a quarter million Nipponese have been sent to the country and they have done everything possible to crush the Chinese language and force the people to look to Tokyo for guidance. No speeches can be made in public in any language but Japanese. Despite unrelenting efforts of the conquerers to assimilate these people, they have been constantly harrassed by the passive resistance of the Chinese and the more violent opposition of the Head Hunters, who number 180,000. These people at one time occupied nearly every part of the island, but have now been driven into more isolated areas, but not before they had lopped off many Japanese heads. Their early raids on the Japanese aggressors are said to have resulted in the deaths of some 30,000 before they were finally subdued. And Japanese resourcefulness in attempting to keep these savages separate from the rest of the islanders was taxed to the limit. Electric fences were one innovation they tried, but after a few of the head-hunters were shocked, they devised a means of evading them and subsequently the Japs built block houses around the isolated area, but many a sentrys head was lost while standing guard outside.

Rotarian H. N. Carr moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his splendid address. Guests at the meeting included LAC. Bill Ogg, Prince George, B.C., and H. M. Donald of Campbellford.

Wireless Students Given Stiff Course

On their ability to snatch from the air the brief messages allowed in wartime may depend the fate of ships and men. These wireless students are given a stiff course. They must also learn the new technical devices of modern warfare allied to wireless.

Red Cross Seeks 9 Millions In June Appeal

HAVELOCK, March 26 — (ENS). Mrs. Charles Couch, secretary of the local Red Cross branch, gave a very complete and gratifying report of the third annual Red Cross convention, held recently in Toronto. She stated that the number of branches participating in this great cause had increased from 451 to 463 branches, and that a total of $361,000,000 had been raised to date, and more and more was still needed.

Some of the highlights of the report included that another national campaign will be launched from June 1 to 13, at which the objective will be nine million dollars. The delegates were taken on a tour through the warehouse to observe the huge bales of quilts, pyjamas, knitted articles, hospital supplies, etc., and they were privileged to see the packing of boxes for the prisoner of war. Major Watson, who has visited this branch several times was presented with his Badge of Service. In the report of the Blood Donations, it was noted that the nearest clinic for this purpose is at Kingston.

The delegates saw a clever demonstration of a nursing auxiliary corps and ambulance drivers during a black-out, a bombing, and the after-effects until the All-clear signal was given.

Mr. T. P. Lancaster moved a hearty vote of thanks for this report. The treasurer, Mrs. L. Sanderson, stated that the receipts of the card party were $27.62, and that another $5 donation had been received from the school staff and pupils.

The salvage campaign will be launched as soon as conditions of roads and weather are fit, and a suitable place of storage can be arranged, and the co-operation of busy house-cleaners is requested. There was 26 ladies present, and a large amount of work was completed. Refreshments will be served at the next meeting by Mrs. H. Roche and Mrs. C. Couch. A lovely quilt top was donated by Miss Blanche Johnson.

OMEMEE, March 26—(ENS).—Miss Christina Connell, missionary convener, was in charge of the Young People's Union meeting on Monday night. The theme of the worship service was "The Last Supper," and Miss Marion Rea gave an interesting account of the picture and of the artist who painted it. Miss Mary Faulkner read the scripture lesson. The chapter in the study book, "The Chinese People Rise," was given by Miss Christina Connell.

The Young People decided to sponsor an operetta to be given by Queen Street Y.P.U. of Lindsay. The date has not yet been decided on.

MILLBROOK

Contents Of Bale Are Placed On Display

MILLBROOK, March 26—(ENS)—Mrs. C. M. Westmacott and Miss Rose Macnamara were joint hostesses for the March meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican Church held at their home, King Street West, on Monday evening, with a gratifying attendance, and the president, Mrs. Westmacott, in the chair. Mrs. William Simpson, wife of the rector, took the W.A. Litany, Mrs. J. W. Hilton read the lesson, and the president led in the special prayers for peace, and the welfare and protection of the various arms of the active service.

The contents of the annual bale were on display and were of special interest including clothing for outfitting an Indian girl in one of the Western mission schools, and warm quilts and other articles for fields in Northern Ontario. The treasurer Mrs. J. E. Allen, reported a nice balance in the bank, some supplies for the bale yet to be paid for, and a slight increase in the pledge money for the year, which has been raised from $75 to $77. A certain amount was voted to the Chinese relief fund, and after a general discussion of ways and means for raising money, it was decided to have the annual silver tea, probably in June.

Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke took up the study book, covering facts in connection with medical missions in China, mentioning some of the objections occasionally heard to this form of mission work and pointing out that Christ Himself was a medical missionary in His day, and so is our Great Example.

Miss Macnamara read an interesting letter telling of difficulties being now experienced by Christian Japanese in Vancouver, owing to the war, and mentioning specific instances. A hymn and the National Anthem closed the meeting, for which supper hostesses were Mrs. Westmacott and Miss Macnamara, who made the usual donation to the mite box. For next month, Miss Muriel Smith and Mrs. Massey-Cooke will fulfill this office.

OSHAWA GENERALS CONTINUE MARCH TOWARD MEMORIAL CUP

Generals Whip Ottawa 7-4 Second In Row

OTTAWA, March 26.—(CP)—One sustained surge of power gave Oshawa Generals a 7-4 victory over Ottawa St. Patrick's College last night for their second straight victory in a best-of-five semi-final series for the Eastern Canada Junior Hockey Championship.

Displaying the same first-period scoring punch that characterized their 6-4 triumph over St. Pats in the first game of the series at Toronto Monday, Generals raced into a 5-1 lead in the first twenty minutes, and though St. Pat's drew within a goal at one stage, the five-time Ontario Hockey Association champions never were seriously threatened.

No Standout

Generals distributed their scoring power evenly through the lineup, with Floyd Curry scoring twice and single goals going to Ronnie Nelson, Jimmy Galbraith, Ken McNaught, Albert (Red) Tilson and Ronnie Wilson.

Howard (Rip) Riopelle obtained two second-period goals for Pats and Billy Munro and Rocky Robillard got the others.

Coach Alex Connell's Ottawa Irish came back strongly after Nelson batted home Wilson's rebound to open the scoring, Munro flicking home a pass from Gordie Gosselin to tie the count 1-1. But midway through the first period Pats fell to pieces, allowing Generals to sweep through their defense at will for four quick goals.

St. Pats rallied behind Riopelle's two second-period goals and opened the scoring in the third period, but Generals came back with their final two tallies in the waning minutes to finish it off.

Smarter In Close

Generals, directed by Charlie Conacher and Manager Matt Leyden in the absence of Coach Tracey Shaw, had too much finish and too much striking power around the nets for the less polished Irish. But there were moments when Pats gave Ross Waddell an uneasy time in the Oshawa cage. Waddell shaded Goalie Benoit Plourde, his rival in the Ottawa nets, at all times.

Third game of the series will be played in Toronto Friday. The survivors will meet Halifax Canadians or Montreal Royals in the Eastern Memorial Cup finals.

Ottawa: Goal, Plourde; defense, French, Gosselin; centre, Robillard, wings, Pope, Dunlap; subs, Kavanagh, Brown, Riopelle, Dennison, Dagenais, Munro.

Oshawa: Goal, Waddell; defense, Mortimer, Guidolin; centre, Nelson; wings, Wilson, Davies; subs, Curry, Depew, Tilson, Smith, McNaught, Galbraith.

TRAINING GOSSIP

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 26—(AP).—Ralph Kiner, 20-year-old pitching rookie with Pittsburgh Pirates, is a major league humorist even if he is slated to go back to the minors next month. Ordered by Frankie Frisch to run around the field, he looked at his frayed shoes and asked: "What am I going to do for a pair of shoes when I join Albany if I run myself barefooted here?"

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Cleveland Indians named Rookie Steve Gromek and Veteran Joe Heving to pitch against Detroit Tigers today in their final game here before breaking camp and heading north.

PASADENA, Calif. — Chicago White Sox no sooner obtained a utility outfielder than they lost him. Veteran Sam West, trying for a somersault catch yesterday, suffered damaged ligaments in his throwing arm and may be lost for a month.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Dolph Camilli joined his Brooklyn mates on the firing line yesterday against the St. Louis Brown and said after his five-inning stint that the sore arm which put him on the bench "felt great."

ANAHEIM, Calif.—Playing in his first game this Spring, Frankie Hayes, regular catcher for Philadelphia Athletics, said his injured leg felt fine all the way. "I'm very happy that it is so strong," he said. He underwent an operation on the limb during the winter.

LOS ANGELES.—Chicago Cubs may have a pitching regular this season who came to them directly from the sandlots. Yesterday, 21-year-old Eddie Hanyzewski of South Bend, Ind., duplicated previous outstanding performances against San Diego and Pittsburg by holding Philadelphia A's to one hit in five innings.

SANFORD, Fla.—Dropping six of nine exhibition games causes the Boston Braves manager, Casey Stengel, little concern. "I'm much more interested in giving every rookie a thorough testing than I am in winning ball games," he explained.

LAKELAND, Fla.—An indication that the Detroit Tigers aren't content with their prospective outfield was seen in General Manager Jack Zeller's announcement that he would confer with Cleveland about the possibility of obtaining Jack Heath. Barney McCosky and Doc Cramer are fixtures, but the other clot is wide open. Even Schoolboy Rowe, the hard-hitting pitcher, is being given a chance at the post.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The scoring figures of the Peterborough Soldiers on the season's play are interesting. They show that Bun Kingdon who led the pack with 13 goals and 16 assists during the eleven playoff games in which the Petes were engaged, adding 13 goals and 20 assists to his earlier season record and winding up the season with the grand total of 62 points, made up of 26 goals and 36 assists. The centre player of the razzle-dazzle line missed one game so his total was hung up in eleven contests. Next to Kingdon was his linemate for the last four seasons, right-winger Honey Tompkins who was second in scoring during the group schedule and continued as runner-up during the playoffs. Honey's total for the year was 58 points and he led the whole team in total goals scored with 35 as his mark in 23 games. a nice piece of sniping in any company. Third in the list was the third member of the razzle-dazzle line Art Heal with 43 points.

* * * * * *

The scoring statistics indicate how great a contribution to the success of the Petes this season has been made by the Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal line, which has compiled a total of 79 goals in O.H.A. games during the campaign. The razzle-dazzle trio have been consistently effective both in the group games and in the playoffs and their feat of averaging better than three goals a game all season is a mighty fine performance. In actual goals scored Tompkins has hit the target 35 times, Bun Kingdon has rung the bell on 26 occasions and Art Heal has beaten rival goalies 18 times during the campaign. The three ran, one, two, three in scoring points, with Kingdon leading the whole field in assists with 36 and finishing second to Tompkins in goals while Heal ranked next to Kingdon as a playmaker with 25 assists to his credit. This has been the third season for the line to play together and before that Kingdon and Tompkins were teamed up for a season with Eddie Starr as left-winger of the outfit.

* * * * * *

Here are the complete scoring averages for the Petes for the season. They do not include the one exhibition game played by the Soldiers during the winter:

	Goals	Assists	Points
Kingdon	26	36	62
Tompkins	35	23	58
Heal	18	25	43
Blewett	18	16	34

Ain't It The Truth?

There is a regretful note in the following timely baseball chatter by Ken Colling in the Belleville sport sheet: "The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association will be held in the Royal Connaught Hotel in Hamilton on the third Sunday in April this year, according to a bulletin issued by Secretary Billie Snyder recently. Proposed amendments to the constitution and bylaws, new affiliations and the election of officers are the principal items on the agenda. There was a day (in the dim and almost forgotten past) when the announcement of the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association started chins awaggin' and the chief item of controversy in the local barber shops went something like this: "Who's going to pitch for the Nationals this season?" "Walt and Peeney can't expect one hurler to carry us through another tough Central League pennant race." "We'da won the senior title last year if we'da one good .300 hitter in the outfield." "Ya, Freddie Goyer has gone to Guelph, but we've got a young Indian lefthander by the name of Chief Williams from down Verona way." But that was two decades ago."

* * * * * *

Goes on Mr. Colling in this vein: "The only reference to baseball in Belleville today might hear Ralph McCabe's name mentioned, or an old timer might ask how Connie Mack is shaping up the Athletics. At the time of writing there isn't a baseball club east of Toronto that is affiliated with the Ontario Baseball Association. Plans to attempt reviving the old original C.O.B.L. were quietly on the make last autumn when Roy Dodge, of Cobourg, suggested that Port Hope and Cobourg amalgamate playing strength and enter a senior loop that would include Oshawa, Peterborough and Belleville only. However, with the recent introduction of the rationing of gasoline in Canada there is some doubt if such a program would be practical. Even buses are taboo for sports travel now."

They Also Serve

In giving credit for what the Petes have accomplished this season there is a word of praise coming to the lads who saw little or no action with the Soldiers this season and yet worked hard in practice and were always ready to step in and fill a gap if the occasion arose. It is not the easiest kind of a role to play and so we toss a tribute to Doug Mortimer, Bob Parnell and Joe Rochetta, three young players who worked out all season with the senior B champs and were always available as reinforcements, although rarely needed and to the faithful sub-goalie Johnny Johnston, the Western lad, who did not miss a practice or a trip all season and was ever on hand should his services have been required. This is the second season Johnston has been sub-goalie for the Petes and although seldom in the public eye he has been one of the most loyal members of the squad.

Peterborough sporting fraternity will be sorry to learn of the death of Jesse Spring, Toronto hockey and baseball star of some years ago and well known here as coach of hockey and baseball at Oshawa. Spring's first association with Peterborough was when he played defence for the crack De La Salle juniors against the Peterborough kids. Incidentally that team which included Babe Dye, Duke McCurry, Red Green and other well known stars gave the Petes one of the worst trimmings a local squad has ever had to abzorb. Mickey Murray was tired picking the rubber out of the net before the game in Toronto was over. In late years Spring played ball here with several Toronto clubs in exhibition games and then his association with sport in Oshawa brought him into touch with Peterborough again. He was a great all-round athlete and a good fellow who was liked everywhere he went.

Hextall Named Scoring Tops; Gord Drillon Seventh

MONTREAL, March 26—(CP).—The National Hockey League made it official today, and Bryan Hextall of New York Rangers is the league's scoring champion for the 1941-42 season, with teammate Lynn Patrick right behind.

Hextall piled up 56 scoring points during the regular season, on 24 goals and 32 assists, playing in every game. Patrick, who missed one game, had 32 goals and 22 assists for 54 points, while Detroit's Don Grosso was third with 53 points.

Phil Watson of Rangers ended the season with 52 points, and Syd Abel of Detroit had 49, to give those two clubs a three-two spli on the first five places. Canadiens' Toe Blake and Chicago's Bill Thoms split sixth place with 45 points each, three more than Gordie Drillon and Syl Apps of Toronto and Tommy Anderson of Americans.

Closeness of this seasons race was in direct contrast to last year, when Bill Cowley of Boston breezed through to the scoring title with 62 points and an 18-point lead over his nearest rivals. Hextall, Drillon, Apps and Patrick tied with Syd Howe of Detroit for second place last year.

This year, Cowley, who missed 20 games through injury, was well down the list with 27 points.

Patrick scored the greatest number of goals with 32, only player in the league to crack the 30-mark. Watson led in the assist department with 37.

Pat Egan of Americans became the league's official bad man with 104 minutes spent in the penalty box in majors and minors in addition to two 10-minute misconducts. Ken Stewart of Detroit had 93 minutes, while Canadiens' Ken Reardon had 83 minutes plus a 10-minute misconduct.

Detroit's Jimmy Orlando piled up the greatest number of match misconducts with three, to add to his 81 minutes in majors and minors.

Famed Athlete Jesse Spring Succumbs At 43

TORONTO, March 26.—(CP). — Jesse Spring, one of the greatest athletes in Canada 15 years ago, died suddenly here yesterday, a few hours after he collapsed on a mid-town street. He was 43.

Spring played professional hockey and baseball, was an outstanding amateur lacrosse and football player and a good amateur boxer. He turned professional in hockey with Hamilton in the 1923-24 season and later played with Pittsburg Pirates in the same league, the National. He played with fine baseball and lacrosse teams in Toronto, was a middle wing with Toronto Argonauts in football and once won the Canadian amateur heavyweight boxing championship.

In more recent years, Spring coached baseball and hockey teams at Brockville and Oshawa. He was sports director for Wright-Hargreaves mines at Kirkland Lake a few years ago and handled one of the first of many good Kirkland Lake Blue Devils senior teams. Last fall he was named coach of River Vale Skeeters in the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League but resigned his position because of ill health.

His professional baseball experience was with Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League in 1923.

Surviving are his widow and two daughters. Funeral services will be held here Saturday.

FLIERS JOLT HAMILTON'S ALLAN CUP HOPES WITH AN 8 TO 3 WIN

3 Forward Lines Big Factor In Second Win

TORONTO, March 26.—Allan Cup hopes of Hamilton Majors took a terrific jolt last night as the vaunted Ottawa Fliers, gaining momentum as the game progressed, roared home to an 8 to 3 victory in the second game of their best-in-five elimination fight at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Ottawa won the first game at home 3 to 1. Third contest is slated for the Bytown Auditorium next Saturday evening.

The powerful Airmen, who featured three forward lines and only two defensemen, literally skated the plucky Majors into the ice as they raced off with a decisive triumph and sent 8,945 (paid) customers away from the rink chorusing "Who'll ever stop that outfit?"

Bill Touhey's boys satisfied all (including several hundred rabid Hamilton suporters) that it will take a mighty powerful hockey team to knock them off, in fact beat them once, in their trip down this Allan Cup championship trail.

Swell Hockey Show

It was a grand hockey battle for two periods with Hamilton matching skating ability and handing out bump for bump with their highly regarded rivals. The speedy attaching, goalmouth pileups and spectacular goalkeeping by both Jack Eley, for Hamilton and Len Pinke, had the crowd "raising the roof," so to speak, and the show was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Majors accomplished one notable feat in this game—that of keeping the famed Krauts (Milt Schmidt and Pork Dumart) from scoring a goal. Schmidt, thcugh, was probably the game's most dazzling performer. While seeing action for about forty-five of the sixty minutes, he went away on many spectacular sorties and two or three times was robbed completely by the scintillating Eley. And the checking game he turned in shattered several well-meant Hamilton attacks.

While the Kraut boys were being silenced, the second Ottawa trio (an outstanding line at that) went on a scoring spree. Left-winger Elwood Campbell was the pace-maker as he rattled the twine for three goals as the threesome picked up ten scoring points all told. Pickles MacNicholl made the plays for four goals from his pivot spot, and also whipped one past Eley for good measure, while Buddy Hellyer boasted a goal and an assist.

Acheson Prominent

Mike Miller, Walter Murray and George Snell completed the Flier sniping activities. Johnny Acheson, a standout performer, who also was deprived of two or three goals by ill luck, managed to pick up three assists for a fine night's work.

It was a real hockey game until near the midway mark of the third frame, when Ottawa, nursing a 3-2 lead, suddenly broke loose with a smashing offensive that the leg-weary Majors could not match. Goalie Eley had little chance as the Airmen bore down on him with no one obstructing their path several times.

The actual "game buster" came when Roy Hawkey was given a holding penalty and the man advantage backfired on the Majors. Within the space of eighteen seconds MacNicholl and Murray sank in goals that started Ottawa on their victory parade.

Smack Allen, Dillon Brady and Johnny Conick clicked for the Hamilton goals—and only some superb netminding by Pinke kept their scoring total down. During the first two frames the Redding-coached club stormed the Ottawa cage, only to be outlucked completely when in close. Pinke made many brilliant stops, but twice the puck hit the goalpost with the goalie apparently a gone goose.

The Hamilton boys deserve much praise for their fine, all-round performance. The Runions-Brady-Conick line starred all the way, while Allan and Bob Laurent turned in stellar defensive efforts. Barlow was another who caught the eye with his battling tactics and came awfully close to scoring a half-dozen times.

Ottawa Fliers—Goal, Pinke; defense, Hawkey and Murray; centre, Schmidt; wings, Dumart and Snell; alternates, Hellyer, MacNichol, Campbell, Haneberry, Acheson, Miller.

Hamilton—Goal, Eley; defense, Laurent and Sherry; centre, Runions; wings, Brady and Conick; alternates, Allan, Dinning, Shillington, Miocinovich, Gasparini, Barlow.

Officials—Pean Bennett and L. Murray, Montreal.

Bruins Positive They're Able To Paste Hawks

BOSTON, March 26 — (CP). — Boston Bruins, fully recovered from the unexpected 4-0 setback administered by Chicago Black Hawks in the second game of their Stanley Cup playoff "B" series, have it all figured out they're going to win to-night's deciding game in the best-of-three series and go into the semi-finals against either Montreal or Detroit.

They're going to concentrate on bottling up young Alex Kaleta and Bill Mosienko and the veteran Bill Thoms. The 1941 Stanley Cup champions figured they were in a good position to advance two-straight to the semi-finals when they gained a 2-1 overtime victory in the first game of the series in Chicago Sunday night, but they had their hopes dashed by the capable Hawk trio in Tuesday night's second game.

Mosienko clinched the second game with his second-period goal and Kaleta put the issue beyond all doubt, beating Frankie Brimsek himself and then setting up scoring plays for two of his mates.

Because big Earl Seibert had been left behind in Chicago to battle a sinus attack, the Bruins did not expect any serious opposition from Paul Thompson's available defencemen. That canny coach, however, fooled them by dropping Thoms back into Seibert's berth and the aggressive veteran was a thorn in the Bruisn sides every time he took his turn.

Neither Dit Clapper, who has been given full charge of the Bruins by Manager Art Ross, nor Thompson announced any lineup changes.

Both expressed confidence that their charges would prevail in the finale and advance against the winners of the Montreal-Detroit series.

The probable lineups:—

Boston:		Chicago:
Brimsek	goal	Lo Presti
Crawford	defence	Cooper
Shewchuk	defence	Thoms
Cowley	centre	M. Bentley
Wiseman	wing	March
Conacher	wing	D. Bentley

Simon Even Cash To Last 5 Rounds With Joe

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP).—The more or less exclusive Broadway betting shoppes were convinced today that wagering has been placed on the priorities list for Joe Louis' 21st defence of his heavyweight championsh against Abie the Ample Simon in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

For, if all the bets on this Army Emergency Relief rassle were placed end to end, there wouldn't be enough to buy a ticket on Man o' War to show in a three-horse field. As the 49th Street beachcombers put it, "You can't get action when Louis is a billion to nuthing," a zillion being the beachcombers' top figure.

The betting scale that is offered runs from the top item, which is even money that Abe is able enough to answer when the bell rings for the sixth round, all the way to 5 to 1 that Louis can't apply his usual dose of ether anywhere along the line before the 15 rounds run out.

The last time these two came out of the starting gate at each other —a year ago in Detroit—Louis found Abie a particularly rugged citizen to cut down. He finally did it in 13 rounds, but Simon was still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

Joe likes nothing better than to get rid of these "second timers" in a hurry, and he's primed for this one. So this corner tabs him to take care of the giant from across the East River inside of five rounds.

No matter which warrior wins, the Army Emergency Relief will wind up on the big end. All told, the fund should pick up about $50,000 or more from a gate of over $125,000.

Expect Part

advisers have decided it would not be in the interests of the common cause to send a Canadian Expeditionary force to Australia.

6. Canada has applied for and expects to receive representation on the Pacific Council if it is continued in Washington.

Must Keep Defences Up

Mr. King made a statement as detailed, he said, as public interest would allow, of Canada's defence position in the light of recent war developments.

He said people should realize the vastness of the task facing the Allied Nations and declared that while it is essential that the Dominion do all possible to aid in defeating the enemy in other arenas, a strong defence must be maintained against any sudden attacks by sea or air.

Conservative House Leader Hanson spoke at some length yesterday, expressing satisfaction with the Prime Ministers efforts to bring home the realities of war to Canadians, but criticizing operations of the National War Services Act and of the aircraft production agencies.

Mr. Hanson said he did not believe the majority of Canadians yet realize the full significance of "this terrible situation" in which the world has been plunged by war.

'The Canadian people, irrespective of class, race or creed must get behind any and every effort that it is possible to make to win the war," Mr. Hanson said.

Other speakers during the afternoon were A. M. Nicholson (C.C.F. Mackenzie), who urged restoration of the National Housing Act, and suggested that housing units now being built under the Government-sponsored wartime housing program were costing too much; and J. G. Diefenmaker (Con. Lake Centre) who criticized what he termed a "bureaucratic tendency" in the Government and urged creation of a House committee to study and try to co-ordinate production efforts.

Sees Successful Year.

Mr. Kings said he believed this year would "go by successfully" and, he added, if that happened he had not any doubt that "with the increased production of munitions and the increased power that will be brought together from the different United Nations, ultimately the Free Nations will triumph."

"But before that moment is reached," he said "there is going to be a vastly different world than we have ever known in the past, and I believe even vastly different from the world as we know it at the moment."

"So far from seeing ahead a moment at which I may be expected ment at which it may be expected that the war will terminate, I must confess that I am unable to see any time that could be specifically mentioned, and that it would be little short of a miracle if the war does termintate within what some would describe as a short time," Mr. King said.

Japan had made phenomenal successes in the South-western Pacific and that had done more than all the Nazi successes in Europe to bring home to the Canadian people the reality of the danger to the Dominion. But in strategic terms, "the probability of attacks upon our Atlantic Coast and upon Newfoundland is as great as it is upon our Pacific Coast," Mr. King said.

Describing Britain as a "shield" for Canada, the Prime Minister said it would be perilous either to send every trained man and every available weapon overseas or to keep every man and every weapon at home.

"So long as the international gangsters are plundering and marauding at large in the world, we can never make Canada so secure that there will not be somewhere some danger of attack," Mr. King said. "But....we cannot on that account afford to neglect reasonable precautions. In certain strategic areas, we must be prepared to meet sudden raids from sea and air."

Menace Both Sides

To meet the "increasing menace of attack on both coasts" the government had taken steps to strengthen home defences.

The navy was being built up as fast as ships became available and men could be trained.

Plans for transpormation of the Canadian Corps Overseas into a two-corps army, announced by Mr. King last January 26, already were under way and the Government had authorized moziliation of the new 7th and 8th Division to serve as "mobile reserves with special reference to the East and West coasts," adding depth to existing and contemplated defences.

Coast defences and anti-aircraft defences were being strengthened as new equipment became available and new units completed mobilization. A dozen new battalions, together with a considerable number of additional anti-aircraft and coast defence batteries, had been mobilized since outbreak of war in the Pacific.

As for the Air Force home war establishment, the coming year would see "marked increase in the number of combat squadrons, for reconnaissance, anti-submarine, striking and fighter operations." By far the largest proportion of needed aircraft would be turned out by Canadian plants. Air defence in greater depth would be provided and "Satellite and auxiliary airdromes" would be developed.

No Troops for Australia

Mr. King referred to suggestions made in the House for sending of Canadian troops to Australia and said that after full consultation with military advisers and in view of commitments overseas and other factors "it did not appear to be in the interests of the combined war effort that Canada should undertake at this time the sending of an expeditionary force to Australia."

In response to a question by Mr. Hanson whether Canada had asked to be represented on the Pacific council at Washington, Mr. King replied: "I will say we have, yes." While this did not mean that Canada was pressing for representation at this very moment, he said, "we expect to be represented on the council in the United States if it is finally decided that the council is to continue there."

Mr. Hanson spoke just before the House rose for the day at 6:30 p.m. referring to Mr. King's speech in the House yesterday describing steps being taken by the government to extend national selective service, he said:—

"The steps....fall far short of complete national selective service. They are a step in the right direction, and a good step, but they do not go all the way."

Most of his speech was taken up with his criticism of the national war services regulations under which young single men and childless widowers are called up for military training and subsequent home defence duty. He said it had been represented to him that many of the regulations were outdated.

"It is represented that because of some of the anomalies....in the present regulations, and certain deficiencies in the rules, inequality of service results, and that acts as a deterrent to enlistment in the three fighting forces," Mr. Hanson said.

"I call upon the minister (War Services Minister Thorson) at this time of grave national emergency and necessity to remove all existing anomalies and loop-holes. These reforms are long overdue."

Exemptions from call-up for university students tends to cause resentment among men called out for the duration who were not able to bring themselves within the special provisions, he said, "and it is suggested to me that these rules permit those who are better off financially and who are indifferent to their obligations to escape from doing their duty."

He said the present system of having men called up apply to any doctor for medical examination "puts too much power and responsibility in the hands of one civilian physician" and suggested medical boards comprised of three full-time army officers be established.

Defence Minister Ralston interjected that there would be no objection from the army if that were done but it came down to a matter of "practical ability to carry it out."

Mr. Hanson criticized the section of the regulations providing for postponement of call-up for key men in war industry and said he doubted very much if any 20-year-old man could be a key industrial worker.

Rev. T. S. Gault Honored On Departure

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26. — (ENS). — Rev. T. S. Gault, pastor of Christ Church for the past three years and his mother, Mrs. T. Gault, were honored by members of the congregation at a social evening held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. Highlight of the occasion was a presentation to Mr. Gault by Warden T. Gilibrand, following an address paying high tribute to his splendid service to the church by Warden Hilton Beatty. In his remarks Mr. Beatty expressed his appreciation on behalf of the congregation for his splendid services to the church. He regarded as of outstanding importance the fact that the church debt had been reduced by some $2,500 in the past three years, thanks to the untiring efforts of the minister. Said he: "You are leaving a more united congregation, and we wish you success and good fortune in your new service as chaplain in the Canadian Army."

Mr. Beatty also paid tribute to the inspiring leadership provided by Mrs. Gault and hoped that she would continue to give her valued services on behalf of some other branch of the church.

Captain Gault, appearing before his congregation for the first time in the khaki uniform of the Army, expressed his sincere thanks for the gifts—a purse of money, a pen and pencil set, and a wrist watch—and urged the gathering to "remember the pleasant things of our association and forget all the things that should be forgoten.'

Parish Guild President Mrs. R. A. Linton presented a morocco leather hand bag to Mrs. Gault, who replied modestly, "I'm only sorry I couldn't have done more to help you all."

H. Beatty presided for the program of the evening which included vocal solos by W. J. Farr of Peterborough, and also a poem written by Mr. Farr, a former member of Captain Gault's congregation at Peterborough, and in his honor, Miss Gertrude Maynard played the piano accompaniment for community singing.

Another tribute to Captain Gault came from the Ministerial Association through their secretary Rev. G. N. Maxwell, who told the Examiner on Tuesday that Rev. Mr. Gault had become associated with that group on January 16, 1939, and was energetically and cordially welcomed as one of its members. "From that time he has shown keen interest in the work of the association, opening his home on numerous occasions for its meetings and always ready to co-operate in union services such as those at Holy Week and during the annual Week of Prayer. On the removal of Rev. B. Simpson Black to Toronto a year ago he was elected president of the association and has filled this office in a most efficient manner. His interest in preparing papers on different subjects and his ability in the field of discussion have indicated a keen and comprehending mind that comes through wide reading and an undarstanding of human nature. His departure leaves a vacancy in the association's ranks but the work to which he has now given his time and talents as chaplain of the service commends him most readily to the hearts of the members, and prayers will be made on his behalf that God will use him as a wise leader and counsellor among the men of our Canadian Army."

Captain Gault has been ordered to report for active duty at Headquarters, M.D. 3, on Thursday of this week.

Paper, Magazine Prices Are Set

OTTAWA, March 26—(CP).—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today that no person may sell or purchase in Canada any newspaper, magazine or periodical at a price higher than that charged or paid for the same publication during the basic period, September 15 to October 11, 1941.

The board order provides that price increases recently announced by several United States publications will not apply to sale of these publications in Canada.

The regulations do not apply to subscriptions to foreign publications where the subscriber sends in his subscription direct to the publisher "without the intervention, solicitation or aid of any intermediary in Canada."

Will Continue Sales.

TORONTO, March 26—(CP). — Officials of companies handling the distribution of the Saturday Evening Post and Collier's magazines in Toronto said today they presumed the publishing companies would take no steps to halt the sale in Canada, even though a price increase going into effect in the United States is not allowed in Canada by government order.

T. H. Sinnott, whose company handles the Post, said Canadian circulation was "not large enough to aid or hinder them one way or the other," and the companies undoubtedly would continue Canadian sales to maintain their distributtion system for their other publications.

MILK FOR BRITAIN.

The sum of $43.66 was handed to J. A. MacDonald today for the Milk for Britain fund by the United Farmers' Co-operative as the proceeds of old time fiddlers' contest recently sponsored by that organization. This sum will purchase 436 quarts of powdered milk which will be sent to Britain to aid the children who today are not receiving anything like sufficient in milk.

LESS ICE CREAM

Stores selling ice cream are not receiving quite as much ice cream as they did previously. This is due to the fact that the industry is allowed to use just 80 per cent of the amount of sugar used last year. It is understood that certain experiments are now being made to determine if substitutes for sugar would be suitable, in the ice cream. At any rate there will be no shortage of this summer delicacy.

COMING HERE TUESDAY

Local people who are interested in public speaking will be pleased to learn that E. W. Wright of Toronto will pay a visit to the Y.M.C.A. next Tuesday to sit in on the Effective Speaking Class being conducted by Mrs. J. G. Wharry. The public is invited to attend, on this particular evening, to hear the comments of Mr. Wright on the work of the student speakers, and to note the progress that has been made by those taking the course.

CURB SMASHED

The sidewalk curbing on the north side of Murray street alongside Confederation Square, has taken a beating from the combined effects of the water, frost and the weather. For more than fifty feet the south edge of the sidewalk has crumbled creating a hazard that may result in injury to some pedestrian. While it is a little early to start repairs, because there is still frost, the pedestrians are warned to watch their step along this stretch.

DOING MORE THAN PAID FOR.

One hundred employees on the midnight shift of Bohn Aluminum plant, Detroit, worked through their rest periods the other night and pledged themselves to continue extra production of the shells they are making for the army. They cabled Gen. MacArthur in Australia: "We, the employees of the third shift, plant seven, Bohn Aluminum Corporation, tonight have made one-half hour's over-production of war materials. We pledged ourselves behind you and swear that, shoulder to shoulder, the forces of democracy will be victorious."

JOINS THE NAVY

Lorne Mullen, has received word from the Royal Canadian Navy that he has been accepted, and will serve as an engineer, perhaps with the rank of Petty Officer. He was employed in the boiler house at the C.G.E. and had recently passed his second class engineer's examinations. He is 24 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mullen of Smith township.

IS SENT TO JAIL

Morgan Astling, who first pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support, changed it to not guilty the next time he appeared and this morning returned to a plea of guilty again was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to fifteen days imprisonment. "That will be a warning to you that you must try to look after your family" he told the accused.

TO START EXCAVATING

Two local contractors plan to start the excavating of cellars for dwellings next week, if the good weather continues. Harry T. Hickey will erect three bungalows on the east side of Monaghan Road between Murray and McDonnel, and O. J. Hayward plans to start a bungalow on the corner of Sherbrooke and Rubidge. Quite a number of houses will be started before April is well along.

FACTORIES ARE HIT

If all the men in Peterborough county who received their call to report for compulsory military training at the training centre enlisted with the Rangers, the regiment would have an enlistment close to the 200 mark. Many of the factories are losing quite a number of men, and talk among the boys indicates all of these are going to sign with the Rangers. If all the trainees sign up who have been called, the local training centre will have quite a number of empty bunks.

HERE IS THE ROUTINE

Many prospective recruits for the Rangers have been asking what the routine of enlistment is, and the information is as follows. A man presents himself to the recruiting officer at the Armouries, is interviewed by the sergeant, then gives all the information necessary to fill out his M.F.-2 papers. Then he goes before the medical board for medical examination. If the doctors require it, he goes through an X-ray examination. The medical board then sums up the information obtained and gives him a medical rating. If it is A, A.2 or B.1, he is accepted, and is attested, or sworn in. From that time on he is a soldier.

Stores Arrive For Recruits

Sixty men of the Prince of Wales Rangers snapped through their physical drill this morning with a will that showed they were getting quite a kick out of it, and all are anxious for the parade ground to dry out, so that softball games and other sports may be enjoyed.

The ground in front of the Armouries is drying out fast, and in a few days setting up exercises will be carried on in the sunlight, and regular periods will be allowed during the morning and afternoon for softball games, wrestling and other sports which will put the boys in good physical trim.

Today complete stores arrived for men, and they will be issued with boots, and other equipment either today or Friday. R.S.M. Jackson, said this morning, that no route marches will be held, until the men have become thoroughly accustomed to the army boots, as he does not want any man suffering from foot blisters. Thus the men will be permitted to wear the heavy army boots for several days, taking the breaking in easy stages. This action is typical of the treatment being given these active service recruits, with the emphasis on consideration of the men, so that no undue hardships will be imposed on them.

The boys were swinging through the physical drill with so much zip, that one husky recruit said he did not know whether his ribs were cracking or his suspenders were breaking, but they seem to love it, and after two or three exercise periods the stiffness leaves the muscles and the boys begin to get the real benefit from the drill.

The equipment which arrived includes web equipment, battle dress, summer drill uniforms, summer underwear, canvas shoes for sports wear, combs, brushes, razors, etc. The Quartermaster's staff is preparing a kit bag for each man, which will include 24 items, all essential to the soldier. This is in addition to the usual issue of equipment.

Youth Given Year For Stealing Auto

One year definite and two months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., upon Joseph Robinson in Police Court this morning after the 16-year-old Nassau boy had pleaded guilty to the theft of a car in Douro Township.

Adjutant Norman Buckley, who appeared in the boy's interest, said that there was no doubt of the accused's guilt. He had accompanied a younger boy when the automobile was stolen and when a start was made for Toronto.

"After he gets into the Reformatory we will see what we can do for him," Adjutant Buckley told the court.

Robinson and a young lad who was tried in Juvenile Court some days ago, had left for Toronto in the stolen car. It was found later near Oshawa in a badly damaged condition and the boys were arrested by Toronto police.

Men Of Trees Would Assist Branch

A branch of The Men of the Trees may be formed in Peterborough if at least twenty or twenty-five citizens will become members, Dr. J. E. Middleton informed the Examiner today.

The purpose of this society, of which Dr. Middleton is a member, is to plant and protect trees everywhere "and to create a public interest and consciousness in their usefulness and beauty."

At their meeting in Trinity College, Toronto, Monday night, Dr. Middleton was informed that the society would like to encourage the formation of a branch in Peterborough. The honorary president is Sir William Muloch, and the advisory committee is composed of E. J. Zavitz, provincial forester; C. E. Chambers, and George [illegible]. Corsan, of Toronto.

The speaker Monday night was Mr. Dunnington-Grubb, a lecturer on garden design at the University of Toronto who was trained in landscape architecture under Thomas Mawson and Sons of England With that firm he designed the grounds around the Peace Palace at The Hague, Holland.

Incidentally, Peterborough City Council had obtained on several occasions trees from The Men of the Trees.

Mr. Dunnington-Grubb has been engaged to do the landscaping for Wartime Housing, Limited. He is proposing that a tree be planted for every one of the new houses, probably the Caroline poplar, which grows rapidly and is not regarded as a permanent tree like the maple and elm. Trees should be planted at least fifty feet apart, Mr. Dunnington-Grubb said, and in a comment of Canadian practice he said that trees in this country are grown too close together.

Miss B. Nie of Fenelon Falls recently joined the society, whose patrons includes Lady Eaton, Mrs. H. D. Warren and Mrs. D. A. Dunlap.

City Council To Fete Hockey Champs

Renewal of the city public liability insurance with the Halifax Insurance Company at $1,492, a reduction of $88 from last year, was recommended by the legal committee of the council Wednesday afternoon.

The chairman, Alderman Sands, and City Clerk Outram, were authorized to arrange for a complimentary dinner to the Peterborough hockey team, provincial champions in the Senior B section of the O.H.A.

City Solicitor Huycke was instructed to prepare a bylaw providing for the closing of beauty parlors on Wednesday afternoon during November and December. Present bylaw covers the other months of the year, the ten months from January to October, inclusive, and proprietors desires to extend the half holiday over the entire year.

Two City Schools In Honor Group

Continuing a condition that has existed for years several of the city schools show an amazingly poor rating in the penny bank savings account which is published monthly and released to the newspapers.

With consistent regularity, Queen Alexandra has topped the list with a percentage of 86, then comes King Edward and these two are the only ones in the honor bracket as the last named school has 68. King George, Confederation and Central are away down in the thirties, Queen Elizabeth has 28, May's 23 and Prince of Wales 21. Queen Mary school in west end of city shows the poorest rating of all, namely 19.

The total on deposit at the end of February, 1942, was $13,161.39 as against $14,831.36 a year ago.

The Faster You Drive The Sooner You Walk Tires On Your Car Last Ones You Will Get

Here is a little story that may convince the super optimists that no Houdini, nor willow-the-wisp is going to pull tires out of the ether for them, whenever the need arises.

A prominent business man of this city, ordered four white-wall tires several months ago before tire rationing was even mentioned. In due time, two of the tires came in and were put on the car. A short time later, after tire rationing had come into effect, the other two white-wall tires were delivered to the local garage, but the garage could not send them on to the car owner because of the restrictions.

The business man needed the tires and as the garage man could not release them without proper authority, the business man decided to phone the rubber controller, a man named Williams, to ascertain if the tires could be released. He figured the white-wall tires in particular would be of no special value to the war machine.

He was able to reach the rubber controller, and after he had told the story, the rubber controller said: "Mr. ——, you are not looking for any special favors in this situation are you."

The business man assured him he was not, nor did he wish to take advantage of his position in any way. He just wanted the tires if the law would allow it.

"I'm afraid, that the tires you have on your car right now, are all the tires you will be able to get until this war is over," was the final answer from the rubber controller.

This is the story without any frills added, and it should certainly convince the doubting Thomases, that there is a rubber shortage that will be felt for a long time to come.

In brief it can be summed up like this: "The faster you drive, the sooner you'll walk," and there is no alternative, except perhaps the purchase of a bicycle.

County Council Meets In Special Session

With the winter months behind them, the county council met this morning in a two-day spring session.

Reeve Jeremiah Mahoney of Douro was introduced as the successor of the veteran councillor, Martin Coughlin, who was appointed township road superintendent shortly after the January sessions.

In meeting this week the council is not extending the total number of days of their sessions this year. Their plan is to reduce the June sessions by two days, believing that they can confine the mid-summer business to three days at a season when their own work at home requires them to be there as much as possible.

Warden Norman Lean and all the members were present at the opening session.

Fourteen of the member signified their intention of accepting the invitation of the Kinsmen's Club to dinner at the Empress Hotel this evening at which the speaker will be the Hon. T. L. Kennedy, former provincial minister of agriculture.

Communications included replies from many of the counties of Ontario endorsing Peterborough resolutions asking for consideration be given to the needs and shortage of farm labor in calls for military service, and also asking for a flat rate for Hydro power and that preference be given to rural power contracts over decorative lighting in the cities.

Victoria County was one of the few exceptions in declining to support the appeal for a measure of exemption of necessary farm labor in regard to military service.

A letter from G. K. Fraser, M.P., informed the council he had presented this resolution to the government.

A resolution by Wentworth council requests the Ontario government to delay the passing of any legislation embodying assessment changes, until county councils have had time to consider these amendments. Wentworth is planning to assume in part or whole authorities which have long been within the right and scope of county councils.

Another Buckhorn Man

Pte. Roger E. Armstrong, son of Sgt. William E. and Mrs. Armstrong, formerly of Buckhorn, is now serving with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. At present he is taking a fitter-machinist's course in the Trade School at Ottawa. He was employed at the Nashua Paper Company before enlisting, and is 19 years of age. His father served in the 4th Battalion during World War 1, and is now on the A. and T. staff at Military Training Centre No. 32.

Carriers Sell War Stamps To Value $511

A grand total of $511.25 was sold in War Savings Stamps by the boy and girl carriers of The Examiner last week. This splendid amount was contributed to by the efforts of almost every one of the ninety-odd carriers during the week just past, with the south end of the city showing up in the higher individual sales. The winners for the week ending March 21, were boys whose names are familiar to readers of this paper. Victor Doughty of 150 Hart avenue tied with another consistently top salesman, Keith Orde of 249 Reid street with a sale of $48.25 each. Usually close behind the winners is Jack Harris of 239 Princess street, who comes through again with the fine total of $46.00. Especially fine regular sales have been made by a young lady carrier from the west end, Nancy Leith, 617 Gilmour street, whose efforts brought in $30.25 last week, followed by another regular contributor, George Clark, with $28.75 and Wilbert Edgar with $28.00. Clare Galvin, another west end boy, brings in $24.00, and Donald Pagett, January's trophy winner, a further $20.00. Wellington Borland, another new boy with a central route, made a decidedly good weekly effort with sales of $15.00.

Tom Douglas, living at 598 Young street, south end, has a rather difficult route to serve, and deserves great praise for his fine results in selling War Stamps so regularly and in such volume. His sales for last week amounted to $11.75, not his highest weekly total by any means, but a worthy effort nevertheless. Cyril Robinson is here again with $10.50, two other consistent salesmen, the McIsaac brothers, Dan and Henry of the north end with $10 each and energetic Adrian Langhorne with another $10.00. Douglas Burrows in the north end with a further $8.00 and Bob Noble with a $7.00 sale are next, and two other contributing $6.25 each are Grant Finnie and Claude Cornwell. Bill Leahy, Lewes Gaskell and Bertha Bradley each come through with totals of $6.00 for the week. Fred La Plante is also in the honorable mention class with an even $5.00.

The efforts of others with smaller sales are greatly appreciated by the War Savings Committee of the city and are encouraged to continue their campaign though they are not frequently mentioned in these columns for large totals. The value of the faithful plugging of these boys and girl carriers cannot be overestimated; the grand total of well over $7,000.00 speaks volumes for the enthusiasm shown in their campaign voluntarily begun last November.

7 Recruits Pass Medical Tests

Seven more recruits have passed their medical tests at the Armouries and are added to the strength of the Prince of Wales Rangers, and the majority of the seventeen men who were examined on Wednesday are awaiting the reports of the medical examinations.

Lt. Lorne Bateman is asking that all men who have been ordered up for compulsory training in the camps, should not wait for the second call if he wants to join the Rangers. These men should report at once to the recruiting officer at the Armouries, and whether he wants to join the Regiment or not, every trainee called up is at liberty to approach the recruiting officer for any information he desires.

The whole trouble is, that when a man gets his call to the camp, he dallies with the question of enlistment too long, and then has not time to enlist before reporting to the camp. If any trainee wants to enlist do it now, and don't wait until the last minute or complications may result which will prevent the man from getting into the Rangers.

Following are the men whose names appeared on Part 2 orders this morning as having been accepted, and for the benefit of the prospective recruits who anxious to get somewhere in the army, there are still vacancies for more than one hundred non-commissioned officers in the ranks of this unit, which must be filled soon, and the first recruits get the preference.

The Happy Dozen Aids War Victims

The Happy Dozen is a euchre club, and as its name implies, has been meeting to have evenings of pleasure in this way, from which goodness has been made to flow to others in the form of help to those who have suffered through air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

On two former occasions their name has appeared in the daily list of acknowledgments for the fund, and again today their name appears for the third time with a donation of $17 to their credit, giving ample proof they have not wearied in the task of doing good to others, and in this manner are making a contribution to the war effort which is well worthwhile.

The box in The Examiner office has been a steady producer of assistance to the fund, and today it is listed with its latest collection of $1.15.

Wolfe, which by that time will be nine weeks old and comes from parents who rank high in the dog world of registered stock.

Added to this is the door prize which each admission ticket of 25 cents has a chance to win, in a registered Boston Terrier, donated by Mrs. W. J. Welch, and Harold Howay of the London Life Insurance Co. will put on a floor show with his dog which is trained to entertain with tricks much above the average, as a contribution to the cause.

Rambling Reporters

THERE WAS NO FERRY

Herb McCannan is beginning to believe that he is taking his duties in connection with Wartime Housing a little too seriously. He is a member of the local board and this week visited the colony north of Parkhill Road. When Mr. McCannan was coming away, he took a short-cut, and was soon helplessly marooned. Ross Dobbin came to the rescue with long planks, which reached the spot where the real estate man was stuck, with one foot mired in slimy mud, over the shoe top, and the other shoe just as muddy was resting on top of a tiny stone. The rescue was effected without further mishap, but the boys report Mr. McCannan was so indignant he sounded like Costello making his appearance on the Charlie McCarthy program.—McG.

THIS WAS NO QUICKIE

A circulation man for the Peterborough Examiner saw a woman trudging along the highway a few days ago, some distance from Peterborough, and he offered her a ride. The woman readily accepted and during the conversation that followed the woman learned the identity of the driver. "Oh, I have a great regard for the Examiner," said the woman. "I answered a want ad as a housekeeper a few years ago, and I got a husband as well." Which just goes to prove that there are plenty of eligible bachelors hidden away in the country, who might need housekeeper too.

SUPER GROWTH

Charles Veeman of 126 Lock street decided to have some fun with the neighbors. He has a rambling rose on the sunny side of the house, and after a discussion with a neighbor, Leo Martyn, about plants blooming early, Mr. Veeman secured four lovely paper rose buds, and wired them with tiny wire to different places on the rambler rose. The next day at noon, Mr. Marytn stared in amazement at the early blooming rambler. He had started to walk away when the joke hit him, and when he examined the bush a little closer the hoax was quite apparent. So far no person has phoned the Examiner about the roses blooming early, so it must be presumed that they have been taken down.

As Tokyo Sees It

TOKYO (From Japanese broadcasts), March 26 (AP)—The following dispatch was broadcast today by Domei:—

"The Swedish government suddenly called all classes of the armed forces to the colors yesterday with simultaneous decrees to strengthen coastal and border patrols, Yomiuri reported from Stockholm.

". . . Certain quarters took the move to indicate an impending American attempt to launch a second European front against the Scandinavian countries."

Biddle is a Peterborough girl who was connected with the Y.W.C.A. and Peterborough Women's Service Club before enrolling with the C.W.A.C. in January, 1942.

Station CHEX Is Ready For Auditions

With the arrival of a new Baby Grand piano at the radio studios of CHEX, announcement was made yesterday by the station management that auditions will be held for local talent immediately. To you who can sing, play a piano, violin, accordion or any of the many musical instruments—if you think you have talent that may be aired locally, contact the program department of CHEX at the Examiner building any time from now on. There are opportunities for all—if you possess the type of talent required. The program department will arrange an audition for you after you personally call and present your case verbally.

You are asked not to forget the big opening broadcast next Tuesday night at which Mart Kenny's internationally famous orchestra will be featured. Tickets were going fast at the Examiner office yesterday for the premier broadcast and it is just possible at this time that all tickets may be gone. However, you are not left out in the cold, you still have your radios and you will be able to hear more than the huge auditorium audience will hear at the Collegiate. The reason is this: The program is being prepared for broadcast and the radio audience have one up on the studio audience on that count. A rehearsal will be held during the afternoon.

Speakers for the initial broadcast have all been arranged and unless some new guests arrive your speaking list for the broadcast will include: W. Rupert Davies, president of The Canadian Press and president of the Peterborough Broadcasting Company, Glen Bonnerman, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, Senator J. J. Duffus, Mayor James J. Hamilton, Hon. G. N. Gordon, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., Ald. R. M. Glover and Alex L. Elliott, M.P.P.

How many of you have any idea just how a sponsored radio broadcast is arranged before it is ready to take the air. Sonya Barnett outlined the program yesterday for an Examiner reporter and, unless he has slipped up, this is how it was explained.

The salesman contacts the prospective sponsor. If the sponsor is interested, he will get an audition, that is to say, the station will run the program especially for him exactly as it will go on the air. If he is still interested, a sale is made but that is only less than half the story. The salesman must then contact the continuity department of CHEX. The type of message he is attempting to get over to the public is taken into consideration and following this the type of program to reach that type of person must be arranged. As a result, the script is arranged in collaboration with the music director and eventually the show is aired after much preparation. In other words, CHEX is composed of a number of departments working together to produce the type of show in which the most people will be interested. They must also take into consideration the fact that if a dairy wants to sponsor a program, they must prepare a show for the women. Needless to say a wrestling match would be out in that case. Yet if one was trying to sell cigarets or men's suits, that type of program might blend in well with the scheme.

Reinstatement Provisions Listed In Parliament

OTTAWA, March 26 (AP).—Provision for reinstatement in their former occupations of persons who perform essential services at the request of the government is contained in an order-in-council tabled yesterday in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

"It is desirable that there should be similarity of treatment in the matter of reinstatement in employment of those who volunteer for service in His Majesty's forces and those who consent to perform services in an undertaking engaged on essential work," the order said.

The new reinstatement provisions apply to seven classes of employees:

2. A production, industrial or other engineer or chemist who normally holds in any engineering works or manufacturing establishment a position of authority involving responsibility for any phase of executive management or control of any technical function;

3. A person who has a degree from any Canadian or other recognized University and is normally engaged as a teacher of engineering science or of any branch of science at a University or technical colleges;

4. A person who has been trained or is or has been normally engaged, in the practice of any branch of the Science of Chemistry but not including a registered pharmacist;

5. A Research Scientist—A person who, by training or practice "is skilled in the independent search for new knowledge of the properties of matter or energy."

6. A person, other than a teacher, who has obtained a degree at any Canadian or other recognized university in engineering, chemistry, physics, geology, mathematics, architecture or in any natural science, or who is a technically qualified member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, the Canadian Institute of Chemistry, the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada or of any provincial asociation of professional engineers, chemists or architects;

7. A person, not in the classes decribed above, "who, in the opinion of the minister, possesses technical qualifications and skill which are needed in undertakings engaged on essential work."

Any person to whom the reinstatement provisions apply may be requested by the Labor Minister, through the personnel director, to undertake such essential work as will allow him to make his utmost contribution to the carrying on of essential war work.

On 30 Days' Notice.

Employers are compelled to release such men within 30 days after written notice of the proposed change has been received by him from the minister or the director. Written objections from the employer may be submitted within the 30-day period.

"It shall be the duty of any employer, who employed a person to whom these regulations apply, to reinstate him at the termination of his contract for such (essential services in a position and under conditions not less favorable than would have been applicable to him had he not consented to perform such services," the order said.

"The provisions of this section shall not apply to the civil service of Canada or to the civil service of any province of Canada."

If any proceedings for violation of the reinstatement order, it shall be a defence for the original employer to prove:

1. That the person formerly employed by him did not, within two weeks after the termination of his contract for employment on essential work, apply to him for reinstatement.

2. That he failed without reasonable excuse to present himself for employment at the time and place notified to him by the employer;

3. By reason of a change of circumstances, other than the engagement of some other person to replace him, "it was not reasonably practicable to reinstate him or that his reinstatement in a position and under conditions not less favorable to him than those which would have been applicable to him had he not undertaken essential work, was impracticable and that the employer had offered to reinstate him in the most favorable position and under the most favorable conditions reasonably practicable;

4. That he was physically or mentally incapable of performing work available in the employer's service;

5. That he was employed to take the place of an employee who had been previously accepted for service in the armed forces or of an employee, who, after the date on which they became effective, undertook, at the request of the minister, to perform services in an undertaking engaged on essential work.

No Ousting Before 6 Months

Where an employer has reinstated a former employee he shall not, without reasonable cause," terminate the employment of that employee and, in any proceedings for violation of this section in any case where the employment was terminated within six months of the reinstatement, the onus shall be on the employer to prove that he had reasonable cause for terminating the employment.

"An employer shall not terminate the employment of any employee to whom these regulations apply in the expectancy that the employee, at the request of the minister, will agree to perform services under another employer," the order said.

Any person to whom these regulations apply who fails to comply with the provisions of section 7 or 8 of these regulations, or of any order made under the authority of these regulations, shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars.

The order makes provisions for fines up to $100 against employers who fail to abide by the terms of the order, and under some circumstances provides for compelling employers who have failed to reinstate a former employee to pay the employee a sum not exceeding three months' pay.

Remember When—

By the Canadian Press.

Toronto Maple Leafs, behind four goals on two-game round banged in 6 goals in 12 minutes to defeat Boston Bruins 8-3 in a Stanley Cup playoff classic six years ago tonight. Eddie Shore, strong man of the Bruins, was on the penalty bench when his team collapsed. The Leafs were beaten in the Stanley Cup finals by Detroit.

Eyes On Reardon Wings Slogan Facing Montreal

DETROIT, March 26. —(CP). — "Watch Terry Reardon!"

That's the watchword of Detroit Red Wings as they prepare for tonight's third and deciding game in their National Hockey League playoff series with Montreal Canadiens.

Reardon, the Canadiens' flashy forward, has had a hand in four of the six Montreal goals scored in the playoff games played so far. He scored Montreal's only goals here Sunday night when Detroit won the first contest 2-1 and counted one and passed for two others in Montreal Tuesday night when the Canadiens walloped the Wings 5-0.

The Wings returned to Detroit for the third game visibly disturbed by the devastating attack unleashed by the Montrealers. However, Manager Jack Adams said he plans no shift in his lineup, pinning his hopes on the familiar ice of the Olympia arena.

The invading Canadiens were optimistic they can win to-night's encounter and go on to meet the winner of the Boston-Chicago series in the cup playoffs. They entered the Detroit series casting a streak as "hot" as the Wings, having won six games and tying one in seven contests before blanking Detroit Tuesday night. The Wings came up to the playoffs with a record of seven victories and a tie in their last eight home games.

A Bad Game

Wounded in spirit more than in body, the Wings still were a little hazy upon their return here on just what was wrong at Montreal. All admitted they had played one of their poorest games this season.

"But just wait till we get them at Olympia again," was the cry.

It's not an empty threat. The teams have met here five times this season and Detroit has won all the games, outscoring the Canadiens, 24 to 4. The Wings are confident they can give Montreal more of the same treatment.

The bettors are divided. Some are calling it an even bet, while others, mindful of the debacle at Montreal, have installed the Canadiens a 5-4 favorite.

The wholesale fights that marked the last two encounters between the Red Wings and Canadiens during the regular season have been missing from the playoff games in which careful play has prevailed. Only one fistic flurry occurred at Montreal Tuesday night, and both teams emerged from the encounter without injury.

The probable starting lineups:

Detroit		Montreal
Mowers	goal	Bibeault
Stewart	defence	Goupille
Bush	defence	Bouchard
Grosso	centre	Quilty
Wares	wing	Sands
Abel	wing	Getliffe

Spiel Trophies In Consolation Go To Kingston

KINGSTON, March 26.—Kingston rinks, knocked out of the main event in the Eastern Ontario bonspiel, monopolized play in the two consolations with the final for the Gourdier Trophy an all-Kingston affair, while three of the four semi-finalists in the third event were from the Kingston club. The bonspiel was completed last night following three days of curling, featured by the Toronto-Oshawa final, late Tuesday night, for the Whig-Standard tankard, when Ken Miles' Toronto four won from Percy Skitch's Ontario silver tankard Lindsay rink.

J. G. W. Sands skipped the Kingston winners of the Gourdier through a tough final with R. F. Elliott's Kingston rink. R. W. O'Hara and S. J. Fraser, Kingston skips, met in the last game of the bonspiel for the Four Roses award.

Cut Schedules Proposed For '43 Hockey

TORONTO, March 26—War conditions, especially in the light of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement in the House of Commons of Orders-in-Council pertaining to mobilization of manpower, undoubtedly will have an effect on amateur hockey in Canada next year, George Dudley, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said here Wednesday.

Speaking before a meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association executive, of which he is treasurer, Mr. Dudley said he didn't think the C.A.H.A. could countenance physically fit men doing nothing but playing hockey. Curtailed schedules likely would be in order next season and paydowns also might be affected.

"We will try to maintain hockey, however, as best we can," the C.A.H.A. president said, adding that it was his opinion that instead of further restrictions being placed on those who attempted to operate teams during 1942-43 the association should do all it could to aid these clubs.

No Game for Hamilton

Mr. Dudley also announced that the present senior playdown five-game series between Ottawa Royal Canadian Air Force Fliers and Hamilton Majors would be played as scheduled with games alternating between Ottawa and Toronto. Hamilton had asked that at least one game be played in Hamilton, but Mr. Dudley said rink arrangements for the playdowns had been made at a C.A.H.A. meeting in Regina in January and would be adhered to.

At that meeting it was arranged that the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series would be played in Ottawa and Toronto, games alternating. The first game was played in Ottawa Monday night and the second here Wednesday night. The third of the best-of-five series will be played in Ottawa Saturday.

Concerning criticism which had been heard re the building up of the Air Force team to its present strong status, Mr. Dudley said it must be remembered that a war was on and that military authorities would not countenance such a move unless they approved. Also, professional hockey players who joined the armed forces couldn't be put into a "No man's land" of hockey just because they gave up their vocations to join either army, air force or navy. At that, he said, many professionals had been reinstated to C.A.H.A. ranks in recent years.

Big Rinks Necessary.

Further re the playing of O.H.A. playdown home games in Toronto, the C.A.H.A. president said big rink revenues were needed to finance the association playdowns. It was nice for hometown fans in smaller centres to see playoff games, but playoffs cost money—approximately $75,000 every season—and could not be financed if games were played in smaller centres.

Likewise a request from Quebec City that Quebec Aces, Provincial senior champions, be allowed to play on home ice part of their eastern semi-final series with Glace Bay Miners, was refused, Mr. Dudley said. This series had been scheduled for Glace Bay and Montreal ice, and the schedule would be adhered to.

It has been reported that Hamilton Majors threatened to drop out of the playdowns if their request for a game on Hamilton ice was not granted, Mr Dudley said. "If Hamilton drops out they are out and through," he said, adding that the playdowns would continue without Majors in such an event.

The Ontario Hockey Association president, Ross Clemens of Hamilton, said he had written to Mr. Dudley at the Hamilton club's request in connection with the matter, but that he is "first, last and always" a supporter of the C.A.H.A., and the question was settled as far as he was concerned

Paris.—Goal, L. England; defence, A. Torti, Butcher; centre, Easto; wings, Grant, Martin; alternates, W. England, J. Torti, huttleworth, Cordick, Hayword, Kempthorne.

Markham—Goal, J. Harper; defence, G. Scott, F. Scott; centre, B. Bangay; wings, B. Lawrie, A. Baker; alternates, E. Lawrie, R. Parkinson, R. Rowe, I. Harper, A. Armstrong, N. Bangay.

"THOUGHT I KNEW ALL ABOUT BREAD BAKING ... 'TIL MY GROCER TOLD ME ABOUT QUICK HI-DO YEAST"

"Mr. Jones certainly did me a real favour when he told me about HI-DO—the amazing, quick, dry yeast. Now I start my baking after breakfast and have the best bread and rolls I ever baked for lunch—and I not only save time—but my baking is lighter, fluffier, tastier too. Add to that the fact that HI-DO is so economical—and you'll see why I'm going to use HI-DO Yeast from now on."

Ask your grocer today for HI-DO (pronounced high dough)—the new, quick, dry yeast that keeps without refrigeration.

TRY THIS RECIPE

WHITE BREAD (Quick Method)
1 ENVELOPE HI-DO QUICK YEAST
2 tablespoons lard or butter melted
12 cups sifted flour
4¾ cups lukewarm water or milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt

Put contents of HI-DO Quick Yeast envelope, ½ cup of lukewarm water or milk and 1 teaspoon of sugar in bread bowl. Stir and let stand 10 minutes. Add balance of lukewarm water or milk, lard or butter, sugar, and half the flour. Beat until smooth, then add salt and balance of flour, or enough to make easily-handled dough. Knead until smooth. Place in greased bowl, and set aside in warm place. Let rise until dough is double in bulk. Punch dough down in bowl and let rise again for 15 minutes. Mould into loaves to half fill well-greased pans. Cover and let rise about an hour, or until double in bulk. Bake ¾ to 1 hour.

"I have been accustomed to a wet yeast and find HI-DO as quick, but having advantage of keeping without refrigeration." Mrs. A. M., Wainfleet, Ont.

"I'm delighted with the fine texture and flavour of my baking since using HI-DO quick, dry yeast." Mrs. M. N., Toronto, Ont.

"Mexican Masquerade"

By CECIL CARNES

THE STORY: Now it can be told—the tale of Allan Steele's strange experience in Mexico's Lower California Peninsula. Allan is close to his destination, Inn of One Thousand Delights, when he sees a Mexican officer dismount from his horse to examine something by the roadside, only to be attacked by three horsemen. "A holdup!" cries Allan.

CHAPTER II

PROMPTLY Allan went into action. He headed the car down the hill and stepped on the gas. The sedan plunged onward in a series of leaps and bounds. It took all of his strength to keep it on the road He kept one eye on the ruts and the gullies of the wagon track, the other on the progress of the fight ahead.

The officer was holding his own. His blade was longer than the others, and his swordsmanship was superb. He parried slash after slash, and when opportunities came, he thrust wickedly at the foe. It was pretty fencing. Allan had time to think how much the spectacle resembled a scene from "The Three Musketeers," and almost regretted that he and the sedan were about to introduce the modernistic panzer touch to a picture so romantic.

He had time, too, for a fleeting memory of the Chief's farewell admonition the morning they parted in San Diego.

"Watch your step, my boy! You'll be on your own down there, you know, and you can't count on much help from us if you get in a spot. So—don't stick your neck out!"

Well—to blazes with all that now! thought Allan. One man attacked by three, and the one was in the uniform of a soldier and the three were a bunch of sloppy, bearded bravos — bandits, if he didn't miss his guess. Far back in his line of ancestors was a red-headed Irishman; the Hibernian strain was not normally apparent in Allan's behavior, but in a crisis such as this it was apt to take full charge. Now it was running the show in the best fighting Irish tradition, urging him into battle on the weaker side.

He was within yards of it by now. He was not sure what might happen if he went smashing headlong into the whirling knot of men on horses. The sedan might upset —it might even be hopelessly wrecked! He could not risk that. He didn't know how badly he might need the car, and there was a limit to the extent he could forget the claims of duty. Exasperating—but there it was!

A smooth stretch in the road gave him a chance to free one hand from the wheel and bring it down on the button of his horn. The raucous blare ripped out its warning. Again he pressed, and once again.

EVEN through the heat of battle the hideous sound carried to the fighters' ears. They sensed their peril, turning their heads to get a flashing vision of the metal juggernaut rushing upon them. It was a sight to shatter the stoutest morale. Instinctively, they acted to save themselves. They drove home their spurs, and their plunging horses carried them off the road to safety as Allan went by in a haze of speed and dust.

He stopped his engine, stepped on the foot brake, jerked the emergency as soon as he dared. Even at that the sedan slewed in a half-circle and came to a screeching stop pointed in the direction of San Saba.

Allan flung the door open beside him, leaped to the road and ran back toward the scene of the fight.

There was no fight left. The three bravos were already on the point of vanishing around the clump of cactus. Just before he disappeared, the rearmost of the trio pulled his steed back on its haunches. He brandished his machete at the officer.

"We'll get you yet!" he shouted furiously. Then he spat one final word that startled Allan by its implications. "Traitor!"

He gave his horse its head and vanished. Allan lowered the revolver he had whipped from his pocket as he ran. A quiet voice spoke beside him.

"Let them go, senor, let them go." At close quarters the officer turned out to be a handsome young fellow with a small neat mustache as black as his eyes. He was twisting the mustache now and there was a glint of good-humored resignation in the eyes. He sighed. "I could have killed them quite easily myself if I had chosen. But—well, after all, they are friends of mine."

"Oh, said Allan blankly. "Afraid I didn't understand." The corners of his mouth twitched. "If those were friends of yours, senor, your enemies must be something to see!"

The Mexican flashed a responsive smile that revealed a set of white teeth, small and regular as any in Hollywood. But when he answered his tone was serious.

"You are naturally puzzled, yet the fact is as I stated it. They are my friends, and it would have been excessively painful if I had been obliged to kill them to save my own life. Your timely arrival and assistance spared me that. You have rendered me a very great service, senor, which I will gladly repay if I should have the chance. Now you can render me another by not asking me to explain why friends should have seemed so—so unfriendly."

HE concluded the formal speech with a slight inclination of his body. Allan Steele didn't risk a bow, but he tried to make his nod polite.

"Oh, sure. Your affair, not mine. I shan't dream of asking questions out of turn."

"You speak Spanish very well, senor. Amazingly well for a North American." The black eyes were suddenly dark and cold. "Since that is so, you doubtless understood what that last fellow said to me."

"He called you a traitor," said Allan bluntly.

"Hardly a pleasant epithet when applied to a soldier in the service of his country! I can only assure you he and his comrades are laboring under a misapprehension about me." Then the smoldering anger left his eyes and the amusement returned. "A misapprehension I shall be at some pains to correct before they really do kill me!"

"Yes, I'd correct it if I were you, decidedly!"

"You see," said the officer reflectively, "they do not understand it is no longer possible, in this crazy world we live in today, to judge a man by his words, or even his actions. They will be sorry and ashamed when they learn how close they came to killing me in error." He glanced behind him and added musingly: "They did come close at that! I've had time to analyze their little stratagem."

Allan followed his gaze and grunted in surprise. For the first time he observed that the "bundle of rags" contained a human being. He was a small man, grizzled, unkempt and unshaven; hatless and barefoot, he was clothed simply in a cotton shirt and trousers.

"They wouldn't risk a shot for fear it might be heard and investigated," explained the soldier. "They thought the three of them could handle me with machetes, and were sure they could if I was on the ground while they were mounted. They knew I was lunching at a small hotel near here and that I am due in San Saba at 3 o'clock. So they caught this man—he is not quite right in his head, poor fellow—stunned him, and placed him here by the road. They knew I would see him and get down to examine him. It all worked out as expected, and when the moment arrived they charged out from behind their ambush—this cactus. Neat, eh?"

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

For Friday, March 27

This should be an auspicious time for pushing ahead on the strategies and subtle programs established the day before. This time with the cooperation of those whose aid is vital to major objectives. The situation is particularly favorable should the desire be in connection with community, public or group activities or in relation to diplomatic, political, fraternal or corporate bodies. It should be a time for pushing to such goals but without overenthusiasm.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of outstanding success and progress, with promotion, preferment and substantial support coming from those in place and power, who are won by novelty, originality, exceptional cleverness and well-organized strategies rather than by force, audacity, quarrels or litigation. Extravagance in outlay and conduct are not recommended.

A child born on this day should be able, ambitious for place, power and prestige, in which it will be supported from high places.

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you please tell me how to grill and broil meats and fish—also the proper utensils to use. I suffer with stomach ulcer and cannot eat fried foods. I can have them grilled or broiled. Could you give me a recipe for hard sugar candy?—Mrs. N. B., Allanburg.

ANSWER: Broiling or Grilling—The meat (or fish or vegetables or fruit) is cooked under or over or in front of an open fire or direct heat (usually the element or flame in the top of your oven—large ranges having a broiling oven). The food to be broiled is usually placed on a greased broiling rack (which usually comes with the stove and consists of an enamel or sheet tin pan which fits the oven just as the shelves do and a wire rack which fits on it) under the flame or heating unit. It should be started at a high heat, one side seared, then turned to sear other side, and heat may be reduced a little to prevent burning.

Best meats for broiling: Sirloin from baby beef, porterhouse, or T-bone steak, filet mignon, lamb chops—especially those with the kidney left in—finely, ground minced beef cakes spread with fat, port chops, "Frenched" tenderloin, veal chops.

If fish is to be broiled (which is an ideal way to do it), it should be first wiped with damp cloth then dried. Spread with oil, and sprinkle with a very little dusting of fine crumbs, and salt and pepper and paprika. Place under hot broiler, sear top side and let cook until golden without reducing heat (as you do for meat), then turn and do other side to golden. Fish breaks so easily you must not try to turn it more than once. Steaks and fillets of all tender fish may be broiled.

Hard Sugar Cookies.

Two-thirds cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Cream the shortening and mix well with the sugar, add the beaten eggs, then the flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Mix very well and let stand 30 minutes before rolling out. Roll and cut in any desired shape. Sprinkle with sugar before baking. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes.

QUESTION: I am a diabetic and I was wondering if you could give me a recipe for diabetic jam. I have looked through all of the books in the public library and as yet have been unsuccessful in securing one.

Would you also be good enough to tell me if boiling white beans three or four times lowers the starch content any? I am very fond of them and with the starch so high have been rather careful how many I eat. Thanking you in advance—Dorothy H.

ANSWER: I have other requests for jam for diabetics and recipes are almost impossible to find. What I usually advise you to do is to make grapefruit marmalade according to the following formula, and then to use it for a guide for making peach or berry or cherry or apple jam.

Grapefruit Marmalade for Diabetics.

Six firm grapefruit, 2 lemons, powdered saccharin-glycerine. 1. Remove entire pulp and put in separate dish. 2. Put seeds and fibrous tissues in separate dish and cover it with water and let stand overnight. 3. Cut up rind, and put in cold water to cover and let stand overnight. 4. Boil the seeds and fibrous pulp together for 20 minutes, then strain the juice into the grapefruit and lemon pulp. Add the rind and water in which it soaked and boil until rinds are tender and transparent—they should be sliced very thin. Then add just enough powdered saccharin to make it slightly bitter, then enough glycerin to sweeten it to taste. Pour into sterile jam jars and seal with paraffin.

Successive boilings do not reduce the starch content in beans.

I have not tried making jam with saccharin and glycerin but I have heard from readers who have followed this advice. Prepare any preferred fruit and boil down to jam consistency, then add saccharin until it is just barely bitter, then glycerin to give it the desired sweetness, and pour into sterile jars and seal with paraffin.

If you like this method I shall be glad to know.

A little pamphlet entitled "Diabetic Diet and Knox Sparkling Gelatine" is put out by the Knox Gelatine Laboratories in Johntown, N.Y. Doubtless you have many such pamphlets. Another source of diabetic recipes is "A Diabetic's Own Cook Book" which the local library would probably have.

QUESTION: I am enjoying so much your interesting write-ups and recipes. Would you mind telling me some time why a filling for a pie goes all soft, although following a recipe. It happens all too often. It always seems to happen when I put it in the oven to brown the meringue—over 300—and leave it in 20 minutes, as it cools the fillings go all soft. Looking forward to many more nice recipes.—Mrs. Finlay.

ANSWER: Filled pies with enough cornstarch or flour and eggs, all properly cooked should not go soft. The fault must be in your recipe.

I am giving you a good lemon pie filling which I can guarantee to you if you follow all the directions carefully. All measurements must be level.

Filling For Lemon Pie.

One cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon flour, 3 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup boiling water, juice and grated rind of 1½ lemons, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons sugar for meringue. Mix cornstarch, sugar, flour and salt very well, then pour over them the boiling water, stirring. Add melted butter and cook over hot water till thick and clear, for 30 minutes. Add lemon juice and rind and the slightly beaten yolks and cook 5 more minutes. Cool and turn into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made with the stiffly beaten whites, to which add the sugar when whites are beaten. Return to oven of 275 deg. Fahr. to brown meringue. Let pie cool at room temperature before serving.

If this is not the type of filling you want write again and I will send you whatever you specify.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLIE BROWN

Our good neighbors to the south have paid several great tributes, via the silver screen, to the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. It is too bad that in doing so they have tried to show their own countrymen in a rather poor light; and unjustly so, for surely every member of the Eagle Squadron cannot be the careless braggarts and wastrels recently portrayed by Tyrone Power and Ronald Reagan....Would it be too much to ask people to pick up and save the small odds and ends of metal which we sometimes see lying around the streets? The time may come when these will tip the scales....Of course women must be well-dressed, Mrs. Neilson! Could you make your best parliamentary speeches in an old house-dress? Think not.....Word comes of a lady near, but not in Peterborough, who thinks the world is coming to an end because, with gas rationing in effect, she cannot get in to Peterborough to get her hair done. Now, isn't that just too bad....Dried fruits, such as raisins, apricots, and prunes, make filling tid-bits when your sweet tooth begins gnawing, and are better for you than candy ....The Mrs. Winston Crurchill Fund is within $100 of its objective. Good work. We women must stick together....Still word comes of people who are stocking up on canned goods. Don't be such dithering idiots. There will be plenty to eat, even if it doesn't come out of a can quite so often as formerly The chief fault of Democracy is that it rests on the unstable fabric of human nature. Where the fabric is weak, Democracy falls down; and every short-sighted act of selfish stupidity, every wilful blindness to unpleasant fact, every complacent though born of self-satisfied wishful thinking is a weakness in the fabric....The tourist season is coming, and our friends from south of the border will be coming to visit us despite the gas ration. Let's greet them like real neighbors and show them where the really big fish can be found....Latest slogan is "What can I do today to make the world unsafe for Hitler?" The idea is sound, but Gosh! what a mouthful. What this country needs is fewer slogans and more action.

Knox Y.P.U.

Last night Mr. Bob Kitchen was guest at Knox People's Union. He gave a very interesting message on "Missionary Lights in a War-torn and Sin-torn World." Knox is looking forward to his next visit.

The meeting began with a sing-song led by Gladys Gerard. Marion Williamson rendered a very nice solo. Later Ken Kidd led the group in games. On Sunday evening there will be a fireside service at the home of Rev. H. J. Mahoney.

Dorothy Dunham Marries Ira Althouse

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in Stirling, Ontario, at the Rawdon United Church parsonage, when Dorothy Isabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham, of Rawdon township, was united in marriage to Ira Althouse, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Althouse of Havelock. Rev. James E. Beckel of Stirling officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a long white chiffon gown with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses and a bridal wreath of lily of the valley and carnations. Miss Bernice Dunham, of Wellman's Corners, sister of the bride, was her attendant and wore a pale blue street-length dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Wellington Althouse of Havelock was his brother's best man.

Miss Mina Dracup of Wellman's Corners played wedding music, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Frederick Beckett, also of Wellman's Corners, sang, "I Love You Truly."

The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely silver basket; to the bridesmaid a locket; to the best man a gold tie-pin and clip; to the soloist and pianist each a candle lamp.

The happy couple left for the bride's home, where a dinner was served by her mother, and later they left for a short honeymoon in Kingston and Smith's Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Althouse will live in Peterborough. The bride travelled in a blue dress and hat with matching accessories.

Mark St. W.M.S. March Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Mark Street Women's Missionary Society was held with the president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland in the chair for the opening exercises and business session. It was decided to have an Easter Thankoffering meeting one evening in April.

Mrs. A. Throop, leader of Group C, took charge of the program for the afternoon, opening with a hymn and the Apostles' Creed, repeated in unison. The theme for the month was the "The Covenant of Our Faith." The scripture lesson was given in four parts, "The Lord's Supper" as a covenant, by Mrs. Gordon Eason, as a memorial by Mrs. S. Matchett, a communion, by Mrs. J. Hunter, and as a sacrament by Mrs. W Hepburn.

Mrs. Hepburn sang a lovely solo on the theme of the scripture lesson. Silent prayer was followed by a solo by Mrs. R. Dooley, "Behold a Stranger at the Door."

Mrs. N. Hewitt gave an interesting talk on the amazing Chinese and the contribution they are making to the world Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Rowland led in prayer for our eastern countries. The meeting closed with a hymn, and a prayer by Mrs. Throop.

"Y" Members Aid British "Y" Through M.W.C.F.

At the "Y" Membership Night on Tuesday, when the representatives of the clubs, classes and organizations presented their contributions to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, the fund was enriched by $260.66, bringing the contributions thus far to a total of $1380.90; that is to say, within $120 of the objective of $1,500.

That is great work, when it is considered that it was raised almost entirely by voluntary subscription from individuals and organizations. "Y" members have given generously, according to their ability and outside organizations have not been slow to respond.

The girls, young and old, who made their contributions on Tuesday night will have the satisfaction of knowing that they have helped the British Y.W.C.A. in its great task of caring for the women of Britain. Not only for the women in the services, in the factories and on the farms; it must also help to provide shelter and help for the bombed out families, who have lost everything.

For in London the Y.W.C.A. has provided great communal dining halls, has found or provided living quarters for the families who have lost their homes, and has provided a constant supply of hot meals and drinks for the men and women who are fighting the fires and clearing away the debris. The same has been done in every city that has been bombed.

Such a task is far beyond the means of the British Association, or any other, to finance alone. It is up to the entire association to see that the British Y.W.C.A. is able to carry out its task.

A Pimple Covered Face Kills Many a Romance

The lives of many young people are made miserable by the breaking out of pimples, and you probably know of cases where a promising romance has been spoiled by those red, white, festering and pus filled sores on the face.
The trouble is not so much physical pain, but the mental suffering caused by the embarrassing disfigurement which very often makes the sufferer ashamed to go out in company.
The quickest way to get rid of pimples is to improve the general health by a thorough cleansing of the blood.
Burdock Blood Bitters helps to cleanse the blood and with the blood cleansed the complexion should clear up.

How To Pack Parcels For Overseas

By MARY MOORE

This piece is the result of me having one of my rare rages.

If you've ever packed an 11-pound box to send to a soldier boy overseas you know exactly how I felt.

Try to picture me in the dining-room with almost every imaginable item for an interesting box scattered over the dining-room table; the special cleated carton, the heavy glued tape, kleenex and peanuts in the shell for filling in the spaces; little cans of everything—virtually from soup to nuts.

But.. do you think I could get it all in to fill the carton (1) so it wouldn't shake (2) so it was not overweight (3) so that all the little "must" specials were included.

Well, I couldn't.

I packed and unpacked and repacked that thing so often that I wanted to scream so finally I left the whole business spread all over the table, and it being midnight, I went to bed.

Next morning I telephoned the Red Cross Society, the Library, the Post-Office and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and the low-down on what is allowed and how it is done is herewith printed in black and white to save you from getting a similar case of high blood pressure.

General Directions

1. It will save time, temper and energy if you mark the weight on every content to go in the box in very small stencilled figures. As you put each piece in the box make a column of the weights and when you get about 9½ pounds, stop. Cartons and fillers for spaces and wrappings will take up the additional 1½ pounds. Low cartons are easier to pack than deep ones.

2. Taboos: Don't send matches; don't send fresh food of any kind—this means fruits, and of course eggs. Hundreds of parcels were totally ruined by the eggs they contained, during the Christmas season (they are far from fresh when they arrive); don't send food in glass jars.

3. Do address the parcely properly. During one month of 1941, 18,000 parcels were bogged down at a base Post Office in England because they were improperly addressed or the wrappings had come undone. After spending the time, money and energy be sure your package is deliverable.

Details

1. Regarding Sugar: If you send sugar to the boys you must send it out of your own quota. An empty "flat-50" cigarette tin is ideal for cube sugar (but one lad said the felows always think it is cigarettes they are getting and are sadly let down to find it's sugar.)

2. The weight limit to Canadian soldiers or to New Zealand of Australia Air Foce boys you have befriended is 11 pounds. The rate is 12 cents per pound, which is half the usual rate.

The weight limit to British soldiers is 5 pounds (same as British civilians) and it goes at the same rate as parcels to Canadian boys.

Variety

In selecting the contents for an overseas parcel buy small packages. For instance if you are going to send cans of fruit or packages of anything, send the smallest size available; the boys themselves say that variety is much more interesting than a large quantity of one thing.

As far as actual nourishment is concerned you do not need to worry. The boys are not hungry, BUT they do welcome the luxuries. (In sending parcels to prisoners of war one should consider the calories and vitamin content, but what you send your boy in England can be considered extras.)

Think in terms of them sitting on the edge of their bunks divvying up their parcels. They want things they can eat in their fingers; Polish sausage in the hardest casing you can find; rye wafers and soda biscuits; canned butter; spready cheeses; hard cookies (don't send tender rolled cookies—they always break and crumble); fruit breads and cakes (see more about fruit breads below); homemade candy (more of this below too); cashews (every boy said these were favorites); cigarettes and pipe tobacco; handkerchiefs and sox (if the sox are for the Air Force Boys they must be Air Force blue); gum; soap, soap chips; shaving cream, tooth paste.

Razor Sharpeners need special mention. Boys who have a razor sharpener consider themselves lucky. If you have a sharpener you don't need to get blades every other week, besides they are hard to buy. A sharpener saves you money, too.

Little items that I though were especially desirable were 3 to 4 or 5-ounce cans of meat spreads; 6-oz. cans concentrated lemon juice and orange juice; small tins of Canadian salmon and lobster; dried prunes and apples; and if you wrap it well enough some of those delicatessen snacks like smoked salmon, and other little boneless smoked fish; To take up the "head space' 'in the top of a parcel, chocolate bars, tea bags, packs of cards, note paper, pencils, and concentrated malted milk and Ovaltine tablets are flat and very useful and desirable. The boys all like coffee powder.

(This idea does not belong in a parcel story, but one officer's wife told me she brings all her letters up to the weight limit by including small cellophane bags of soap chips, or tea in tehm.).

One of the items that received special praise was an Orange Loaf baker in a 1-lb. baking powder tin. It arrived moist and firm and intact and sliced perfectly and was eaten by three boys at one sitting with a ¼-lb. package of Baumert creese.

Orange Date Bread (about 4 tins).

Two cups bran, 2 cups white flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2/3 cup dates cut small, grated rind and juice of 2 oranges, ¾ cup milk, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted shortening (this should be butter if you can spare it). Sift the dry ingredients together, add the dates and rind, mix well, then add the milk and orange juice. Mix well and add well beaten egg an melted butter. Turn into well buttered 1-lb. baking powder tins, filling cans to not more than 2/3 full. Cover and steam three hours, and bake just long enough to dry off top. Recover to ship.

My Chicago correspondent (some of you already know "Garny") sent me this fudge recipe, saying "Grand for soldier boys because it stays so fresh."

Garny's Creamy Fudge.

Three cups sugar (there goes your week's ration), ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons cocoa, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons corn syrup, 4 teaspoons butter, 1 cup evaporated milk (not condensed milk), or 18 per cent. coffee cream. Stir until it starts cooking, then only enough to keep from sticking. Cook until soft ball will form in cold water for 232 deg. Fahr. Stand aside to cool until you can stand your hand on bottom of pan, then beat. Add nuts—about 1 cup; or raisins (sometimes I add raisins instead of nuts, but I put them in while fudge is very hot so as to puff them up). Pour into buttered pan or tin boxes and stick a maraschino cherry (well drained and dry) into every inch, so that when cut in inch squares there is a cherry showing in the middle of each piece.

If you read all this and what's more, heed it, your soldier boy will receive his parcel and it will be a dandy.

POPULAR SPRING COLOR

By ALICE ALDEN

GRAY SEEMS to be almost as popular this spring as that perennial favorite, navy blue. We note gray for sports or casual clothes, for afternoon things and for evening. Light gray is the color used for this very wearable and useful daytime ensemble worn by pretty Nancy Coleman. The soft gray wool dress, simply made, is accented with pink, black and gray plaid on either side of the center slide fastener. Pink jersey lines the collarless revers. The frock is topped with a full length coat of the same gray woollen, its severity tempered by a pearl-studded lapel ornament.

DOROTHY DIX

BOYS LIKE FEMININE GIRLS NOT HARUM-SCARUM TYPE

They Hate Slacks, Shorts and Too Much War Paint and Smoking

Dear Dorothy Dix—We, a group of average high school girls, have some questions that we would like to ask boys through your column. They are: Do boys like girls to wear slacks and shorts? Do they like girls to wear bandannas, or go hatless? Do they like long or short hair? Do they like girls to wear dirty sport shoes? Do they like formal or sport parties? Formal or sport clothes? Light make-ups or heavy ones? Ho much rouge and lipstick? And what about red fingernails? Do boys like large pocketbooks, big hat or dinky little ones, and what are their ideas on military clothes, such as capes and hats?

Do they like girls who will kiss them on the first or second date. Do they prefer girls who pet? What do they think of girls who do pet? Do they think girl of 17 or 18 should smoke? Do they like to see girls chew gum? Do they think it is cute for girls to talk in the movies? Do they think it is all right for girls to put on make-up in public? Do they feel embarrassed when the father of a girl one of them has asked out drives her part of the way when he has planned to go by street car? Will you please try to find out what boys think about these matters.

BEWILDERED HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS.

ANSWER: Well, daughters, you know men have no official schedule for judging girls, as they have for judging any other species of live stock. Every individual man has his own preferences about what he wants a girl to be and wear and look like, but I have submitted your questions to a group of college lads who are in your age class and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that their ideal is very much like their mothers', with certain modern alterations that brought her up to date, so to speak.

What the Boys Like

What I mean is that almost without exception they were strong for girls who looked feminine and who wore frills and furbelows instead of shorts or slacks. Only one boy thought that a girl looked cute when she was dressed up like a boy. The others thought she looked like their little brothers and lost all of her allure. That this maculine opinion of a girl getting herself up in masculine attire is generally borne out by the fact that the boys in camps have importuned the girls who come to entertain them to please put on their pretties frocks. They are tired of looking at khaki uniforms.

As to hair-dos, the boys had no especial preferences, but they liked hats, which they thought made a pretty frame for a girl's face. They were not strong for bandannas, which they thought made a girl look as if she had dressed in a hurry and hadn't taken time to comb her hair.

Nor did the stocking question bother them. But dirty sport shoes didn't make a hit because, no matter how slovenly a boy is, he always demands neatness and tidiness in a girl.

Object to Smoking

Most of the boys thought girls of 17 too young to smoke, and they were down on those who chewed gum in public because they thought it made them look too much like cows chewing their cud. They were as one in announcing that a girl who talked when they took her to the movies would never have a second date with them because they wanted to follow the picture and not listen to chatter.

They thought it the height of bad taste for a girl to make up in public. "How would a girl like it," they asked, "if we would take along our safety razors and shave while we were waiting to be served in a restaurant?" As for kissing and petting, "huh." "Of course, we will do it if a girl will stand for it, but we respect the girl most who won't stand for it and who makes us keep our hands in our pockets," they said.

In a word, girls, the boys liked a girl who wore pretty clothes, who made up artistically, who didn't use too much lipstick of perfume, who looked like a lady and acted like one, who was friendly without being prudish, who took the trouble to let them know they had a good time when they took them out but who didn't run after them. In short, they liked the girls they have always liked since the beginning of time, and that they will go on liking and marrying as long as girls try to be nice girls instead of hoodlums.

Problem of Lonesome Woman

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married for ten years and during this period we both have worked. At first we lived in a small town, but five years ago we moved to a city where we have made few friends on account of both of us being employed. Before we came to the city neither of us drank, but now because we are lonesome and bored both of us are drinking too much, I more than he. I get off from work earlier than my husband and at his suggestion I would wait for him in a tavern. The women who came in would shun me, but in time the men became attentive. This has led to trouble and my husband threatens to leave me if I don't quit going to this tavern. But if I don't go, what is there for me to do to pass the time while waiting for him? There are thousands of women in the same predicament that I am who have no children, whose husbands work late at night and who do not know how to pass the time. What is your suggestions?—Mrs. N. E. D.

ANSWER: My advice to you is to stop at once going to this tavern because you must realize, if you are at all honest with yourself, that you are acquiring the drink habit, that you are taking up with bad company.

There is no reason for any woman to be lonesome in these days when her country is calling for help and when there are so many avenues of occupation open to her. Go to any of the Red Cross headquarters or

NO CURE FOR BABY'S COLDS

. . . But You Can Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature to the fullest degree.

See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes which drag down vitality and resistance. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of the irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish . . . and in this way they encourage restful sleep. Used by thousands of Mothers for over 40 years, too, for teething fevers, constipation, colic and other simple baby ailments. Contain no stupefying narcotics or opiates. Get a package of Baby's Own Tablets today from your druggist. Only 25¢. If they fail to help, call your physician at once.

Plant Garden for All-Season Bloom

Perennials from Spring to Fall

Summer's cooler and sweeter when you have a lovely garden—and this one is easily grown.

It's a garden of perennials that comes up year after year, and blooms from spring to fall. Plant it along a porch or picket fence—or anywhere!

Your all-season bloom might start in spring with columbines and Oriental poppies—a triumphant burst of yellow and scarlet.

In hot summer, have cool chaste pastels—pink and white phlox, and blue harebells. And in autumn, your glorious, victorious purple asters, red-bronze chrysanthemums!

Most perennials like more sun than shade, so choose an open spot for yours. In planting, consider height; little harebells should be placed before taller phlox.

Water well after planting. When growth is under way, scratch in a little fertilizer before a rain and, AFTER a rain, lightly cultivate the soil.

Simple enough care for so much beauty! Our 32-page booklet tells all about raising garden perennials and annuals, bulbs, roses, vines, shrubs, herbs, trees, lawns. Diagrams right way to prepare soil and prune shrubs; explains what to do about plant pests.

For your copy of "How to Plant and Care for Your Garden" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A THRILL MULTIPLIED

BIDDING a grand slam at any time gives you a thrill, even if you don't happen to make your contract afterward. Bidding and making one which is doubled and redoubled piles on the thrills. But, for sheer unadulterated excitement, can you imagine doing that after one of your opponents had opened the auction with a forcing two bid? That would be the limit of something or other, and yet just such things can occur in this game of contract, to grip you with its appeal and hold you tighter than ever.

East's bidding of this deal is easy enough to understand, though plenty of players would not do it that way. South's is also understandable, after his partner called 3-No Trumps on his first chance to speak. Surely there must be enough strength of some kind in the North, in view of that bid, to make 6-Clubs or 6-Diamonds a perfectly sound sporting proposition.

When this reached North—Mrs. Olive Sutton, one of New York's most assiduous duplicate enthusiasts—she reasoned that, if her partner could bid a small slam lacking the ace of one of the named suits, her own club ace surely must make the grand slam safe, especially since she had such a gorgeous fit for the clubs. Also because her great spade length made it a moral certainty South was void of that suit.

The opening spade lead was ruffed, club A used as an entry for the diamond Q finesse, the diamond 4 was ruffed, heart 5 ruffed, diamond 8 ruffed, clubs dropped, and the hand was finished with set-up diamonds and trumps.

Guarding Canada's Coast Line, Navy Is Always Ready

"Night and day, in fair weather and in foul . . ." Standing at the stern of a corvette, a duffle-coated sailor of Canada's navy is ready to let go the depth charges beside him when the order comes. The corvette is the particular target of the U-Boats and vigilant eyes must keep on the alert in the zone of enemy operations. In the fog, a cable's length away, a sister corvette helps guard the convoy with its vital supplies.

Norwood Lodge Holds Jolly Ladies' Night

NORWOID, March 26 — (ENS). —The annual ladies' night of Norwood Masonic Lodge was held in the local Town Hall last week, with a full attendance of members, their families and visiting members of the Order and their families.

Wor. Bro. R. G. Lawlor and Rt. Wor. Bro. B. W. Squire composed the welcoming committee at the door. In a brief address the Master of the Lodge, Wor. Bro. D. F. Gibb, extended a hearty welcome, and called on V. Wor. Bro. E. P. Cuffe for a special welcome to the ladies.

Sixteen tables of euchre as well as bridge, crokinole and Chinese checkers were enjoyed during the first part of the evening. Prizewinners in the euchre included Miss Florence Brockies, Mrs. L. E. Nelson, William Renwick, and George Peoples. Mrs. T. P. Rork drew a prize in a competition for those playing other games. M. R. Callendar received a lucky cup prize, and J. F. Pearce a prize for being the oldest Mason present.

With Mrs. T. P. Rork at the piano, J. J. Stewart led in a singsong in which all joined. This was followed by two pleasing solos by Mrs. R. H. Gardiner "Danny Boy" and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," Mrs. Rork accompanist.

Using a microphone and amplifier Dr. A. R. Atkinson took charge of a quiz contest. Each contestant was awarded a candy silver dollar. More amusement was caused with a celery eating contest in which the contestants were expected to eat a stalk of celery without holding it in their hands. William Renwick, George Peoples, Gerald Baker, and L. E. Nelson were entries, and Mr. Nelson declared winner.

Mrs. J. E. Munroe, Mrs. Ralph Cuthbertson, and Mrs. Earl Hamblin were persuaded to take part in a "husband calling" contest, all being declared equally efficient.

Refreshments were served.

The regular meeting of the Willing Workers met at the home of Mrs. G. A. Hamblin, with 27 members present. In the absence of the president, the vice-president Marjorie Davies took charge. The girls handed in the work done by them since the last meeting, which consisted of a goodly number of articles of both sewing and knitting. A lengthy and interesting program was then given by a number of the girls, with Elenor Carleton and Shirley Hadley in charge. Popcorn was served by the hostess, Mrs. Hamblin.

The Reading Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cuffe, when two poems were under discussion. They were both read by E. P. Cuffe, the first being "Address to the Mummy" by Horace Smith, and the other Alice Duer Miller's "The White Cliffs."

At the conclusion of Mr. Cuffe's review Mrs. R. K. Tedford, with Mrs. T. P. Rork at the piano very appropriately sang "The White Cliffs of Dover."

Mrs. Cuffe served a dainty lunch, and Mrs. Tedford and Mrs. Rork favored the gathering with other musical numbers.

Jury Rules Tot's Death Accident

MARMORA, March 26—(ENS).—"Jean Rennie came to her death on Highway No. 7, west of North Hastings Avenue, in the village of Marmora on Friday, March 13, when struck by a motor car driven by Clarence McCoy of the township of Marmora, and we find that the cause of death was purely accidental and unavoidable." This was the verdict returned by the jury at the inquest conducted at the Council Chambers on Monday afternoon by Coroner Dr. F. J. Nickle of Madoc with Assistant Crown Attorney G. Robertson questioning witnesses.

First witness called was Godfrey Scott, photographer, who exhibited pictures of the scene of the fatality as well as of the car taken from different angles.

Details of the accident and evidence collected, were then submitted by Traffic Officer J. Hatch.

Dr. H. Crawford, succeeding witness testified that from the nature of the injuries, death would be almost instantaneous. William Pack told of hearing the brakes applied and then noticing the prostrate little form which he carried across the road.

Jean Vilneff spoke of being an eye-witness of the accident. She mentioned that the child left the curb and ran on to the highway, stopping to look round and then being struck.

Clarence McCoy, driver of the car, in his testimony, said he thought he had missed the little girl because he had swerved the car to avoid her.

As concluding witness, Constable W. D. Lavender corroborated much of the evidence previously submitted and added that a Hydro pole and sign might have momentarily prevented the little girl from seeing the approaching car.

The jury consisted of William R. Linn (foreman), William Shannon, Michael O'Connor, Charles Cronkright and Edward Dunlay.

1942 Not 1943

London, March 26 (CP)

IVAN MAISKY, Soviet Ambassador to Britain, said in a speech today that 1942 is the "decisive moment" for the United Nations and urged them to take the offensive immediately "if they really desire to achieve victory."

"The decisive place," he added, "is the front of the U.S.S.R."

"But the all-important thing is that the whole works of the general staffs must be imbued with one thought and one idea—1942, not 1943.

"If, as I strongly hope, the Allies will take this road, then the backbone of Hitlerite Germany will be broken this year."

The ambassador spoke at the presentation of decorations to four members of the R.A.F. who fought in Russia.

The four men decorated with the Order of Lenin were Wing Cmdr. Henry Ramsbottom - Isherwood, Sqdn. Ldr. Anthony Millett, Sqdn. Ldr. Anthony Rook, and PO. Charlton Haw.

25 Parcels Sent Hastings Boys

HASTINGS, March 26—(ENS).—Easter parcels for the Hastings boys overseas was the principal item on the Red Cross work agenda Tuesday afternoon. Twenty ladies were present, one of the largest turnouts in several weeks.

Each of the 25 parcels contained woollen goods, chocolate bars, gum, khaki handkerchiefs and jam. Mrs. Owen Phillips, one of the most industrious Red Cross workers and one who has a son serving in the Canadian forces overseas, explained: "Even though they may not receive the parcels for three months they'll certainly appreciate them."

After completing a quilt the ladies served refreshments and the proceeds of $3 will be used for Red Cross work.

Small Garage Fire.

Serious damage to electrical wiring and other appliances resulted from a fuse blowing at the garage of F. G. Stewart in Hastings.

A slight blaze near the fuse box was quickly extinguished but damage amounting to $25 was done to the wiring.

Y.P.S. Meets.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.S. were hosts to St. Georges Anglican Young People's Society at a well-attended joint meeting held Monday night. The visitors were welcomed by Mrs Basil Johnston, president of St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

Rev. D. K. Perrie read the Scripture lesson and delivered an interesting Biblical talk. "When the Boys Come Home," a patriotic song, was sung by Mrs. Reta Johnston. Other items on the program were: A reading by Frances Kennedy, a piano solo by Mrs. William McMullen. Both societies then took part in community singing. Rev. D. K. Perrie and Mrs. B. Johnston led in a short recreation period.

Cyril Blackburne of St. George's Y.P.S. moved a vote of thanks to the hosts, following which refreshments were served.

Trinity Church Y.P.S.

An 'open' quiz concerning current events and questions revelant to the war effort featured the Trinity United church Y.P.S. meeting Monday night. The quiz took the form of a radio program with Mrs. Iden Bonds, Jr., acting as master of ceremonies and Marjorie Scriver as announcer. Miss Jean Beavis was the ultimate winner after the consequences resulting from an incorrectly answered question proved very humorous. The Scripture lesson was read by Helen Fleming and the worship story, 'Lowly Service Dignified,' by Miss Muriel Oliver.

Leonard Metcalfe, the president, led in praper and the meeting concluded with a recreation period and the Nationa Anthem.

How You Can Help

Ottawa, March 26 (CP)

MUNITIONS MINISTER Howe, in his radio address last night on the oil and rubber situation, outlined his four-point program urged upon Canadians by the Dominion Government:—

1. Use your car only when absolutely necessary; keep your speed down to 40 miles per hour. Take great care of your tires.

"2. Share your car with your neighbors and fellow workers, so that a minimum number of cars may be on the road at any one time.

"3. When you are shopping, carry your purchases home in order to cut down deliveries by motor car.

"4. Whenever possible, walk to your work and your play. Stop using taxis, buses and street cars whenever you can so that these services may be used by those who really require them."

Using French Colonies

MONTREAL, March 26—(CP).—David S. S. Mackenzie, an Englishman long a resident of France and now a supporter of the Free French movement, speaking at a St. James Literary Society meeting here last night said that French colonies in the Caribbean are already being used by Germany as U-boat bases.

HAVELOCK

League Honors Miss Edna Haig

HAVELOCK, March 26 (ENS).—The Young People's League of the United Church met on Monday evening. The scripture lesson was read by Miss Mary Paige. A vocal solo, "Keep Me Singing," was beautifully rendered by Miss Margaret Johnson. Miss Ruth Wilkinson read an interesting poem, "Friendship Corner," and Miss Lucy Wing conducted a quiz contest with Miss ONeil and Reta Southward as captains. The former team was declared the winner. Miss O'Neil gave the top, "A New Order," in which she stressed that there could be no permanent peace in Europe until religious peace was obtained, and that Christianity would be the basis for new order for world brotherhood.

The highlight of the evening was in honoring one who has been a faithful member for over fifteen years, Miss Edna Haig. An address was read by the president, Miss Eileen Brisbin. Miss Haig thanked all her friends, and refreshments were served by the social committee, which closed this happy gathering.

Oil Cartel's Sellout One Of Many

Million Restitution Coming; Deal Means No Tires Till 1945

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—Thurman Arnold, Assistant United States Attorney General, proposed to a senate committee today a requirement that in the future all agreements between American and foreign industries be registered with a full explanation of their purpose set forth.

Arnold made the recommendation to the senate defence investigating committee as one means of preventing such cartel arrangements as that between the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and I. G. Farben of Germany, which Arnold previously testified had frustrated development of a synthetic rubber industry in this country.

In asking legislation to "supplement the present inadequacies of the law," Arnold said that disclosure of the relations between Standard and I. G. Farben should be regarded as 'a great educational lesson to the American people."

"I wish to point out and emphasize," he told the committee, "that Standard Oil is a guinea pig in this situation. It does not stand out alone. This sort of thing was going on in a large number of American industries.

"I do not think it is an extreme statement to say that in most of the basic war materials we find similar cartel agreement."

"Therefore, we would lose the point of this hearing if the committee simply denounced Standard Oil. We need Standard Oil, with its technicians and its organization, to help us win the war.

End Of A Trawler

LONDON, March 27—(CP)—Three of the Royal Navy's new motor gunboats, under the command of a Canadian officer, fought an engagement early today with a German armed trawler in the North Sea. The enemy ship was left in flames, sinking; the gunboats suffered no casualties or damage.

The commander was Lieut. J. D. Maitland, Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Brazil Jails 200 In Great Spy Roundup

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 27—(AP). — Brazilian officials moved swiftly to-day to stamp out the last traces of a gigantic Nazi spy ring centring in Rio de Janeiro after they arrested 200 alleged secret agents and seized four high-powered radio stations.

More arrests were promised as police pressed an investigation into the operations of an organization they said had been relaying military information to Berlin as a world clearing house for the German espionage system.

"The organization is not yet eradicated,'" said one source, "but it is hoped that this initial blow will lead to a cleanup of South American leaks to Berlin."

Among the 200 already under arrest, police said, are a German admiral and a number of other Nazi government and army officials who allegedly held key positions in the espionage network.

Also arrested were several Hungarians police reported had been operating small radio transmitters. These included Salomao Hyane, a former attache of the Hungarian Legation here, they said.

Police Chief Filinto Muller said the arrests were the result of a secret investigation started shortly after the outbreak of war in September, 1939.

A German Expert.

One radio station seized was located in fashionable Le Blon suburb in a private residence occupied by Niels Cristiensen, described officially as "one of the most famous German radio technicians."

Police said Cristiensen, who was taken into custody, was in daily communication with Berlin by means of his short-wave transmitter which had a range of 9,000 miles.

In Cristiensen's possession police said they found 11 detailed reports on vessels in Rio de Janeiro harbor, and additional secret information recorded on micro-film.

It was said daily reports had been sent to Berlin including information on movements of North American and British shipping as well sa other vital military data.

The wholesale arrests necessitated opening of a concentration camp on Flores Island in Rio de Janeiro harbor. Local jails already are crowded with suspected fifth columnists rounded up since Brazil severed relations with the Axis in January.

Police also raided a monastery of German Friars at Sao Francisco, in Bahia State, and seiged large quantities of propaganda material.

Blamey Chosen Australian Chief

CANBERRA, Australia, March 27—(CP)—Army Minister Francis Forde announced today that all of the Australian Imperial force which the government intended to bring back for defence of this continent already has returned, and that Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey has been appointed commander in chief of all Allied land forces in Australia under Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Gen. Blamey has arrived from the Middle East, where he was in command of Australian forces and Deputy Commander in Chief of all Allied forces in the Middle East.

Maj.-Gen. Sir James Morshead, who was knighted for his brilliant defence of Tobruk, has succeeded Gen. Blamey in the Middle East.

Gen. Blamey, who said Australians must be prepared to expect invasion and to do everything to prevent it, will meet Gen. MacArthur at the first possible moment.

He hailed Gen. MacArthur's appointment as Allied Supreme Commander as the only workable arrangement.

Boris Ready To Break With Russia

Will Send 200,000 Troops To Aid Says Berlin Report

LONDON, March 27—(CP). — A Daily Mail dispatch, quoting "reports emanating from Berlin" said today that King Boris of Bulgaria is about to break off relations with Russia in submission to German demands.

"Boris is also understood to have agreed to send 200,000 troops to assist German in her next drive," The Daily Mail continued.

"Bulgarian divisions are moving toward the southern froniter, particularly toward the lower Maritza Valley."

The direction of supposed Bulgarian troop movements jibes with rumors in other capitals that Hitler's apparent dickering with his Balkan satellites is a threat to Turkey.

It has been held that Slavic Bulgaria, racially and politically close to Russia, would be an unlikely source for reinforcements on the eastern front.

In Berne, dipomatic courses said Hitler was trying to manoeuvre Turkey into inaction against a Nazi Spring push toward the Caucasus, and—diplomacy failing—might have to use force.

Informed Balkan sources in Jerusalem reported all German troops available in southeast Europe had been concentrated in Bulgaria and Greece, including three divisions shifted from Yugoslavia to the Turkish border.

So He Ate Them

Toronto, March 27 (CP)

ANGELO SASSANO, 49-year-old restaurant employee was held up in a vacant lot early today by four gunmen and has two bullets in his stomach to prove it.

In Toronto General Hospital where a fluoroscope detected the live shells, Sassano told police the gunmen made him eat the bullets in their disappointment at finding him without cash.

Since losing $500 on a previous occasion to hold-up men Sassano said he never carried money home with him. Doctors said he is not expected to suffer ill effects.

Warming It Up

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP).—The United States War Department reported today that the Japanese, increasing the intensity of their aerial bombardment of Manila Bay harbor defences, made seven successive attacks on Corregidor in the last 24 hours, with the island under bombardment almost continuously from early morning until midnight Thursday.

Chinese Cut Off But Lines Hold At Toungoo

NEW DELHI, March 27.—(CP).—The presence of surface units of the Japanese fleet in the Indian ocean was announced to-day in a British communique from Burma where Japanese troops are said to be continuing heavy pressure against Chinese troops cut off but still holding Toungoo on the Rangoon-Mandalay road.

The war report said a Japanese cruiser and several destroyers had been sighted operating in waters around the Japanese-seized Andaman islands, within striking distance of the sealanes to Calcutta.

With the Irrawaddy front still relatively quiet, the Chinese at Toungoo apparently are bearing the brunt of the land assault.

The heaviest pressure was reported from the north-west where Japanese infiltration cut the Chinese advance force's route of withdrawal eight to 12 miles north of the town.

Throughout yesterday, the war report said, the Japanese continued heavy bombing.

Some shipping was bombed at an unidentified town last Tuesday. Two hits on raiders were reported by anti-aircraft gunners holding the town, described only as in "the river area."

Of the Irrawaddy front, where British and Indian forces guard the way to Burma oil fields guard the bulletin saiad "no reports have yet been received of contact with enemy columns mentioned in yesterday's communique."

These troops had been moving up the Irrawaddy valley.

The communique said that on the main road through Prome to the oil fields and India there had been no contact with the invaders north of Opho, which is 65 miles south of Prome.

HomeDefence Enlisting Far Too Low

Ralston Urges More Community Spirit To Round Out Ranks

By C R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP).—Defence Minister Ralston has called for a quickening of community spirit to stimulate enlistments in the "citizens'" army a d warned that compulsion will used if necessary to bolster reserve army strength.

He told the House of Commons last night that enlistments in this part-time home defence force are not satisfactory, but declared they should continue on a voluntary basis as long as possible.

At the same time he announced that the age limits for enlistment in the reserve force, sharply restricted only a few months ago, have been widened again by opening it to married men from 30 to 35 years old.

Previously the reserve has been open to men under 19 and between 35 and 50 years old. Col. Ralston expressed hope the widened age divisions would induce more men to prepare for possible necessity of protecting their homes and communities.

This discussion arose late last evening on Finance Minister Ilsley's resolution for a 2,000,000,000 war appropriation bill for the next fiscal year—including $997,000,000 for the army.

Quick Passage.

Earlier the House acceded to Mr. Ilsley's request made Wednesday that quick passage be given supplementary estimates for war and civilian estimates for the current year of $3,538,000; a supplementary war appropriation for the current year of $135,000,000 bringing the total for the year to $1,435,000,00; an interim war supply bill of $500,000,000 for the next fiscal year (part of the main $2,000,000,000 war appropriation bill), and interim supply for civilian purposes amounting to $38,805,000 to cover the first part of the next fiscal year pending passage of the main non-war estimates.

All these measures will go to the Senate for approval to-day and Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, Deputy of the Governor-General, will visit the Senate at six o'clock to-night to give royal assent.

In the Senate yesterday, third reading was given to two of the

Tea Cut Down

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP).—The War Production Board today ordered United States tea consumption cut in half to conserve dwindling tea supplies.

The order was intended, the board said, to stretch the stocks of tea on hand in this country on January 1—which, it was said, would have lasted six months unless restricted—to a full year's supply.

The order does not take into account tea received at a normal rate from the Far East during January and February.

Hot Spot Malta Downs 50 Planes, 26 Days

VALETTA, Malta, March 27—(CP)—The Axis has spent at least 50 planes and untold tons of bombs blasting this Mediterranean island since March 1, British authorities said today, but as far as knocking Malta out as a menace to enemy operations between Italy and Africa its efforts have been wasted.

Malta has been pounded almost ceaselessly day and night all this month. Its air alarms wailed 899 times from Dec. 1 to last Tuesday and enemy raiders were over it yesterday through daylight and into darkness.

Malta is only 56 miles south of Sicily—almost on Italy's home coast as measured by a warplane's flying time—and only 187 miles north of Africa on a straight line between Sicily and Libya.

Thus, relatively impregnable to air attack because of the many caverns in which its inhabitants can refuge from bombs, Malta affords Britain's aerial scouts a close look at Italy's home waters and the Axis' efforts to ship reinforcements to North Africa. It gives Britain a bomber base within close range of the Italian boot and a mid-Mediterranean naval haven.

The 50 planes lost by the Axis from March 1 through 26 are a minimum, counting only those confirmed and listed in communiques.

Many also could be listed as probably destroyed., so disabled they probably never reached home or damaged so badly they will be out of action for a long time.

Even as a communique was being issued last night, an intense bombardment still was in progress at Malta but it reported only some civilian damage and a few civilians killed and wounded.

Five Or Six Men Accosted Soldier On Simcoe Street Taking Him For 'Ride' In Car

Active Service Man Is Believed To Have Been Bound With Rope Slugged Over Head With Sandbag

With rope burns on his wrists and a contusion on his forehead, Pte. J. R. Wilson, an active service soldier in training at the local Military Training Centre, was found lying in an unconscious condition on Sherbrooke Street West at 9.30 o'clock Thursday night.

Military authorities and provincial police are investigating the story told by the soldier that he was accosted on Simcoe Street by five or six men in an automobile and that he does not remember anythin that happened after a couple of men got out of the automobile and approached him until he recovered consciousness several hours afterward in the military hospital at the camp.

According to medical opinion the man's condition and the marks found on him, especially the distinct rope burns on his wrists are consistent with the theory that his assailants had held him with a rope around his arms, that he had been slugged over the head with a sandbag and then dumped out of the car on the spot where he was found. The contents of Wilson's pocket, his wallet, handkerchief and other personal property were scattered around the ground near where the unconscious soldier was lying with his feet on the road and his head only a short distance away from a water-filled ditch.

A North Monaghan woman walking along Sherbrooke Street, west of Highway 28, found the injured man and telephoned to the Military Training Centre. Military, city and provincial police were quickly on the scene and Wilson was removed in a police car to the military hospital, where he did not recover consciousness for some hours after. He is still under medical care today.

Raid On Moresby Proves Flop; Troops Advance

CANBERRA, March 27—(CP).—Two Japanese bombers gave Port Moresby its 20th raid today, but one was shot down in flames by Allied fighter planes and the other was driven off before causing damage.

The attack on the key Allied outpost on the south coast of New Guinea was announced by Prime Minister John Curtin in a communique which said that United States and Australian bombers had struck anew at Kupang, Japanese-seized base in Netherlands Timor.

The communique said the attack on shipping in the harbor was driven home despite bad weather.

Japanese planes at Port Moresby tried to get through anti-aircraft fire to bomb an airdrome.

"Bombs were dropped but no casualties were caused and there was no damage," the communique said. "Two of our fighters intercepted one of the Japanese bombers. One of our pilots delivered two bursts which set an engine on fire. The other pilot then got in another two bursts, setting fire to the remaining engine and causing the enemy's plane to crash in flames."

Reports from Port Moresby said meanwhile the Japanese in New Guinea now were known to be in considerable force in the Markham valley, but that their advance had

Trains Kills One Hurts 2 In Car

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 27 (CP).—One man was fatally injured and two others hurt when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train a mile south of Niagara Falls this morning.

The dead man was Abraham Goosen, of Virgil, driver of the car, and the injured men, said to have good chances of recovery, are J. Kaethler and Erwin Dyck, also of Virgil.

The men were coming from work after a shift at the carborundum plant and apparently did not see the tra . The car was carried more than 200 yards and smashed to matchwood.

It was necessary to cut through the car to extricate the three men. Goosen died two hours after the crash without regaining consciousness, chief cause of death being a fractured skull. Coroner Dr. E. T. Kellab expects to hold an inquest.

It is understood all the men are married with families who live in the Mennonite settlement around Virgil, near Niagara-on-the-Lake. The injured were removed to the Niagara Falls General Hospital.

British Advance 40 Miles In Libya

CAIRO, March 27—(AP)—British patrols advanced 40 miles in Libya to inflict casualties on Axis troops in a fortified post at Halegh El Elebea, between El Mechili and Tmimi, British general headquarters announced today.

The raid was carried out the night of March 25-26.

The main force of Field Marshall Erwin Rommel's African army is strung out along the line between Tmimi and El Mechili. Halegh El Eleba is "about 40 miles from the nearest point in our advanced positions," the communique said.

Two German planes, one of which later crashed into the sea, were shot down by the anti-aircraft batteries at Tobruk. An Italian plane also was destroyed somewhere over the Libyan front.

No Hitler Provisions for the Year 1943

Nazi Gov't Admits Summer Campaign Likely To Provide Clue As To War's End

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Viewing the war from the standpoint of what the Allies have to do to beat the Axis, a succession of setbacks has sometimes caused gloomy reflections. But the other fellow also has his worries.

What, for instance, would be the retort of Hitler to the latest pronouncement of Prime Minister Churchill who declares the Allies can't lose this war except through their own fault or their own failuse to use their combined, overwhelming strength and to use their multiplying opportunities?

Again, would Hitler agree with the United States Assistant Secretary of State, A. A. Berle, that the summer of 1942 will make it plain that "the Nazi rulers of Germany have lost the war and have decreed their own ruin?

Or what would the Nazi chief say to Berle's further statement that "we now have information from sources inside Germany making it clear that the Germans hemselves know there can be but one end. The German people know, as we know, that no provision has been made by the Nazi government for the year 1943."

Hitler has the answers, for let none imagine that the mind which conceived all the deviltry that enabled him to govern Europe hasn't also figured out his chances of ultimate victory. Certainly up to the time of his attack on Russia he felt that the world was his. How now?

First, Hitler has made it clear that he agrees with the consensus of military experts that this probably is the decisive year of the conflict. That is, the fighting this spring and summer likely will give us a preview of the end.

Beyond that, the Nazi chief and his captains have acknowledged recently that they face a titanic task. Their appeals to their people show worry. Surely the best that Hitler claims in his heart is that he has a chance to win—a big gamble with the odds heavily against him.

By word and deed, Hitler has shown his agreement with the view that any hopes he has of winning the war must hang on two chances—the utter smashing of Britain by invasion, or the breaking through into the Caucasus or middle east to get fresh supplies, lack of which in themselves would spell defeat.

But invasion of Britain now, with the country set for the blow, would be an act of desperation which could scarcely succeed. Hitler recognizes that and seems to be heading for a breakthrough for those supplies.

Now Or Never

LONDON, March 27—(CP)—Military reports from Stockholm said tonight that Maj.-Gen. Fedyuninsky, assigned by the Russian command to raise the siege of Leningrad, has opened a "now or never" battle for his objective.

After a two-day assault, the drive was said to have thrown the Germans back eight miles on the broad sector east of Leningrad.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Moscow radio declared tonight that Russian troops had been landed from warships of the Red fleet behind the German battlefront in a big surprise movement on the far northern Murmansk front.

Another Home For 500,000

Room In Latin America For Crowded Puerto Ricans

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP)—A plan to move 500,000 Puerto Ricans from the over-populated United States possession in the Caribbean to five under-populated Latin American countries—if they want to go—is being laid before government and diplomatic officials here.

Such a move would affect directly one-fourth of the island's citizens.

It is being proposed by Emile Bataille of Newark, N.J., who, in 1939, was appointed by President Roosevelt as an advisor on settling European political refugees in British Guiana. Bataille also spent six years in Canada arranging for resettlement of refugee poles and Ukrainians. He has no official government connections.

Guy J. Swope, former governor of Puerto Rico who now is director of the division of territories, believes Bataille's plan is "logical and reasonable."

Ontario Surplus $100,000

Had Expected $9,743,063—Revenues Hold

TORONTO, March 27—(CP).—Drastic effect of the war upon Ontario's finances will be brought into clear relief when Premier Hepburn tables his budget in the Provincial Legislature next Thursday. It was learned to-day the surplus for the present fiscal year will total only $100,000 rather than the anticipated $9,743,063. For the year ending March 31, 1941, the province had a surplus of approximately $12,600,000—an all-time record.

It is expected the Premier, who is also Provincial Treasurer, will budget for only a nominal surplus next year.

Following the presentation of the budget, the Legislature will adjourn for Easter recess, reconvening April 7 after which date it will sit continually until it concludes its business. Prorogation is expected to take place either in the third week of April or before the end of that month.

There has been no particular drop in the province's revenues, but it is understood the outlay on capital charges was unusually heavy.

RUSSIANS WIN GREAT TANK BATTLE ON SOUTHWESTERN FRONT

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP)—Russia said today Red Army soldiers had recaptured another community in pre-thaw fighting on the central front, cut more deeply into Smolensk province and won a battle of tanks to bestride approaches of a large southwestern city.

(Reports reaching London declared the Germans were fortifying Kiev and blasting the Dnieper River ice on its eastern flank; that Russians had broken into Nazi defences around Gzatsk; that Red Air Force planes had heavily bombed survivors of the beleaguered German 16th Army at Staraya Russa.)

Tass announced that counter-attacking tanks, seeking to hold up the Red Army advance on "a big populated centre on the south-western front," were routed by Russian armored units and artillery after eight German machines had been destroyed and three captured.

"Our troops are now in the approache. to this important centre," the news agency said.

(Tass did not identify the city. The heaviest fighting south of Moscow recently has been reported about Orel, a German-held railroad town; Kharkov, the Donets basin industrial centre; and Taganrog, right anchor of the Germans' mainland line).

The regular mid-day communique of the Soviet information bureau reported Red army troops had wiped out more than 500 German officers and men on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow and said heavy fighting is continuing.

"In another sector, retreating under heavy pressure by our troops, the enemy left 450 dead on the battlefield," the bulletin said.

Grab 4 Counties in 2 Days

Russian dispatches said Red Army regulars, aided by highly-organized guerilla bands which killed 4.500 Germans in January and February, had gained full possession of 16 districts (counties) of Smolensk province, four in the last 48 hours. The operations are aimed at ultimate neutralization of the troops in Smolensk itself, 230 miles west of Moscow.

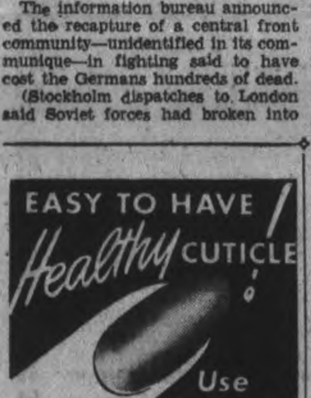
The information bureau announced the recapture of a central front community—unidentified in its communique—in fighting said to have cost the Germans hundreds of dead.

(Stockholm dispatches to London said Soviet forces had broken into Nazi positions around Gzhatsk, successor to conquered Mozhaisk as a key eastern base on the Moscow-Smolensk highway," after battling for weeks against some of the strongest field fortifications ever erected." Gzhatsk lies 100 miles west of Moscow.

(Bombing of the German 16th Army was reported by the BBC.

(Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, said the Germans were reported blasting the Dnieper River ice near Kiev, the occupied Ukrainian capital, and building fortifications. Many Kievites are preparing to join guerilla bands which already are active even inside the war-ravaged city, it said.

(The dispatch did not bring out against what force such precautions were taken, but for the present irregulars apparently were in mind. Red Army spearheads which knifed across the Donets Basin were still some 200 miles away when last reported.)



Youth Allowed To Go Suspended Sentence

In allowing a nineteen-year-old boy to go on suspended sentence on a charge of assaulting an elderly woman, Magistrate Langley in police court this morning warned the youth to abstain from the use of intoxicants.

"You see where it has got you in this case," he remarked to the accused. "This should be the turning point in your life."

Sentence was suspended for two years. One condition of the probation was that the boy should refrain from using liquor and stay out of beverage rooms.

"You are not legally entitled to be in such places anyway," the magistrate pointed out.

The accused had also to pay the costs of the court case, amounting to $15.

Carry-On Club Gives Help To War Victims

Earlier this week, the representative of the city and district British War Victims Fund, D. D. Brown at Keene sent in donations from that district to the fund, and this is followed in short order by a further contribution which is acknowledged today as coming from the "Carry-On Club" of that place in an amount of $10 to continue the good work and steady help which has come to the fund from district.

Ever since the fund was started, a small group of ladies known as the "Group of Four" have been working steadily in the interests of those needing help in Britain through this fund, and including today, for the last three times they have been joined by another lady who sits in at the regular meetings, so that it is now known as the Group of Four and One" and their regular contribution of $5 is listed today.

The box at Payne's Drug Store is included in this day's receipts, yielding $1.40 when collected by the secretary of the fund on Thursday.

Patrons at the dance to be held in the Collegiate gymnasium in connection with the opening broadcast of the Peterborough Station CHEX next Tuesday will have an opportunity to help along the work of the fund, for the cloak room facilities and refreshment booth will be operated by willing workers in its behalf.

Once again readers are reminded that every cent of money contributed to this fund goes over to Britain, there is no deduction for any of the small expenses, which must of necessity occur from time to time, and in the aggregate over the period which the fund has been operating amount to a worth-while contribution, these being given in the same spirit as are all services in the time necessary to manage the affairs of the fund, in the interests of the stricken people of this city and district been halted at the village of Nadzab.

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—United States War Production Board has 395 dollar-a-year men on its rolls—considerably more than the number on Feb. 10 when Director Donald Nelson ordered division heads to "terminate the appointments" of those failing to measure up to his newly-prescribed qualifications. Twenty-two have left the W.P.B. since that time. The reduction was more than offset, however, by addition of new jobs in connection with 24 industrial branches established this month.

This would place them 27 miles from Lae along the course of the Markham River.

The first Japanese landings on New Guinea occurred at Salamaua and Lae, 35 miles apart, March 8 and since then, Port Moresby reports said, a number of small emergency landing grounds have been established by the invaders.

It now is considered possible that Nadzab would be the site for a large central airdrome from which the Japanese would plan to start large-scale air operations aimed not only at Port Moresby, already heavily bombed, but also North Queensland bases and islands in Torres Strait.

Lae still is the main base for the Japanese but their planes and land forces apparently are dispersed over a wide area of occupied territory to scatter the targets which have been hammered heavily by United Nations planes in past weeks.

So far, there is no indication, however, that the Japanese have moved more than 10 miles from Salamaua and there is no evidence of them advancing to Port Moresby.

A notice in today's Commonwealth Gazette proclaimed emergency control over the whole of the northern territory, in which lies the important Port of Darwin.

Hitherto only some coastal areas of the territory had been under military control.

Oil Cartel

Will Pay Back Millions

"By the consent decree that company has indicated its willingness to make restitution in the sum of millions of dollars and at the cost of its future domination of the industry. We may well be grateful to that company for putting its arrangements in writing and thus to furnish an object lesson of the results of international cartels."

Arnold's testimony yesterday gave a picture of Germany's mechanized divisions rolling along on synthetic rubber made by an exclusive American process—a process which he said Standard had denied to American manufacturers almost without exception.

"I think this approaches treason," was the comment Chairman Harry Truman (Dem-Mo.) of the committee made on this situation.

All agreements with industries in foreign nations should be registered with a full explanation of their purpose, Arnold recommended.

Truman said yesterday he had no doubt that the Nazis had made prompt use of the American-discovered process which Arnold said Standard, its discoverer, had turned over to I. G. Farben before America entered the war. By this method, the committee was told, synthetic rubber which was better and cheaper than the Germans' was made from natural gasoline.

Means No Tires Till '45.

Truman said that, because of the delay in getting the synthetic rubber program started, there is little hope that tires can be produced with it for ordinary civilian uses until early in 1945. He said Standard will be called upon to produce 200,000 of 400,000 tons in the current program just getting started, with the remainder being manufactured by United States Rubber, Firestone, Goodyear and Goodrich.

Most of the production through 1943 and 1944 will be for military use, he said.

Citing a consent decree entered early this week in Federal District Court in New Jersey, Arnold said Standard now would be compelled to licence any one royalty free under the valuable synthetic rubber patents and must further make available the technical knowledge of how to operate these patents.

"I must confess," Arnold said in the portion of his statement to be put in the record to-day, "that I was reluctant to sign the decree because the decree does not have in it a provision allowing either the Attorney-General or the court to pass upon the future relaitons between I. G. Farben and Standard Oil...."

Arnold was recalled before the committee to-day to complete reading a lengthy prepared statement in which he charged Standard of New Jersey had "frustrated the creation of an American synthetic rubber industry" because of an agreement giving the German company a virtual right-of-way for manufacture of the product in return for concessions on oil and synthetic gasoline.

Arnold's disclosures were such that Truman told reporters he was convinced Standard had "held up the synthetic rubber program for its own welfare and benefit even after we got in the war."

"I think this approaches treason" the committee chairman rapped, "and I am goin to give the company officials an opportunity to explain why it isn't if they can."

Senator Homer Bone (Dem.-Wash.) said the Senate Patents Committee of which he is chairman, will begin hearings on April 13 on a Bill by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (Dem.-Wyoming) which would permit the Government to take over in wartime all patents such as those governing the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, Australia, March 27—(CP).—President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth and the Filipino War Cabinet have arrived in Australia to rejoin Gen. Douglas MacArthur, it was announced today.

A statement issued at headquarters here said

"President Quezon and the War Cabinet of the Commonwealth government of the Philippines are rejoining Gen. MacArthur in headquarters in Australia with the approval of both the American and the Australian governments."

Col. Legrande Diller, Gen. MacArthur's spokesman, added that the Quezon party already had arrived in Australia.

It was stated that since the beginning of the war Quezon had been exercising his governmental functions in close co-operation with Gen. MacArthur and had been located at the general's headquarters.

This arrangement will be continued it was explained.

The president was accompanied to Australia by his family as well as by members of his War Cabinet.

First Priority On Aid To Russia

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(AP) The White House disclosed today that President Roosevelt had ordered a first priority on shipments of war supplies to Russia and had told the War Production Board and the United States army and navy to release such supplies as soon as possible.

The President, in a letter to Rear-Admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping director, said he had found "that our protocol shipments to Russia are still far behind "and that he wished "to emphasize again to you that the meaning of the Russian protocol shall have a first priority in shipping."

In a press conference several weeks ago, the President had noted that shipments to Russia had been lagging since the United States entered the war, but he said that the American Government expected to catch up by March 1. His letter to Land indicated that this objective had not been reached.

RAF Smashes East Coast Aerial Stab

Continues Plastering Ruhr Areas With 2-Ton Bombs

LONDON, March 27 —(CP)—A German air formation, flying at great height and hidden in haze, made a brief thrust toward the southeast coast today in the wake of a British raid against the German Ruhr industrial area overnight which was authoritatively described as "another heavy attack."

R.A.F. fighters rose swiftly to intercept the Germans and bursts of Cannon fire were heard. Then the raiders turned back toward bases in German-occupied France. The sound of the motors indicated there was a considerable number of planes in the formation.

The British aerial offensive apparently was well under way again.

The raiding force last night reportedly included four-engine bombers capable of carrying tremendous two-ton explosives.

The plastering they gave the Ruhr was described unofficially as on much the same scale as the night before when perhaps 250 heavy bombers capable of carrying tremendous two-ton explosives.

The new assaults were a continuation of an almost non-stop British aerial offensive launched the night before when clearing weather freed the RAF's long-grounded heavy bomber squadrons.

Mightiest of Raids

Starting Wednesday night when hundreds of bombers raided the Ruhr area in one of the mightiest air stabs yet made on Germany, the Royal Air Force also flew over France and Italy and continued through daylight with a bombardment of German shipping in the report of Le Havre. Many Canadians were in the force that attacked the Ruhr and St. Nazaire, Nazi submarine base on the French coast.

By returning again to the Ruhr last night, thhe R.A.F. pounded at a centre of German war industries which already had been heavily battered in recent attacks.

The air ministry announced today that daylight reconnaissance planes over Cologne several days after the fierce March 13 raid there had brought home pictures showing even more damage than was believed at first.

BUS PATRONS— We Ask Your Cooperation!

The rubber shortage and rationing of gasoline make it necessary for us to carry an increase in passenger loads, never experienced before.

We must prepare ourselves to fulfill this obligation and are soliciting your help in this matter. Our first obligation is to see that all factory and office workers, directly or indirectly connected with the war industry, must get to or from their places of employment. We have only a limited number of buses on hand and only by the sanction of the Department of Munitions and Supply can we get more, if they are available. We are conserving our tires as much as possible hoping our supply will not be cut off in the future and every crowded bus is a serious strain on our tires.

Here Is Our Suggestion Regarding Shopping Hours—

We feel you will consider it a duty to the war worker to follow it through. In order to give the factory employee service home at noon and at five and six p.m. we suggest you confine your shopping hours from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:20 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Peterborough Business Men's Association have endorsed the above suggestion.

SEVEN OSHAWA YOUTHS FACE 42 CHARGES IN COBOURG COURT

Youth Aged 22 Has Record Back To 1932

COBOURG, March 27.—(ENS).—Forty-two charges resulting from weeks of intense police investigation were read against seven Oshawa youths yesterday in one of the longest sessions of police court ever seen in Cobourg. The court opened in the afternoon and a night session was necessary to wind up the cases. The accused men were Mike Zakarow, William Zabihoyle, Fred Cowle, Dave Greenburg, Steve Rysak and George Shiblock who were remanded for sentence and Cameron Murray who was allowed on suspended sentence. The investigations were carried out by Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg, assisted by Inspector W. Dawn and Detective Sergeant H. Flintoff of Oshawa.

List of Charges.

The following charges were read against Mike Zakarow, to which he pleaded guilty:

Toronto, Feb. 6, car theft; Toronto Jan. 13, car theft; Toronto Dec. 29, 1941, car theft; Jan. 4, Uxbridge attempted breaking and entering; Orono Feb. 8 possession of burglary tool; Campbellford Feb. 1, theft of gas; Colobrne, Feb. 17, breaking and entering Griffis drug store, theft of goods valued at $75; Ontario county, theft of license pitaes; Jackson's Point, Feb. 14, breaking and entering Sidore's store; Feb. 14, theft of gas; Dec. 30, 1941, Sunderland, breaking and entering and theft at Udora, Henderson's store theft of goods valued at $100; Georgina township, Feb. 26, theft of gas; Port Perry Jan. 4, attempted breaking and entering; Cannington Feb. 6, two charges of breaking and entering and theft; Hastings, Jan. 18, breaking and entering Coughlin's drug store. Zakarow, whose age is 22, has a record dating back to 1932, the court was informed.

"It reads like a gangster story in the United States." commented Crown Attorney Harry Deyman to the magistrate. "He led police on a merry dance for a month and a half and now he has to pay the piper. The pentitentiary seems to be the only place for him."

Magistrate R. B. Baxter remanded Zakarow until Monday morning for sentence.

Zabihoyl had two charges against him to which he pleaded guilty, the charges being Orono, Feb. 14, breaking and entering C. Frost's store and Stouffville, Jan. 17, breaking and entering and theft of Carswell's store where $821.50 in ladies' wear were stolen. The accused also had an extensive record. Aged 27 years and married, he asked the clemency of the court because of his children and his wife.

"You were not very considerate of your wife in the past, as I see from your record that you were charged with assaulting her in 1938," commented the magistrate in remanding him until Monday for sentence.

Suspended

Cameron Murray, age 22, was allowed on suspended sentence for two years subject to someone going his bond for good behavior. T. Creighton of Oshawa, his solicitor, pointed out that the former employer of the accused, was willing to take him back and give him another chance to make good. Cameron pleaded guilty to the charges in connection with Orono, Stouffville, Jackson's Point, Hastings and Georgina township.

Fred Cowle, who was represented by F. C. Richardson of Cobourg, elected trial by magistrate but his plea was reserved and he was remanded also until Monday. He was charged with the offences at Orono, Campbellford, Colborne, Ontario County, Jackson's Point, Udora and Canning.

Ryzak pleaded guilty in connection with the charges at Colborne, Sunderland, Cannington, Hastings, Uxbridge and Port Perry.

Siblock pleaded guilty to the thefts at Orono, Stouffville and Sunderland, and Greenburg to the Colborne charge.

Afternoon Tea Helps Salvation Army

PORT HOPE, March 27 (ENS).—The ladies of the Salvation Army Home League for the Red Shield held a very successful afternoon tea and display of work in the Salvation Army hall on Thursday afternoon with a good crowd present.

Mrs. Davidson was at the door. Many of the articles on display had been donated by various groups, but over one hundred articles had been knit by this group, of which Mrs. Griffith is convener of the wool with Mrs. Bone and Mrs. Rowe as assistants. Wool from this committee is given out to members and friends in the surrounding country who help with the knitting.

Arctic Explorer Addresses Canadian Club

PORT HOPE, March 27.—(ENS)—A most interesting and outstanding speaker was the guest of the Canadian Club on Thursday, March 26, in the library hall in the person of Mr. Richard Finnie.

Mrs. J. A. V. Fraser, president of the Canadian Club, introduced the speaker, who spoke on "Canada Moves North." Mr. Finnie, who is the author of "Lure of the North" and the forthcoming "Canada Moves North," which will be published next month, is a photographic historian to the Canadian Government specializing in the Arctic and Sub Arctic. Mr. Finnie has flown over the magnetic pole and visited the most northerly outposts of the Domnion.

In the making of the film which was shown at Canadian Club, Mr. Finnie travelled 10,000 miles and spent six months in making this film in the Mackenzie River district.

This film which shows the advance of civilization in the Mackenzie River district from the early days of the fur trade to the introduction of airplanes. It also showed the opening up of oil wells, radium and gold mines and the building of the sub Arctic towns.

Radium Mines

The film showed the interwoven effects of the white man's penetration on the northern Indians and Eskimos.

Of great interest to the Port Hope audience was the showing of the Eldorado Mines at Great Bear Lake just thirty miles south of the Arctic circle. A great deal of the film was centred around Great Bear Lake and navigation problems of this north country over the river rapids and now the great help the airplane is in carrying in supplies and the taking out of the spoils of the north.

Many pictures were also shown of Yellowknife, the most northerly town in the North West Territories and the modern supplies that are available to the Indians and Eskimos as well as the white population.

Mrs. Fraser thanked Mr. Finnie for his most instructive address and the evening was brought to a close with "God Save the King."

United Church W.A. Hears Interesting Talk

PORT HOPE, March 27 (ENS)—The monthly meeting of the United Church W.A. met on Thursday afternoon in charge of Group 3 under the leadership of Mrs. Whetstone.

This being the Easter meeting the Easter story was the scripture reading by Mrs. Hawkins, while the prayer was given by Mrs. Wakely.

Mrs. Fred Douglas gave a most interesting talk centered around Easter and the approach of Spring, which gives to everything, nature especially, a new cycle of living. Mrs. Douglas remarked how the sacrifices of Lent and the emblems of Easter symbolize all the sadness of this life. As one example, the speaker took the Hallelujah Chorus by Handel, and the expression that was put forth in this beautiful hymn.

A beautiful solo, "Leave It With Him," by Ellis, was given by Mrs. Bert Broadbent, accompanied by Mrs. Roy Dayman.

Mrs. E. B. Hyne, the association president, then took the chair for the business session. The treasurer, Mrs. Reeve, in her report, said that the hostess tea, which was held last week was most successful, making the sum of $56.05.

Group No. 3 had a very nice table of homemade cooking for sale at this meeting.

It was reported that Mrs. J. Y. Kellough was the association representative on the Missionary and Maintenance board of the church.

Veterans Guard Officer Honored By Men

PORT HOPE, March 27 (ENS).—Lieut. D. K. Parr, officer commanding No. 3 Platoon, 32nd Reserve Company Veterans' Guard of Canada, was pleasantly surprised on Thursday night, March 26, when after the usual training period was completed, the boys gathered around the festive board, which seemed to drop out of the blue and presented him with a beautiful pipe, tobacco pouch and Ronson lighter.

No. 3 Platoon is planning a minesweeper dance on April 24, with Russ Creighton's orchestra, the proceeds of which will be given for comforts of H.M.C.S. Port Hope.

The proceeds of these dances usually are donated to supplying smokes for the boys overseas.

Lieut. Parr is leaving this platoon to join the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps at Kingston. He will be greatly missed by all, having managed the platoon for a period of two years.

Howard's Chief Upsets Dopsters

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 27 — (AP). — Maxwell Howard's rougish seven-year-old The Chief yesterday snapped out of an extended slump and jumped right back into prominence with a driving half length triumph in the six furlong Coral Reef Purse. The unreliable gelding, a puzzle even to his own stable, was in a running mood on this occasion, as attested by his time of 1:10 3-5, only three-fifths of a second slower than the track mark. The son of Pennant was a $14.70 for two chance in the field of eight fleet sprinters.

Doublrab, representing F. Campagna and a strong choice, bowed in the last few strides, but saved second money by two lengths from W. Rold's much improved Hour Al. The smallest crowd of the meeting —5,565—viewed the sport.

The Chief has been an erratic fellow ever since his brilliant campaign as a three-year-old. At that age, he won a Brooklyn Handicap and a Dwyer Stakes, making many fans forget his more illustrious stablemate, Stagehand, at least temporarily. He has since become cunning, only occasionally taking it into his head to run and reveal his oldtime speed and class.

Ted Atkinson found a way to make the veteran run yesterday afternoon. He broke the Howard color-bearer well from the outside, then allowed the unpredictable old fellow to rate along in fourth place while Doublrab and Hour Al, the speed demons, battled closely for the lead, followed by Daily Delivery. The Chief began to gain near the top of the stretch. He whirled up on the outside and got to the front a few strides from the finish.

And Now—A Sixth Column

Swiftly, easily, insidiously as the activity which it described, the expression "Fifth Column" crept into the English language. Now it seems, we have a "Sixth Column" and no less a person than President Roosevelt has given it its name. The Sixth Column is made up of those who spread rumor and gossip and defeatism, and unconsciously help the Fifth Column in its work.

The President has described the Sixth Column in detail, and his words on the subject deserve close examination. There are four main categories of Sixth Columnists, and the first of these is the Gossipers, those self-important folk who like to tell startling news about the armed forces, their movements, their equipment or lack of it and of quarrels in high places. Much of what the gossips tell began with Fifth Columnists.

The second category includes all brands of Sceptics, who pride themselves on their level-headedness and their ability to look facts in the face. They know that the United Nations cannot possibly win the war and they will prove it to anyone who will listen. Sometimes they admit that only a miracle can save us, hastily adding that they do not believe in miracles. They are the people, too, who like to point out the obvious weaknesses of democracy; they are the people who think that maybe the guidance of a Strong Hand would not be a bad thing in our own country. They are the people who thing that to be always swimming against the stream is a sign of superior intelligence. Their scepticism is not grounded in a search for truth but in a belief that other people are always wrong.

The third group is made up of Fault-Finders, and this part of the Sixth Column is particularly well represented in Canada. These are the people who, in the press and in their private capacity, consistently denigate the Government and belittle its direction of the war effort. These are usually disgruntled folk with a political axe to grind. They are the people who would allow thinly disguised racial, political and religious hatred to split Canadian unity; they generally have mentalities more suited to the nineteenth, and even the eighteenth, than to the twentieth century and this, oddly enough, is because they have a faulty knowledge of history.

The last group, according to the President, is the Let-George-do-it-crowd. Seeing signs of war activity about them they feel that they need make no personal effort. These are generally political slumberers, whose interests are confined to their personal affairs. Little can be done with them but they must be kept from infecting others.

These are the four branches of the Sixth Column service as outlined by the President of the United States. We have a Sixth Column in Canada which works with especial virulence because of our small population and our national tendency toward pessimism. Let us be awake to the danger. Let us fight the Sixth Column in public and private whenever we encounter it.

Soaking The Rich

A recent calculation in Canadian Business shows that if all personal income in this country in excess of $10,000 a year were confiscated the revenue would be only two per cent. of Canada's total requirements. This throws an interesting light on the economic theories of those who, from time to time, send up a cry for this or some similar measure. The fact of the matter is that possessors of large incomes are already taxed heavily, and much of their wealth is contributed by them to war charities and to such funds as the Victory Loan. As long as a country works under a capitalistic system the popular game of soaking the rich must be played with circumspection, as there is otherwise serious danger that the goose which lays the golden eggs may be slain by the geese whose eggs are marketable at a very modest price.

Many excellent works in this country are maintained by a system of begging, and the generous contributions of wealthy men and women make the begging considerably easier than it would otherwise be. If the power to give generously is taken from the rich—if, in fact, they are able to give no more than the rest of us—these good works will either have to cease, or be supported by the Government, who will, in turn, tax us all more heavily.

The nature of wealth is apparently imperfectly understood by some of our amateur reformers. Wealth does not exist in the void; it is always somebody's property, and the personal element cannot be divorced from it. Wealthy people usually have a strong sense of responsibility and their contributions to good works are many and large. There can be little doubt that they take satisfaction in their large contributions, but they would hardly be human if they did not. They spend large sums in keeping a certain state, but what would we think of them if they did not? The behaviour of the rich is often ostentatious and tiresome, but the poor can be equally tiresome, and for no better reason. If we reduce the incomes of our rich without raising the incomes of our poor, we shall find ourselves in a pretty pickle, for we shall no longer have the advantage of public benefactors and the poor will be worse off than ever.

Reforms of the economic system, if they are to be effected piecemeal, must be approached with the utmost caution. The desire to soak the rich may be a natural one, but we must be very careful how we do it for if we soak them too hard the blow will rebound.

Will Menzies Follow Casey?

The storm aroused by Prime Minister Churchill's snatching of Robert Casey, the Australian Minister to Washington, still rumbles in the Antipodes. The press there has been chewing the bitter cud of recrimination for the past week. Probably the most reasonable view is that expressed by the Melbourne Sun, which says: "The whole business seems to have been handled with surprising feebleness. Either Curtain should have refused to release Casey, or should have released him in better grace." That sums the matter up very neatly.

Mr. Casey, the ravished Ganymede of the incident, has very wisely said nothing. He is now in the British War Cabinet, and presumably he is not averse from the position which he holds. Australia's problem is to find a successor for him at Washington. Mr. Churchill, who is nothing if not helpful, has suggested to Canberra that a former premier, Robert G. Menzies, might be welcomed by the Americans and, remembering the affection which Mr. Menzies won on his recent visit to the U.S., we doubt is Australia could find a better man for this exacting job.

Rubber a Real Problem

In spite of the action which the Government has taken in the matter of automobile tires it is doubtful if the Canadian public realizes the seriousness of the situation regarding rubber. The greatest rubber-producing area in the world now lies in the hands of our enemies, assuring them of a plentiful supply as soon as they can repair the damage done to refineries. We, on the contrary, must rely on present stocks and on such rubber as we can get from the secondary sources still available to us. We will make synthetic rubber, but it will be some time before we can produce it in quantity and when we do it will be exclusively for military use.

Much rubber which is now in the hands of manufacturers of non-essential goods will be reclaimed, and we may bid farewell to rubber soles and heels for our shoes, hot water bottles for our beds, hockey pucks, tennis and lacrosse balls, fly swatters, garden hose, and rubber sheeting and matting for some time. This will be no great hardship. We managed very well without these things for several centuries and we can manage without them again.

Probably there will be drives for the collection of rubber scrap within a few months, and we shall be expected to give up our goloshes, our waders and other rubber goods which we have on hand. We must do so willingly and promptly. Most people still think of war as a contest won by the best men, but that is an outsworn concept. The best of men are powerless without the proper supplies, and rubber is vital in modern war. We must not allow the shortage of rubber to turn the balance against us.

Ingenuity And Surprise

In order to win this war it is not merely necessary that we should have machines which are as good as those of the enemy; ours must be better. The concept of "as good" and "as many" is a lazy one. What we must have is ingenuity and surprise superior to anything which the enemy can evolve.

This is not an impossible demand. The Axis has given all its power for years to the improvement of its machines and the evolution of new and surprising methods of warfare. We now know most of their machines, and their surprises surprise no longer. But we, on the other hand, are just beginning to evolve new weapons and our reservoir of nasty surprises is as yet untapped. Canada has never lacked mechanical ingenuity or inventive spirit and there is no reason to believe that we cannot do first-rate work in this direction.

A special board has been appointed to deal with this matter, headed by Victor Sifton, the Master of the Ordnance. Mr. Sifton has distinguished himself in war and in organization; he is also one of the most enlightened publishers in this country. The new board could not have a better head and we shall expect great things of it.

An Unnecessary Fuss

The recent brief passage between Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain and Prime Minister Curtin of Australia has not been an edifying spectacle. Mr. Robert Casey, the apple of discord between the two, must have held his breath for a few hours. From such information as is available, it appears that Mr. Curtin was the man who turned a misunderstanding into a disagreement.

There are many excuses to be offered for his behaviour. At present he bears a heavy burden; he is doing his best to unite Australia for total war, and despite the willingness of the Australian people to do whatever is best, a Premier with a majority of one seat in Parliament must find union difficult to achieve. Mr. Casey is one of his best men and Mr. Casey was in Washington doing a very big job for Australia. When Mr. Churchill somewhat high-handedly asked for Mr. Casey for Imperial use, and when a delayed message caused his demand to reach Mr. Curtin after the appointment had been announced, only a man of superhuman self-possession and tact could have deal with the matter to everyone's satisfaction.

At present we have a right to demand superhuman self-possession and tact from our leaders and Mr. Curtin's behaviour left much to be desired. He made a fuss and called Mr. Churchill a Tory and generally behaved badly. His perturbation is understandable and in normal times would be excusable, but these are not normal times. It would have been better had he counted ten, in days, before he spoke.

It must be clear that, as a member of the War Cabinet, Mr. Casey will be of the greatest value to Australia. He does not, by reason of his changed status, become a Little Englander, abandoning his homeland to her fate. From what we know of Mr. Casey he will beat the Australian drum pretty vigorously in the War Cabinet. The incident was annoying and the action of the British Premier high-handed, but at present we cannot all stand on our dignities at once and, above all, we cannot afford to show any chinks in our armor to the Axis.

Hedy Lamarr is to be married; the only disaster now left is for Lana Turner to take up wearing smocks.

If Sir Stafford Cripps can settle India's problems in two weeks it might be a good plan to let him spend a fortnight in Ireland.

The Japanese maintain that the Allies are waging a war of hate. Whereas the Japs just want to love everybody to death.

It is predicted that by the end of this year pleasure driving in Canada will be reduced by 75 per cent. And in Germany it is an internment camp offence to travel on the train for pleasure. Whoever is winning this war, pleasure is certainly losing.

A DREAMER

Here lies a little boy who made believe;
Who found in sea and city, hill and star,
What wise men said were not; who lived to weave
Dream warp and woof more fair than things that are.
He made believe that heavy toil and stress
Were only play, and sang the while he wrought;
He made believe that wealth and fame are less
Than faith and truth—that love cannot be bought;
That honor lives; that far beyond the goal
That lures our eyes, to nobler ports we steer;
That grief was meant to forge the living soul,
And death itself is not for men to fear.
At last he made believe his play was played;
A kindly Hand the darkening curtain drew.
So well he made believe he nearly made
The world believe his make-believes were true.

In the Praise Of Indolence

THERE appeared in some of the newspapers on Sunday an interesting paragraph:

The man who for 25 years went to bed every year on November 1 and did not get up again until the spring, because cold gave him a stomach-ache, has died. He was Arthur Gehrke, a tavern-keeper at Watertown, Wisconsin.

As I read this — for it was a cold January morning—I could not help wondering whether or not I envied the Watertown tavern-keeper apart from his stomach-ache. "Even," I asked myself, "if he was a fraud and the pain winter gave him was not in the stomach but in the neck, would I like to imitate him and retire into a state of hibernation for three or, perhaps, four months in the year?" As one who has always been acutely conscious of the unpleasantness of getting up in the morning, I did not find the question immediately easy to answer. To lie in bed day after day, week after week, month after month, till the cold is past—if one had private means, one might well do worse with one's money. After all, to steal even an extra hour in bed in the morning is an admitted luxury. How much better to steal an extra month or a quarter of a year!

THERE are arguments on the other side, however. One has heard of several wise men who lay late in the morning; but one has never heard of a wise man who, being in good health, lay in bed for three months on end. There have been many prosecutions in England of men who persisted in lying in bed, and none of them was a Socrates. It is true that lying in bed is not a criminal offence, but the law finds a means of discouraging the lie-abed by accusing him of other things, such as neglecting his dwelling or his family through indolence. Thus an honest sluggard was some time ago charged with keeping his dwelling "in an untenantlike manner," and it was stated in evidence that "he had made a sundial of his bedroom wall so that he could lie in bed and tell the time." Obviously he was a man of some scientific curiosity—a disinterested student of the mystery of time, who wished to observe the hours as they passed without any selfish desire to know when it was time to get up. But the law pays little heed to a man's motives, and he had to pay as heavily for a lying in bed as if he had manufactured a fraudulent food for children.

Many other cases of strong-willed men who take to their beds and refuse to leave them are on record. There was the stevedore, for example, who, though in the best of health, went to bed and remained there for a year, at the end of which he became ill and had to be carried off to hospital. At the inquest the coroner, rightly or wrongly, declared that he died of an affection of the lungs due to his being so long in bed. It is clear from this, at least, that the bed of the sluggard is not, as many think, a bed of roses—that the sluggard is a man who enthusiastically follows Nietzsche's advice to live dangerously. The perils of the pillow are not generally understood except by the moralists.

EVEN SO, I do not commend the blanketed life of sloth. As I have said, no wise man has ever voluntarily lived it; and, apart from this, what can we think of a man who, in order to avoid the cold, stays in bed only for the winter? If the chief object is to avoid the cold, how many Easters and Whitsuntides and summer holidays one would have to spend in one's bedroom! The only way to be sure of avoiding the cold in England is to stay in one's bedroom all the year round, and even then draughts will come seeping in as in a railway compartment in which the windows are shut.

I am inclined to agree with Sir Max Beerbohm that, if one lies long in bed, one should do this, not for the utilitarian purpose of avoiding bad weather, but for the aesthetic pleasure of enjoying a fine day. After all, a bedroom with the sun pouring through the windows is a place worth living and lying in. The song of the birds provides an accompaniment better than Mozart's to one's semi-thoughts. The leaves of the climbing roses make a charming pattern outside the window pane. The cheerful bustle of those who are up and about —the overheard greetings of those who pass outside—the whistling of a butcher's boy—the voices of children on their way back from school—all these conspire to induce in one a feeling of benevolence towards one's kind and to persuade one that the world is a very good place indeed. No draughts, no dismal skies seen from the pillow, remind one of the other side of reality.

INDOLENCE, indeed—especially, perhaps, the indolence that takes the form of lying in bed—is unnatural to the majority of human beings. Even men who dislike work are as a rule what I should call early risers. I have known men who avoided work like the plague, but who, nevertheless, could not lie in bed after six in the morning. They could not endure the passive kind of idleness of the sluggard. They liked doing nothing, but they liked doing nothing actively —fussing, pottering about, wasting time on their feet rather than on their backs. Hence, I think that there is little danger that many people will imitate the bed-loving Watertown taverner even in an English January. We are born fussers. We may, some of us, lie in bed till lunch-time, but in the end the call to be up and doing affects us as it affects the still greater fussers who get up at six in the morning. Neither cold nor heat can deflect us from our purpose. For a part of the day, at least, we are doomed to be as busy as the busy bee or that still busier and fussier insect, the mosquito.

• Dynamite in the Balkans

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—With Axis and Allies alike fishing in troubled political waters for fresh battle resources, Prime Minister Churchill's declaration to a London audience that the Allies "cannot lose except through our own fault" has pointed meaning.

The Balkan and Indian manoeuvres sharply underscore Churchill's reference to "the combined, overwhelming strength" in both material resources and manpower which is available to the Allies, if successfully mobilized. London estimates that Hitler is seeking to recruit 750,000 new troops in the Balkans. The Cripps mission to India is pointed at an all but inexhaustible manpower reservoir for the Allies.

That is only part of what Churchill had in mind; but it is a very critical element in the war situation at this moment. Political manoeuvring in the Balkans and in India necessarily displaces battle happenings in first interest since success or failure by either side could deeply influence the immediate as well as the future course of the war.

BURMA NOT CRITICAL

Assured of whole-hearted entry of India into the struggle, Britain could view the widening Japanese attack on Empire life lines in Burma and The Indian Ocean as only another temporary phase. Japanese penetrations of the British-Chinese lines in Burma have not yet assumed critical proportions. In Japanese hands the Andaman Islands in the bay of Bengal, abandoned by light British forces as indefensible, are a potential rather than present threat to Calcutta or Ceylon.

There is much information on this side of the Atlantic, however, to justify London assertions that Hitler is playing with fire in the Balkans. The intermixed nationalities and warring ambitions and interests of that political powder barrel make it a dangerous place to strike sparks.

Only by a mixture of threats and promises did Hitler weave the insecure pattern of Axis affiliation in Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria. Now he is seeking to expand it without benefit of his promised smashing victory in Russia. Yet to Allied eyes the major factor involved in the Nazi Balkan recruiting drive must be the indication it clearly gives that Hitler is reaching the bottom of the barrel of his own war resources in manpower as well as oil. That is what his Russian "crusade" has cost him.

BRIBES STILL TO BE WON

With King Boris of Bulgaria and the Nazi ace diplomat, Von Papen, reported now in conference with Hitler, the crisis in the Balkan recruiting manoeuvre cannot be long delayed. Time is already short for deploying whatever additional troops Hitler might get for his 1942 offensive.

Some London experts gleefully predict he may lose instead of gaining strength. He may be forced to send additional German garrisons to keep order in the Balkans to prevent a war-within-war behind his back. The bribes in territory and sea outlet control he probably is offering are not yet his to hand out. They still must be won in blood, sweat and tears.

Japanese efforts to dip a finger into the Indian political whirlpool are also noted, coupled with the first Japanese seizure in the Adamans of Indian footholds. That move, however, may prove to be of strictly limited and purely military significance.

Bay of Bengal bases on those islands might be designed rather to protect a Japanese flanking attack by sea on the west coast of Burma to turn Sino-British defenses of the main Burmese oil fields rather than as attack springboards against Ceylon or Calcutta.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.—Dan. vii, 13, 14.

For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts.—II Pet. i, 1, 16-19.

Thrift BUILDS TANKS

Never before has individual thrift been so vital a factor in our country's history. Every dollar we can save counts in the conduct of this war.

To overwhelm the enemy and hasten a victorious peace the Empire must have a modern, smooth running, hard hitting, fighting machine. But such a machine cannot be built without individual sacrifice—self denial—thrift.

Until this war is won make personal thrift your watchword. Watch your spending. Build up a reserve of fighting dollars out of current earnings. Save for victory.

Sheriff's Authority In Jails An Old British Custom Hon. Mr. Nixon Writes County

No material change has been made in the regulations relating to the administrations of jails, wrote Hon. H. G. Nixon, Provincial Secretary, to Kent county council in reply to a protest that the counties paid nearly all the upkeep of jails but had no voice in their management.

A copy of Hon. Mr. Nixon's letter was received by Peterborough county council who had endorsed the Kent grievance.

Warden Norman Lean's associates have raked this question of jail administration through the coals of their indignation at almost every session during the last three or four years. At any rate they have rather frequently objected to paying salaries and other expenses without having a word to say about appointments. At one session it was recalled that the system of appointments had once hinged upon the sheriff of the county, then had for a time passed into the hands of the council, and finally had been again assumed by the province.

Peterborough council has regarded jail administration as another loss of their authority, reducing the council as an old and honored and responsible body to another phase of the "rubber stamp" which galls them in other respects.

"Gradual elimination of the county council" was one expression in the council's discussion Thursday afternoon.

The following are quotations from Hon. Mr. Nixon's letter to Kent council:

Mr. Nixon quoted from the statutes as follows: (1) "The sheriff shall have the care of the county jail, jail offices and yard, jailer's apartments and the appointment of the jailer, jail surgeon and the other officers of the jail;-(2) the appointment and dismissal of the jailer shall be subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council who shall fix the salaries of every jailer and jail officer which shall be paid by the county or city, as the case may be.

In many counties through long periods of time it has been found advisable to give sheriffs authority over prisoners, and to hold them responsible for care and treatment and appropriate action has been taken accordingly. This has particularly applied to British and other Anglo-Saxon countries.

In Canada, the crimes and offences for which persons are committed to prison fall naturally into three classifications—against the statutes of Canada, provincial statutes, and violations of municipal by-laws. Only a small minority of our prisoners are committed to prison for violation of municipal by-laws. It is self-evident that, as far as practicable, there should be uniformity of care and treatment of prisoners. In Ontario there are thirty-five county and two city jails. You can well appreciate the indignation of citizens of this province if there were thirty-seven different jurisdictions and methods of care and treatment of prisoners. One can hardly imagine a more retrograde step.

Obviously, the sheriff who is responsible for the care and treatment of prisoners must have authority to choose his officers and employees to administer the jail properly, and he must be responsible to single authority which in this case is the Province.

These facts were recognized in this province many years ago, and therefore, under the statutes, the sheriff was given control of the jail and the appointment of the officers. There was one exception. The county by authority of the Municipal Act could appoint a jail surgeon. It was found that not all jail surgeons carried out their duties in accordance with the requirements of competent health authorities. Therefore, it was clearly advisable to bring all appointments under one jurisdiction, that of the Sheriff.

The resolution of Kent county council has pointed to the fact that the council bears approximately two-thirds of the cost of maintaining the jail, including the official salaries. It seems appropriate to point out that in general throughout the counties probably at least two-thirds of the prisoners are residents of that county. It is also appropriate to point out that whenever accommodation is available in the provincial reformatories and industrial farms each year many hundreds of prisoners sentenced to the jails, and, therefore, proper charges of the county for maintenance, are transferred to the provincial institutions and entirely maintained there, thus relieving the counties of the cost of maintenance, and prisoners in this category are transfered each year from the county jail at Chatham, for example.

In view of the above facts it is quite evident that action cannot properly be taken to concern with the request of Kent County Council as stated in their resolution. However, it may be possible to secure some adjustment through the auditor of Criminal Justice accounts for such items as the cost of jail bedding, discharge clothing and uniforms for jail officers."

Just A "Corner Of Canada" Queen Remarks on Royal Tour of Airdrome

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE, Somewhere in England, March 26—(CP Cable)—The King and Queen paid a surprise visit to four Royal Air Force bomber stations in northern England recently and found so many Canadians among the air crews that the Queen remarked "It's just a little corner of Canada." Security reasons prevented earlier release of details of the Royal visit.

During a visit to the fourth station, the Queen stopped before Sgt. C. J. Hayes, Toronto air gunner, and told him the airdrome seemed like a part of Canada.

"There are plenty of us over here," Hayes assured Her Majesty as he stepped forward and saluted smartly, "and there are plenty more coming."

"I can believe that," said the Queen, shaking hands with Hayes. "I've seen so many Canadians today."

Their Majesties stopped to talk to almost every man lined up near a group of giant four-engine aircraft. A new regulation stipulating that each man should wear on the right of his chest a leather strip bearing his name helped Their Majesties address each of them by name.

Among Canadians inspected at this station was Sgt. W. B. Begy, St. Catharines, Ont.

When Sgt. F. J. Taylor of Montreal told Her Majesty he was in charge of a large party of school children when she visited Westmount, the Queen said with a smile, "I remember the children well."

'Chutists Show How.

There was a dramatic welcome when the Royal party arrived at one of the stations. A group of Whitley medium bombers swept low overhead in formations of three and out of them tumbled parachute troops who ran up to take positions for inspection after discarding their parachutes.

The parachute troops were some of those who destroyed the German radio location post at Bruneval, in France, recently, and the airmen in the bombers included Canadians who had flown them to France—Sgt. F. F. Tice, Hamilton, Flt.-Sgt. R. L. Bradshaw, Edmonton PO. F. D. Smith, Vancouver, Sgt. H. W. Stewart, Montreal, and Sgt. R. N. Taylor, Victoria.

His Majesty, in the uniform of Marshal of the R.A.F., was introduced to Sgt. R. E. Longard of Brookfield, Colchester County, N.S., who told him he had flown to Malta and back.

"That's a long way," the King said. "Did you fly this type of bomber?"

When Longard replied he had been in a Whitley, His Majesty remarked, "They're good machines," and added "and good, too."

At a station where Their Majesties lunched, they met PO. J. V. Watts, Hamilton, Sgt. N. H. Turner, Toronto, Sgt. J. D. Murray, of Sarnia Ont., and Sgt. B. McBride, St. Catharines, Ont.

The Royal visit was a particular thrill for Sgt. H. W. Porritt of Vancouver, a tail-gunner, who was congratulated by the Queen for shooting down a Messerschmitt during a daylight raid on Brest.

County's Road Program Cut In Half

Official notice reached the County Council on Thursday that the Ontario Department of Highways was authorizing this year only half the 1941 expenditure on county roads.

"Make it 75 per cent," was the substance of the Council's resolution to the Government by Reeve Robert Martin, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyle after hearing a request from American Nepheline Company for substantially more work in the maintenance of the Crowe's Landing road over which truck loads of nepheline are hauled daily to the railhead at Lakefield.

The Council spent between $86,000 and $87,000 on roads last year. Miss Jennie Batten, clerk, recalled and decided in January to inmrease the outlay this season to $90,000. Some of the members said at the winter sessions that even $90,000 would not be enough.

Rumors for weeks past from Toronto indicated that the Government was planning to cut the road bill this year. The Department of Highways pays half the cost of all country roads. If the total expenditure in Peterborough County last year, that is on the county roads system, was $86,000 the Department would forward to the county treasurer a cheque for $43,000 along about June.

About $45,000 This Year.

Instructions from the Department yesterday were to the effect that the county would have to keep its road expenditure this year to an amount between $42,000 and $45,000 which will be the basis for the 50 per cent subsidy. And then came Ralph Kilbon of Lakefield, representing the American Nepheline Company, urging that more money be spent on the road around the south shore of Stoney Lake skirting its extreme east end up into the Blue Mountains where the white rock is quarried or mined.

Later in the afternoon a deputation from the Council of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham looked in, and as the members of their road committee they admitted they felt just as blue as their Peterborough neighbors about the slash in the road money. Reeves Percy Gooding of Brighton Township, Prouse of Hope, and Boggs of Manvers were accompanied by their engineer and road superintendent, A. H. Miller.

"Frankly, we feel sad about the way things have turned," Mr. Miller said in introducing the members of the deputation. "It is not what we need, but after all, if we are not allowed to have the money we should have we will try to do the best we can with what we have."

No one asked any of the visitors from the neighboring Council to say anything, and after an awkward and graceless pause, some one moved "we adjourn." So much for whatever amenities should apply to such occasions.

Bensfort Bridge.

Reeve John McColl ventured a friendly remark about the prospect of the United Counties chipping in to repair the Bensfort Bridge, "or will we have to let it collapse," and Reeve Prouse replied that he thought Northumberland and Durham could contribute something. That was the extent of the conversation otn this rather rare occasion of one municipal body "dropping in" on another.

The Council is going to consult A. L. Elliott, M.L.A., about the crimp in the road upkeep this year, and the Council had several other questions to take up with him.

Poultry Sales Are Improved

TORONTO, March 27 — (CP).— The Dominion Department of Agriculture reports on the dressed poultry market as follows:

There would appear to have been slightly more activity in buying supplies for retail trading the past week. While sales have not been too brisk there has been an improvement over last week. Fresh receipts have been very light and the demand is being taken care of from storage holdings.

Frozen fowl are none too plentiful and there have been no offerings this week of this kind of poultry from the Western provinces.

There has been fairly good out-of-town movement of chicken (frozen).

Reports would indicate some of the larger stores are preparing for the coming Easter trade and with the advertising campaign fairly well underway volume of trading into consumer channels may show an upward trend in comnig weeks.

Small lots of fresh young turkeys are arriving costing 28 cents lb.

Quotations for fresh dressed poultry are nominal and unchanged from last week.

Dealers are quoting producers and country dealers (nominal):—

Chickens. — Grade A, milk-fed, over 5 lbs. 24 to 25c; 4 to 5 lbs. 23 to 24c; 3 to 4 lbs. 21 to 22c; Grade B milk-fed, over 5 lbs. 22 to 23c; 4 to 5 lbs. 21 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 19 to 20c; Grade A, over 5 lbs. 22 to 23c; 4 to 5 lbs. 21 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 19 to 20c; Grade B, over 5 lbs. 20 to 21c; 4 to 5 lbs. 19 to 20c; 3 to 4 lbs. 17 to 18c.

Fowl.—Grade A, over 5 lbs. 20 to 23c; 4 to 5 lbs., 19 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 18 to 20c. Grade B, over 5 lbs., 18 to 21c; 4 to 5 lbs. 17 to 20c; 3 to 4 lbs., 16 to 18c.

JAY'S CAPTURE CITY FIVE-PIN TITLE FOR 4th CONSECUTIVE YEAR

Big Five Roll 1370 Score For One Game

Jay's team, needing only two points to win the the City Five Pin title, came through when they tied Big Five at Duffus Alleys last night. It was the fourth consecutive year that the Martin aggregation have taken the City League title.

Highlighting a night of good bowling was the 1370 team score turned in by Big Five in their last game and the veteran Tom Curvin's 921 effort, the third time Tom has hit the 900 mark this season. Big Five's 3584 total gave the Fitzgerald gang their first pinnage victory over Jay's.

Bud White's 845 was a big factor in Capitols 3 to 1 triumphs over Dunn's and practically cinched second place for Joe Dean's team.

The big battle in the league is for third place with six teams in the hunt. 'Chief Gimblett's Old Timers stopped Freeman's from sliding into a third-spot tie with Dunn's by taking a 3 to 1 decision with George Dodson slapping in a 801 count for the veterans.

Outlaws took a 3 to 1 victory from Huffman's while Royal Yorks topped off Quakers by the same margin.

Big singles were turned in by Tom Curvin with 353 and 337, Bud White 349, Fred Martin 330, Jack Playford 322, Bun Rose 313 and Doug Abraham. Fred Martin had seven straight strikes, a headpin in the eight frame stopping him.

The standing: Jay's 72, Capitols 58, Dunn's 51, Outlaws 49, Freeman's 49, Royals 49, Big Five 47, Old-Timers 47, Huffman's 36, Quakers 22.

Irish Promoter Is Big Success

LONDON, March 27.—(CP)—A young Irishman who left County Sligo nine years ago to seek his fortune has become Britain's most successful war-time boxing promoter.

Twenty-seven year old John Muldoon had $2.50 in his pocket when he left his native county and found work as a barman. To-day, he has financial backing of more than $100,000.

He earned most of his wealth since the war began, promoting boxing shows for war charities. His "pet" is the Royal Air Force, in which he serves as an aircraftsman, and the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund has received more than $30,000 from his promotions.

Muldoon's first promotional effort was a St. Patrick's Day dance. It brought him a little money, so he ran more dances then returned to Ireland to finance a boxing and wrestling show at Killarney. To cut expenses, he refereed the wrestling matches himself, and wound up with $5,000.

He Tried Again.

Back in London, he planned his first big-time fight, matching crooning Jack Doyle and Welsh Tommy Farr. That fell through, but Muldoon tried again, and this time staged the first of a series of successful fights—the meeting between Ernie Roderick, British welterweight champion, and Jackie (Kid) Berg.

Freddie Mills, promising young Bournemouth fighter, has been the big drawing card for most of Muldoon's shows and a crowd of more than 6,000 turned out for his bout last month with Jack McAvoy, middleweight champion.

Muldoon is in the unusual position of never knowing whether he'll be able to attend his own shows. Until the war ends, he is an airman first and a promoter second and gets no special leave privileges. Stationed near London, he is a firm favorite at his squadron.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Petes are through for the season with their capture of the Ontario senior B championship. There will be no playoff for them in the Allan Cup series. It is true that at the annual meeting of the C.A.H.A. it had been provided that the senior B winners would have the right to meet the N.O.H.A. winners to determine which should go on in the cup series. However, Secretary W. A. Hewitt explains that the senior B championship was not decided in time to make it possible to carry out this arrangement. Had the Petes grabbed off the title earlier they would have been matched against the Buffalo-Ankerite Bisons but the latter were through and ready two weeks ago and rather than keep the northerners waiting around for the O.H.A. senior B series to declare a winner it was decided to toss the Buffalo-Ankerite squad in with Hamilton, the senior A winners. That left the Petes out of the picture and they will hang up their sticks for the season.

The outlook for hockey next winter is decidedly dark at the present writing. Many of this year's crop of amateur players throughout the province will probably be wearing a different kind of uniform by the time another season arrives and while the gaps in the ranks may be filled by juniors there will be other big obstacles to overcome. In the first place there will be difficulty over equipment. The manufacture of skates has been cancelled and no more rubber pucks may be made. There may be enough of that kind of equipment left over to carry through next season, however. But the real problem will be transportation. By next winter travelling by private automobile will probably be very badly curtailed by the gas restrictions and the disappearance of tires. Buses cannot be chartered and so travel by train might be the only alternative. Obviously a group such as the Petes had this season would be impossible under such conditions. It was only feasible because the players did not have to lose any time off from work to play group games.

Basketball fans are in for another treat at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium tonight when the second games in the Ladies' Basketball League playoffs will be staged. No one who saw the teams clash last week would think of missing tonight's tilts. Both games a week ago were full of action and the result was in doubt until near the finish in both cases. Y. Gym and Westclox battle it out in the intermediate division in the first game of tonight's double-header, starting at 7.45 o'clock. The Y girls won the opening a week ago and they will take the series two games to nothing if they repeat the trick tonight. The Clockmakers are not likely to go down without a battle, however, and may force a third game by reversing last week's result. In the second battle Generals and Quakers hook up with the porridge team faced with the alternative of beating the C.G.E. outfit or relinquishing all claim to the senior championship. It should be a corker of a ball game between two powerful and well-matched squads. If a third game is needed in either of the divisions it will be staged for tomorrow night. The annual banquet of the league, winding up the season will be staged on Monday night.

Here is a nice bouquet tossed at the Petes by Ken Colling in the Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer: "Congratulations are the order of the day to be extended to Jim Ellis and his Peterborough "Soldiers" upon winning the senior B hockey championship of Ontario. The Petes brushed Merritton aside, winning handily by a 6 to 2 count in Maple Leaf Gardens last night. The Ellis-Scates squad upheld the hockey dignity of Eastern Ontario, proving to all and sundry that we play the best brand of this business of puck chasing in Ontario right in the Quinte-Rice Lake area. Last year Kingston won the senior B hockey title and this year the Petes repeated for group number one, which in itself should make the hockey fans realize we have been treated to the bestest of the best in hockey. Niagara Peninsula sports commentators, who watched the Petes rub Merritton out in the finals, compared the Petes favorably with the lower bracket clubs in the senior A division, which again points with pride at the calibre of hockey being played in Peterborough, Whitby and Belleville. What another year will bring around no person dare prophesy, but until then—'Congratulations Petes.'"

The St. Catharines Standard comments on Tuesday's game as follows: 'Peterborough Gunners stepped into the berth occupied by Kingston Combines last year, when the Liftlock City squad retained the O.H.A. senior B hockey title for the eastern end of Ontario. Merritton Hayes Redmen can now pack away their hockey togs for another season, after last night's fifth and deciding game at Leaf Gardens, where Gunners were victorious 6-2. It marks the second successive season that Merritton went to the Ontario finals, losing to Midland Sailors in intermediate A ranks last year and now to Peterborough Gunners. On the merits of the deciding game, Petes were full value for the championship, as they came from behind a one-goal lead of Hayes Steel in the first period. but after that, the easterners of Coach Jimmy Ellis had the advantage over the red jerseys of Coach "Scotty" Mair. Largely through the instrumentality of the Gunners' ace line of Kingdon-Heal-Tompkins, that trio was enabled to fashion five of the six goals that went to Petes credit as "Honey" Tompkins set up four of the quintet."

Frankie Brimsek knocked the Chicago Black Hawks out of the Stanley Cup running last night as Boston Bruins beat the Chicago team 3 goals to 2 and thus took the series 2 games to 1. The value of Brimsek's services to the Bruins is eloquently told in the shots-on-goal figures. They show that the Black Hawks fired 32 at Brimsek and he stopped all but two while the Boston snipers managed to pick off three counters in 17 shots on the cage of Sam Lo Presti. Two Boston rookies, Gordon Bruce, up from the American League and Jack McGill, fresh from the Boston Olympics did the scoring for the Boston gang, Bruce firing the first two goals and McGill's backhander winning the argument. Black Hawks had the bulk of the territorial play but it did not do them much good with Brimsek in his best form in the Boston nets.

Meanwhile at Detroit the Canadiens who two nights ago had smothered the Detroit Red Wings five goals to nothing were beaten 6 to 2 and passed out of the picture for the season, leaving Detroit and Boston to clash in the semi-final series for the right to meet the Rangers or Leafs in the Stanley Cup finals. Canadiens scored the first goal of the game early in the second period but were never in the hunt thereafter. Before the second session had ended the Wings had tossed two pucks behind Pual Bibeault and they ran in four more in a row in the last period before the Flying Frenchmen finally got their last goal. Strangely enough Detroit's high-scoring Grosso-Abel-Wares line did not figure in the scoring.

Miners And Aces Kick At Scene Of Third Battle

By The Canadian Press.

With the threat of trouble over the date of the third game in the Glace Bay Miners-Quebec Aces eastern semi-final suddenly straightened out by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, both teams prepared to-day to continue their Allan Cup playdown in Glace Bay, N.S., to-night.

Fighting for the right to meet the winner of the Ottawa Royal Canadian Air Force-Hamilton Majors series in the eastern final, both clubs voiced disapproval last night when informed they were to play the third game of their best of five affair in Montreal Monday night.

Coach Pop Monson of Miners and Aces' Don Penniston were strong in their condemnation of the plan and protested to the governing body on the grounds it was asking too much of the players to step on the ice only a few hours after the long train ride from the Maritimes. The teams asked the third game be played Wednesday in Montreal, but President George Dudley of the C.A.H.A. announced last night the date had been set for Tuesday.

Still jubilant over the 3-0 shutout they hung on Aces in the opener Tuesday, the Miners felt confident they could come through again tonight

While this is the only Senior hockey game in the Eastern setup tonight, Ottawa Fliers are looking forward to closing their best-of-five series against the Majors in straight games Saturday. Holding a 2-0 edge in games, the Airmen have the advantage of playing on home ice tomorrow night, and their 3-1 and 8-3 victories in previous games, rates them strongly to come through with a clean sweep.

Hamilton was still hoping to get a suitable replacement for Stan Robertson, who suffered a broken arm in the first game of a series at Ottawa.

In the Memorial Cup hunt, all four clubs still remaining in the East will see action tonight. Oshawa's Generals were highly favored to come through in straight games in their best-of-five playoff with Ottawa St. Pats. The Generals hold a 2-0 edge in games.

At Montreal, Halifax Canadians, Maritime champions, arrived to take on Montreal Royals in the opener of their best-of-five Eastern Junior semi-final.

Capitals Sweep Indians Out

By The Canadian Press.

The battle for the American Hockey League title and Calder Cup stood to-day as an affair between two western division clubs both with a penchant for coming from the position of underdog to the top bracket.

Last night Indianapolis Capitals swept Springfield's powerful Indians from the playoff picture when it scored a 3-2 overtime victory, while in the other semi-final windup. Hershey Bears also came through in an extra session to wipe Cleveland Barons from the championship path, 3-1.

The two survivors will now get a chance to prove which is underdog when they meet in a best-of-seven series which opens in Indianapolis Sunday night.

It took two overtime periods before Springfield finally fell victim to the Caps, when young Jud McAtee blasted home the payoff counter after more than nine minutes of the sudden-death extra session had elapsed.

Young Jim Peters had given Indians a lead with a first period tally, but in a second period which was all Indianapolis, Connie Brown and Kenny Kilrea blasted home goals to give Caps the edge.

O'Flaherty Ties It.

However, at 8.05 of the third frame, Peanuts O'Flaherty counted the goal which sent play into extended overtime.

The glory of Hershey's win over Barons fell to an 18 year old rookie, Gaye Stewart who blasted home two goals in overtime. His first marker came just 45 seconds after the extra session was underway. Stewart snared the puck inside Cleveland territory and golfed it past Goaler Bill Beveridge at a terrific rate. Then at 7.32 of the period he added assurance to the win after a neat play with Augier Hergesheimer and Pettinger, who assisted on both his goals.

It was Pettinger who had given Hershey the initial advantage when he tallied in the middle frame after the teams had waged a bitter first-period duel.

Veteran Les Cunningham, however, brought Cleveland back into the fight when he beat Goaler Nick Damore after taking Norm Lockington's close in pass. Vic Milne was also in on the play.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27—(AP).—Johnny Hopp of St. Louis Cardinals thinks there may be something in a name. He's been hopping back and forth from outfield to infield so long nobody is certain where he'll play. He was in left field yesterday, but he might be at first base today.

Los Angeles.—Pitcher Bill Lee is still confident this is his year to stage a comeback with Chicago Cubs. As a good sign he points to yesterday's hitless pitching for four innings again Seattle, although he was nicked for two blows in the fifth before he retired.

Injured Bobby Bauer Gets Some Help

In five years of N.H.L. hockey with Boston Bruins, Winger Bobby Bauer missed just one game through injury. Then he, with his linemates Schmidt and Dumart, joined the R.C.A.F. and donned hockey togs with the Ottawa Fliers, air force contenders for the Allan Cup. In a practice for the Hamilton-Flier series Bobby broke a collarbone and is out for the season. Here he is in hospital with his pretty wife Marguerite, wielding the razor for her injured husband.

Ray Best Loses In Semi-Finals

TORONTO, March 27.—Two strong Hamilton rinks qualified for the playoffs today in the Brereton-Raw annual mixed bonspiel by emerging winners yesterday in the fourth day's play of the week-long 'spiel on Granite Club ice. As a matter of fact the Hamilton fours, one skipped by G. M. Campbell and the second by A. Ross Tarton, will be heavy favorites to win the trophy when the previous day's winners meet in the championship rounds.

Campbell's four advanced to the playoff circle with a 12-7 victory over Ray Best's highly regarded Peterborough four in a semi-final while Tarlton's company disposed of Roy Smith's Sarnians, 12-9, in a semi-final match

Finals in the trophy event and consolation will be played at the Granite Club today.

No Wage Increases

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27 — (AP).—Postponement of wage increases in shops with United States navy contracts on the Pacific coast has been requested by Navy Secretary Frank Knox. "Because of the postponement of the general shipbuilding stabilization conference there will be necessarily some delay in making wage adjustments in the Pacific coast shipbuilding industry which are due on April 1," he said in a statement.

Quakers Snuffle Dynamiters 6-4 Cats, Leafs Go 4-4

By The Canadian Press.

Saskatoon Quakers, Saskatchewan Senior champions, and Portage La Prairie Terriers, Manitoba Junior titlists, today are favored to advance into the Western Canada finals in each division following semi-final victories last night in their first games of a best-of-five series.

Quakers defeated the British Columbia champions, Kimberley Dynamiters, 6-4, at Saskatoon. In the other Allan Cup playdown in the West the Port Arthur Bear Cats from Thunder Bay came from behind in overtime to hold Lethbridge Maple Leafs of Alberta to a 4-4 tie, at Calgary.

Gordie Houston's Fort William Hurricane-Rangers, reported to be the best Junior team from Thunder Bay in 20 years, went down 7-6 to Portage La Prairie in 60 minutes of offensive hockey. Five thousand spectators left the Winnipeg rink doubtful if they ever saw two more evenly-balanced Junior teams figure in a Western semi-final.

Meanwhile Edmonton Maple Leafs, Alberta Junior titlists, prepared to leave Saskatoon tomorrow for Regina where they will begin a best-of-five Western semi-final against Regina Abbotts of Saskatchewan Saturday night, Maple Leafs worked out a Saskatoon because of lack of ice at Edmonton.

The other teams renew their battles Saturday night at Saskatoon, Calgary and Winnipeg.

BRIMSEK THE HERO AS HAWKS FADE FROM THE FINALS 3 TO 2

Veteran Goalie Saves Day As Bruins Falter

BOSTON, March 27—(CP).—Boston Bruins can thank Frankie Brimsek today for a place in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Bruins managed to give the square-plan goalie from Eveleth, Minn., a 3-2 lead over Chicago Black Hawks going into the third period of their deciding cup quarter-final contest here last night, and that one-goal margin was all Brimsek needed. The score was unchanged at the end of the game giving Boston the best-of-three series 2-1.

Brimsek played some of the greatest hockey of his career in that scoreless and penaltyless last period. The rattled and shaky Bruins rattled and shook out front, but Hawks couldn't beat Brimsek. The Vezina Trophy winner grabbed for himself all the glory in Boston's win.

The number of shots laced at Brimsek during the game was 32, not an exceptional total although Sammy Lo Presti had only 17 to handle. But Hawks maintained a terrific fore-checking game throughout that kept play almost constantly in Boston territory.

Brimsek's toughest session was during the second period while Jack Shewchuk, Boston defenceman, was serving a major penalty for drawing blood when his stick struck Mush March's head. Hawks trailed 3-1 when Shewchuk left the ice and ganged into the Boston area for five minutes of cconcentrated attack that brought one goal—by Rookie Bill Mosienko.

Max Bentley scored the other Chicago goal earlier in the second period a few minutes before Jack McGill, a rookie Boston brought up from the amateur Boston Olympics last month, scored what proved to be the winning goal. Gord Bruce counted the other two Boston goals, one late in the first period and the other early in the second.

Boston will meet Detroit Red Wings in a best-of-three series for the right to enter the Stanley Cup final against the winner of the Toronto-New York series.

Canadiens Fade From Playoffs Wings Win 6-2

DETROIT, March 27 — (CP). — Canadiens are at the end of their Stanley Cup playoff trail to-day, victims of the Detroit Red Wings, an opponent who like themselves had blown hot and cold down the stretch.

However it was Detroit's turn to be torrid at the crucial moment and last night they sent the Habitants to the sidelines with a resounding thud when they scored a 6-2 win in the third and deciding game of their best-of-three series.

Wings now go on to meet Boston Bruins, with the ultimate victor taking on tieher Toronto or New York Rangers for the coveted world title.

Taking full revenge for the 5-0 lacing suffered when Canadiens evened the series in Montreal on Tuesday, Detroit literally skated the Frenchmen into the ice in a fast third period when they scored four of their goals.

Only incident of this hard-hitting affair came in the third session when Canadiens Joe Benoit had to be taken off the ice after being struck over the head by the stick of Eddie Bush, Detroit defenceman who climaxed an argument between Benoit and Goaler Johnny Mowers.

Haggerty Nets One.

After litle more than 21 minutes of scoreless hockey, Canadiens broke the ice when Rookie Jim Haggerty relayed Charlie Sands' pass from Gerry Heffernan past Mowers in the Detroit cage. Mud Bruneteau got that one back a few minutes later. Then with seconds of the period remaining, Sid Abel broke loose on a solo rush to give the Wings a lead they never relinquished.

Canadiens' woes, however, didn't really begin until Joe Carveth opened Detroit's heavy firing in the closing session. Canadiens seemed to fall apart at the seams after that tally and the Wings tore in practically at will blasting shots past a brilliant Paul Bibeault in the Canadien cage.

Bruneteau scored his second goal of the game at 11:40 of the period, then trigger-man Carl Liscombe, who had assisted on two previous Detroit tallies, came through with the remaining pair of the Redmen's tallies.

As a dying kick, Canadiens came through with another goal with 11 seconds of play left. Gerry Heffernan got the marker on a play with Johnny Quilty and Butch Bouchard.

Army Track Aces Rally For Meet

HAMILTON, Ont., March 27 — (CP)—Army track stars from London, Kingston, Fort William and other cities in which troops are stationed in Ontario were arriving here today for an army track and field meet to be held in the Hamilton armories tomorrow night.

Soldiers from the Canadian Army Trades School here moved into the armories last night in strength to lay a track and erect bleachers for the event. Service clubs in charge of ticket sales reported the likelihood of a full house for the meet.

Members of Canadian Women's Army Corps will compete in several special events and among the contestants will be girls well known to track and field circles in many parts of Canada.

Among the better-known track and field stars entered in the men's events were Col. P. Thomas of Calgary, Cpl. C. Keys of Vauxhall, Alta., and Pte. G. Roy of Hearst, Ont. The meet is another athletic event on the Ontario Military Sports program which included provincial military boxing and hockey championship tournaments during the past few months.

Burly Bucko Downs Shibicky In Leaf-Ranger Tilt

Alex. Shibicky of the New York Rangers is checked to the ice by Bucko McDonald, effervescent defence veteran of the Toronto Maple Leafs as Apps, RIGHT, also of Toronto, joins his teammate in a chase for the puck. The camera caught this action during the third game of the Stanley cup playoffs at Madison Square Garden, New York. The New York boys pulled up one game short of the Toronto team by winning this one 3-0, after losing two straight.

131 Scoring Pts. By Sea Guller Sets New Record

NEW YORK, March 27—(CP).—A new individual scoring record, probably the highest ever set in organized hockey, was set this season in the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League by young Tommy Burlington, a centre with Atlantic City Sea Gulls.

Final scoring records released today showed that Burlington, 21-year-old rookie from Owen Sound, Ont., who is blind in one eye, scored 65 goals in 60 games and piled up 66 assists for a total of 131 points. He had a 42-point margin over his nearest rival, Andy Chakowski of Baltimore who tallied 44 goals and 45 assists for 89 points.

Burlington broke the league's previous high of 101 points, set by Abby Collings while with New York Rovers in the 1939-40 season, and he came within two goals of equalling the goal-scoring mark of 67 set by Norm Burns with Washington last year.

Hank Dyck of Johnstown finished third with 46 goals and 40 assists for 86 points, while in fourth place was Leo Richard of River Vale who had 40 goals and 42 assists for 82 points. Les Hickey, Washington, Bob Kirkpatrick, New York, and Ab McDougall, Baltimore, were tied for fifth place with 77 points each.

Bud Goodfellow, River Vale, was the league's "bad man" with 126 minutes in the penalty box, and Red Andersen of Johnstown, the runner-up with 122 minutes.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Jimmy Foxx is so insistent about being Boston Red Sox' regular first baseman he almost has Manager Joe Cronin convinced. Old Double-X will break into the starting lineup today when the Sox visit Tampa to play the Cincinnati Reds.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Joe DiMaggio of New York Yankees had to take a back seat in the first diamond meeting of the Spring with his little brother, Dom, in yesterday's game with the Boston Red Sox. Joe cracked a double and a single, but Dom hit a triple and two singles.

Fans Expeching, A Few Rounds From Abe Simon

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 27.—)P). — Buck Private Joe Louis and Bridegroom Abe Simon try to tear each other apart to-night for the benefit of the folks the soldier boys left behind.

Promptly at 10 p.m. the dark destroyer, greatest fighting machine of his era, and the huge, happy giant from Long Island go to work in Madison Square Gardens bunting-bedecked ring. They're down for a 15-round scuffle for Joe's world heavyweight championship. But even Abe's best friends tell him he's a cinch to become just another victim of the Bomber's dynamite quite some time before the derby route has run its course.

Despite the lop-sided chances of Joe's 21st successful defense of his crown in his all-time record run as boss of the bashers, the real winner this time will be army emergency relief, the fund recently set up to care for the needy families of soldiers in action.

Exactly 11 weeks ago, Joe bowled Buddy Baer over in three minutes and the Navy Relief Society profited by $89,000 from a gate of $189,000. This time, the best semi-official estimates are that the boys and girls may get a slightly longer run for their money, say four or five rounds—and the Army Fund will get between $50,000 and $60,000 from a gross of $125,000 to $150,000.

All for the Fund.

This total will be contributed by an expected crowd of 16,000 of the faithful who offer loud testimony to the drawing power of the greatest sports figure of this decade. For the second time in less than three months, he puts his million-dollar stock-in-trade—his championship—on the line or exactly nothing. All of his 40 per cent end of the purse, less only training expenses, will be handed over to the fund. So will Mike Jacobs' promotional profits a portion of Simon's 15 per cent cut of the net gate and a half of the Madison Square Garden's take.

In Simon, the Bomber meets a 253-pounder with a big, snappy left hand, a fighting heart just as large and an ability to absorb punishment that is startling to see. At the same time, however, virtually no one can see how Able the Ample can get out of the way of Joe's big guns once target practice starts—and Louis is out to start early tonight.

A year ago this month, Abe lasted 13 rounds with Louis. Now he says he's in better condition and faster. It might interest him to know Joe is, too. That fight in '41 was one of the stops on Joe's "Bum of the Month" tour. By the time he ran into Abie, he had been in constant training for four months, and the machine was running down. This time it's the fresh, fierce flailer again, proud as even of his title and prouder still of his soldier suit. He won't be missing many.

News From Training Camps

ORLANDO, Fla.—Fans in the Grapefruit League have a chance to see Hank Greenberg's big bat in action today. The former Detroit star, now a sergeant in the United States army, has been loaned to the Orlando Air Base team for the game with Washington Senators.

FUNNERTON, Calif.— Manager Frankie Frisch is so pleased with his Pittsburg Pirates, who have won 10 of 13 Exhibition games, he took time out to reflect on his starting pitcher for the Bucs' opener at Cincinnati April 14. "It's liable to be Lloyd Dietz," he said. "What a pitcher he is and what a lot of moxie he shows in a clinch."

ANAHEIM, Calif.—There are reports that Manager Connie Mack is trying to get Rip Russell from the Chicago Cubs as a first baseman for his Philadelphia Athletics, replacing holdout Dick Siebert. Mack apparently has given up the idea of singing Eddie Mayo, former major league third-sacker now with Los Angeles.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK March 27—(AP).—Next big benefit fight show after to-night likely will be the Navy relief card in Washington—and part of the relief probably will be to relieve Fred Cochrane of his welterweight title....Called in to arrange a card, Mike Jacobs' first suggestion was that the Navy should give Cochrane the leave he claims is necessary to get in shape for a title fight against Ray Robinson....The M.P. who has been guarding Joe Louis' dressing room down at Fort Dix is an old-time rassler, known professionally as "the Dark Angel" and "Dynamite Blackman."

To-day's guest star.

Frank Graham, New York Sun: "Prize fighting, as Jimmy Johnston so frequently has remarked, is a very funny business. If he never had done so before, Jimmy proved it when he put Abe Simon into a ring to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world, and he is going to prove it again when he steers Abe up the steps to fight Louis for the second time."

Stopping at Augusta on his way to Pinehurst to check up on the arrangements for the Masters' golf tournament, Freddie Corcoran of the P.G.A. nearly had a stroke when he heard the Japanese Diplomatic Corps had almost moved in there from White Sulphur Springs ...."I guess they objected to the American plan," Freddie commented.

Food for thought.

Noting that two guys who pitched for the Red Sox against Detroit the other day were Hash and Brown, and that Trout started for the Tigers, James E. Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that all were warmed up well so they had no trouble finding the dish.

Official sources in Washington did not trouble to comment on the Tokyo reports, which were regarded in some quarters of a "fishing expedition" to learn Quezon's whereabouts.

Quezon took the oath of office for his second term as president of the Philippine Commonwealth Dec. 30. Early this month he issued a proclamation from his temporary capital that the Filipinos' "spirit of resistance is undaunted" and that his people would fight on to the end.

government's wheat bills—the wheat acreage reduction act and the bill amending the prairie farm assistance act to bring it into line with the increase in the initial wheat price from 70 to 90 cents a bushel.

House debate yesterday ranged over a wide variety of subjects, with C.C.F. members and other criticizing the government's attitude toward labor.

Recognition Of Labor

Col. Ralston told critics that the fact the new manpower mobilization plan was placed in the hands of Labor Minister Mitchell was evidence of recognition of labor, and he assured the House labor would be represented on all boards set up.

Col. Ralston said half of the $997,000,000 to be required by the army in the next fiscal year would be used for the army overseas. Reserve units in Canada would require $39,000,000.

Debate on these reserve units was a feature of Col. Ralston's presentation, being precipitated by questions regarding its actual strength.

Howard Green (Con. Vancouver) suggested that if voluntary enlistments proved unsatisfactory for this force the necessary men should be called up compulsorily.

"I say that that is not the idea of the Reserve Army," Col. Ralston replied. "The Reserve Army is a citizens army organized and mobilised for the purpose of defending the homes and the people who are in them, and their communities.

"It is pointed out by my officers that the suggestion of my honorable friend that they should be called up for compulsory service is a complete negation of the whole idea of the Reserve Army.

"But I say to him that if it is necessary in this time of stress to call our citizens compulsorily to defend their communities, then it will have to be done....

"I feel just as strongly as my honorable friend, perhaps a little stronger, with regard to calling people up compulsorily.

"But I do feel that we should not do that until we have made dead sure that the citizens in these communities understand what their responsibilities are, and have had an opportunity to fulfil them."

Col. Ralston said compulsion might have to be involved "but I hope that will not be so because I think it would defeat the spirit which is behind the reserve army and which has done so much to build up the active battalions we have." Then he added:

Urge Community Spirit

"We have reserve units in each district and I ask honorable members to assist in encouraging a community spirit and in asking men to go into the reserve army.

"If the emergency exists which has been pointed out in this House and in this country, I cannot conceive of men not responding if the matter is properly put to them, not by the government but by people in their own community."

Mr. Green said figures had been given from time to time indicating that the reserve army contained 140,000 men. He referred to a parliamentary return showing that 62,000 of those on the strength were really men called up for 30-day training under the original draft regulations and who had gone back to civilian life, their names remaining on the nominal rolls.

"This would appear to make the strength of that reserve army quite a lot larger than it really is," Mr. Green said. "It really amounts to a paper strength.

There was apparently no knowledge of how many of that 62,000 men might have enlisted in the active army, he suggested.

Col. Ralston said the criticism was sound. It was not known at the moment what number of the 62,000 had been taken into the active army, and that the total reserve army available should be 140,000 less the 62,000 referred to.

Nevertheless, that 62,000 men had received 30 days' intensive training and should be considered as available for the reserve army if they have not entered the active service.

"The reserve army had a good deal of discouragement," Col. Ralston said. "There functions have been changed twice that I know of, having regard to the particular situation in which we found ourselves."

Checking up on Cars

Gordon Fraser (Con. Peterborough West) said there had not been much criticism about the use of cars in the army, not only in Ottawa but elsewhere, and suggested a check-up. The Minister said he held a conference on the matter Wednesday night and later added:

"There was an article in the Kingston Whig-Standard some time ago which caused me considerable concern and regarding which I took what was thought to be drastic and vigorous action. That matter is being pursued."

Conservative House Leader Hanson said the Minister would save a lot of money if he "put the clamps on" and said he had heard the same complaint in Fredericton.

Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) urged creation of a savings rehabilitation fund for men in the forces, to give them a stake after the war, and called attention to discrepancies between pay in the services and in civilian industry.

Col. Ralston said the discrepancies were not as great as might appear but were not to be disregarded. If men who made high wages in factories were in the army they would receive trades pay and promotions and get more than the basic private's pay of $1.30 a day. In addition they received dependents allowances and other benefits. This took no account of the risk they took, which could not be measured.

"I sometimes get a little irritated," said the Minister, "when people talk about a man doing valuable war service. I say there is no service that compares with the service of a man who enlists and risks his life."

While the House was considering Mr. Ilsley's resolution for a $135,000,000 Supplementary War Appropriation Bill John Blackmore, New Democracy Leader, objected to statements made by members, mentioning particularly Conservative House Leader Hanson that the great majority of people do not appreciate the peril in which Canada has been placed by the war and the responsibilities placed upon every citizen.

Where and How

There was no lack of appreciation of the situation and no lack of desire to serve. The people only wanted to be told where and how to serve, he said.

T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto-Broadview) said Parliament had lost control over public expenditures and should recover it.

It was ridiculous to exempt farmers from military service, said Mr. Church. Many farmers are going to the cities to take jobs at $10, $15, and $20 a day when the soldiers overseas defending Canada get $1.30 a day.

"This scheme of the Minister of Labor for manpower is going to be a muddle," he said. "It is all a mistake. It is a mistake to exempt farmers. The Government has been listening too much to the clamor of members of this House.

"There is no scarcity of wheat and other grains. There is a surplus."

G. E. Wood (Lib., Brant), speaking as a "plain honest-to-goodness farmer" and member of a class that worked as hard as any organized laborer, said it was not fair to condemn the white-collar or big business class. All groups had their down difficulties and they should work together and co-operate to their mutual advantage.

"Don't let yourselves be carried away by any false hopes for this new order we hear so much about, because whatever it is it will not remove the necessity of a struggle for life," Mr. Wood said.

And whatever it was to be there would be some who would adapt themselves to it and others who would quarrel with it.

The Danger of Coughs Among the Children

In young children a cold or cough is not a thing to be disregarded, as it is often of a grave matter, and unless attended to immediately may, eventually, cause serious trouble.

On the first sign of a cough or cold the mother will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help get rid of the trouble.

Its promptness and effectiveness in loosening the phlegm, and stimulating the bronchial organs is such that the cough may be checked before anything of a serious nature sets in.

NO ADJOURNMENT GRANTED

The police were not ready to proceed with a third offence drunk charge against a local man this morning and the accused was remanded in custody until tomorrow morning, despite his plea for an adjournment.

CARELESS DRIVING

Victor Montgomery, on a written plea of guilty, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs on a charge of careless driving in police court this morning. Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer explained to the court that there had not been an accident but that one had been narrowly averted.

TREES NOT TAPPED

A Westwood farmer told the Examiner today that he was not tapping his maple bush this spring. "My man left me," he said. "I was paying him $600 a year and his board, but his brother got him a job in Windsor at 70 cents an hour, at least that is what he told me. I couldn't look after the sap and boiling myself, so I just did nothing."

FINED FOR VAGRANCY

Arrested by city police early this morning and charged with vagrancy because the officers said that they failed to give a satisfactory account of their movements three local youths, Berton Young, Donald Pinch and Wm. Morgan, pleaded guilty in police court this morning and were fined $5 and $1.75 costs or ten days in jail.

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGED

Arising out of a recent accident on Water street in which his car collided with a taxi cab owned and driven by John Drummond, William Hutchinson, Water street, was charged with reckless driving in police court this morning. The case was adjourned when Magistrate Langley pointed out that because of the Campbellford court this afternoon there would be no time to hear such a long case.

HAD NO PERMIT

Pleading guilty to operating a motor vehicle without a driver's permit or chauffeur's license, Frank Emberson was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning.

GROCER JOINS PRICE BOARD.

W. E. Foley, local Wartime Price Board official, announced this morning that he had hired James Juby as an investigator. Mr Juby reitred from the grocery trade a few years ago because of poor health. He has had 27 years' experience in the trade, and will work in the Peterborough office.

A DIFFERENT GROUP.

Local officials of the Canadian Institute for the Blind pointed out to-day that the salesmen who are canvassing city homes selling articles made by the blind, are not associated with the Canadian Institute for the Blind. They are with the Confederation of the Blind, another Canadian organization doing similar work.

A SMALL WORLD.

J. W. Pierce, Ontario Land Surveyor, gave a talk to the Association of Manitoba Surveyors recently, and it is interesting to note that Peterborough Old Boys were guests at the meeting. Roland McWilliams, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, was one and the other was Max Dennistoun, former Chief Justice of Manitoba, who for many years was associated with E. A. Peck and F. D. Kerr in the law business in this city.

RAT TRAPPERS, ATTENTION.

Local fur dealers report the American trade is demanding that rats be skinned from the rump and the hind legs rather than from the nose, and they also insist on the rats being stretched on either wire frames or boards instead of willow gads. Many local trappers are not scraping the fat from the hides, and this causes extra work for the buyer. The point is, if a trapper wishes to get a top price for his furs, let him do a little work on the pelts before bringing them into the city.

Hon. Kennedy Reviews Problems Of Farmer At Kinsmen Meeting

Farmers can make no greater contribution to the war effort, than by quadrupling the sugar beet acreage in 1942, Col. the Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, M.P.P., member for Peel, and one time Minister of Agriculture, told members of the Kinsmen Club at their regular dinner meeting Thursday evening.

The meeting was the first of its kind for the Kinsmen, in that they invited the members of the County Council and several of the leading farmers in the district to sit in as guests, and the speaker gave a talk that had plenty of interest for farmer and city dweller alike.

41 Years a Farmer

Introduced by Alex. L. Elliott, M.P.P., Mr. Kennedy lauded the idea of farmers and city folk becoming better friends, and he suggested that the present time was an excellent time for close unity between the two. He paid special tribute to the County Council, stating that this was an essential form of government, and one of the best in the world for truly, the County Council gets close to the people.

"This year I am starting my 41st year of farming, and I cannot recall any year in which the outlook was so blue for the farmer. We have to contend with soil, weather, and wind, but the burden that is breaking the farmer is the taxes. I admit that the farmer has no person to blame but himself, but the small farm property bears far too many taxes. When the Municipal Act was framed by that eminent statesman, Oliver Mowat, he did not visualize that the farmer would be forced to pay for relief, nor high school taxes, nor for indigent hospitalization.

In England there are no taxes on the farms; the farmer pays an income tax on what he earns; in short, he does not have to pay any tax until he has earned some money; but in this country the taxes go on whether the farm is making or losing money. Today 67 per cent of the farms are mortgaged to pay the taxes.

There is another problem now, because farm mortgages are no longer desirable risks. The farms are sick and ailing, and no business man will lend money on a business that is dying.

Mr. Kennedy went on to give three illustrations showing how transportation had adversely effected the marketing of farm products. He said that in the early days, farm products were marketed in the immediate vicinity where they were grown, but now with big buyers and modern transportation, products from all over the world were competing with local farm products.

In New South Wales in Australia, they make a specialty of raising Jersey herds. The climate is warm and mild, and the cows need no barns, nor feed other than pasture. One man and a boy can handle a herd of 100 cows, using milking machines, and this area produces 12,000,000 pounds of butter.

The speaker suggested as one of the remedies that the farmers of Western Ontario should boost the acreage of sugar beets from 25,000 to 100,000 acres so that Canada would have its own sugar and the boats being used between Cuba and Canada would be released. If the Government puts a ceiling on sugar beets, then the farmers should be bonused so that the farmer can compete with war industries in the labor market. He stated that a refinery has been built at St. Hyacinthe as a government measure for the benefit of the Quebec sugar beet growers, and acreage in the United States is also being materially increased.

As a second remedy to certain farm problems, he suggested that Canadian farmers follow the lead of Russian and Denmark cattle breeders and use artificial dissemination. "This will revolutionize the cattle breeding industry."

Continuing Mr. Kennedy pointed out that few farmers are giving the hybrid corn the attention it warrants. He stated he has been successful in growing a 95 day corn that had more starch and two per cent more protein. "The day is coming when the farmer will grow enough corn to feed his chickens, and his hogs."

"Today farmers are only getting 60 per cent of the price which the same products brought 25 years ago yet the farmer is expected to have a ceiling on his products, and still compete with war industries for labor. Why should there be a ceiling on farm products before the prices have reached one that will cover the cost of labor.

They ask me as a farmer to do this as a part of my war effort, that is take 40 per cent less for my stuff than it is worth. Why should you as a high paid city worker not give a fair price for my product so that I can pay good wages and stay in business, and help win the war. Farm products should have a floor not a ceiling.

"Wealth is not money, it is happiness, and perhaps we on the farm have that happiness. The hardships we endure gives us character, and most of us look back on the deeds of our forefathers and hope we can be worthy of them. Times are tough and troublesome but our grandparents did not give in and we should not either. The old saying holds good, Plowing and sowing and sorrow go hand in hand."

The thanks of the club was voiced by Don Loucks, and all of the guests were introduced by Harold Worton, veterinary surgeon. Members of the County Council who were on hand included, Warden Norman Lean, Reeve Allan Mann, Smith Reeve Charles Tanner, Lakefield; Reeve Melville Johnston, North Monaghan; Dep. Reeve Alex Archibald, North Monaghan; Reeve Isaac Anderson, Belmont; Dep. Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyle of Smith; Reeve Peter Mather of Otonabee; Dep. Reeve Percy Davidson of Otonabee; Reeve David Curtain of Galway; Reeve Charles Flynn of Harvey; Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore; Reeve Rork Ferguson, Norwood; Reeve Albert Hall, Chandos. Mayor James Hamilton and Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., officer commanding the Rangers, were head table guests.

Farmers from the district included, Reg. Armstrong of Bailieboro, president of the Jersey Breeders Association; Ed. Butler, Peterborough, president Whole Milk Producers Association; Harold Johnston, president Vegetable Growers Association; Harry McIntyre, Keene, president Clydesdale Breeders; Sam S. Staples of Ida; George Hooten, Ida; Harry Kennedy, Cavan; David Rose and Percy Bell of Warsaw; Milton Clarke, Smith; Frank Paterson, Dept. of Agriculture representative; Hugh Stewart, cattle and horse buyer and Dr. A. T. Andrew, veteinay sugeon.

Other guests included Major Wright and Captain Phillips of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, and Ralph Standish.

Rejected List Of Rangers Is Lengthy One

Enlistments in the Prince of Wales Rangers (AF), continue at a steady pace.

But while the ranks are swelling daily, it does not indicate the full picture of the activity that is now humming around the Armoury these eventful days.

Medical standards for active service are rigid and an estimated percentage reveals that for every two men accepted for service one fails to get past the vigilant medical board.

A list of men from the Reserve Battalion, who have applied for enlistment in the active unit, and who for one reason or another have failed to make the required Category A or B I which is demanded is printed today.

That they have not been accepted is no fault of their own, though without exception rejections have been received as keen personal disappointments. In offering themselves for active service however they have the satisfaction of knowing that they are classed among the volunteers who were willing to go wherever the fortunes of war might take them. Hats off to these men.

And now that they have been rejected, it is a safe bet that they'll all bravely swallow their bitter disappoinment and will remain in the Reserve Unit which has to undergo reorganization and which with the Canadian Reserve Army as a whole still has an important part to play in the defence of Canada and the maintenance of all that the British Empire represents, and is striving to secure.

Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., commanding the Active Battalion of the Regiment, said that he wished through the Examiner to extend his personal thanks to the men of the old regiment who had volunteered and were rejected. He realized, he stated, that many of them had lost time at their work as a result of applying for enlistment, and while he regretted that they would not continue to serve under him paid tribute to their past services in helping to maintain the efficiency of the Prince of Wales Rangers, and urged them to carry on in the same spirit with the Reserve Army.

Members of the Prince of Wales Rangers who have been rejected for active service and whose names have not previously been mentioned are:

Clifford H. Chapman, C.Q.M.S., 206 Westcott street; Nelson J. Stanger, Sgt., 455 Rogers street; Harry Bassett, Sgt., 461 Bolivar street; J. R. S. MacLeod, Sgt., 316 Maitland avenue; Harold S. Provide Trees For Schools

The reforesation committee of the county council has decided to pay for the transportation of trees from the Orono forest into Peterborough county.

"This is largely an educational venture," W. A. Anderson said. "One of the things that will be done will be to provide trees for the children of the rural schools, get them to know trees and handle them. Many persons don't know yet that the Department of Forests is giving away trees to applicants.

I have set up a little competition in the schools, and in many of them it is working well. In one small school section seventeen farmers have decided to apply for trees this year. The children go home and ask their fathers what they are going to do about trees this year, and they become little agents and helpers.

For every acre that is planted in trees there are eight hundred acres that are not planted, Mr. Anderson said, a great work to be done, but moving slowly in a land that is only gradually understanding what has happened to its natural resources of timber and what should be done about conservation and reforestation.

Officers Return To Canada

MAJOR JAMES TURNBULL

CAPT. GORDON ARMSTRONG

MAJOR ALAN MACNAB

Three officers who left Peterborough with the Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry Highlanders have returned to Canada and one, Captain Gordon Armstrong, who is attached to the general staff of the Second Canadian Division, has arrived in Peterborough. Capt. Armstrong is to take a staff course at R.M.C., Kingston, while the other two officers will be posted to other units.

Highlanders Are In Fine Military Trim Officers State

"Gee, it's great to be home again," was the first thing Captain Gordon Armstrong said as he stepped off the C.P.R. train at 11.35 this morning and was greeted by an Examiner reporter. A few minutes later his wife, formerly Sally Garvey, and their little daughter, arrived, and there was a happy reunion.

Captain Armstrong left Canada with the Glengarry Highlanders and on arrival in England was soon transferred to the General Staff of the Second Canadian Division. He was on leave in the Highlands of Scotland when word reached him that he was to sail for Canada, and take a staff course at Royal Military College, Kingston, which means he will be in Canada for several months.

Arriving on the same convoy were Major Jim Turnbull and Major Alan Macnab, and Sgt. Bud Clarke. It is understood that all these men will be posted as instructors to various units in Canada.

"How are the Glengarrians?" asked the reporter.

"They are A.1 and in fine military trim," Captain Armstrong stated. He mentioned Lt. Harry Willis, Lt. Archie Hamilton, Lt. Jim Gillespie who is still transport officer, and Captain Ross Hood who is on the job as quartermaster.

"Jack Peterson has made a good recovery and his back is as good as ever," he said. Peterson was injured in a fall some months ago, and his condition was regarded as serious. Before enlisting he was staff photographer for The Examiner.

Captain Armstrong is carrying an ash walking stick, a new quirk with the Highlanders. The walking stick comes from the Highlands of Scotland.

No word has been received as to when the other soldiers will arrive in the city as they are arriving in Montreal today.

Canadian Press announced that Sgt. Jack Budd, Tom Hewetson and J. C. James of Peterborough arrived there today.

Inspector Copp Explains Pupil Release

County school pupils over twelve years of age may be released from school attendance for war work, which includes agriculture, after April 17, School Inspector Leo Copp, informed the county council today.

Application forms may be obtained from the teachers at the schools and are to be signed by the applicant, farmer or other prospective employer. Such pupils are required to spend thirteen weeks in the prescribed employment designated as war work, and must eventually present to the entrance board a certificate of this employment.

In the meantime the school teacher in each case makes a confidential report upon which promotion for the year must depend. Presumably if a pupil has had favorable marks during the year, and generally warrants recommendation, the teacher will submit that information which is considered with the certificate of war work.

"The obligation is placed on the pupil to show that he worked thirteen weeks," Mr. Copp said. "That time need not be all spent at one job."

Mr. Copp remarked later today that pupils who are released from school attendance under the Department of Education's helpful plan are required to work only in some food processing industry. That of course does not apply to the boy who is going to work on a farm, but according to Inspector Copp those who engage in other work are apparently confined to food processing industries, cheese-making, cereal milling and so on. Youths of sixteen may go to work where they wish after school closes for the summer.

Says Nepheline Spends $20,000 A Month

The payroll of the American Nepheline Company of Lakefield and the Blue Mountains of Methuen township is "running $8,000 a month," Ralph Kilbun informed the county council yesterday afternoon in presenting a request for improvement of the county road from Lakefield along the south shore of Stoney Lake.

"Practically all that money is spent in the county," Mr. Kilbun said. "We are spending altogether about $20,000 a month, money that is going into this county except for some mechanical parts that have to be brought in, and we buy them through local agents.

We hauled 5,000 to 6,000 tons a month last year over that road, and we have to bring out 60,000 tons this year to meet present demands. There is a lot of traffic over that road during the summer months, especially with cottagers and tourists going to Stoney Lake.

The road is not in hauling condition now, and we are asking the council to maintain it so that it will stand up under heavy traffic.

Big Gasoline Tax

Every ton of rock requires one gallon of gasoline; that means an 11c gasoline tax for every ton of rock. The road has become very bad in many places, and we are coming to the council after asking both the Dominion and Ontario governments for some kind of help."

Mr. Kilbun said the distance to the mine is twenty-seven miles, of which eighteen miles is county road. The rest is township road at the east end and provincial highway at the Lakefield end.

"They told us that if it were not county road they could do something for us in the way of upkeep, but it is a county road and all the Department could do would be to make its regular grants through the county council."

At that stage of the interview, Miss Batten, clerk, mentioned the Department's restriction on this year's road program, just half of last year.

"Fifty per cent of our product is going into war projects, but that is not enough to give us strategic rating," said Mr. Kilbun.

"Is there any way we could get the province and the Dominion government to co-operate with the county in doing something to fix up this road," Reeve C. S. Tanner, Lakefield, enquired.

Can't Buy Trucks

F. S. Coyle, trucking contractor to the Nepheline company, referred to other looming difficulties. He tried to buy two new trucks to put on the road, replacement craft, and could not get an official permit to buy them. He spent hours in Toronto the other day in quest of tires, and was told he would have to make the old ones do.

Mr. Kilbun explained that rock was towed down Stoney Lake during the period of navigation, but that was no immediate help.

Reeve Mann suggested that if Mr. Coyle would put his fleet of trucks to work for a week or two, the county might be able to supply the gravel.

After Mr. Kilbun and Mr. Coyle had left the council chamber it was mentioned that both the company and Mr. Coyle had been doing exceedingly well in the Nepheline business, and the council had the farmers of this county to consider more than ever if the road expenditure had to be cut in half.

Machine Bills Due

"And don't forget that you have payments on a truck and grader to meet this year," Miss Batten reminded the council.

"And we might not have much use for them," one of the members observed.

Referring to the Kilbun request, Reeve Gifford said it was up to the government and the company to find a means of getting the ore out. "If we start spending money on that road there will be nothing left for the rest of us."

"I feel like asking the government for $75,000 at least," Reeve M. H. Johnston said.

Reeve David Curtin of Galway-Cavendish, said he was just as badly off as the Nepheline company. "We have 150,000 big logs to be drawn out of the township this season, and our money is cut in half. How are we going to keep up the roads?"

Maintain Milk Routes

"And we've got our farmers to think about," remarked Reeve Rork Ferguson. "They'll be hauling milk to the cheese factories in about another month, and that's war work, and our roads are in none too good condition. A lot of us wanted to spend more money instead of less this year, and now it had been cut in half. Where are we going to wind up before the summer is over?"

Reeve P. J. Mather agreed with Mr. Ferguson that agriculture was classed as one of the three categories of war effort; the armed forces and the making of munitions being the other two. "We appreciate the Nepheline company and its industry very much, but we are facing more acute problems than ever. But, it is only a 50-per cent war industry, in contrast with agriculture."

If the council can get permission to spend up to 75% of the money laid out last year on roads, something might be done for the Nepheline Company on the Stoney Lake road, and in the meantime an effort will be made to utilize the Coyle trucks if the council can locate an adjacent gravel pit. It sounded slightly vague, but Reeve Martin said he had tried to get something done.

He said he had encountered the same statutory obstacle which permitted no special grant from the Department because the road was part of the county system.

G. A. Macdonald Heads Chamber

Former mayor George A. Macdonald was elected president of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the new board of directors Thursday night, succeeding James Geraghty, who has held the office for the past three years.

Mr. Macdonald was formerly vice-president of the organization, and at Thursday's meeting H. L. Garner was chosen to fill the vacancy as vice-president.

The new treasurer is John A. McKone, succeeding the late J. J. Turner.

James J. Dorris was re-elected as secretary of the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce has decided to make another big effort to retain railway facilities between Port Hope and Peterborough. A meeting of representatives of all the municipalities from Lindsay to Port Hope will be called and a strong appeal will be made to the Canadian National Railways to maintain a train service in view of the sharp change that has been caused in the transportation situation in recent months because of the shortage of gasoline and rubber. The Chamber feels that this is no time to cut off train services, and officers are confident that they can prove to the railway authorities that it would be good business to retain the service between Port Hope and Peterborough.

County Sends Thanks To Kinsmen Club

Appreciation of the hospitality of the Kinsmen at the club's dinner last night, was expressed in a resolution by Reeve Gifford, seconded by Deputy-Reeve McIlmoyle, at this morning's session of the County Council.

"I am sure we all enjoyed the dinner as guests of the Kinsmen," Mr Gifford said, "and we all benefitted from the address by Hon. G. L. Kennedy. He was an appropriate speaker for such an occasion, and gave the city people a real idea of present-day farm conditions."

Another resolution by Reeve A. B. Mann, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Archibald, directed the clerk to write a personal letter on behalf of the council to Colonel Kennedy "telling him how much we appreciated his address."

A letter of condolence to the family of the late John Clark, former reeve of Galway-Cavendish, will be forwarded from the council as proposed in a motion by Deputy-Reeve Davidson, seconded by Reeve Gifford.

Possibility of getting the sanction of the Department of Highways to spend more than half the amount passed in January for road work, relaxing the restriction reported on Thursday, was mooted this morning. The council yesterday proposed asking the Department for permission to undertake 75 per cent. of the road program as outlined in January, and also for financial help to improve the Lakefield - Crowe's Landing road, was deleted from the minutes this morning on Reeve Ferguson's motion, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Davidson.

"We may get more information before the day is out as to what the Department intends to do," Mr. Ferguson said.

"The Nepheline Company is spending a lot of money in this county, and the council should help them in any way we can, Reeve C. S. Tanner remarked.

A committee composed of Reeves Ferguson, Seeney and Flynn and Warden Lean was appointed to consider condensation of the auditors' report for the purpose of cutting down the printing bill.

Miss Batten, Clerk, said the Department of Municipal Affairs did not want in the minutes the minor details of receipts and expenditures.

"The committee could bring out what they think would be satisfactory to the council," Reeve Mather suggested.

"But will that satisfy the ratepayers?" Mr. McIlmoyle asked.

"You can count on your fingers the number of ratepayers who ever get a copy of the report," said Mr. Ferguson.

"Well, you have more fingers than I have," Mr. McIlmoyle replied.

Miss Batten informed Reeve Mahoney of Douro that about fifteen copies of the auditors' report are obtained by ratepayers during the year.

Catsup Bottle Is Thrown In Cafe

The experience of six Millbrook men who gathered in a local cafe the other night and got into trouble when a catsup bottle was tossed up against a wall occupied the attention of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., for an hour in police court this morning.

After the catsup bottle episode the police were called and they arrested three of the six as being intoxicated.

All three pleaded guilty to the charge this morning. They were defended by John A. Bradshaw.

However after hearing the evidence of several of the Hollywood Restaurant staff and of Constables Leo Murphy and John Morrow and the defence testimony of the accused and two of his companions Magistrate Langley registered a conviction against the first of the three to be tried and fined him $10 and $3 costs.

The other two accused then changed their pleas to guilty and were also fined $10 and costs.

Trinity Club Presents Annual Play

An audience that filled the Reid street hall of Trinity Church to capacity roared with laughter on Thursday evening at the riotous comedy, "Too Many Bosses," presented by Trinity Club under the direction of Mrs. Charlie Huffman and Mr. Harold Rehill. And it may be said here and now that these two directors have done a splendid job of that all important and too often thankless task.

The whole production was remarkably good. The actors were well-cast and played their parts capably and conscientiously, with none of those lapses into self-consciousness which sometimes happen between dialogue. Each character was carefully interpreted and sustained throughout the play.

The play concerned the troubles of one, Eric Waterman, a young man with a bossy fiancee who keeps changing her mind about their house. Driven in desperation by his fiancee, Fern Lakin's demand for three bathrooms in the house, Eric puts it up for sale and sells it almost immediately, with aid of Fern's uncle, Ramsey Gelder. Fern, egged on by her mother, from whom she has inherited her chief characteristic, breaks off the engagement, and the grief and tribulation which follow make plenty of laughs for the audience. The plot is further complicated by Vida, Fern's young sister, who is cherishing a school passion for Eric.

Vida Lakin, the moon-struck school girl, is played with the proper display of scatterbrained enthusiasm by Norma McInroy. Grandpa Lakin, who doesn't want to see Eric become a hen-pecked husband like Gregory Lakin, Fern's father, is played with enjoyment, and is exceptionally well-sustained, by Charlie Huffman.

Anna, the colored maid, was played by Ruth Holmes, who maintained her negro accent consistently throughout the play, a difficult achievement. Uncle Gamsey Gelder, a matchmaker and confirmed bachelor, was portrayed with benign urbanity by Richard Clayton. Fern Lakin, beautiful but bossy, is played by Isobel Kemp, who managed to give definite character to the heroine, a quality that very few farce-comedy heroines possess. Eric Waterman, in love and rather doubtful and confused, but determined not to be hen-pecked, was played by Donald Holmes. Gregory Lakin, absentminded, confused, a horrible example of what years of hen-pecking can do to a man, was played by Jim Betts, whose constant look of sleepy bewilderment brought laughter from the audience every time he appeared on the stage.

Monic Lakin, Greg's wife, was played with vim and vigor by Iris Whalon, and Mrs. Waterman, Eric's mother, a tearful widow, was played by Reta Palliser. Whose floods of tears at every provocation were so convincing that most of the audience must have wanted to tell her to "dry up!" Josephine Burnett, Fern's friend, who helped uncle Ramsey to bring the lovers together, was played by Andrey Garside and her young man, Garrett Young, was played by Bill Petrie.

Mr. Petrie deserves special mention. The part of Garrett was to have been played by Harvey Shier, but who was unfortunately taken ill at the eleventh hour and Bill filed in his place. Considering the short time he had to prepare himself, Bill did remarkably well.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 28

WHILE THERE may be much activity and enterprise on this day it is likely that the personal functions and interests will be uppermost, with prosaic and business objectives relegated to the background, although these are under favorable rule for constructive work if energy and practical efforts be turned in this direction. Friendship or some social influence might be of benefit here.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and eventful year, with much progress and fulfilled ambitions both in business and private life. The former is under good auguries for expansion and energetic exploits if application and industry be aggressively employed. The social or friendly aspect may be utilized for furthering objectives. The major attention may be centred, however, on domestic, social, affectional or other personal or intimate associations.

A child born on this day should be bold, keen courageous, energetic and ambitious, with friendship, popularity, and good fellowship holding place in its plans.

T. P. Lancaster Appeals For Red Cross

"I wish some of our men worked just half as hard as our women," said T. P. Lancaster of Havelock in a tribute to the members of the Red Cross Society throughout the county, preceding his proposal to the County Council yesterday afternoon for a half a mill levy on the tax rate this year to support the Red Cross Society.

In the last two years these branches of the Red Cross have made a total of 7,153 knitted articles, such as seamen's socks, pullover sweaters, soldiers' socks, headwear, and other goods; 19,835 hospital articles, 1,335 pieces of clothing for refugees, 3,660 articles for refugee civilians in Great Britain, and they have also contributed 270 blankets.

"A marvellous accomplishment," Mr. Lancaster added to his glowing comment to the contribution the women of this county have been making to the broad enterprise of the Red Cross Society since the war began.

Mr. Lancaster referred to the fact that the Dominion Government was providing for the financing of all other auxiliary war services this year, thereby relieving municipalities and communities of the necessity of canvasses and drives.

Seek People's Help.

The exception was the Red Cross Society which had set an objective of $9,000,000 for the appeal it was making to the people of Canada during the first two weeks of June.

The Society foresees the need of huge sums of money in the near future," Mr. Lancaster explained. "You may ask why they have stood out for a drive. From its inception, the Red Cross took the viewpoint that all its activities should be supported and conducted by the people as a whole, and no Government should have any part in their contributions. And so the Dominion Government assented to the special drive of the Red Cross this year. I might say that the American Red Cross takes the same attitude in the United States."

Mr. Lancaster recalled that the County Council had contributed the money raised by one mill in the tax rate some $10,000, for patriotic purposes last year. He suggested that half a mill this year would provide $5,000 of which $3,000 could be given to the Ontario division of the society in Toronto, and $2,000 could be distributed among the local branches throughout the villages and townships.

"I am making bold in suggesting this to you. I know," Mr. Lancaster said, "but I feel the County Council would be well advised in assuming the burden of the drive. Our objective has not yet been announced, and you will perhaps not be setting your rate until June, but I came up here to-day just to talk it over with you so that you will have the knowledge of what is being done.

Save Gasoline.

A canvass of the whole county would require a great deal of driving around in cars, burning gasoline and wearing out rubber tires, and probably some persons who would be willing to give to the fund might be overlooked."

Mr. Lancaster said that only through the agency of the Red Cross Society could prisoners of war be supplied with parcels. These comforts were forwarded through the International Red Cross headquarters in Geneva Switzerland. Already some 170,000 parcels have been sent through that channel to actual prisoners of war.

County branches of the society mentioned by Mr. Lancaster were: Apsley, Havelock-Belmont, Lakefield, Norwood, Otonabee, Smith, Ennismore, Harvey and Galway, North Monaghan through its affiliation with the branch in this city, and Reeve M. H. Johnston and Reeve Robert Martin said that Warsaw also had a chartered branch.

Work of Many Women.

Mr. Lancaster said that a large number of women were engaged in this work throughout the county, meeting once or twice a week and generally doing a splendid patriotic work. Apsley has a Red Cross Outpost Hospital, and in spite of the aid we received from the County Council and locally, its administration showed a net deficit of $1,673 in 1940 and $1,379 deficit in 1941, both assumed by the Toronto division.

WCTU Members Are Urged To Prepare for New World

"Reconstruction and a New World Order," was the timely, interesting and educational topic discussed at the W.C.T.U. meeting, held Thursday in the Green Room at the Y.W.C.A., when the members and friends heard Mrs. N. Buckley and Miss Elizabeth Walker. With the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, in the chair, the exceptionally fine program was carried out.

The opening devotions were led by Mrs. E. Wand. Mrs. J. H. Rowe offered earnest prayer for the fulfilment of this prophecy. A questionnaire conducted by the speakers of the day was based upon the work, the aims and ideals of the League of Nations Society.

The first point emphasized was that all must prepare now for a new world, since our former failures were due to lack of preparation. The society is endeavoring to give education for world citizenship to bring in a new order in which the good of all nations will be considered.

"Peace" was another question dealt with in this discussion and was defined as being not merely an uneasy interval between wars, but the by-product of doing what is right. It is the concern of all individuals. We must first make our own small part of the world as we wish the universe to be. We must root out all feeling of race superiority and religious intolerance.

Evils in our own nation, community must be stamped out before we can expect "world peace." "If each before his doorstep sweep, the village will be clean."

The question arose as to whether or not the League has failed. Its technical work, including health, nutrition, housing, labor, and the control of drugs is still carried on in various parts of the world.

The fact that there were 100,000 paid fees last year in the League of Nations, proves that it is still very much alive. In concluding this worthwhile period of study, it was announced there would be a discussion group, on this same subject, on Friday night at the Y.M.C.A., led by Mr. Alex Stewart.

In a brief business session, $30 was voted to the W.C.T.U. Budget Fund, to meet the expenses of the society's field secretaries. The local union also contributed $28.50 toward the Home Centre Camp at Petawawa.

Easter Motif In Decorations At Charming Tea

Confederation Home and School Association held a highly successful tea on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Morris Parry, Braidwood Ave. Potted plants, pussy willows and daffodils decorated the rooms and the entrance stairway was banked with pussy willows tied with green, yellow and mauve streamers.

Tea was served at individual tables in the living room, with white cloths with green and yellow streamers criss-crossed and forming V's. Crystal vases holding daffodils centred the tables.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Joe Douglas in the dining room at a table covered with a Chinese hand-made lace, with a centre-piece of daffodils and pussy willows, flanked by green and yellow candles in crystal holders. Chocolate bunnies stood guard over nests of blue and yellow eggs while chocolate mother hens strolled over the table.

Mrs. F. White, president, received the guests and the general conveners were Mrs. Monk and Mrs. Parry. Mrs. W. White, Mrs. Crouter, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. McIntyre assisted served at the tea. Shirley Watkiss and Shirley Siddall sang several delightful solos, accompanying themselves on guitars.

BLACKOUT SANDWICHES

Emergency Food For Hungry Families

ALL the family will praise your sandwiches if you will just avoid "flat taste" by the addition of H. P. Sauce. This is the secret to appetizing sandwiches.

"Blackout" Sandwiches are the latest wartime "newey". To make them, whip together ½ lb. of cream cheese with 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce and ½ tablespoon of horseradish; then sauté a 3½ oz. can of chipped beef and a tablespoon of butter until frizzled. Break up fine and add to cheese mixture. Spread on buttered brown bread.

H. P. is a fine old English type, thick, fruity sauce. It is economical because it is concentrated. Try it on meat, fish, fowl, salads, soups, stews, etc. You'll be surprised at the wonderful flavour it gives foods.

Students Display Work Annual Fashion Show

The day and night school pupils of the Collegiate who have been studying sewing gave a fashion show and display of work in the Collegiate Auditorium on Thursday evening. Mr. G. A. Macdonald, chairman of the Advisory Vocational committee, was in the chair for the evening and the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Isabel Weddell, sang several numbers, including some selections from the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore." The program was further varied by a dance performed by the pupils of 12 Commercial and 12 Household Arts.

The day school pupils displayed their dresses first. Household Arts 10, the first year students, had made skirts and blouses. Before making their skirts the girls had received lessons in the designing and making of patterns, and these skirts were cut from patterns designed by the girls themselves, and very smart they were too. The blouses were chiefly tailored, although some were dressier and in softer materials. One girl had gone so far as to make a jacket to go with her skirt, and the navy skirt and jacket and print blouse made a smart ensemble.

The older Household Arts students had made dresses, each dress having a slip made to go with it. Several of the girls had made hats to match their dresses and one girl had even made a bag. As much attention is paid to the fit as to the sewing on these dresses and the results are dresses as smart as any girl could wish to wear.

A beautiful parade of children's clothes drew much interest. These clothes had been made by mothers at the night school classes.

The junior night school students had made cotton dresses, using the attractive new floral prints in large designs on white backgrounds. Miss Gerrard said that these dresses will be invaluable this summer, for the materials are all pre-shrunk and are very fine materials.

The senior night school pupils had specialized in afternoon dresses, suits and coats, and gave a really smart display.

The proceeds from the fashion show will be used to finance the war work of the students, and outside the auditorium some samples of this work were on display. Beautifully knitted baby garments, socks for ex-students in the forces and well-made, practical sets of clothes for children. One of these units was on display and included a skirt, blouse, sweater, cap, bloomers, a pair of socks and a night-gown. There are fifty of these units in the making at the school, plus 10 quilts, 5 afghans, 50 babies' nightgowns, and 65 size two dresses. This is certainly a remarkable record and it would still be remarkable if the pupils had not in addition, raised the money for a mobile kitchen, continued their studies, and continued their regular student activities almost without curtailment.

"Mexican Masquerade"....

By CECIL CARNES

THE STORY: Now it can be told—strange tale of Allan Steele's experience in Mexico's Lower California Peninsula. Allan, headed for isolated Inn of One Thousand Delights, drives off three horsemen who attack mounted officer, hears them call him "Traitor!" "They're really my friends," officer explains, but Allan asks no questions. Attackers had stunned a beggar, placed him by roadside to trap Mexican officer.

CHAPTER III

ALLAN had noticed the tiny trickle of blood from a fresh bruise on the beggar's right temple; now he began to observe certain other details which gave him a queer feeling in the pit of his stomach. "I see where they socked him, but—but what else happened to the poor devil? Did he get run through a sausage machine sometime — or something?"

"Ah—you mean those old scars! That happened before your time, or mine. Pepe was once a storekeeper in San Saba. He did well, and it was rumored he had a hidden hoard of gold somewhere. He was kidnaped by bandits. When he wouldn't tell them where the money was, they tortured him to make him talk. They sliced off his ears, pulled his tongue out by the roots, and finally ripped the soles from his feet. He was never the same after that experience."

"I believe you," said the American, and cleared his throat. "He didn't give up his secret?"

"He couldn't. There was no hidden hoard. When they were convinced of that, the bandits turned him loose. But his mind was affected, and he took to wandering about the countryside and living on the charity of Indians and fishermen. He is quite harmless, though he has one queer habit."

"Wouldn't blame him if he had a dozen. What is it?"

"Whenever a stranger appears hereabouts, Pepe will go up to him and stare at him hard. Some people think he is trying to find the leader of the bandits who crippled him; if he ever does, they say he will kill the man."

"I wish him luck!" said Allan fervently. "Are there many bandits like that around her now?" he added thoughtfully.

"Oh, dear me, no! Occasionally some silly fellows try to revive those old customs, but we soon bring them to book. Often they try to escape and are shot." The black eyes twinkled. "You see, not all the old customs are dead!"

Allan smiled at the reference to the famous ley de fuego. Sheer murder by Anglo-Saxon standards, of course, but damned efficient! Then he looked from the figure at his feet to the sedan.

"I was on my way to the Inn of One Thousand Delights, but my car appears to have reversed the idea. Can't I put this poor chap —Pepe—in back and drive him to a doctor?"

"Indeed, senor, you are the Good Samaritan come to life! If you will do that I will be happy to accompany you and take charge of the affair when we reach the village. I have already missed my appointment there, but—there is always tomorrow." He snapped his fingers lightly. "Hola Chiquito! Venga!"

His horse, which had wandered off in a futile quest for forage, came trotting up obediently. When he had helped Allan put the unconscious Pepe in the rear seat of the sedan, the Mexican swung himself into the saddle and led the way at a canter. Parboiled himself Allan thought the fellow must have a strain of salamander in him to look so trim and cool after all he'd been through.

Half an hour later, when they had abandoned their charge to the tender mercies of the local doctor, the two men stood a moment beside the car for a farewell word.

"You are going to stop a while at the hotel, senor? In that case we shall surely meet again. But first, may I ask your name, and the nature of the business that brings you to this little out-of-the- way community "

Allan hesitated, then was moved to assert himself mildly. After all, he had been invited himself not to ask questions! He smiled disarmingly.

"Certainly. But may I ask who is asking?"

Ah, senor, a thousand pardons!" He seemed genuinely contrite. "I should have introduced myself at once. I am Col. Alfredo Escobar y Carvajal, of the Rural Guard. I am over here on leave from my regiment, whish is stationed across the Peninsula at Ensenada." He added with a slowness which gave emphasis to his words "Moreover, I have the honor to be responsible for the preservation of law and order in this district."

So that was it. Allan had come face to face with officialdom for the first time since leaving the border. Automatically, he straightened and started to raise stiff fingers to the brim of his panama; he caught back the gesture and lifted his hat instead.

"Delighted to meet you, Senor Comandante," he responded. "My name is Allan Steele. United States citizen, native of Los Angeles. I am a photographer by profession, attached to the staff of the Golden Horn Review, a magazine published in San Francisco. My editor thought a series of photographs showing typical scenes of Lower California might be interesting, so—here I am."

He told the lie smoothly, serenely confident it was water-tight and fool-proof. The editor of the Golden Horn Review had been discreetly coached on how to reply to any inquiries; also, photography happened to be Allan's one hobby, so he knew the patter of the trade and could carry off his part should he chance to meet some expert. He had even brought along two valuable cameras for corroborative background.

The colonel bowed. He held out a hand, slender and well-shaped but with a hint of iron strength in its grip.

"Yours is a pleasant profession, senor, and I trust you will find subjects to your taste along the gulf." A bit disconcertingly, he concluded: "Nevertheless, I think your editor must be rather a cold-blooded tyrant to send you on such an assignment—in July!"

ALLAN drove slowly to the Inn of One Thousand Delights, pondering the personality of the man he had just left. The officer responsible for the maintenance of law and order in this district, by godfrey! Decidedly a pleasant fellow, conceded Allan, but the ugly word "traitor" still rang in his ears. The bearded brigand who had shouted it had put a lot of conviction into the epithet.

The lobby of the inn was cool and almost dark after the heat and glare of the sun-baked road. Allan strode across the tiled floor to where he discerned an immensely fat Chinese who was seated behind an orthodox hotel desk and slowly fanning himself with a palm-leaf fan. Perched on a stool, apparently chatting in an undertone with the Chinese, was a short, stocky man of a brownish complexion that did not seem just the right shade for a Mexican. He slid from his seat as the newcomer approached and went off through a doorway leading to the patio. As the light from the courtyard revealed him more clearly, Allan thought he had rarely seen a face so lowering, brutal and villainous.

"Am I addressing Senor Sun Su?" he asked in Spanish.

"Entirely at your service, senor. I am Sun Su."

Briefly, Allan studied the yellow, full-moon countenance of the one man in Lower California whom he had been advised he could trust. He glanced about him. There was nobody in sight but himself, the proprietor, and the squat, brownish fellow who was now halfway across the patio and safely beyond earshot. He leaned across the desk.

"The word," he said softly, "is Confucius."

No muscle moved in the impassive face of the Chinese, but a flicker of interest lighted his almond-shaped eyes.

"So you are Number Two!" he murmured. "I've been half expecting you, senor, since the strange departure of Number One!..

WIVES' ADVICE TO HUSBANDS: DON'T QUIT LOVE-MAKING

They Don't Want to Be Taken For Granted Nor Are They Just Slaves

Judging by the letters that so many unhappily married women write me, the chief grievances that wives have against their husbands are these: First and foremost, that their husbands take them for granted. They drop all love-making at the altar and thereafter treat their wives as if they ceased to be lady loves and became merely household conveniences. They never mention the state of their affections again, or pay their wives a compliment, or call them pet names, or exhibit any interest in them as women. They also take their wives' sacrifices and services for granted. They accept all of their wives' devotion and hard work and penny-pinching as no more than their due and without even saying "thank you." They gobble down their wives' good meals without even mentioning that they could back a French chef out of his own kitchen, and the only reward they get for their thrift is being knocked for not keeping down the bills more. It would surprise the ghosts of many a dead wife to read on her tombstone that she was her husband's beloved wife, and to hear him brag about how she helped him make his fortune. The next thing that wives complain of is their husbands' assumption that all that a woman needs to make her perfectly happy is a marriage certificate, and that, anyway, just being married to them is all the picnic that any woman could crave.

Appreciate Attention

Hence they feel under no obligation to entertain or amuse Friend Wife or do anything for her diversion, because they think she can get all the fun she wants out of sitting up at home by her lonesome watching the baby breathe. Most wives practically have to shanghai their husbands into even taking them to the movies, while wangling and evening out of them for dining and dancing takes so much persuasion and managing and diplomacy it isn't worth the price.

The next thing that peeves wives is the tightfisted way in which their husbands dole out money to them. A business girl may have given up a high-salaried job to go into a man's kitchen, where she does the work of two or three servants, but that doesn't affect her husband's belief that she doesn't know anything about handling money, or that he supports her, or make him think that she is entitled to a few dollars every month as her right because she has earned it by her work.

There are, of course, exceptional husbands who are generous enough and fair enough to give their wives allowances without asking what they do with the money, but the majority of husbands still make their wives comes to them like beggars for every dollar they have, and the wife of many a rich man never has fifty cents in a fifty dollar handbag.

Home Not a Wailing Wall

Another thing that gets on the nerves of wives is their husbands making their homes a dumping ground for all of their troubles and worries, and saying to the helpless women to whom they are married all the mean things they would have liked to have said to their bosses and customers, but that they dared not say.

"How can we make happy homes," cry these unfortunate wives, "when our husbands fill them with gloom and do nothing but grouch in them? How can we please them when they never tell us what they want us to do, and whatever we do they knock? What is the use of economizing when our husbands will row over bills, no matter how small they are? What is the use in trying to look nice when our husbands will sneer at our hair-dos and make fun of our hats. I tell you a lot of us wives would drop dead of surprise is our husbands ever paid us a compliment."

Another trait in husbands that cause wives to emit walls of self-pity is the habit so many have of passing into the silence as soon as they are married. In the days of courtship they were chatty and entertaining and had a line that made girls think that they would be delightful companions with whom to spend the balance of their lives. But no sooner were they married than they were apparently stricken dumb. No sooner had they swallowed their dinners than they barricaded themselves behind their papers and all that their wives, who were hungry for talk, could get out of them was a grunt or an "uh huh."

Tidiness Is Appreciated

There was none of the pleasant comradeship the wife had looked forward to. Only dull evenings spent in a silence so thick you could cut it with a knife, and as far as the wife was concerned she might just as well have married a stuffed shirt as a live man.

And, of course, there are husbands who are scatterers, who hang up their coats on the floor and spill ashes on the rugs and who are bathrom wreckers, and husbands who never come home to meals on time, and husband who read at the table, and husbands who settle the fate of the world at breakfast, who all make the women who married them wonder what made them do it, for the perfect husband is as much a myth as the perfect wife.

Problem for Old Age

Dear Miss Dix: I am nearly 80 years old and have had the misfortune to lose my wife who died a few months ago leaving me alone. I have four children. All of them have good homes of their own and they think I should sell my farm and everthing else and come and live with them.

I appreciate their offer, but I have lived in this neighborhood for 45 years and it is hard for me to leave. What do you advise me to do?- An Old Father

ANSWER—Keep your farm which will give you something to do and think about except your loneliness. Keep your home. Hire some settled woman for a housekeeper to make you comfortable. Keep your independence.

If you go to live with your children, you will have to adapt your ways to theirs, which isn't easy at your age. Nothing takes the place with old people that their own home and their old friends and old associations have. Keep your farm unless you want to be miserable.

Fast, Clever Way to Learn Piano

Man Prefers Girl Who Can Play

The girl who plays the piano is competition for anyone—so don't compete! Be that girl yourself!

After all, playing the piano is fun, and learning's not the chore it used to be. Our home instruction book has a clever chart of the keyboard so you can quickly teach yourself how to read music.

The chart has a musical staff with arrows pointing from each note to the corresponding key. Placing the life-size chart behind the matching keys you discover at once the key to play for any note.

Your next step is to play popular music or semi-classical songs. The easy way to start is to play just the right-hand part, the melody, while with your left you play simple, harmonizing chords—learned a special short-cut way.

Our 24-page instruction book shows how to learn chords the short-cut way and includes a full-size keyboard chart and table of chords. Explains musical symbols, time and rhythm; has 3 airs for practise.

For your copy of "Quick Course in Piano Playing" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of instruction book.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ASSET AND LIABILITY

A SINGLETON in your hand may be measured two ways when your partner gives you a choice between a No Trump and a suit contract. In the case of the No Trump it is somewhat of a liability. Though your partner's No Trump bid has indicated safe stopping of that suit, your shortage tends to increase the length of it in the opponents' hands. At a suit contract, the singleton is a definite asset as offering a place where you can use your trumps separately to take additional tricks.

North: ♠ 9 6 4 ♥ 7 ♦ A Q 6 5 3 ♣ A 10 4 2

West: ♠ 10 3 ♥ K Q 10 5 4 ♦ J 9 8 2 ♣ 8 5

East: ♠ Q J 8 ♥ J 8 6 3 ♦ 10 ♣ Q J 9 7 6

South: ♠ A K 7 5 2 ♥ A 9 2 ♦ K 7 4 ♣ K 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

This contract was made with two overtricks following the lead of the heart K. South won with the A and ruffed the heart 2 with the spade 6. He led the spade 4 to his A, then ruffed the heart 9 with the spade 9. The diamond K and the spade K were followed then by the diamond 4 to the A, which East ruffed with the spade Q. That was all the trick taking by the opponents, as South had no problem to win the rest.

Several pairs in the same duplicate reached 3-No Trumps. In one case, after South bid the 2-No Trumps on his second turn, North went to 3-No Trumps. In another, when North bid 3-Clubs after the 2-No Trumps on the second round, South went to 3-No Trumps. In still another, after North's second round bid of 3-Clubs and South's correct rebid of 3-Spades, North made a terrifically bad bid of 3-No Trumps. All of the No Trump games were beaten, by the heart K lead. South ran eight consecutive tricks, but then had to lose the lead, whereupon the defenders took the remainder in hearts.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q 10 7 ♥ 5 ♦ 9 3 2 ♣ A 10 9 8 3

South: ♠ 4 ♥ A K J 10 2 ♦ A K J 10 7 4 ♣ 4

If the defenders had not bid and West leads the club 7, how should South play this deal to make 6-Diamonds?

Job For Lindbergh

DETROIT, March 27.—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, whose help Henry Ford once said he would like to have to put airplanes into mass production, has been offered a job by Ford in the engineering department of the huge Willow Run factory now nearing completion.

The Flier has accepted the offer conditional on obtaining approval of the U.S. war department.

The factory when in full production will turn out at least one four-motored bomber each hour.

Lindbergh, who was with Ford on an inspection of the plant yesterday, left for Washington.

Navy Lads Learn To Fire With Precision

To operate a high-angle, anti-aircraft gun under a hail of machine-gun fire from a marauding dive-bomber, sailors in Canada's navy must learn to load and fire with a speed and precision that becomes automatic. This scene is at an Eastern dockyard.

Rents Are Pegged This Year So May Day Will Not Be Moving Day

May Day is just around the corner of the calendar, and May Day means moving day. But this year, for the first time in history, rents are pegged and that means that rents will not be doing the dizzy dance they did in the last war.

Scores and hundreds of queries are coming into the regional offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regarding the regulations on rent control. To-day rental officials issued a statement pointing out that rentals for Peterboro are generatlly pegged at what they happened to be on October 11 last. Landlords may not increase the rent paid by their tenants without permission of the local rentals committee. If no lease was in effect on October 11, 1941, then the rent which may be charged must not be higher than the maximum rent charged in the last lease in effect since January 1, 1940.

Determine Rental.

In cases where premises are being rented for the first time, the local rentals committe is authorized to determine the maximum rental; if the, landlord or tenant applies in cases where structural alterations, improvements deteriorations to premises or services, have occurred since the basic date. the local committee may alter the ceiling rental.

Officials emphasize, however, that if a landlord is anxious to increase the rent through a plea of alteration. his application will carry little weight if his alteration does not include a substantial change. Ordinary repairs and decorating are not sufficient for consideration on the basis of alteration.

Provision, however, has been made for a landlord to secure an increase in rental of commercial and housing accommodation if he can prove to the rentals committee that the rate is entirely out of line with the rents prevailing on October 11 for similar accommodation in the same locality; but in the case of housing, the landlord must also show that the abnormally low rent he was charging at that time was by way of a concession of an exceptional nature to the tenant.

A landlord may also apply for increased rental where a substantial change, since the basic date, has taken place in the taxes on real property, or in the costs due to new or additional services payable by the landlord. He may also ask that the rent be "upped" where a substantial increase has taken place in the wear and tear since the basic date and for which the tenant has been responsible, such as sub-letting.

Under no circumstances is a landlord permitted to increase rentals without first receiving permission from the local rentals committee. Tenants as well as landlords are subject to prosecution if they violate the maximu mrentals regulations.

Czech Speaker Sakorita Forecasts Allied Victory

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27. — (ENS)—Declaring the present world war was no local affair but rather a dynamic struggle that would surely mark the end of an epoch of skepticism A. Sakouta, assistant general manager of the Bata plant at Batawa, Ontario, delivered a comprehensive talk dealing with the background of World War II. Mr. Sakouta addressed members of Christ Church Men's Club at their regular meeting here on Monday evening tracing the struggle for power in the European scene back to the time of the Roman conquest. He dealt particularly with the history of Czecho-Slovakia founded by Slavic people who migrated west across the plains of Hungary to move into the fertile lands and valleys that today comprise the Czech state. As a result of their proximity to Germany (surrounded on three sides) the "Germans have always influenced not only the faith and character of the Czech nation but also its politics," he said. He said the booty seized by Hitler on entering Czecho-Slovakia was "tremendous" and it was largely this booty which made possible the subsequent victory in Belgium, France and the Low Countries. "This war will end with a victory for civilization and mankind will never go back to the civilizaton which existed before it," concluded the speaker.

Vice-president of the Men's Club V. Cubitt extended a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker for his splendid address and also tendered a hearty welcome to a number of Rotarians who were guests at the meeting. Secretary Jos. Poulton gave a report of the dance held last Monday announcing the club had cleared $24.45, and it was revealed the executive had already completed arrangements for an Easter dance to be held April 6th. Music will again be provided by Jimmy Jones and his orchestra from Trenton but this time instead of a cafeteria lunch refreshments will be included with the admission.

LAKEFIELD

Dudley C. Chads Heads Big Plant

LAKEFIELD, March 27—(ENS). — The following was taken from The Barber County Index, a paper published in Medicine Lodge, Kansas, and refers to a former Lakefield resident Dudley C. Chads. Previous to the last war Mr. Chads was a chemist at the Canada Cement Co. and served in the last war. He is a son-in-law of Mrs. W. J. Webster, Lakefield, and his two sons are both in the Army. Ducie is a staff sergeant with the American Army stationed at Camp Robert, California, and Beric is with the R.C.A.F.

Dudley C. Chads, superintendent of the National Gypsum Company plant here, is to become production manager of an ammunition plant "somewhere in Texas," which will cost several million dollars. The announcement was made last week in Buffalo, N.Y., by Melvin H. Baker, president.

W. A. Group Meets.

Group B of the W.A. of the United Church, with Mrs. F. Darling presiding was in charge of the devotional part of the regular meeting held in the Sunday School Room on Tuesday afternoon. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. George Spence and short readings were given by Mrs. C. W. Garbutt and Mrs. Darling.

During the business period, over which president Mrs. J. A. Murphy was in charge, plans were made for a quilting for the Red Cross on March 31. Members were asked to bring their five-cent-a-week envelopes for the first quarter to this gathering.

Prayer followed by a social half-hour closed the meeting.

COAL AND GOLD

Alaska, famous as a gold producer, had its mining start when Russians exploited coal deposits on Cook Inlet in 1854.

Admiral Trapped

Rio de Janeiro, March 27 (AP)

A SAO PAULO dispatch to the newspaper O Globo reported today the arrest of a German admiral "who is an assistant to Adolf Hitler and a well known Nazi leader."

Sao Paulo police refused to give the prisoner's name but said he was the chief of a widespread Nazi espionage ring in southern Brazil, having been in the country five months, according to O Globo.

Press dispatches also reported the seizure of a group of German sailors, believed to be refugees from the sunken pocket battleship Graf Spee, in the interior of Paraiba State.

Mrs. Deyell Hostess To Lakevale Aid

FOWLER'S CORNERS, March 27 —(ENS). — The members of Lakevale Ladies' Aid Society were enjoyably entertained at the home of Mrs. M. Deyell for their March meeting which was in charge of the president, Mrs. M. Moncrieff. The Scripture reading was given with the commentary by Mrs. Wallace Darling. The roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture.

Program numbers included a talk on "Anna, Mother of Mary," by Mrs. Harry Fowler; "Alaska and Its Possibilities of Development" by Mrs. M. Moncrieff and a reading "Why Does God Allow This War?" was given by Mrs. G. Tully.

The ladies decided to quilt two more quilts for Red Cross work in the near future. The sum of $30.00 was voted to be given to the church treasurer.

A pot-luck supper was served after the meeting.

Mrs. Eva Deyell kindly loaned her home for a Red Cross quilting by Lakevale members. The quilt was completed early and lunch was served to the workers.

Austrian Alpiners On Defensive; 10 Nazi Ships Lost

MOSCOW, March 28 — (AP) — Pressure by Russian landing parties from Arctic beachheads behind the left invasion flank, combined with Soviet sea and air attacks, was reported today to be making the position of the German alpine army before Murmansk extremely difficult.

Lt.-Gen. Eduard Dietl, 51-year-old Bavarian whom Hitler decorated for his defence of Narvik in 1940, was identified by the army newspaper Red Star as the enemy commander.

"Now Dietl has been forced on the defensive and his Austrians (mountaineer troops) are being steadily pressed," it said.

The surprise landing of a Russian seaborne force on Axis-occupied soil of the Murmansk coast, designed both to clear Allied supply lines and imperil the invaders from the rear, was announced last night. The operation, however, apparently was initiated some time ago, with Red ships and planes in full support.

A Red Star dispatch said one German offensive had been blocked after a month-long struggle. (Murmansk, which lies 175 miles north of the Arctic circle, is Russia's major Barents Sea port and communications centre. Its population in 1926 was 8,777.)

Submarine operations connected with the Russian troop movement were said to have cost the Germans at least 10 transports and a Red Star dispatch said hydroplanes and dive-bombers recently sank a German destroyer and damaged another which attacked Soviet fishing boats.

Only Nine Escape

Russian fighter squadrons on the Kalinin front, which includes the Staraya Russa defences of the German 16th army, were credited by the Moscow radio with shooting down 15 Nazi craft in an air fight from which only nine flew away.

The Soviet Information Bureau said Russian units assigned to a Kalinin front sector had killed 2,450 Germans, wounded large numbers and destroyed 25 tanks in five days of fighting after "the Hitlerite command brought up reserves and attempted to deal a blow to our troops wedged into enemy de-

Smith Pioneer at Century Mark

Mrs. Jos. Milburn Will Observe Her 100th Birthday Thursday

Mrs. Joseph Milburn, Smith township pioneer, on Thursday, April 2, celebrates her 100th birthday, completing the century of life in a world of suffering and tumult, in a greater degree than has ever existed since the birth of this fine woman, in a log home a few miles from Peterborough, five years after Queen Victoria had succeeded to the throne.

The world with all its wickedness has failed to change the heart warming personality of this woman, whose philosophy is that there is good in everyone, and the result has been a host of tried and true friends who share with her their best wishes on this memorable occasion.

Special Church Service

In honor of this centenarian, a special service is being held at George Street United Church on Sunday, during which a message from Mrs. Milburn will be read by the minister, the Rev. H. L. Roberts. Several of her favorite hymns will also be played and sung during the service.

Mrs. Milburn, whose maiden name was Mary Ann Edmison, will observe her birthday in quiet fashion, with a prayer that peace through victory will soon come to the United Nations, and that the great British leader Churchill, will live to see the day when peace will reign supreme across the great British Commonwealth of Nations. Every day she reads the Examiner, but has to use a reading glass, and her memory except for names is as keen as that of a school child. War news is taboo, she does not read it, nor does she discuss the war with anyone, but perhaps more truly than any other resident of the district does this woman realize the magnitude of the struggle that the nations of the world are locked in.

The history of Smith township is the history of the Edmisons and the Milburns, and there is a wealth of memories wrapped up in the mind of this fine Canadian pioneer, whose father cleared the farm more than a century ago on which she still lives.

Mary Ann Edmison married Joseph Milburn and there were five children from the union, all of whom are living. George Milburn, now 74 years of age, lives at 660 George street, Peterborough, and is retired. Dr. J. A. Milburn lives at 131 Prince Edward street, Vancouver, and Dr. H. H. Milburn lives at 1325 13th street, also in Vancouver. There are two girls, Margaret and Eunice, both living at home with the mother. There are six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Crown Land Grant

In 1815, less than a year after the battle of Waterloo, John Edmison sailed from England to look over a land grant in Smith township that he had been given by the Crown. In time he arrived at Port Hope, and in company with Adam Scott and a man named Fothergill started northward to Peterborough. They travelled by bush trail to the south short of Rice Lake, thence by canoe up the Otonabee, and ate their lunch on the spot where the city of Peterborough now stands. History does not record any other event, but that these three were the first white men to actually walk along the west bank of the Otonabee and eat lunch beneath the trees on the river bank at the foot of the rapids, where the Quaker Oats plant is now. They followed the Indian trail from the foot of Dalhousie street out toward Lake Chemong and looked over the land grant, then returned to Port Hope.

This same Adam Scott is the man who built and operated the first mill in the city of Peterborough, and his mill was located on the west bank of the Otonabee.

Sea Voyage In Sailboat

Mr. Edmison returned to England to get married, and after the first child was born, they decided to come to Canada. The journey by sailboat was a distressing one, and Mrs. Edmison, whose maiden name was Margaret Hall, used to tell her children that the boat was at sea for three months, and she doubted

R.C.A.F. Put Fear In Nazi E-Boats

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 28—(CP Cable) —German E-boats, which seldom leave the safety of home waters, now have good reason to fear daredevil attacks by Canadian fighter pilots who always are on the lookout for enemy targets on land and sea and in the air.

Ten Spitfire pilots patrolling the Netherlands coast recently surprised a flotilla of five E-boats hugging the shore, swooped down and gave them the "works."

How many of these German high-speed surface craft were sunk or damaged during the battle is not known but a British fighter squa-

Claim Standard Oil Aided With Plants In Pre-War Germany

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP). —The Senate Investigating committee has uncovered evidence warranting an investigation of the whole United States war-time aviation gasoline program, Chairman Harry Truman (Dem.-Mo.) said today.

He said the committee is studying testimony that Standard Oil of New Jersey had helped establish gasoline refining plants in pre-war Germany. In addition, Truman said, the committee has received information that while several major companies, including the Standard Oil group, had received government contracts to produce the 100-octane fuel used in American war planes, independent firms are not sharing in this business.

"We have reports," Truman told reporters, "that the big companies have been given the inside track and that they probably will be able to pay for the plants the government is building for them out of the profits they make on the sale of gasoline to the government."

Truman said he expected the committee to look into this matter after it had concluded its current investigation into the synthetic rubber program.

As a part of that inquiry the committee heard testimony yesterday from Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General, that a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey had co-operated with Nazi government interests in construction of an aviation gasoline plant in Germany in 1938, before the outbreak of war.

He previously had testified that Standard Oil's agreement with the Nazi trust had prevented American development of synthetic rubber.

The committee will resume hearings Tuesday with Standard officials on the stand.

President Denies It

Arnold's charge that Standard Oil hundered production of synthetic rubber in the United States was challenged by the president of the company, William S. Farish, as "without foundation."

Farish said at New York that the only information the German trust had withheld from his company under an invention-pooling agreement

Australia Front Bolstered By Veterans

By C. YATES McDANIEL,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MELBOURNE, March 28— (AP). —The first battle-toughened units of the Imperial Force Australia sent to war fronts ranging from sun-scorched Libya to the jungles of Malaya have returned to the homeland they left nearly two years ago and are being regrouped to-day into the ranks of the Allied defenders of their own directly-menaced shores.

With these grim-faced veterans of Tobruk and Greece — infantry, artillery and airmen — are other Empire soldiers and fliers (the number and identity undisclosed) grouped for the stand in the new front lines alongside Australian and United States troops already at their bases.

The fight, said Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, new Allied land force commander in Australia, must be based on the flat assumption the Japanese will attempt to invade the continent.

He added:

"The Japanese probably will attack Darwin and North Queensland in an effort to close both ends of the East Indies and cut off our ready access to sea communications. We must see to it we don't lose Darwin and Port Moresby."

Gen. Blamey said it was highly probable the Japanese would launch a big offensive against India as soon as they could consolidate the positions they already have won.

He acclaimed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's appointment as commander of the United Nations forces in the

Repeat For Zeebrugge Coup Aimed To Blast Harbor; Beaten Off, So Berlin Says

Hun Claim Shore Fire Got TNT Ship For Locks
Boast 100 Raiders Captured
Heavy Losses In Naval Scrap Off Harbor

LONDON, March 28—(CP).—British commandos invaded St. Nazaire, the great Nazi submarine base on the French Brittany coast, early today in what appeared to have been an attempt to duplicate the first great war coup of Zeebrugge and destroy the harbor locks by blowing up an old warship crammed with explosives.

The German high command which released a detailed and obviously one-sided account of the action, claimed "an old American destroyer," loaded with explosives which was to have rammed the gates of the lock, blew up under fire before it reached its goal, and that, in addition, nine British motor torpedoboats and four other torpedoboats of the raiders were destroyed.

The German account also said that the raiders suffered severe casualties and left over 100 prisoners in Nazi hands.

By contrast the first British communique said only: "A combined operation was carried out in the early hours of this morning by units of the three services in a small raid on St. Nazaire. A further communique will be issued as soon as our forces return."

From the German preoccupation with the raid—there were were regular and special Nazi communiques —it seemed certain, however, that it was the most audacious British raid since France fell.

Claim Land Forces Routed.

The regular German high command communique claimed the landing forces were routed when they tried to attack a shipyard and to penetrate into the town of St. Nazaire itself, that no damage whatsoever occurred in the submarine base and that no German warships were lost.

An earlier special Nazi communique had claimed that all those troops who landed had been "encircled and destroyed."

After dawn this morning, the Germans said their torpedo boats encountered "a superior British destroyer formation which broke off the engaegment after having received several hits."

The German accounts of the night of battle in the Loire Estuary drew a close parallel with the Zeebrugge invasion of April 23, 1918, by British naval units under Admiral Sir Roger Keyes—who for 15 months in this new war headed the commando invasion units.

Like St. Nazaire, Zeebrugge, on the Belgian coast, was used as a submarine base by the Germans and, like St. Nazaire, it was bombed repeatedly and also bombarded by cruisers and monitors. This failed to check its use by the U-boats and a large fleet under Admiral Keyes attacked Zeebrugge in the fog.

A submarine full of explosive was blown up beneath a viaduct connecting the harbor mole to land, while three old cruisers filled with cement steamed into the harbor and headed for the Zeebrugge Canal. Two of them were sunk across the channel, Meanwhile the old cruiser Vindictive was held outside the hole by two ferryboats to enable landing parties to attack the German defenders.

Yanks Hit Back In Philippines

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)— The United States war department reported today that the Philippine defenders made two successful raids on the Japanese and that anti-aircraft gunners on the fortified island of Corregidor shot down one heavy enemy bomber.

A communique said the raids were on the Bataan Peninsula and at Zamzoanga some 500 miles to the south on the island of Mindanao.

In the latter raid, American-Filipino patrols pentrated enemy lines to within less than a mile of the city to attack an outpost, and sustained no casualties.

On Bataan, American artillery blasting at enemy troop and truck concentrations, silenced one Japanese battery, the communique said.

The bomber was shot down during the fourth successive day of virtually continuous air attacks on Corregidor. The war department said that the anti-aircraft guns forced the raiders to such heights that bombing caused almost no damage.

Meanwhile batteries on Corregidor and adjacent fortified islands shelled enemy gun emplacements on the south shore of Manila Bay.

Offensive Still in German, Jap Hands

Expert Sees Hun Gambling All On Push Now Brewing, To Beat Grave Red Threat

Written for The Canadian Press
By MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHAS. GWYNN

LONDON, March 28 (CP Cable). —It is becoming increasingly evident that both Germany and Japan must make a supreme effort to obtain a decision in the war this year and neither has yet lost the initiative.

To a large extent the Allies still are on the defensive, for even the Russian counter-offensive has a preliminary defensive purpose.

No doubt the Allies will seize every opportunity for counter-offensive action, but under existing conditions they can hardly be expected to embark on any general large-scale offensive. Yet this does not imply that the Allied pursuit of a long-term policy might not lead to short-term disasters which could upset long-term plans.

There is general hard fighting, character, to be got through before both offensive and defensive in a decisive blow can be struck. It is just as dangerous to believe victory can be achieved only by going all out on attack as to stand waiting and hoping that the enemy will shatter himself against prepared positions.

It is dangerous to push either offensive or defensive theories to an extreme, although the development of offensive action should be the basis of all plans.

Nazis Take Risks

In Russia there has been little sign of movement by either army in the last few days, although the struggle has been intense. German reserve divisions now drawn in are reported to number 40. In the north they have been employed in attempts to save a Staraya Russa force from annihilation, a rescue operation which has so far had little success. It it fails it entails not only loss of the isolated army but very heavy losses to the force attempting its release.

Further south, both in the Vyasma salient and in the Ukraine, German counter-attacks seem to have been aimed at stopping the Russian drive in order to retain possession of advanced key points required for the Spring offensive. Here again the reserves have had to face violent fighting and heavy losses, and have not been used merely to relieve troops exhausted by the Winter fighting.

The measure of Russian successes is that the reserve divisions have had to be put in without enabling the exhausted ones to be withdrawn. The German army for the Spring offensive is therefore not only reduced by the reserve divisions employed in the counter-attacks but by formations which have been holding defensive positions. They will probably not be fit for action for some time.

The German Spring offensive may therefore lack the necessary depth to maintain continuous, unrelenting pressure.

Growing rivalry between Hitler's Balkan allies and their unwillingness to meet his excessive demands are interesting points, but it would be premature to assume they will upset his plans. Should these plans fail the Balkan unrest would acquire greater significance.

Call Older Classes

So far the Reichwehr has been composed largely of younger classes, physically and mentally trained for Hitler's wars, but their losses must have been immense. The older classes brought in to fill the gaps have had a very different bringing up. They may fight well but will Claim 78 P.C. Strikes C.I.O.

434,864 Man-Days Lost In Canada During 1941

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP). — The Ottawa Journal, in a news-page story says statistics released today show that of 434,864 man-days lost through strikes and lock-outs in Canadian industries during 1941, "319,036 or 78 per cent were lost in disputes in which C.I.O. unions were involved."

"Of the 85,785 workers involved, 60,661 or 71 per cent were from C.I.O. unions," The Journal says, adding:—

"By C.I.O. unions is meant those labor organizations whose counterparts in the United States are directly C.I.O. on the other hand, A.F. of L. and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada unions lost only 55,388 man-days and only 8,764 men were involved in industrial disputes.

Numbers of strikers connected with other unions and of unorganized workers were comparatively small.

Laval Chasing Petain Anew

Out To Undermine Vichy-U.S. Understanding

BERNE, March 28—(CP).—Pierre Laval, who was ousted from the Vichy Government late in 1940 by Marshal Petain, is expected to go to Berlin next week to discuss the possibility of increased French-German collaboration, Axis news dispatches from Vichy reported today.

Laval has conferred recently with Petain and Vice-Premier Jean Darlan.

Evidence that the collaboration effort was Axis inspired was seen in a D.N.B dispatch which said that pro-Axis Laval took the initiative in making an appointment with Petain at Randan, near Vichy, last Thursday

Foreign military observers with Vichy connections said they believe Laval is endeavoring to make a new agreement with his former chief in order to counteract the understanding now existing between Washington and Vichy

Informed sources pointed out that while Petain may have listened sympathetically to Laval and may bring him back in the Cabinet, it did not mean he would yield to any major changes in policy at present. If Laval returns, he may become Foreign Minister, now filled with other posts by Darlan.

CHINESE FORCES IN CENTRAL BURMA SECURE REINFORCEMENTS

Chinese Units Recapture Key Drome

Burmese Situation Improves Around Toungoo

NEW DELHI, March 28—(CP)—British headquarters said today the situation on the Toungoo front in Burma appeared improved following the recapture of Toungoo airport by reinforced Chinese troops fighting to hold the eastern end of the Allied line.

Little change was reported in the situation at the opposite end of the front where British forces are barring the path of Japanese troops seeking to advance toward Prome and the rich oil fields of Northern Burma.

"Our lines had to be straightened on the Irrawaddy front in consequence of recent developments in the Toungoo area," a communique said. "There still has been no contact on the front though large parties of mixed Burmans and Japanese local freebooters are active south of Prome."

(An authoritative source in London said there apparently had been a withdrawal of some forces on the Irrawaddy front because of the threat to Toungoo but that operations of the Chinese forces there had made the situation look much better on the eastern end of the front.)

The bulletin said Japanese air raiders struck heavily yesterday at a town on the Irrawaddy river, raining down incendiary bombs that destroyed three-quarter of the settlement—which was not identified by name.

"Military damage was very slight and casualties were very few, too," the announcement added.

Heavy fighting apparently still is raging around Toungoo, with virtually-encircled Chinese troops giving the Japanese invaders a terrific battle in the city's outskirts.

The Chinese were said to have received reinforcements from their own armies which boosted their morale considerably.

A communique from Chungking, China, said yesterday Toungoo still was in Chinese and Allied hands up to Thursday night.

The Chungking reference to the fight at the airport was brief.

It revealed that the Japanese, moving in with the object of attacking the city's defenders from three directions, occupied the air-

Confirmation Services Held At St. John's

PORT HOPE, March 27.—(ENS)—On Friday night, March 27, at eight o'clock the confirmation services were held in the St. John's Anglican Church.

The Most Reverend Derwyn T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto, conducted the Apostolic rite of confirmation service which was exceptionally well attended.

Archbishop Owen has just returned from an extended trip to the Pacific coast which enabled him to visit the various churches of England in the western dioceses.

Cripps Expects Decision Inside 10 Days

NEW DELHI, March 28—(CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, special British envoy to India, declared today he was "entirely satisfied with talks so far" with leaders of various groups in India looking toward a settlement of the Indian problem.

Referring at a press conference to his interview yesterday with Mohandas K. Gandhi, Sir Stafford said he thought it was "extremely helpful." He added he expected to see Gandhi again.

"In the interview yesterday, we talked about the weather, Wardha (Gandhi's home), food, health and some other matters," Sir Stafford said.

Sir Stafford and the Indian leader conferred for more than two hours in another of the envoy's series of talks with prominent Inians on the British plan for Indian self-government.

He said that as a result of these talks, he had made only one change in the proposals—rewording a sentence which he had been told was not clear.

Sir Stafford made it clear he was sticking to his original plan to stay in India a fortnight.

"I don't propose to leave India until I know one way or the other whether the proposals are acceptable or not," he said. "That doesn't mean I am going to stay on indefinitely. "Within the next 10 days I am going to make up my mind whether they are acceptable or not."

Sir Stafford told the newspapermen the text of the British proposals would be released for publication Monday.

Qualified sources predicted the publication will disclose Britain is offering India a post-war federation or remain outside.

Provinces remaining outside would be free to form another federation of similar status and thus two dominions could result.

Sir Stafford is facing a number of conferences before the proposals are published.

He announced he would see Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem League, and Maulana Abdul Kalan Azad, president of the All-India Congress party, again today and would talk tomorrow with Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, former president of the Indian National Congress.

He also said he would see some of the Indian Communists who have been released from jail.

Gandhi is expected to remain here Sunday for the executive meeting of the All-India Congress working committee, out of which might come the first concrete evidence of the Congress reaction to the proposals.

Gandhi had nothing to say about the conference, explaining he had promised to maintain silence.

The working committee of the Moslem League will meet this afternoon after Jinnah's second conference with Sir Stafford.

Camera Fools Jap Raiders

HONOLULU, March 28—(AP).—A United States army bomber arriving from the mainland at the height of the Japanese attack on Oahu Island last December 7 drove off attacking enemy planes with a movie camera and an automatic pistol, then landed safely at Hickam Field.

The story was related today by Technical Sergeant Jesse Schneider, veteran crew chief of one of several incoming bombers which encountered Japanese aircraft while still 30 miles from Oahu.

Schneider, looking for a first glimpse of the Hawaiian Islands, saw a flight of 12 torpedo planes.

"All of a sudden," he said, "three peeled off and came after us. We waved, thinking they were some of the Hickam Field boys coming out to greet us.

"Then Johnny Meeks (staff sergeant), our photographer, decided to take pictures of them. He got out his movie outfit and pointed the camera through a side window. The Japs had started pouring lead at us, but the minute Johnny aimed the camera they scattered. They must have thought it was a machine gun."

End Of April

ANKARA, Turkey, March 26 (Delayed)—(AP). — Military observers expressed belief to-day that Hitler's spring offensive against Russia will come about the third week in April, perhaps coinciding with another drive toward the Middle East by way of Cyprus and Syria.

Informed circles said they had learned that King Boris of Bulgaria has agreed to supply Hitler with troops but that this will be a grudging contribution to the spring drive against Russia rather than a threat against Turkey.

Citizens Discuss Bettering Cobourg's Industrial Position

COBOURG, March 28 —(ENS)—Citizens of the town, not in large numbers, but fairly representative held a meeting in the town hall Friday night to discuss what could be done to better Cobourg's industrial position.

"I am glad to see the efforts being made by you citizens of the town to see what can be done to get Cobourg a war industry. You people working with the mayor and council may get results in exerting pressure in the places where it will do the most good," declared Reeve Dodge.

Reeve Dodge also urged co-operation among all the groups.

"There must be no ridicule or dissension. Let us work together along the lines that will exert the most effective effort to get us what we want," urged Reeve Dodge.

Mrs. Rupert Barr, one of the women responsible for the initial meeting last week addressed the gathering. "Look at Port Hope, Oshawa, Newmarket and other places. They are getting things and we are not, in connection with defense work. The merchants say here that they are hard up. Some say they will lose their shirts by the end of the year if things don't get better. We are alarmed. All that has been done for the past years has been talk. I hope that the people of the town will get together and see if by their joint efforts the town will get something. We buy Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps to the best of our ability, but none of that is coming back in the form of an air field or a war industry for Cobourg. What is good for Cobourg is good for the whole county of Northumberland," said Mrs. Barr.

Garbage Collection.

Dr. W. C. Wilkins, local M.O.H., addressed the meeting on the proposed municipal garbage collection system While the system, if inaugurated, would add one mill rate, it was a very necessary project. The Board of Health was endeavoring to maintain friendly relations with the council in its efforts to get the idea approved. For sanitary reasons and to equalize the responsibility of the citizens in garbage disposal, the Board desired the proposed system to be placed in effect. The total amount being expended on the present plan of individual garbage disposal was considerably more than it would cost to operate it on a municipal basis, Dr. Wilkins said.

Councillor Joe Delanty said that if the merchants of the town were finding it so hard to get along, some of them should have showed up at this meeting.

"When we saw our member, Mr. Fraser, about getting an air field, he said Cobourg was too close to Trenton for that. However, consider Picton and one wonders how it got the air field under those circumstances. We should have kept the pressure on Fraser at that time. I am glad to see this meeting and what it signifies. A good many big things have to start from a small beginning as this meeting. As far as getting industries they will not come to you, as you have to get after it yourself. Send your delegations down to Ottawa and keep the pressure on," advised Mr. Delanty.

F. C. Richardson informed the meeting that the issue must not be confused as far as the merchants were concerned. The merchants had their own organization and a strong one at that, and were represented at this meeting.

The following committee was appointed to advance the town's interests along industrial and other progressive lines and to work with the mayor and council along these lines. O. Curtis, Claude Fowler, Stewart Webb, Percy Macklin, Stan Burden, D. Legrade, Mrs. R. Barr, Mrs. L. Free and two members for the Cobourg Business Men's Association. The committee will have power to add.

Other speakers were Otto Curtis and Jack Ewart.

Belmont Pioneer Passes Away

Another of Havelock and Belmont's oldest and most highly esteemed residents passed away on Tuesday afternoon, in the person of Joseph Johnston in his 88th year. He was the last surviving member of a family of ten children of the late Thomas and Mary Johnston, who came out from Ireland and were the first residents in Belmont and held the deeds from the Crown on many acres between Old Havelock and Trent River and spent all his lifetime on his farm, until he retired to Concession street, Havelock.

The late Mr. Johnston was educated at Old Havelock School, a member of the Presbyterian Church and he was a staunch Liberal in politics, and always took a keen interest in all municipal affairs. He was reeve of Belmont township for 11 years and was a councillor in Havelock in his 83rd year. In 1893 he was married to Rebecca Johnston Smith, who predeceased him six years ago. He leaves to mourn him four daughters, Mildred (Mrs. Arthur Matheson) Smiths Falls, Serecta (Mrs. Harry Buchanan) Havelock, Marion (Mrs. F. W. Buck) Detroit, Mich., and Elida (Mrs. George Rigby) Havelock. Brothers and sisters were William, Anne, James, Margaret, David, Elizabeth, Samuel and Mary, are all deceased a number of years ago.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, was held from his late residence, on Thursday at 3 p.m. with Rev. J. W. Wilkinson officiating, and interment at the family plot in Maple Grove Cemetery. Pallbearers were all nephews, namely, Gordon Johnston, Edgar McGee, Arthur Armour, Herman Johnston, Edward Scott and Scott Fife.

if a single day passed that she wasn't violently ill.

By this time the settlement at Peterborough was taking shape and Mr. Edmison left his bride with friends in the settlement while he built a cabin on the farm in Smith about half a mile from the Milburn's School on the Chemong Road. This farm is occupied today by Alex. I. Edmison, clerk of the township of Smith.

Edmison cleared the land and 10 children were born on the little farm. Mrs. Joseph Milburn is the last of the ten. The family consisted of five boys and five girls, and they attended a school on the same site as Milburn's School now occupies. Mrs. Milburn said today that the first teacher she remembers was Christopher Burton, who was also clerk of the township. She remembers hearing her mother tell that their first home in the wilderness was little better than a shanty with a lean-to roof, but their hardworking father soon fashioned a roomy, comfortable cabin from the logs on the property.

Maple Sugar Staple Food

"Maple sugar and maple syrup were used extensively and my parents always made enough to last from one year to another; when I was a girl there were times when we didn't have much else to eat except the maple sugar," said Mrs. Milburn.

Mrs. Milburn was keeping house for her brother, the Rev. Henry Edmison, at Waterdown, Ontario, when Joseph Milburn, her fiance on the next farm, went to Waterdown for her, and they were married in Hamilton. It was a happy romance and they prospered. The husband died 17 years ago at the age of 89.

Her earliest memories of the Smith township section are that the road now known as the Chemong Road was a one-way muddy and rutty trail, and across what is now known as the long swamp was a narrow corduroy road. The timber was heavy, particularly close to Lake Chemong. Later on a man named Dean started a grocery store at Bridgenorth, when there were four or five house there, and a ferry was operated taking people and cattle to and fro across the lake.

In recent years Mrs. Milburn has been living in a little frame house set well back from the road on the west side of the highway. This house is more than one hundred years old, and is built on the Crown land grant obtained by Thomas Milburn's father. Thomas Milburn built the house, then is passed on to his son Joseph, who married Mary Ann Edmison. Their son George worked the farm, and now George's son has two boys and occupies a piece of land adjoining.

Founded St. Andrew's

Mrs. Milburn's father, John Edmison, came from Northumberland in England, and was a Presbyterian. To him goes the honor of being one of the first members of St. Andrew's Church in this city, and from the earliest days the name Edmison has been tied in with the church activities. He was the anchor that held a portion of the congregation together, when the minister and most of the congregation broke away and established St. Paul's congregation and church. George Edmison, the lawyer, who was junior judge and county magistrate for many years in this city, was his son, and a brother of Mrs. Joseph Milburn who is observing the birthday today.

This grand old lady lost the sight of one eye a few years ago from a cataract. She has been a reader of the Examiner for as long as the paper has been printed, and every day she finds time to read a few passages from the Bible. The Northern Messenger also takes her attention. Her two daughters, Margaret and Eunice, try to keep war news away from her because it worries her, and they sort of interpret the news so so she will not become unduly alarmed. Her hearing is poor, but her memory is clear and she came through the winter in good health.

Frenchman With RCAF

REGINA, March 28.—(CP)—A former sub-lieutenant in the French navy was among graduates at No. 3 air observers school of the Royal Canadian Air Force here today. Picked up a second time, he was landed at Le Havre but was captured by Germans.

Later he escaped from his prison camp.

Keyes lost a destroyer and four smaller craft and had 188 dead, 384 wounded and 16 missing.

St. Nazaire is so placed that the submarines which have been taking an increasing toll of Atlantic shipping can make a straight run into the Atlantic. It is approximately 150 miles from the nearest British bases on the Cornish coast.

Month After Bruneval Coup

Just a month ago, British parachutists and sea-borne troops combined in a swift raid on a radio detector post at Bruneval in German-occupied France.

In this previous assault, the British forces swooped down under cover of darkness, surprised the German garrison, demolished the radio station used to spot British planes on their way across the Channel and returned successfully with a number of German prisoners.

The British forces timed their first raid to the minute, with naval units debarking troops at the same time parachutists were landed on the mainland from aircraft manned by British and Canadian crews. The two forces combined to attack the Nazi garrison.

Actual fighting was brief and the invaders were off to England almost before the Germans realized what had happened.

Today's attempted raid on St. Nazaire, a former French naval and submarine base on the far southern coast of Brittany, carried British forces far from their home bases.

The old French port, site of a naval arsenal where Germans have been reported manufacturing small calibre munitions, has been bombed frequently by the Royal Air Force. German ships and submarines have been surprised in some of these aerial raids after they had put into St. Nazaire for reconditioning.

St. Nazaire is also the site of one of the largest French shipyards where many warships and passenger liners, including the Normandie, were built.

Urge Expansion Of Sports In Industries

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—Expansion of sport and recreational programs of industries, churches and athletic clubs was urged yesterday in a statement made by Pensions Minister MacKenzie. The minister's statement, released through Maj. Arthur A. Burridge, physical education director of McMaster University, Hamilton, was expected to end uncertainty expressed by the Eastern Rugby Football Assoication and other sport organizations as to whether they should carry on in wartime.

Mr. MacKenzie in his statement said: "Every effort should be made to accelerate and expand the recreation programs of industry, the church, athletic clubs, private and semi-private leisure time agencies."

The statement made by Mr. Mackenzie as the minister primarily responsible for health followed a series of conferences between representatives of athletic organizations and government officials.

Following a convention of the E.R.F.A. a delegation, which also included representatives of various other sports, discussed with War Minister Ralston the place of sports in the life of a nation at war. Similar discussions were later held with other government officials.

"There was a feeling among some of those connected with sport that a certain stigma was attached to the idea of playing in time of war," Major Burridge, who was spokesman of the original delegation, explained in an interview today.

An Air of Uncertainty

"Throughout Canada organizations which normally sponsored athletic programs had expressed uncertainty whether they should continue this year," Maj. Burridge said.

"We expect this statement made by Mr. Mackenzie will clarify the situation and remove this stigma," he added.

The place of sport was discussed by Mr. Mackenzie in a recent article on "Health for Victory," published in the Canadian School Journal.

"Sport has an important place in physical education at this time, because in addition to its contribution to general health, it develops the primary abilities required by sailors, soldiers and airmen, that is the ability to run, jump and climb," Mr. Mackenzie said in that article.

"The more highly combative sports such as football and hockey have special advantages in that they develop the ability to diagnose a situation, to react instantly and to bring into play the requisite skills to carry out what is required. These are soldierly virtues."

Maj. Burridge at his conference with Mr. Mackenzie today placed before the Minister the physical fitness program adopted in the United States which is based on the close relationship between physical fitness and good health. He urged a program with this object should be adopted for Canada.

was "the detail of their government-sponsored program of producing Buna rubber from coal in Germany."

Farish said that synthetic Butyl rubber samples developed by Standard Oil and Farbenindustrie were submitted to the United States government and private American concerns in 1939, but were ruled "of doubtful quality."

Commenting on testimony the company "gave to the Nazis but not to the American and British governments information on Butyl rubber," Farish said Butyl "was the outgrowth of research conducted, first co-operatively and then separately by the German I. G. company and Standard." He added that Standard discovered there could be produced "a true rubber, capable of being vulcanized" and in "the normal way pursuant to the research agreement" reported it to I.G.

their stamina prove equal to that of younger men? Many of them must have suffered from undernourishment in childhood and they were not brought up in the Nazi school.

The Germans undoubtedly have been able to husband their panzer divisions during the winter and this spearhead of the offensive is as formidable as ever. Their infantry, which provides the shaft to the spear, has been subjected to immense strain, however, and has probably deteriorated. Should it fail, the spearhead would lose much of its effectiveness.

Libya Is Quiet

In Libya there is little change, but highly successful raids on Tmimi-Martuba airdromes are an indication that Lt.-Gen. N. Ritchie's army retains its offensive spirit and quality.

The arrival of the Malta convoy without serious loss may be even more important than the naval success it implied.

Far East Air Struggle

In the Far East a struggle for air supremacy appears to be in progress in the Burma and New Guinea areas with heavy attacks on airdromes by each side. In Burma the struggle is presumably the prelude to a strong Japanese attack but so far, though there has been heavy fighting in the neighborhood of Toungoo on the Mandalay Road, the main attack hasn't yet developed.

Chinese troops appear to have borne the brunt of the attack and to have acquitted themselves admirably in counter-strokes. They should perhaps be better fitted than British and Indian troops to deal with the Japanese infiltration methods.

On the British section of the front, however, the very successful raid by a Gloucestershire regiment is an indication of the policy Gen. Sir Harold Alexander favors.

In New Guinea, American and and Australian airmen have so far had the best of exchanges and have evidently disturbed the development of Japanese plans. The Japanese cannot afford to lose time in the exploitation of their initial successes.

For the time being at least, the Burma situation appears to be the most critical.

This was the picture this week twenty-five years ago. . . .

While British troops dug in on the Western Front after forcing the Germans back to the Hindenburg line, an Empire force in the Sinai desert and Southern Palestine attacked Turkish positions near Gaza. At Wadi Ghuzzeh, five miles to the south, they captured nearly 1,000 prisoners.

Speed Means Victory

"It means that Gen. MacArthur can use all the forces at command," he said. "With things moving as fast as they do in this war it may make all the difference between victory and defeat."

Gen. Blamey said the Australian Imperial Force—organized for duty overseas—would cease to exist as such under the new set-up, but declared its traditions and spirit would be carried on.

He emphasized the importance of air power in the battle for Australia, asserting that "we want hundreds and hundreds of bombers and fighters and air personnel as fast as we can be supplied, and we have no doubt America will see that they get to us."

"With a powerful air force," he added "we can keep the Japanese from our shores, and with overwhelming air superiority at a later stage we can blast all the way back to Tokyo. Until such time as, with America's help, we have built up sufficiently strong sea and land forces to follow the bombers through, we must rely mainly on air strength."

Japs Having Trouble

Hard-hitting bombers still are holding the Japanese advance striking force at bay in the fringe of coral-reefed and jungle-matted islands north of Australia, while fighters and a stiff anti-aircraft defence countered aerial thrusts such as have preceded each Japanese landing move in the southwest Pacific.

A communique said the harbor of Kupang, Japanese-seized port of Timor and a springboard for Japanese attack from the northwest, had been bombed for a second consecutive day, setting one ship afire.

(The Australian radio said the Japanese raided Port Moresby on the south coast of New Guinea again today but reported that in repeated bombings in which 190 planes have been used and 1,500 to 2,000 bombs have been dropped, only two persons have been killed at the port and damage has been slight.)

Returning members of the Australian Imperial Force, arriving in contingents comprising many types of personnel, greeted the wives and children and parents they left behind in the early days of the war.

They talked sternly of their new jobs—a crack at the foe who has smashed through the island bastions behind which Australia seemed guarded and secure only a few months ago.

"The Japanese won't be tougher than the Hun," declared some of the fighting men who served in Greece and North Africa.

"We'll break our necks to get back into the fray and carry on the traditions of those who have gone," said others.

Fliers who have met the Japanese before—in Malaya and Java—told their fellows that "the Japanese will be easy money when they are met on equal terms in the air and on the land."

The new commander of land forces in Australia declared that the invaders must be expected to try for a foothold on the continent.

War Insurance Now Covers Property Loss

By C. B. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 28. — (CP).—Canadians are now beneficiaries of an insurance plan against loss by enemy attack under retroactive clauses of a war damage insurance measure laid before Parliament by Finance Minister Ilsley.

The measure was introduced in the House of Commons and given first reading yesterday just before the House adjourned until April 20 for the Easter recess. The Senate adjourned until May 5.

Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, Deputy of the Governor-General, visited the Senate at six o'clock and gave royal assent to nine measures which have been passed so far. These included money bills of $1,676,000000 for the current and next fiscal year, for war and civilian purposes, including the $1,000,000,000 gift of materials ot Britain.

The three-hour Friday sitting of the House brought discussion on two matters closely related—insurance against bombardment or invasion damage to property and air raid precautions work.

Mr. Ilsley's insurance bill will be dealt with by the Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce. The measure provides that householders will be insured by the government without cost against property damage to a maximum of $3,000, and that individuals will be insured against loss of chattels at a graduated scale, including coverage for children over the age of 16.

Insurance Companies will handle the scheme for the government, and Taking part in the decisive battle were PO. George Davidson, Brantford, Ont., PO. John Brookhouse, Montreal, PO. Richard Ellis, Montreal, Flt.-Sgt. S. G. Napier, Capreol, Ont., and Flt.-Sgt. H. V. Thompson, Toronto.

The Canadians dived in roaring relays, spraying the fleeing craft with cannon fire and machine-gun bullets. Tracer bullets showed all the vessels received direct hits and one exploded with a flash. The Spitfires returned to base unscathed.

"Our cannon shells are capable of going right through an E-boat," PO. Davidson said. "Our lads are certain we plastered everyone in the flotilla. We couldn't hang around to see how many of them we sank as we didn't have much gasoline left and we were a long way from home. As soon as our ammunition was exhausted we had to leave."

Christ's Dying Words Quotation from Psalms

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Father, into Thy Hands I commend my spirit.—St. Luke 23:46.

That terrible day is drawing to a close. The sun is setting. It is about the time of the evening sacrifice. The crowds are leaving to prepare for the passover and the Sabbath. The Lord's awful agony is about to end. "When Jesus had cried with a loud voice, He said: Father, into Thy Hands I commend My spirit; and having said thus He gave up the ghost."

The Lord's dying words are a quotation from the Psalms, the Jewish and now the Christian book of devotions and praise. Every devout Jew was trained to memorize the Psalms. These precious words were to be imbedded into his memory so that in times of pain and distress the words which comforted some saint would come to his mind. In very truth he could say: "I did eat it and it was in my mouth as honey for sweetness."

Our Lord, hanging upon the Cross, uttered seven words. Two of them were quotations from the Psalms. If you are following in His footsteps you also will nourish your soul with the words of the Psalms. They are hot with the breath of tens of thousands of saints, Jewish as well as Christian. Have you your favorite Psalm. Edersheim, the famous Christian Jew, is of the opinion that the devout Jewish mother taught her son the above words as an evening prayer. If so how beautiful to think that they should come back to the Lord's mind in His Dying moments.

"FATHER." Our Lord's personal name for God. The disciples were deeply move by His pronunciation of the Aramaic word "ABBA"—FATHER. It was so full of devotion and love that the hearers felt certain that the Father was most precious to Him. The word is retained in our English translations to remind us that the early Christians took the very word upon their lips which the Master Himself used. It was the mark of their hope that they also would so pronounce it that their hearers would be impressed with the reality of their faith.

"INTO THY HANDS." All the days of His earthly ministry the Lord had been praying quietly, regularly to the Father. As a Boy of twelve the word falls naturally fro His lips: 'Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business"? Then later to His disciples He says: "When ye pray say, Our Father." He had learnt to trust the Father in the days of His flesh and now in the hour of His death He confidently cries: "Father, into Thy Hands I commend my spirit." To the devout Jew the Hands of God were a reality. "Underneath are the everlasting arms." "The arms of his hands were made strong by the Hands of the mighty God of Jacob." Have you developed such a sense of the power and nearness of God?

"MY SPIRIT." The human soul which is the peculiar gift of God to man. "God breathed into the breath of life and man became a living soul." By that gift man is separated from the beasts that perish. Because of that gift man stands at the head of the earthly creation. Through that gift man has a sense of the reality of God. Therefor man can cry: "My soul is athirst for God, yea, even for the living God." It is very important to remember that Our Lord has a human soul. "He was in all points like as we are." "He is bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh." "He is truly man" and is able to be touched with all the infirmities of man. He can truly die and He died a real death.

Have you trained your soul so that in times of trouble and anxiety your soul will consciously turn to God to find refreshment and peace? Stephen, the first Christian, Martyr, breathed out his life with the words: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Are you training your mind and heart to lean heavily on God so that in the hour of your departure you will breathe out the words: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit, for Thou has redeemed me?"

Thanks be unto Thee, O Lord.

Transfigured Christ Meets Humanities Greatest Need

Byq NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 29 is Matt. 17:1-20, Mark 9:2-29, Luke 9:28-43, the Golden Text being Luke 9:43. "And they were all astonished at the majesty of God.")

Jesus took His three favorite apostles, Peter, John and James, and went up into a mountain to commune with God His Father. The mountain is thought to be Mount Hermon, which is 10,000 feet high and whose name means "lofty mountain." It is within siz days' reach of Caesarea Philippi, where they were in last week's lesson.

The disciples were weary and rested, but if they slept they were awakened and saw the transfiguration of the Master "His face did shine as the sun, and His raiment was white as light," St. Matthew tells us. With Him, talking with Him, were Moses and Elijah.

When the prophets vanished and they were alone with Jesus, Peter made a foolish remark, he said: "Lord, it is good for use to be here: if Thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for Tee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias." Tabernacles were little booths or huts made of branches. While Peter was speaking a bright cloud shadowed them, and a voice out of the cloud said, "This is My beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him."

At that the disciples were frightened and fell on their faces, but Jesus touched them and said, "Arise, and be not afraid."

Before Jesus was suffering and death, it must have strengthened Him in his hard way to have this glimpse that His Father was with Him and that glory awaited Him.

Asked to Tell No One

As the four were going down the mountain, Jesus told them to tell no one of what they had seen and heard, fearing, evidently, that it would be disturbing to people who had neither faith nor vision of what was to come. They were to say nothing until the Son of Man had risen again from the dead, when it would be possible for common people to understand.

A multitude came to meet them as they descended the mountain, and among them a father, who fell on his knees before Jesus and pleaded with Him to save his son who was possessed of an evil spirit which often threw him into fire or water, and did everything to destroy him. The child was his only son, said the man, and he had asked the disciples to cure him but they could not. Disappointed in His followers Jesus exclaimed, "O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to Me."

As the child came toward the Lord he was taken with another spasm and fell upon the earth, but Jesus requked the demon who came out of him, and he was cured and given back to his father healed.

The disciples were amazed and asked the Master, "Why could not we cast him out?"

"Because of your unbelief; for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountin, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall removed, and nothing shall be impossible unto you."

"O, faithless and perverse generation," is Jesus' cry. Are we any better today? Do we have faith that the righteousness of Jesus will prevail? We are confused, downcast, and sometimes hopeless at the wickedness of the present time. We even lost faith in our power to do anything about it. We should take these words of our Savior to ourselves, every one of us. What right have we to despair when He told us mountains could be removed if we had faith? No real masses of earth, maybe, but the mountains of evil that crush the world.

We must be strong in our faith in Jesus and His goodnes; and not only that, but we must, through Him, have faith in ourselves, that we will be given the strength to carry on and to remove the terror and fear that lies over the world, and help to make it a better one, fit for Jesus and His Father, God, to rule over forever and ever.

Church Going Must Return

OTTAWA, March 28.—"Not 20 per cent of the people in Ottawa or any other city or town in Canada attend church regularly," Karl Homuth, Conservative M.P. for Waterloo, Ont., said in an address to the Lions Club at a luncheon meeting at the Chateau Laurier.

Mr. Homuth declared that this attitude towards church would have to change in the post-war period.

"If we are going to have a decent, prosperous world it must be based on one thing—Christianity!" he emphasized. "The Atlantic Charter was nothing new. It was the 10 Commandments, revamped to form the foundation on which to rebuild the world.

The people will have to go back to church and learn the cardinal principles by which this country should live, he said.

This country should guard against the old days of unemployment and want in the midst of plenty," Mr. Homuth said.

"We must plan carefully to see that every person gets a fair share and the right to earn a living. That responsibility rests on the people themselves, to dictate to the Government what should be done. Some day some nation will blaze a trail down which all countries in the world will march together, enjoying life to its full. I hope that the honor will be Canada's," he said.

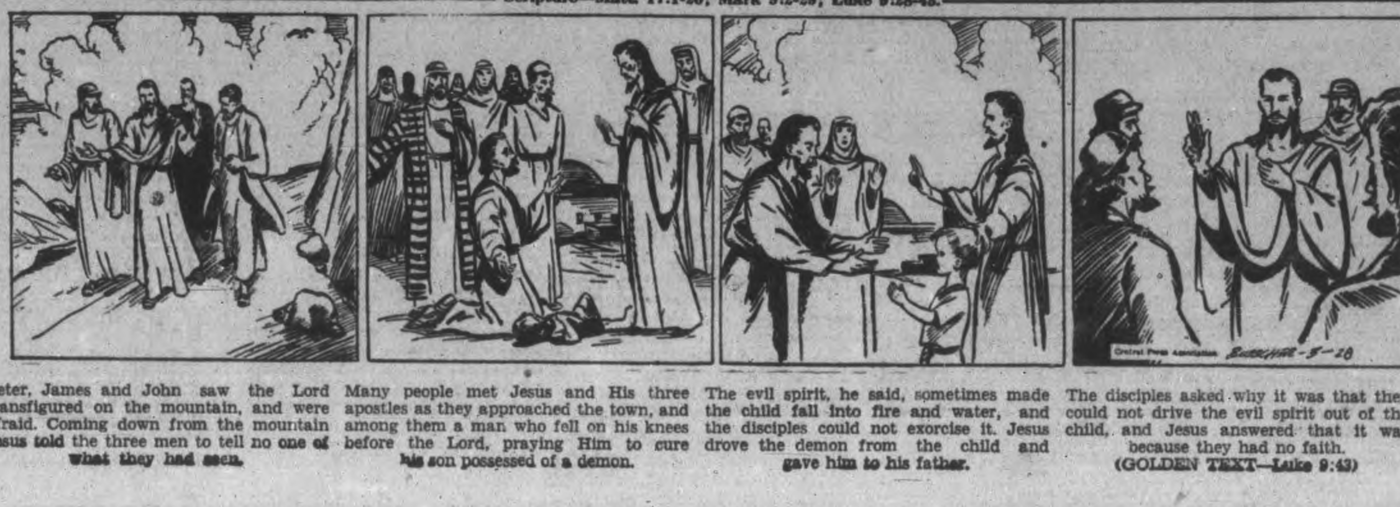
Transfigured Christ Meets Human Need ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 17:1-20; Mark 9:2-29; Luke 9:28-43.



Peter, James and John saw the Lord transfigured on the mountain, and were afraid. Coming down from the mountain Jesus told the three men to tell no one of what they had seen.

Many people met Jesus and His three apostles as they approached the town, and among them a man who fell on his knees before the Lord, praying Him to cure his son possessed of a demon.

The evil spirit, he said, sometimes made the child fall into fire and water, and the disciples could not exorcise it. Jesus drove the demon from the child and gave him to his father.

The disciples asked why it was that they could not drive the evil spirit out of the child, and Jesus answered that it was because they had no faith.

Introducing a New Friend

We are glad of the opportunity which this special issue gives us to introduce our new affiliate, the radio station CHEX, to our friends and readers in the Peterborough district. The station will always try to serve you as the Examiner has served you and we hope that it will not be long before your feelings about it are as friendly as those which you bear us. CHEX hopes to be your servant and your entertainer, your informant on certain subjects, and, for some of you, an outlet for your special talents. It hopes, in fact, to be your own special radio station, your favorite on the dial.

We are very proud of our new branch. It is said by experts who have no ulterior motive for offering such an opinion, to be as well-equipped and as compact a radio station as any of its size in this Dominion. It is not as large as the stations situated in metropolitan centres but it is in many respects more modern than they, and it is of sufficient size to serve this community well for many years. Its equipment is of the finest and most up-to-date design, capable of anything which modern radio can do. It represents a very considerable investment, but no one associated with its outfitting has felt that anything less than the best would be good enough. As you see, we are not modest about CHEX; we are frankly delighted with it and we hope that it will not be long before you share our enthusiasm.

While we are on this subject we should like to boast a little about the physical aspect of CHEX. It is, unlike many larger stations, specially designed for its purpose, and it is compact and pleasing to the eye. Its decorative scheme has been worked out with care and executed with skill and we think that the result is as handsome an establishment as any in Peterborough. This has been done because CHEX will be something more than a business office; it will be a home of art, and as such it must be fittingly decorated.

When you have an opportunity to see CHEX we think that you will agree with what we have said about it. When you hear it on the air we venture to think that you will be surprised. The Examiner introduces CHEX to you with complete confidence that it will only be a matter of time before you accept is as a friend.

A National Day of Prayer

His Majesty the King has appointed tomorrow, Sunday, March 29, as a National Day of Prayer in Great Britain. Mr. McLarty, Secretary of State for Canada, has announced Canada's intention of joining with the Motherland in this observance and has asked clergymen of all denominations to mark the occasion with special petitions, complying with the King's request that we "unite in giving thanks to Almighty God for past blessings and in humble prayer pray for strength and guidance in facing the task that lies ahead." Days of prayer, however, cannot be celebrated by clergymen alone and it is to be hoped that all who are able will assist in this national affirmation of faith in the Christian ideal of life.

The Good Gay Poet of Democracy

Last Thursday there were celebrations in the State of New York, commemorating the death, fifty years ago, of Walt Whitman. It is proper and fitting that America should pause briefly in her war preparations to salute the memory of a poet whose voice was the very voice of democracy. An English critic recently bemoaned the fact that this war had brought forth no poet fit to sing of the glories and sorrows of a great people; happily we have the poets of the past, and no living poet could speak more feelingly or powerfully of all that the United Nations are fighting for than Walt Whitman did in the time of America's Civil War.

Witman's popularity has grown enormously since his death. In life, like so many poets who have later become the glories of their country, he was little valued and his work was almost unheeded. The most pointed criticism ever passed upon his work was his dismissal from a government clerkship because he was the author of Leaves of Grass which Secretary Harlan considered an "immoral" book. But there was nothing immoral about Walt Whitman; his was the morality of complete integrity; he was no more immoral than a tree or a mountain is immoral. He was what he was and his magnificence is now recognized, but those who lived too near to him saw only a lame, bearded old man, a great talker and a great loafer.

Though Whitman may have been ill-attuned to the conventional folk of his time he was perfectly in tune with his country. He bathed his spirit in the freedom and expansiveness of nineteenth century America, and that freedom and expansiveness he gave again in the stately, majestic blank verse of his poetry. Like Lincoln he knew his country better than other men, and like Lincoln he was made to suffer for it. In the most popular of Whitman's poems, When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd, his sympathy with that other great American is amply apparent, and is expressed with the almost feminine delicacy which was one aspect of this poet's genius.

Whitman was a native of New York, and it is interesting to think that, when he wanted to be particularly alone for meditation, he went to the then deserted waste of Coney Island! But although his love was all for the land of his birth, he was an American in a wider sense than that of nationality. We in Canada may read his books with a conviction that he wrote for us, too, and in the present world upheaval his words find their way to the hearts of all peoples who love liberty as he loved it.

A Romantic Concept Of War

Although there can be no doubt that he meant well by it, the suggestion of Mr. Howard Green, M.P. for Vancouver South, that Canada send a "token" force to the aid of Australia shows a sentimental and romantic, rather than a realistic, concept of war. If he had suggested that we send a large armed force to Australia the answer to his plan would have hinged upon whether it was possible or advisable to do so. But to this talk of "token" forces there can be no reply but polite silence.

A "token" is a symbol, as Mr. Green well knows. Apparently he thinks that we should send a small force to Australia as a symbol of our sympathy and unity with the sister dominion. But we are not so rich in arms and men that we can send driblets of fighting forces here and there to show our friends that Canada still loves them. We must do something more effective than that. A "token" force of Canadians in Australia would not be large enough to turn the tide of battle and it would weaken our forces here.

Canada has large forces in Britain, where they have work to do. If necessary, those forces may be sent anywhere that they are needed. Our army will do most good in this war by going in large, well-equipped bodies, where the Allied Command thinks it is most useful, and not by scattering itself about the globe in small parcels, and going on romantic junketings wherever fighting seems imminent.

What is really disquieting about Mr. Green's suggestion is that it shows an attitude toward war which is dangerously common. We are fighting for realities, not symbols, and we cannot send symbol forces anywhere merely to show what good fellows we are.

Plain Speaking

The Right Honorable David Lloyd George, in his seventy-ninth year, has lost none of the oratorical fire which stood him in stead as Premier in the first Great War. He recently declared that the continued suppression of the Daily Worker, the organ of the Communist Party in Britain, was "an act of stupid, wanton, partisan spite," calculated to cause bad feeling between Russia and Britain. Needless to say, Britain cannot afford to antagonize Russia now, nor will she be likely to do so carelessly in the future.

The mistrust of Communism is an interesting phenomenon in capitalistic countries, for it is generally found to be most deeply ingrained in those parts of the population who know least about the history and the aims of Communism. Those who are able to look upon Communism as an extreme but admirable form of political belief have had a good deal of quiet amusement at the expense of the Party since last spring. In spite of the popular belief that all Communists everywhere are acting continually upon orders from Moscow it became obvious when the Russo-German trouble was brewing that the Comrades in such heathen parts as Canada, the U.S. and Britain were completely in the dark as to what was likely to happen and were tying themselves in knots in their efforts to be ready for anything. When Russia was actually attacked their convulsions were even more diverting, particularly in the U.S., and it was pretty to see the way in which the New York edition of the Daily Worker stopped knocking Britain and American preparedness and became boisterously and indeed raucously pro-ally.

It is pretty obvious that the Comrades in Russia do not tell the Comrades abroad as much as we thought they did, and we applaud their good sense. Not many of the Comrades whom we have met in the democracies are impressive specimens intellectually or any other way. Like all unpopular minority parties, Communism attracts to itself many people who are disgruntled and at odds with the world; if they had been born in Russia they would probably spend their time plotting against Stalin. Still, they are a link with Russia, and probably they are the weakest link in the chain which binds the U.S.R.R. to the rest of the United Nations. Let us refrain from filing on that link.

Lloyd George is right; we have to be polite to Russia, and the suppression of even such an untrustworthy organ of Russian opinion as the Daily Worker is no way to set about it. The days when hating Russia was a popular and patriotic pastime are gone.

NOTE AND COMMENT

As cloth is to be conserved couldn't a few people stop chewing the rag?

It is suggested that the combined forces in Australia be called the Yanzacs.

Now that Germany has definitely stated her friendly feelings toward Turkey it is time for the Turks to polish up their snickersnees.

The hasty marriages between Australian girls and the American soldiers of General MacArthur are causing some apprehension among their Anglo-American relations.

The first plunge is always the hardest. We expect that after filing income tax returns many people will decide to become blood donors.

"For Sale: Pianos, oil burners," says an advertisement in the Kingston Whig-Standard. This is a variation of the player-piano which we have never encountered.

A man was arrested recently in Wyoming for killing a deer with his car. The Chatham News wisely remarks that he must have been trying to pass the buck.

Premier Tojo of Japan has said: "Australians must be aware of the fact that it will be impossible for Australia to defend herself against our invincible forces." This sounds as though the little brown men would like to be conceded the victory, but Australia, long a home of cricket-players, has always believed in contesting the match and has often won against heavy odds.

PRAYER FOR NEW-BORN

We, midway travellers between birth and death,
Pray for the nurselings, the unknowing,
  the new-born,
Still sunned by their madonnas' eyes, surrounded
By shade of arm, shield of breast,
From hardness confused of lancing light,
Frown of strangeness, fright of space
  unbounded;

Who, not divided yet, division of flesh
Weakly assume, and billows of sound beat
Through winds of scent and color without defining;
For whom, away from close breast,
All distances unfocussed bear
Rumor of cold and menace of sound shining;

For whom, in distance of time, for whom unborn,
Through generations of dream and dark will
Drops in the swift, the tributaried river
Slid and mingled, sobbed farewell,
Heavy with vague inheritance,
Lost in the shifting years till birth deliver;

So sunk, so scattered, in general dream
  so old,
For them we pray, inheritors last-come
Who weep and wake in the body's strange asembling;
For the unaccustomed eye afraid
Of dazzle, the ear of noise, the hand
Waving or clasped in strain, the thin cry trembling.

For them we pray—new-come in a world unknown
That soon will grow familiar—a long life
Happier than ours; as men pray desolate-hearted
For other travellers who go,
And slip even from Earth's breast,
Bound for an unknown world, the new-departed.

Canada Is Seen Through Canadian Eyes

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SLOWLY but surely a small literature is growing up consisting of books about Canada by Canadians. The year 1940 gave us "Canada—America's Problem," by the well-known staff writer of the New York Times, John Macormac, and no Canadian will deny the importance of this work, even if he disagrees with the view which Mr. Macormac takes of Canada's destiny. This year we have "The Unknown Country" by Bruce Hutchison, and a very good book it is.

The author is a Canadian journalist of wide experience, for he has been everything from a sports reporter to a political correspondent; he has also been successful as a writer of short stories. He has travelled widely in this country and he is genuinely curious and enthusiastic about his native land. Best of all, he is not infected by that pseudo-sophistication which afflicts many Canadian writers when they come to deal with their own country and its problems; he is well-informed on Canadian affairs, but he never feels it necessary to deride or interpret Canadian politicians; he knows our faults and condemns them roundly, but he is more interested in our virtues. His book is patriotic but not tub-thumping, critical but not hyper-critical, authoritative but not dogmatic.

AS A WRITER Mr. Hutchison has the failings which are associated with his virtues. He is a ready writer, apt in description and felicitous in phrase. But he is also inclined to introduce purple passages into his book which are a little hard to swallow. Fortunately these are generally contained in the introductory matter which precedes his long chapters, and they are printed in italic type; it is only fair, however, to say that in some of these he writes very well indeed and one or two of them, such as his description of leaves falling in the autumn in an Ontario street, give a finely poetic interpretation of the spirit and atmosphere of this country.

Bruce Hutchison makes no pretence to being complete in his description and discussion of Canada, and this, paradoxically, gives strength to his book. The matters which he discusses he treats at length and in the light of his own considerable knowledge, and this thorough treatment of parts gives a better impression of the whole than any superficial guide-book could ever do. This is a Canadian talking about his own land, and as he knows and loves that land, and has a fund of curious information about it, he has produced an entertaining and illuminating book.

"AT the start this book had a plan, but the writer soon forgot it and is confident the reader will never discover it," says Mr. Hutchison in his Foreword. This is not strictly true, but authors are allowed to make these modest statements about their work without contradiction; he does not choose to deal with the country methodically, by provinces, nor does he give his information in dabs of history, dabs of geography and dabs of 'atmosphere' as so many writers choose to do. But there is a plan, and it is an unusually good one. One part of it is a determination to speak of Canada as an inhabited country; so many writers write of Canada as though it were a waste, containing no individuals but only a nameless herd, a mass, called 'the people.' Mr. Hutchison knows the difference not only between a Quebec man and an Ontario man; he knows the difference between an Eastern Ontario man and a Western Ontario man; he recognizes the factors which make the men and women of the Maritime Provinces a people apart. He knows why the people of British Columbia are, despite their Imperialism, very different from the Imperialists of Toronto. And he knows the great individual Canadians: he has an admirable analysis and description of Prime Minister King and another of the great editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, John Dafoe.

What Bruce Hutchison has to say about Mr. King will surprise and displease some of the Prime Minister's political opponents, for in him this Canadian observer sees personified the real spirit of Canada, cautious, reserved, delaying and unspectacular, a symbol, indeed, of those electors in the country constituencies who sit at political meetings "with cold, haddock eyes" fixed upon the aspiring political candidate. This is rather a blow for those who like to think of the typical Canadian as a dashing, breezy, devil-may-care fellow, but those who have eyes to see must admit that Hutchison's opinion contains a large measure of truth.

OF John Dafoe, Mr. Hutchison says that "for nearly fifty years he has been doing a large part of Canada's thinking." And he continues with this tribute, one to make even that veteran journalist flush with pride: "In his own field of Canada, Mr. Dafoe has been more influential than any corresponding journalist in the British Commonwealth — a last rugged relic of the days of personal journalism, when men like Greeley, Dana and Watterson flourished in the United States." It is such personal opinions as these which give life to "The Unknown Country"; guide-books we have in plenty, but books of informed and interesting opinion are rare about Canada. This is one which should have a wide appeal, and it certainly deserves a wide success. It has been written with love and insight, two qualities which are rare in Canadian writing, and indeed in any writing.

• The Tools for Russia

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 28 —(AP)— The conclusion of Anglo-American war leadership that the crux of the conflict at this stage is in Russia is sharply re-emphasized by developments on both sides of the Atlantic.

From Washington President Roosevelt has ordered first priority for lagging Russian war-order deliveries. He signed his directive as constitutional comander-in-chief of all American armed forces. That forbids army or navy objection on the ground that growing American fighting forces be first served with weapons and equipment for training purposes.

London contributed word that the Royal Air Force had resumed its pounding of Nazi war factories, battering the Ruhr industrial area with every type of missile, including two-ton bombs. London also has provided an intimation in the words of Prime Minister Churchill himself that events are in process in the Atlantic to curb Nazi U-boat ravages and maintain Anglo-American communication lines with Russia.

"OF DEFINITE SIGNIFICANCE"

Just what new disposition of Anglo-American warcraft and planes to that end is in prospect is unknown. Mr. Churchill's declaration that recent Allied setbacks in the Atlantic are "only for the time being" has definite significance, however.

Exactly what prompted the President to step into Washington's internal war over arms priorities so decisively is not revealed beyond the fact that deliveries to Russia had fallen below the time schedule provided by Russian-British-American pact. It has been a foregone conclusion ever since Japan's attack drew the United States into the war, however, that demands would arise for reserving for home training use much of the output of American factories otherwise intended for Britain, Russia or China.

The equipment needs of MacArthur's mobilizing army in Australia; of the American Expeditionary Force in North Ireland; of the garrisons in Iceland or the other Atlantic outposts must add to the conflicting clamor for prior ratings. Lieutenant-General Joseph Stilwell, commanding the Chinese segment of the Sino-British defense front in Burma, also emphasizes that the special equipment to give his forces an even battle footing with the foe must come from the United States by long and difficult routes. He backed that, however, with an expression of his confidence in sturdy Chinese ability "to take it" until that help arrived.

TWIN MOTIVES

Piece all this together and a twin motive for the Roosevelt order can be discerned. In the first place, it seems designed to short-circuit debate as to which battle front, east or west, is the most crucial at this stage, with Hitler's promised summer offensive impending. And it serves no less to minimize the effect of home demands for protective and training armament that might be more effectively employed immediately elsewhere.

There is no doubt that Nazi observers of the American political scene hoped greatly that Japan's attack would not only divert American effort to the Pacific, but that it would result in a sharp curtailment of the flow of American battle weapons to Britain and especially to Russia.

For it is in Russia that Hitler's supreme crisis seems destined to come. It is there that the beginning of the end of the Axis could be written within a few months.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said....I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall suit the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth.—Num. xxix, 15, 17.

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea, for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel.

Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was....And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down and worshipped him.—Matt. ii, 1-9, 11.

County Council Confirms Rate Set In January For Roads; To Cost Ratepayers Extra $20,000

In a night session Friday the County Council confirmed the 2½-mill road levy they passed in January before the Department of Highways had sent out any intimation of their decision this week to pay their 50 per cent subsidy on only half the expenditure last year for county road work.

The significance of this course is that in its road financing this year, according to the estimates of D. A. Maciver, county engineer, the council will spend in excess of the Department's limit the sum of $20,000 on which there will be no subsidy from the Provincial Government. Ordinarily the county would receive half that amount as a rebate, together with the stated refund which is allowed this year; but as an indirect effect of the war this excess will all be paid out of the county treasury.

That is approximately the situation as the council glumly scanned it yesterday, and in the end, about 9.30 o'clock last night, they passed a resolution by Reeve John McColl to make a special appeal to the Department for the subsidy on 75 per cent. of the amount spent in 1941 to provide for special requirements such as machinery committals, bought and ordered, repairs to the Bensfort Bridge, improvement of the Lakefield-Crowe's Landing road as requested by the American Nepheline Company.

The council also suggests that the Department should take into consideration the fact that many rural residents are working in the city's factories producing war materials and are driving over county roads every day.

Against that hope of something extra beyond the Department's restriction of road expenditure for this war year, Charles Poynton, district engineer, told the council yesterday afternoon that other counties were in all probability thinking up the same kind of resolutions asking for extension of financial preferment.

$84,000 Last Year.

The Council spent last year around $84,000 on which they received the Department's 50 per cent. rebate.

This year the rebate is limited to a total expenditure of half that total, or $42,000, and that includes both roads and bridges.

Mr. Maciver estimated that by retaining the 2.5 mill rate adopted in January the council would spend on bridges and county and suburban roads $62,000.

Subtract the $42,000 from this $62,000, and the council is left with $20,000 in their program of expenditure on which no subsidy will be returned by the Provincial Government. And that briefly, is the sad story, the first time the County Council has heard it since Peterborough long ago went into the Ontario good roads scheme.

Asked For Cut.

Reeve A. B. Mann suggested last night that the county might be able to get along on a 1½-mill road levy this year. He moved a resolution proposing that reduction from the 2½ mills passed in January, and Reeve Isaac Anderson seconded the motion, but none of the other members voted for it.

The 2.5-mill levy will provide $25,842, and a 1.5-mill rate for roads would raise $15,505.

Reeve Ferguson said he was reluctant to vote on this question because Norwood had a considerable share of provincial highway, "and it might look selfish on my part. There are municipalities with a much greater interest in the road money than we have."

Consulted Ratepayers.

Reeve Mather said he did not vote on the Mann-Anderson motion because he had submitted virtually this same question to the Otonabee ratepayers at the annual municipal meeting last December, and the consensus of the ratepayers was that they desire to have adequate maintenance of both county and township roads.

Earlier in the day, a Gifford-Ferguson motion recommended that the grant to the Suburban Area Commission be cut in half, $5,000, instead of $10,000, as adopted in January. This contemplated a 50 per cent. cut in proportion to the reduction in subsidy announced by the Department.

Reeve Mann urged at that stage that the entire question of road expenditure be left to the county roads committee for consideration in the light of assumed additional information which, it was vaguely hoped, might be somewhat more favorable than the bare announcement from the Department of Highways.

"I am not in favor of raising road money on which we don't get a subsidy from the Government," Reeve Mann said.

Mr. Mather said he felt that he was carrying out the wishes of his ratepayers in Otonabee by supporting the 2.5-mill levy.

"If we cut the rate a mill or so," said Reeve M. H. Johnston, "we might as well shut up shop, put our road machinery in a shed and tell the engineer to look for another job. And then we would have to return to the old gravelling days."

$7,000 For Suburban.

The council's final action reduced the county's allowance for the Suburban Area Commission to $7,000, instead of the $10,000 passed in January. That, incidentally, means that the city will be requisitioned for only $7,000 as its equal contribution for suburban area roads although in its 1942 budget the City Council approved of the $10,000 amount.

Reeve Ferguson enquired whether the alteration in the road financing would have any effect on the county tax rate, and Miss Batten, clerk, replied that with such 1941 items as the cost of equalization of assessment, the celebration of the centennial of the county, the $1,000 grant to the provincial plowing match, and the one-mill grant for patriotic purposes, out of this year's financing the rate might not be any higher when it is struck in June, although possibly there might be some slight increase.

The net result of the afternoon discussion had left the road question unsettled, and members proposed adjournment until Saturday morning.

Wanted Night Session.

"Let us come back and stick it out tonight," Reeve Mann urged. "There is a war on, and the Government is cutting down expenses, and it is up to us to finish the work tonight instead of coming back into another day."

That opinion prevailed, and a rough estimate of the distribution of the road money was as follows: For the Suburban Area Commission, $26,000; for county roads, $27,000, and for bridges $7,000. Those sums may be revised later, but they were quoted last night as an indication of what funds would actually be available for the several divisions of expenditure.

Mr. Maciver said that already this year $10,000 had been spent on roads. Repairs to Bensfort Bridge will cost about $5,000, but that amount will be distributed between Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham and the Federal Government.

Another effect of the cut in money will likely be little or perhaps no money to be spent by the Suburban Area Commission on permanent mulch surfacing.

Mr. Poynton drew a long, bright bow in an effort to bolster the Council's spirit by saying that if the war situation materially improved later on in the year, and the county's expenditure exceeded the limit of the government's subsidy basis, the Department might next year pay back to the county the subsidy on the excess.

Reinforcement Camps Busy New Thousands

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 28 (CP)—At the camps of the Canadian reinforcement units here in southern England thousands upon thousands of Canadian soldiers are training for operations with line regiments.

This organization is the backstop of the overseas army. All reinforcements for field formations train here first, and troops for regiments of four Canadian divisions are at work on barrack squares, training grounds, in army schools and workshops. Their background of training in Canada is brushed up and specialist instruction is provided.

More than a score of Brigadiers, Colonels and Lieutenant-Colonels, who were over the new age limits as commanders of field formations, have been appointed to C.R.U. commands. Brigadiers and Colonels now leave field posts at 54, Lieutenant-Colonels at 51.

Maj. I. L. Obbotson of Montreal, formerly second-in-command of the Black Watch, is a senior member of the general staff in charge of training and with him are Capt. H. W. Williamson of Saskatoon, Capt. Ralph Bonnell of Saint John, N.B., and Capt. Roger Sweet of Hamilton.

Battle drill is taught at the C.R.U. as it is in the regiments up the line. More than 100 courses are being run here, with instruction varying from cooking and boot repairing to bayonet-fighting and gunnery.

Reinforcements for every regiment and unit in the army are being trained. Infantry reinforcements for three divisions are grouped, and Engineers, Signals, Army Service Corps, and miscellaneous units are at another training wing. All types of gunners train in still another group and machine gunners have their own depot.

Courses are operating for reinforcement officers and officers from regiments in the field. An armored corps reinforcement is being built up and the vehicle reception depot, through which passes the thousands of vehicles for the Canadian forces, is under C.R.U.

"Mexican Masquerade"

By CECIL CARNES

THE STORY: Now it can be told—strange tale of Allan Steele's experience in Mexico's California Peninsula. Allan drives off three men who attack Col. Escobar of the Rural Guard, explains he is photographer on assignment from California magazine, asks no questions but wonders why attackers called Escobar "traitor." Allan proceeds to Inn of One Thousand Delights, gives secret code word to Sun Su, Chinese owner. "So you are Number Two!" exclaims the Chinese.

STRANGE MADNESS
CHAPTER IV

"AH, yes, Number One," murmured Allan. "More commonly known to his friends as Harry Bishop. Let's get down to brass tacks Senor Sun, while we have this moment alone. I'm anxious to get on the job, you know. What can you tell me about Number One?"

"He came here one day, as you have done this afternoon. He was in search of two friends of his, a Dr. John Sargent and the doctor's daughter, a Miss Kay Sargent. They had disappeared, and people in the States were uneasy about them. Senor Bishop was an agreeable young man—"

"Excuse me. The news we had of the Sargents was very sketchy. Can you tell me how they disappeared, and where?"

"They were stopping at Ensenada. The doctor, I believe, is a most distinguished scholar, specializing in chemical research. He is also interested in the study of fish. Our Gulf has many varieties of fish not found along the Atlantic coast, so while Dr. Sargent was really at Ensenada for a rest, he decided to cross the Peninsula and spend a fortnight here, gathering specimens. He and his daughter left Ensenada one morning with two Indian guides — trustworthy men. The party was last seen at Alamo. Somewhere between Alamo and San Saba, they — vanished."

"People can't just vanish like that, Sun Su. What did the police —the Guardia Rurale—turn up in the way of clews?"

"Nada. Nothing, senor. I am sure of that, for I have it on the word of their commander, Colonel Escobar, who is a frequent visitor here. We discussed the affair and he told me himself he was completely mystified. A search of the road between here and Alamo revealed no traces of any trouble, but a night and day of heavy rain just before the search may have washed away anything of the sort. The theory among the natives around here is that the party was captured by brigands."

"Humph. Does Escobar think so?"

"Ah, no! That would not look so well for him and his rurales, you understand. The Colonel is more inclined to think it was a voluntary disappearance, that Dr. Sargent had some private affair of his own to pursue in secret."

"Baloney!" muttered Allan Steele. "That's the regular police excuse when they are stumped, or do not wish to put themselves to a lot of trouble. I've the best of reasons for knowing Dr. Sargent wouldn't stage a 'voluntary disappearance' right now." Allan frowned, tapped the desk irritably with his fingertips, scrutinized the placid yellow face of the Chinese. "I'll tell you something, Sun Su—something confidential," he said abruptly. "Dr. Sargent was not on vacation; he was down here on an important mission for the United States Government. It is they who are troubled by his disappearance, but they do not wish to advertise their interest too broadly."

THE proprietor's eyebrows rose and fell.

"So!" he nodded. "That helps me understand, Senor—?"

"Steele. Allan Steele."

"They sent Number One—Senor Bishop—to look for the Doctor, and now they send you to look for Senor Bishop. Yes?"

"You make it sound a little like a daisy chain," said Allan with a smile. "But you've got it nearly right. I'm not looking for Bishop, though. You see—we found Bishop."

"Found him! Where, senor?"

"He was wandering by the northern edge of the Grand Desert, north of here. Apparently he had been lost in the desert for days, from his condition. He was at the point of death from hunger and thirst when a couple of Yuma Indians saw him and took him to their cabin. A few days later, they turned him over to the nearest American consul. The consul identified him by marks on his clothing and sent him—where he belonged—to us. I saw him just a few days ago in a base hospital in California."

"Extraordinary! He came out of the Grand Desert, you say? He left here—one morning—taking a lunch with him. That's the last we saw of him! How was he when you left him, senor? Well on the road to recovery, I trust?"

"No. He is insane."

"Insane Out of his mind?" Once again the eyebrows rose and fell. "It was the result of exposure—his hardships in the desert—surely, he will recover, yes?"

"In that case, yes. But the hospital doctors think it may be something more than that, Sun Su. They noticed a tiny puncture on the back of his neck—the scar, possibly, of a hypodermic needle."

"HOLA! A hypodermic needle!"

"They think some virulent poison may have been injected that worked directly on his brain. If that should be so, the effect may wear off in time, or he may be permanently mad. They do not try to say which, for they cannot determine the nature of the poison, or drug, if that's what it was. If they're right, Sun Su, it means there's been a dirty bit of foul play somewhere." The Chinese nodded and uttered a sibilant hiss of surprise. "That's how it strikes you?"

"Yes, senor. It sounds as if Number One must have found out something that somebody did not wish known. So somebody took him and put him somewhere and did not let him go till they were sure he could not give away their secret. Then they carried him far from here and turned him loose so so it would look as if he had just got lost and met his misfortune by accident and exposure."

"Why didn't they just kill him off-hand and be done with him?" probed Steele, curious to hear an Oriental slant on the mystery.

"They would have had to hide the body. That would have been another unaccountable disappearance on top of the Sargent puzzle and they were afraid to risk a thorough investigation by the Mexican authorities, prodded into action by your government."

"Okay, Sun Su. You figure it just about as we did. Now the question is, who are 'they' and where are they?"

"Senor Bishop could tell you nothing, senor?"

For the second time, Allan hesitated, his nervous fingers drumming the desk. By instinct and training he was close-mouthed and cautious, yet he understood it is sometimes necessary to tell something of the truth in order to learn more. His thoughts went back to the picture of a gaunt, sunburned figure tossing restlessly in a hospital bed; his friend Harry Bishop, now insane and with a look of terror in his eyes that was not pleasant to see. To help Harry, or even only to avenge him, was worth a bit of risk . . .

"He keeps repeating one phrase, the only coherent words he speaks. He keeps saying: 'The yellow devils! The yellow devils!' That's all, Sun Su."

A.P. War Writer J. A. Mills Passes

VENTURA, Calif., March 28 — (AP).— James A. Mills, 58 veteran Associated Press foreign staff writer, died on Friday in Foster Memorial Hospital. He suffered a stroke on Thursday.

Mills was stricken ill in Tokyo three years ago and had been in poor health since.

Mills retired on June 31, 1940.

Following the trail of big news into out-of-the-way places of the world was the job which caused Mills to travel more than 300,000 miles.

Next to being a reporter Mills was a camera man, and a full equipment of picture making went along with his portable typewriter, his tooth brush and razor.

One of his later scoops was scored on August 30, 1935, on the eve of the Italian-Ethiopian War when he sent an exclusive story on the plans of American oil interests to obtain a blanket concession from Emperor Haille Selassie. It brought him honorable mention in the 1936 Pulitzer awards. The "beats" went back to his 24-hour margin on the historic Midania pact of October 13, 192, which prevented war between Turkey and the Allied Powers.

Greece flamed into civil war in the spring of 1933 with Venezelists battling Royalists. Mills hurried across the Grecian frontier. For three days there was no word of him. Then on March 10 a mud-caked figure appeared on the Yugoslav border with the first eye-witness account of the defeat of the insurgents. It was the end of an 80-mile trip in which Mills had lost his automobile over a cliff ridden a horse until the steed gave out, and then trudged weary miles.

Allies Trapped In Belgium Says Daladier

RIOM, March 28—(AP). — The Germans lured the British and French armies into a trap in Belgium by withholding their aerial attacks during the first few days of invasion of the Low Countries in May, 1940, former Premier Edouard Daladier testified Friday.

The former strong man, who was France's wartime Premier, said he had an "intuition it was a trap" when he followed the Allied armies northward after the Nazi attack started May 10.

He called the German tactics "failure to use bombers to attack enemy concentrations and save them for the actual battle itself—the opposite of the French idea," and said the Allies were "led on" until it was too late.

Even as Daladier described the events following May 10, newspapers in both occupied and unoccupied France were disputing whether the trial should continue.

In German-controlled Paris the Petit Parisien said in an editorial: "Some day there will be but one outcry, one verdict: The Riom trial will have been—at least in its present form—a great evil for our country."

This echoed Hitler's and German and Vichy collaborationist criticisms that testimony at Riom has concerned only France's lack of military preparation rather than seeking the persons responsible for bringing the country to war.

In Vichy, the Liberal newspaper L'Avenir called the same critics "interested belittlers" and said "developments are slowly but surely dissipating the atmosphere of doubt which the artful rhetoric of the defendants and the veiled insinuations of their friends have succeeded in putting in many minds."

General Jean Etcheberrigarary preceded Daladier to the witness stand to give details of the opening days of the Allied attempt to halt the German motorized land and air drive.

"Our arrival was timed to take place in two operations," he said. "The first was on the night of May 12 when we moved in the artillery without incident. We put our infantry into the line on the night of May 13. That night the Germans broke through several miles east of us and crossed the Meuse River. Nobody could do anything."

Niagara District Schools Enter Finals

TORONTO, March 28 — (CP) — Three teams from Niagara District schools won the right to enter the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association Basketball finals with victories at Danforth Technical School here last night.

M. Scott led Niagara Falls senior girls to a 19-5 victory over Owen Sound, scoring 10 points. In a senior boys contest, St. Catharines were held in check for the first half but broke loose in the last part of the game to defeat Orillia going away 33-25. E. McKenna was top man for St. Catharines, getting 14 of his team's points.

In a fast, clean junior boys battle, B. Johnson and F. Biller starred as Stamford downed Meaford 38-27. Stamford junior girls entry was defeated by Midland 16-10.

Albert College of Belleville staged a thrilling last-quarter drive to come from behind a 31-23 deficit to defeat Peterborough 41-38 and earn the right to meet St. Catharines in the finals.

In the first half the game was evenly played, Peterborough having a slight edge. Early in the third quarter Peterborough drew ahead and piled up a commanding lead.

Albert College opened the final quarter with a fierce attack that netted them a basket. Before Peterborough could re-organize their defences the Albert College boys had slipped in for more baskets and swiftly drew up on their rivals. The Peterborough attack began functioning again toward the end but they failed to pierce a stout Albert College defence.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

One menace that the Peterborough Soldiers escaped during the season just closed is revealed in the story from New York of the scoring prowess of Tommy Burlington, former Owen Sounder who played centre with the Atlantic City team of the Eastern United States Amateur League during the season just closed. Burlington who is blind in one eye has not allowed that handicap to interfere with his sniping. As a matter of fact he has just compiled about the highest scoring record ever attained in hockey. In 60 games Burlington has hung up 65 goals and piled up 66 assists for a total of 131 points which is certainly a mess of scoring points in any man's team. The Owen Sounder was one of the players the Belleville Reliance hoped to have in action in this group during the past season. They had Burlington in Belleville before the campaign opened but for some reason or other he failed to remain there. Had he done so it is evident that Ray Harding and the Peterborough defence would have had a busier campagin by far than they encountered during the group race.

* * * * * *

Remarkable as was the former Owen Sounder's total for 60 games, however, his scoring pace was not as high as either Bun Kingdon or Honey Tompkins set up in the O.H.A. games played by the Petes this season. Burlington scored a total of 131 points in 60 games in the Eastern United States League, an average per game of 2:11-60 points. Against that Kingdon hung up a total of 62 points in 22 games for an average of 2:9-11 points a game and Tompkins picked up 58 points in 23 games for an average of 2:12-23 a game, both well in advance of the Burlington scoring tempo. In the matter of actual goals scored Tompkins' record of 35 goals in 23 games for an average of roughly 1:1-2 goals a game was well ahead of Burlington's 65 goals in 60 games, and in assists Bun Kingdon's total of 36 gave him an average of 1:7-11 assists per game, again a much higher rate than the Burlington mark of 66 assists in 60 games. In other words if Kingdon played 60 games at the scoring pace he set up this season he would have finished with a total of 169 scoring points as against Burlington's 131 and he would have hung up a mark of 98 assists as against the former Owen Sounder's 66. Tompkins total scoring mark on a 60 game basis would have been 151 points and he would have scored 90 goals as against the 65 registered by the Atlantic City star. These figures are presented as proof of the fact that the Kingdon-Tompkins performance this season was mighty high scoring.

While we are on the subject of hockey there is a word of thanks due to a lot of good fans who have helped materially in the Petes' successful hunt for the championship by coming to the rescue with cars to transport the players when the new regulations forbidding the use of chartered buses came into effect. The Petes would have been in a bad way for travelling facilities had not a number of good friends come to the rescue and supplied automobiles when transportation was a big problem. Laurie Mitchell, Ed Riley, Spiros Zakos, Herb Payne, Dave Wilson, Harry Tudhope, Harold Thomas, Francis Long, Bud Williamson and the other real fans who helped to move the Petes around in their away-from-home games at the tail end of the season played a very real part in helping to bring the championship to Peterborough and have earned general thanks for their helpful co-operation.

The Ladies' Basketball League playoff series is all tied up in a knot. In Friday's double-header both winners of last week were defeated after the hardest kind of a battle and as a result both the senior and intermediate rounds are tied with one win each and the intermediate playoffs find Westclox and Y Gym also on even terms with a win each. That means that in both rounds another game will have to be played and it is expected they will be staged on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Westclox and Quakers wound up at the end of full time in their junior battle last night with 14 points each and overtime had to be played with the Clockmakers finally winning out 17 to 14, sparked by F. Bestard's 11-point score. An odd feature of the game was that Y Gym led by 14 to 3 at half time and failed to score thereafter while Westclox rallied in the last half. Quakers and Generals had a sizzling tussle in the senior game with the former winning 30 to 29 to tie up the series. Phyllis Ayres with 16 points led the winners' attack while Marg Wood hung up 17 for the Generals.

There will be little surprise in the fact that Pte. Joe Louis Barrow polished off big Abe Simon in their heavyweight championship fight at New York last night. The Brown Bomber in short Simonized the Long Island fighter, finishing him off early in the sixth round after the bell had twice saved Abe. Simon took a lot of punishment, according to the radio story of the fight, although he sounded surprisingly fresh when he came to the mike a moment or so after he had been declared out. Louis never was in the slightest danger and the only question mark about the whole affair was "when." Apparently Simon had nothing but size, courage and a clumsy left and that was not enough armament for Pte. Louis who hit his opponent with everything but the water pail before he finally dropped him early in the sixth round with a devastating right. It was the 23rd championship fight and he has now defended his title as often as all the champions from John L. Sullivan's time down have done put together.

Peterborough's last hope for outside basketball honors vanished in Toronto last night when the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School's senior cage team were beaten by Albert College in the COSSA series in Toronto. Until the last quarter of the game Coach Bamforth's team looked all over like winners over the Belleville team and were apparently certain finalists when they entered the last sessions with an eight-point lead over Albert College. However the Peterborough defensive system bogged down at that stage and the College quintet, unleasing a fierce attack came from behind to nose out P.C.V.S. 41 to 38. That momentary lapse cost the Peterborough kids who had much the better of the play over most of the route the right to enter the COSSA finals today. It was a tough break but sport is like that and Belleville earned their win by the fight they put into that final rally.

Hockey interest will centre tonight on the Leafs-Rangers game in Toronto, the fourth Stanley Cup battle between the two clubs and regarded as the crucial fixture in the series. If the Leafs come through with a win they will have a strangehold on the series with 3 wins as against one loss. On the other hand a Ranger victory will tie up the round and leave the whole thing wide open. What is worrying the Leafs and their supporters more than anything is the fact that the ace line of the Rangers, Phil Watson, Bryan Hextall and Lynn Patrick, has not scored a goal in the series so far. The most powerful attacking division in hockey cannot be kept off the score sheet indefinitely and the thing that bothers the Leafs is the feeling that the rough-neck line is due to break out any time and get a mess of goals.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Oshawa took the series from Ottawa St. Pats in three straight games by winning 11 to 5 last night....But the Generals better look out for the Montreal Royals who have won 19 games this season without a loss and walloped Halifax Canadians 12 to 3 last night....The turnover in the City Basketball League games last night tied up the series and now the league is in the position of having the annual banquet scheduled before the winners can be decided....The annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association will be held April 18....The announcement at one time would have meant a lot to Peterborough; now it merely brings back memories....Abe Simon may have got a short count last night but it merely saved him the experience of getting knocked over again.... The final games in the Ladies' Softball League have been arranged for Tuesday and Wednesday night....Westclox and Y Gym will meet Tuesday night at 7 o'clock and Quakers and Generals on Wednesday at the same hour....Montreal Royals kept their ace line out of the game with Halifax last night and yet won easily....Quebec Aces turned the tables on Glace Bay Miners last night, defeating the Maritime winners 4 goals to 1 to even the series.

Series Tied Up One Game Each In Basketball

Whichever teams finally win the senior and junior championships of the Ladies' Basketball League will certainly have earned their laurels. Quakers and Westclox served notice to that effect Friday night by upsetting the dope bucket and turning back C.G.E. General and Y Gym and thus deadlock their respective playoff series at one game apiece.

Both games were thrilling, nip and tuck battles with the winner in each case being declared only with the final whistle.

Westclox staged a momentous last half rally that brought them from behind to a tie score at the end of regulation time and forced an overtime period in which they scored three points to win out 17-14 in the junior series.

In one of the most thrilling battles of the year, Quakers eked out a thrilling 30-29 victory over C.G.E. Generals to square the senior finals. Y Gym and Generals had taken the opening games by scores of 26-21 and 31-22 a week ago and now the finalists will have to play deciding games, early next week.

Westclox staged the most decided reversal of form of the season in turning back Y Gym 17-14 in the junior series. Y Gym looked to be well on their way toward winning the second game and the title at half time. The Y team was on the long end of a 14-3 score at that time and appeared to be in complete command of the situation but Westclox were far from beaten. In the final 20 minutes and the overtime period they succeeded in keeping Y Gym completely off the score sheet meanwhile dropping in a total of 14 points to eke out a victory. The winners began to go places as the final half opened and they completely changed their disorganized first half style that had failed to give them a single field goal in that period. They succeeded in tying the count just before the final whistle ended regulation time and then scored the only three points in the overtime to win out. It was a spectacular comeback.

Westclox scored 7 of their 13 free throws and Y Gym counted two points from their nine foul shots.

F. Bestard with 11 points, I. Bullock and M. Hawthorne stood out for the winners and R. Hewitt and D. Bestard were best for Y Gym.

The teams:

Y Gym (12)—I. Young, 2; R. Hewitt, 5; N. Smith, I. Stewart, D. Ackford, B. Flynn, 2; R. Sullivan, 1; D. Bestard.

Westclox (17)—F. Bestard, 11; I. Bullock, M. Hawthorne, 4; A. Flynn, 2; M. McFadden, J. Hair, M. Goldie, S. Mortimer.

Referees—L. Grose and J. Cooper.

Quakers evened up the series for the senior title in a spectacular, even-Stephen battle with C.G.E. Generals winning out in the dying minutes, 30-29. It was a thrilling battle from start to finish that was anybody's game. Quakers held a 17-14 lead at half time, after a bitterly fought opening period, yielded their advantage as Generals pressed their way into a tie score and then won out on a free throw in the fleeting last seconds.

The score just about indicates the play. Quakers held a slight margin in the first half to earn the three point lead they took in that period and Generals out-scoring the winners 15-13 in the last period had just about that much superiority in that chapter. Neither team at any point in the contest set up a lead anyway large enough to allow them to rest on their laurels. It was a toss-up all the way with no more than a basket or two separating the two teams at any point. With seconds to go the count stood at 29-all and then in true Horatio Alger fashion, P. Ayers scored a free throw to give the underdog the victory.

The winners counted six of their 15 free throws and C.G.E. scored three of their 13 chances.

P. Ayres with 12 points was easily the standout for the winners with P. Lawless and H. Rutter also starring. M. Wood with 17 and A. Craig with 9 points were the spearheads for the Generals. The teams:

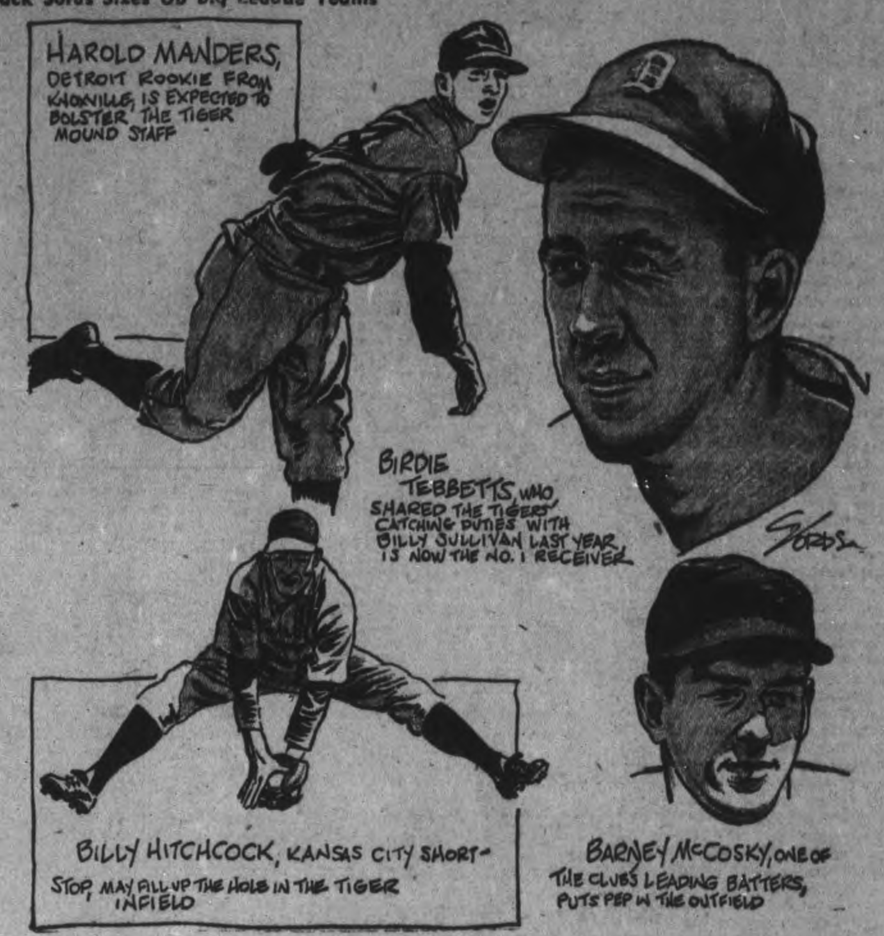
C.G.E. Generals (29)—M. Snowden, C. Stalter 2, A. Craig 9, M. Wood 17, M. Hodson, A. DeCarlo, E. Harte-Maxwell 1.

Quakers (30)—P. Lawless 4, D. Weese, M. Youdell, P. Ayres 18, M. Duncan, H. White, G. Allen, H. Rutter 6, D. Smith 2.

Referees—H. Smith and J. Cooper.

HOW THEY LOOK IN THE MAJORS

Jack Sords Sizes Up Big League Teams



By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, March 28—The once high-salaried Detroit Tigers, back in the journeyman pay class after several holdout fights, have been considered a pennant contender for 10 years and while the team may have a battle on its hands to stay in the first division this year, the Tigers must always be considered a first division club.

The Tigers certainly were not the choice for the pennant in 1940. Yet the team went on to win the flag, nipping the Indians in the stretch. Of course, several members of that spirited club, especially Hank Greenberg, are absent now and sorely needed.

The Tigers fell to a tie for fourth place last season, winning but 75 games against 79 losses. The club has several new men this year which should help the team in two or three bad spots.

Charlie Gehringer the once great second baseman, is a coach now, but he may get utility work. Buck Newsom, a confirmed holdout, is a question mark. He was so ineffective last year he lost 20 games against 12 wins. Besides, his long holdout isn't going to do him any good and there's always the chance he might be traded.

Tommy Bridges, for so long one of the Tiger mound aces, is getting older. Now 34, he still must be counted on as a starting huler although his 1941 record was nine wins against 12 losses.

Trucks Impressive

Schoolboy Rowe, the big righthander, is another question mark. He is expected to help hold the Tigers in there, but he, also, is getting older.

Al Benton, a reformed relief hurler, was the top Tiger tosser last year with 15 wins against six losses. Hal Newhouser, John Gorsica and Dizzy Trout are the others considered in the "varsity" slab corps. Gorsica is waging a holdout fight at this writing.

Of the newcomers, Virgil Trucks and Harold White, who won 28 games between them for Buffalo last year, are expected to make determined bids for plenty of work. Harold Manders had a good year at Knoxville last season, winning 15 games against nine losses. Roy Henshaw, one of the two lefthanders on the pitching staff, has been impressive in the training camp at Lakeland, Fla. Henshaw, who has seen service in the National league, won 13 games for Jersey City last year.

Sale of Billy Sullivan, No. 2 catcher, to Brooklyn, leaves the Tiger backstopping duties up to Birdie Tebbetts, the first stringer last year, and the rookie, Ed Parsons, who caught for Buffalo in 1941. Parsons is weak with the stick, having hit but .224 with Buffalo. Al Unser, brought up from Beaumont, will be the bullpen catcher.

The outfield appears set with Barney McCosky in centre and Roger Cramer, purchased from Washington, in right. Ray Radcliff and Bob Harris are around from last year. Pat Mullin, who hit .345 for the Tigers in Greenberg's old spot until he was injured, is gone, having enlisted in the service.

Rookies May Help

Outfield help may come from three rookies, Dick Wakefield, the University of Michigan star who was signed for a $47,000 bonus but who is unmarried, 20 years old, but may escape the draft because he supports his mother and two younger brothers; Bob Patrick, who hit .322 for Buffalo last season and Don Ross, who hit .310 for Montreal and who is highly considered in the Tiger camp. Walter (Hoot) Evers, who played with Winston-Salem last year, is another brought to camp.

In the infield, Pinky Higgins will hold down third base; Rudy York, finally signed, will guard first base and probably Jimmy Bloodworth, received in a trade with the Washington Nats, will be the second baseman. At short, the fight is between the rookie, William Hitchcock, who hit for .296 for Kansas City last year and has been impressive in camp, and Eric McNair, the veteran infielder.

Dutch Meyer, second baseman, and Murray Franklin, who played second for Little Rock last year, may have something to say about infield jobs before the season opens.

O.B.A. Will Meet Hamilton April 18

HAMILTON, Ont., March 28 — (CP).—The Ontario Baseball Association's 24tn annual meeting will be held here April 18, it was announced today. Nominations for officers and executives will be received by the O.B.A. secretary on or before April 4.

A number of O.B.A. Senior and Intermediate clubs already have completed arrangements for exhibition games for the entertainment of members of the armed forces, the proceeds of which will go to various war funds.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Whitlow Wyatt, the recent Brooklyn holdout, takes his first turn on the mound to-day against Detroit Tigers. Curt Davis will pitch the opening frames and Wyatt will finish.

SIMON GIVES LOUIS A SCRAP BEFORE JOINING KAYO STRING IN 6th

Abe Down Twice Before End; Joes 21st Win

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 28 —(AP)— Massive Abe Simon and his mite of a pilot, Jimmy Johnston, still are prattling about the injustice of it all today, but the U.S. Army Emergency Relief Fund heavyweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden last night goes down in the records as a knockout victory for Joe Louis in 16 seconds of the sixth round.

Not that there was even one rugged individualist in the crowd of 16,220 fans who expected a different ending. The fans, who contributed a gross gate of $132,430.41, knew that eventually Abe's lumpy torso would be stretched out on the soiled canvas.

The champion, donating his entire purse for the second time, was expected to reduce the great mass of a man to a great mess of a man even before six rounds.

But when the end did come, Abe was not stretched out. He painfully was hoisting himself erect at the count of 10, and he and Johnston vehemently claim Abe beat the count. But Abe was a beaten man.

He had gone down twice before, the bell stopping the count each time. In the second round he toppled like a felled tree, and his seconds churned out like tugboats to nudge the groggy Leviathan into dock and administer first aid. The count had reached two.

The end of the fifth found Simon seated placidly in his own corner, resin dust accumulating on the sole of his pants. The count reached six before his emergency squad could clamber up the steps to hoist him high enough to shove a stool under him.

Abe Puts Up A Scrap

Not that Abe didn't have his moments. As early as the first round he withstood as heavy a bombardment as the champion of champions could muster. At the start of the second round he grinned affably at the referee, giving a prodigious wink to show that everything was under control.

It was, for a minute or so. Like a huge, hairy mole he kept boring in, so awkwardly he positively was clever, and the ever-patient Louis waited, waited, waited for a chance to crash through those big arms and start his usual murderous flurry of blows.

He finally caught Abe late in the round, crashing rights and lefts off the lantern jaw until Abe just crumpled.

It seemed impossible the giant could come out for the third round, but he not only come out, he won an edge in it, as well as in the fourth, although the third was taken from him because of an accidental low blow.

Louis got the range again in the fifth, and the knockdown just before the bell was the prelude to the finale. Louis just walked out to start the sixth, swung a left hook and a crushing right, and Abe went down. He crawled to the ropes, and Referee Eddie Josephs ruled the giant still was down at 10.

Abe wandered disconsolately about the ring voicing protests, and Johnston is threatening to demand that Josephs' licence be revoked when the commission meets next Tuesday.

For ability to absorb punishment and willingless to plod ahead Simon won the admiration of all.

But he was against the top man, a soldier who is a champion in more ways than one. A man who bought $4,000 worth of tickets to his own fight, for which he received nothing, to give to his buddies. A man fighting for the first time without his faithful friend and trainer in his corner, who humbly questioned the ailing Jack Blackburn over the radio:

"I hope you're satisfied, Chappie."

It was Louis' 21st title defence, and his weight was his heaviest—207½. Simon touched 255¼. In an earlier meeting Simon went out in the 13th round.

Abe Simon Fails In Try At Louis' Crown

ABE SIMON

BILLY CONN, LEFT, AND JOE LOUIS

Once again big Abraham Simon, New York heavyweight, lost his chance at heavyweight title when Joe Louis kayoed him in 6th round last night in New York in a fight staged for the benefit of the Army relief fund. In their previous meeting, Simon stayed 13 rounds with Joe before being knocked out cold. Louis, now a private in the army, gave his whole purse to the fund. Simon contributed part of his to the same cause. Louis is shown with Billy Conn, the ex-light-heavyweight champ who gave Louis quite an argument last sumer. Billy's in the army, too.

HOW THEY LOOK IN THE MAJORS

Jack Sords Sizes Up Big League Teams

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Writer

NEW YORK, March 28.—Some time ago Connie Mack, the baseball-wise manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, snickered at talk of the New York Yanks walking off with another pennant. And he hinted that the Chicago White Sox might give the Yanks a run for it.

Newsmen covering the Pasadena camp of the Pale Hose disclose that Manager Jimmy Dykes is a bit upset about talk of a pennant for his club and is telling one and all the club "will be lucky" to top the second division.

Any prediction about Chicago's chances in the 1942 pennant chase is guided by the proven excellence of the mound staff, which was one of the best in the league last season and which should be as good if not better this season.

Lee Leads Staff

The pitching staff is headed by Thornton (Lefty) Lee, who won 21 games for the Sox last year: Johnny Rigney, who won 13; Ted Lyons, who won 12, and Edgar Smith, who won 13. Other tested hurlers on the roster are Pete Appleton, now 37 years old; Bill Dietrich, Johnny Humphries, Lee Ross and Joe Haynes.

It is expected that Manager Dykes will carry 10 pitchers this year. Only two rookies are being tried. Orval Grove, up once before and Edwin Weiland. Grove, who won 17 for Shreveport last season is expected to stick. Weiland won 11 for Waterloo, Ia., last season. Two other rookies were taken by the service, Stanley Goletz, from Oklahoma City, and Walter Navie, from Shreveport.

Haynes, a big righthander who had a good freshman year with the Washington Nats in 1940, was of no use to the Sox last season because of a damaged elbow. Now however, Haynes has completely recovered from his injury and is expected to show some real stuff.

The catching staff is the same, headed by Mike Tresh. It includes George Dickey and Tom Turner. Turner caught 115 games for the Sox last season.

Outfield Is Worry

Manager Dykes' biggest worry is the outfield. Only five outfielders are in camp, two of them rookies, and a deal may be in the making for another seasoned performer.

Several of the infielders, including Third Baseman Bob Kennedy and Shortstop Harry Sketchly, a rookie, are being considered for possible outfield play. The regular gardeners are Taft Wright and Myril Hoag and the winter purchase, Wally Moses, from the Athletics. The rookie help is Dave Philley who hit .347 for Munroe, La., last year, and Thurman Tucker, who hit but .246 in 151 games for Oklahoma City in 1941.

In the infield, the Sox have a capable first baseman, the hard-hitting Joe Kuhel, and the veteran shorstop, Luke Appling, who is conducting a holdout campaign at the moment. At second, Don Kolloway is being groomed for the job, with Jimmy Webb, Bill Knickerbocker and Rookie Harvey Johnson other possibilities. Johnson batted .273 for Harrisburg last season.

Kennedy In Draft?

While Appling remains away from camp, Leo Wells, promising rookie from St. Paul and Sketchly, U.C.L.A. collegian, signed as a free agent, are taking over the shortstopping duties in camp. Wells is hitting in Appling's cleanup spot in the camp games.

Bob Kennedy, the regular third baseman, may be lost to the club because of the draft. Also, Manager Dykes is experimenting with him in the outfield. That leaves the hot corner job for Dario Lodigiani, who took over last season.

Murrell Jones, big first baseman from Shreveport, and Chet Hajduk, from Waterloo, are other infield rookies who are being given a chance to show what they can do before the season starts.

May Take Seven But We'll Win Patrick Boasts

TORONTO March 28 — (CP) — Manager Lester Patrick of New York Rangers was one of the continent's more talkative sportsmen before he retired to the front office and left the strenuous activity to Frank Boucher. But now its playoff time and the Silver Fox has taken off his wraps. He speaks again.

"This series may go seven games, but we'll win it," he said yesterday after Rangers went through a light drill preparatory to the fourth game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs here tonight.

He dismissed with a wave of the hand Toronto's victories in the first two games of the series, and dwelled at length on Rangers' shutout triumph in the third.

"The win in New York Tuesday provided a mental uplift for the Rangers," he said. "It proved we could stage a comeback against a club that appeared to be the hottest playoff team in years. Now the Leafs are in the same position we were before Tuesday's game. (Editors note: Mr. Patrick apparently speaks strictly of spiritual matters here). They've got to get hot to catch us, despite the fact Leafs still have a one game edge. It may take us seven games to do it, but we'll win."

Day Saying Little

Coach Hap Day was short and to the point on this: "He's entitled to his own opinion," he said.

A sell-out crowd appeared assured for Toronto Maple Leafs Gardens for the game tonight. The fifth game will be played in New York tomorrow night.

Clint Smith will be back in the New York lineup tonight as centre for Alan Kuntz and Grant Warwick on Rangers' third line. Hub Macey, recent recruit from New York Rovers, will be on the sidelines.

Probable starting lineups:

New York		Toronto

Pratt	Defence	Kampman

Royals Swamp Canadians 12-3 May Cancel Rest

MONTREAL, March 28 — (CP).— It was up to the Canadian Amateur Association today to decide whether the Eastern Canada Junior semi-final hockey series between Montreal Royals and Halifax Canadians would continue or whether the series would be awarded to the Royals as a result of their lop-sided victory in the opening game.

Royals, beaten in the final for the Memorial Cup last season by Winnipeg Rangers, triumphed 12-3 over the Canadians here last night in the first game of what was scheduled to be a best-of-three series, with the second game Monday night. The victory ran Royals' string for the season to 19 straight games without defeat.

Because of the ease with which the Royals won, President Norman Dawe of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, said he had suggested to George Dudley of Midland, Ont., the C.A.H.A. president, that the remainder of the series be cancelled Dawe spoke to Dudley by telephone immediately after last night's game, which attracted about 2,000 fans.

Dawe said that Halifax officials did not feel that the rest of the series should be cancelled and Royals given automatic entry into the Eastern final against Oshawa Generals. However, he added that Dudley would speak some time today to the Halifax officials about the matter. It was the opinion of Q.A.H.A. officials that Dudley would recommend that Halifax concede the series.

Royals collected 29 scoring points against the smaller Halifax team, garnering 17 assists besides the 12 goals They were paced by Eddie Emberg, Johnny Gauthier, Tommy Hale and Doug Stewart. Gauthier marked up three goals and two assists to emerge as the high pointmaker of the night, while the others each tallied twice. George Hale, Eck Millar and Ian Hellyer were Royals' other goal-getters.

Although it was evident from the start that they were due to take a licking, the Canadians never stopped battling. Their top man was Defenceman Pius Gaudet, who tallied two of their goals and who seemed best able to match strides with the fast-skating Royals. Joey Evance scored the other Halifax goal.

Fingal Bombers Take Sutton 4-2

STRATFORD, March 28.—Fingal Bombers took the opening game of the O.H.A. Intermediate "A" finals by defeating the Sutton Green Shirts, 4-2, in a hard-fought game here last night. The Bombers scored twice in the last period after big Ellis Pringle had tied the score with a goal for Sutton forty-eight seconds after the final period got under way.

Bob Hodgson scored two of the Bombers' four goals. He got the first one on a break-away and sank the Air Force team's fourth counter at 19:16 of the last period when Sutton had five men down the ice in an effort to tie the score.

Andress and Pyatt were the other scorers for Fingal. McComb scored Sutton's first goal, with Pringle getting the second one. The second game of the best-of-three series will be played in Midland on Tusday night.

Sutton — Goal, Hall; defense, Pringle, Burkholder; centre, McComb; wings, Harris, Gibney; subs, Diplock. Brandon, Gilbey, Culverwell, Roberts.

Fingal — Goal, Heath; defense, Hodgson, Borland; centre, Gordon; wings, Andress, Pyatt; subs, Meeko, Hamilton, Krasonowski, Tessier, Degagne, Brownlee.

Remember When—

By the Canadian Press.

A record number of fines in National Hockey League history resulted from a Stanley Cup playoff game two years ago to-night in which Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Detroit Red Wings 3-1. Nine Toronto players and eight Detroit players drew $25.00 fines after a fight that involved practically every member of the teams.

Oshawa Generals Hoist St. Pats In Third Game To Grab Off Series

TORONTO, March 28. —(CP)— Oshawa Generals were back in the Eastern Junior Hockey finals today and it must feel just like home. Generals have made the Eastern finals for five consecutive seasons in building one of the most impressive junior hockey reputations in Canada, but they played with more than their reputations last night in eliminating Ottawa St. Patrick's college from Memorial Cup contention.

The Oshawa club swamped St. Pat's 11-5 in the third game of a best-of-five series, shaking off the stubborn Ottawans in the second and third periods after an even first. Generals won the first game of the series 6-4 here last Monday and took the second game 7-4 in Ottawa Wednesday. In both those first two games, Generals ran up big first-period leads and were hanging on desperately at the finish.

St. Pat's apparently decided that the secret of success lay in keeping abreast of the Generals in the first period so the haul wouldn't be so hopeless in the last two. They accomplished their first aim. The score at the end of the first period was 2-2, but the Ottawa District titlists didn't have any of their gimp left for the second and third. Oshawa led 6-2 after the second.

Bill Mortimer was the highest scorer in the game. The burly Oshawa defenceman, who played with last year's Memorial Cup champions, Winnipeg Rangers, scored three goals.

Ken Smith also had two for Generals, with Red Tilson, Floyd Curry, Ken McNaught, Buck Davies, Ron Nelson and Ron Wilson netting one each. Brown, Paddy French, Frank Dunlop, Johnny Dennison and George Pope scored for Ottawa.

In the last five years, Generals won the Canadian Junior championship twice (1939-40) and the Eastern title three times (1938-39-40). They lost to Montreal Royals in the Eastern final last spring. General will meet either Royal or Halifax Canadians in the Eastern final.

BE WHAT YOUR MATE WANTS TO MAKE MARRIAGE HAPPY

Most Husbands and Wives Are Not Considerate of What Other Desires in Life.

Dear Dorothy Dix—In looking back over the years of my marriage, wondering whether I have lived up to the give and take creed which seems so necessary to make it a success, I find that my husband gave me what he himself needed in life—a home, a car, money, security—because that was what he wanted in marriage, while I gave him nothing but love because that is all I've ever wanted in life. Here then, is a marriage based on selfishness, because we each gave what we wanted to give, not what our partners needed. I helped my husband save and scrimp until he made the fortune he wanted; but under duress though, while he has watched me starve for love without even giving me a hand out of affection. His need is still for money and the things that money buys. Mine is still for love, and we are both discontented because there is no oneness in our marriage. Is there any satisfaction in fighting on in a losing battle?—LOVELORN.

Answer.—Sometimes we get more out of the battles we lose than we do out of those we win, and whether we are victors or vanquished we get a great and abiding inner satisfaction out of the knowledge that we have put up a good fight and stood at out posts. We have proved ourselves to ourselves. We have tested our courage and it has not faltered. We can look ourselves in the face and know that we are men and women who can take it, instead of craven quitters.

Ideals Not Realized

But I think you have put your finger on one of the main reasons why so many marriages that should have turned out successes are failures. We cannot see why Mary and John, who are fine, worthy, conscientious people who try to do their duty by each other, are not happy together. And the answer is that each is giving the other what he or she wants in marriage, only it happens that the other craves something entirely different.

John's ideal of a husband is a man who is a good provider and who says it with beefsteaks and streamlined cars, and what he desires is a wife who is a good cook and housekeeper and who takes a heart interest in his business. Mary, on the other hand, hungers for sentiment instead of filet mignon. She would sell her loaf of bread any day to buy white hyacinths. She never learns to keep a budget, or to manage a house, and she never understands why her husband complains of the coffee when she gives him so much affection. Hence these disappointments in marriage, these tears, these quarrels, and often these divorces.

We Rarely Consider Others

All of this stems back to the very human trait that makes all of us think that everyone must like the things that we like, and that causes us to gratify our own taste when we make a present instead of considering the desires of the recipient. If we have a passion for reading, we bestow costly books upon those who never read anything except the society column and the stock market in the daily papers. If we yearn over antique furniture, we given fragile treasures to the modernistic who abhor anything on which the varnish has had time to dry. We even serve the food we like to our guests without considering whether they like the sophisticated dishes we do, or plain cooking.

It is only after we have had many bitter experiences with giving people the things we wanted ourselves, instead of the things they wanted, and much fasting and prayer that we rise to the heights of being unselfish even in our love and our desire to help others.

And this holds good of marriage as well as all other relationships in life. To give satisfaction we have to be the kind of husbands and wives our mates want, instead of being the kind we would like to have ourselves

Mother-in-Law Trouble

Dear Dorothy Dix: When I married I thought I was getting a wife, but I find that I have unintentionally committed bigamy, for I seem to have married a mother-in-law also. And Mother-in-law is the boss in our house. Neither my wife nor myself have any authority in it. We can't have what we like to eat. We eat what she considers good for our stomachs. We can't move a chair because she has placed every piece of furniture where she wants it. We have a child, but we have no more to do with rearing it than if we were utter strangers. We can't ever take the baby out riding without Mother-in-law's consent. I have stood this just as long as I intend to. I am going to tell my wife that she has to choose between her mother and me. She has to come and live with me in a home of my own in which there is no mother-in-law to boss us, or else we part for good. If Mother-in-law was old and feeble and couldn't make her way, I would put aside my own happiness to keep her, but she isn't old or sick. She is barely middle-aged and strong and husky and she could work if she would. Don't you think I am right in, at least, making a fight for my marriage?

—A DISCOURAGED MAN.

Answer.—Yes, I do. I don't see why the happiness of the whole family should be sacrificed to gratify the love of domineering of a typannical woman, even if she does happen to be the mother of one or the other of a married couple.

The tradition that there is something sacred about mothers and that their children can never be grateful enough to them for bringing them into this world of suffering and trouble, is a very beautiful one as long as Mother lives up to her role and is the sweet, unselfish creature she is represented as being, but it is all the bunk when Mother sheds her halo and shows herself to be a female Hitler. Then her children should deal with Mother as she deserves and tell her that if she wants to live with them she has to be on her good behavior. She has to earn her welcome by making herself a pleasant person to have in the house and restrain her propensity for bossing everyone around her.

Narrowing Hemline

By PRUNELLA WOOD

SURPRISE silhouette for the coming season... which may or may not "take," but which, at least, is attractive while it lures our interest... is the peg-top of one sort or another which promotes a narrower hemline.

Here we have one of its less novel handlings, a peg-top version of the side-saddle drape. Marvelous for the slim figure, delightful for her whose ankles are delicate, this shorter, sparser silhouette is chic... if it is becoming. You can see that it doesn't use extravagant lengths of material, either.

Watch this silhouette. Sometimes it puffs over both hips; again the folds occur near the hem. It is ready for day and evening gowns. Will it click?

Black crepe is sideswept into a peg-top silhouette, and accented with a surplice edging and corsage of Broderie Anglaise. Cuffs also white-edged.

With Peterborough Red Cross Branch

Work in the Red Cross rooms is not confined to the afternoon and evening sewing meetings. There is much to prepare for the sewers and during the mornings that is done Cutting out garments, as most women know, is a tedious and very particular job, and as material cannot be wasted much careful planning is necessary. To watch the supervisors working over their patterns, turning, folding, measuring, and studying how to get the most out of the least is a real lesson.

When cutting is done, every inch of material is saved, picked up and put into boxes for the purpose. These pieces are then cut and used in quilt making. Selvedge is saved and used for tying bundles, even threads and sweepings are saved, and later baled and sent to the salvage.

Pins and needles are becoming very scarce and the janitor after sweeping, uses a magnet on the end of a stick to pick up any that may have been dropped. In that way there is no wastage. In fact, economy is the watchword, and hence not even a thread is lost.

The work of the janitor of the Library in the Red Cross rooms is greatly appreciated and many times he is called upon to give a helping hand in an emergency, this done willingly and in a spirit of splendid co-operation.

Every finished article is inspected when it leaves the workers' hands and if any slight alteration is needed those workers who give their time in the mornings attend to it. Buttonholes are made only by certain people, buttons sewed on by others, and again another committee does the pressing and folding of the finished garment.

At times batts of woollen cloth must be shrunk and refolded before using. All this work is mostly done by individuals, not groups. Members of the Junior Welfare League, Jeanette Scott, and Peter Robinson Chapters of the I.O.D.E. assist with the cutting. Members of the Nurses' Association perpare the material for the surgical dressings which are made up by their groups later on.

Since the rooms were opened after war was declared, a very fine contribution to the work has been made by Fanning's Laundry who, free of charge, have laundered every soiled article.

Choirs Delight Audience In Spring Music Festival

The sight of children dressed in their party best to perform for their parents and friends is always a pleasant one. When the performance not merely appeals, but surpasses and transcends such considerations the pleasure is doubled and redoubled. On Friday night the pupils of Peterborough's public schools put on their party clothes and sang for their parents in the Collegiate Auditorium.

The event was an important one in Peterborough's musical season; more important, perhaps, than any concert by an out-of-town artist; for this Spring Music Festival was blossoming from within; a sure sign that the love of music is alive and flourishing, in Peterborough.

The children sang as only children can, with a grave intenseness and a conscientious striving to give of the best that was in them. They had been well-taught, exceedingly well, but they had also learned to love music, to sing for the love of singing. If they had not, their music would not have been the lovely thing to listen to that it was. Their voices were sweet, clear and true; their enunciation was perfect, so that even in numbers by combined choirs, the words could be heard distinctly.

The musical program was varied with two folk dances, a Swedish Schottische by the pupils of Grade III, King Edward school, and an Irish Reel, "the Waves of Tory," by pupils of grade 5, Central school. Both of these were very well executed, and congratulations must go to Miss A. Jamieson and her Household Science classes, who made the pretty costumes. Congratulations also to Miss B. Hart and Miss C. Doughty, who directed the dances.

Another variation, of a truly delightful character was a dance pantomime, "The Elves and the Shoemaker" by the Kindergarten pupils of Prince of Wales and King Edward schools. The intenseness with which these tiny children went about their parts, the enthusiasm and unconscious talent which they showed won the hearts of the audience from the start. Hours and hours of patient work and practice must have been spent training these children for their performance but the result was surely worth it.

The pupils of grade 1 and 2 of King George school performed three new, and wholly delightful singing games, "Ding Dong Bell," "Lazy Mary," and "The Elephants." They were directed by Misses M. Eastwood, F. Bonnycastle and P. Moore.

The choir of King George school, under the direction of Miss F. Rahmel, sang the rippling Shakespearean madrigal, "When Daisies Pied," and the wistful Scottish air, "Loch Lomond."

The choir of Queen Alexandra School, under the direction of Miss Musa Cox, in place of Miss Eagleson, who was unfortunately ill, sang an old English folk song, "With Jockey to the Fair," and Mendelssohn's lovely familiar "On Wings of Song."

Mr. D. Munro conducted the Central School choir in a solemn Netherlands "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and in a new song, with words by F. M. DelaFosse and music by Hubert Eisdell, "Our Motherland."

The intermediate choir of Prince of Wales School, directed by Miss Alberta Hunter, sang three of the very difficult A. A. Milne songs, "Buckingham Palace," "Hoppity," and "Vespers." These three songs were beautifully executed.

Mr. J. Telford conducted the Queen Mary choir in a sad, sweet Wesh air "The Ash Grove," and in the rollicking sea chanty, "Bound for the Rio Grande."

The choir of King Edward School, under the direction of Miss M. Dickson, sang two numbers, "The Bells of Aberdovey" and "Go No More a-Rushing," an Elizabethan madrigal of lilting loveliness.

The Prince of Wales choir, directed by Mr. A. Noftall, sang a Dutch Easter carol, "This Joyful Eastertide," and a musical setting by Perry Judd of R. L. Stevenson's poem, "The Wind."

The combined senior choirs of all the schools numbering about 150, under the direction of Miss Musa Cox, gave several very fine numbers, beginning with "O Canada" and the "Star-Spangled Banner." They sang "Fairest Islet" by the English composer Henry Purcell, Palestrina's loved familiar "Easter Hymn," the traditional Welsh air, "All Through the Night," the sea chanty "Billy Boy," a new partiotic song with a fine ringing tune, "There's an Empire Back of the Union Jack," "Our Canada, from Sea to Sea," and "Rule Britannia."

Mr. G. R. Fenwick, director of music for the Public Schools of Ontario, was present and made a brief address in which he said that the performances he had heard that evening compared favorably with any he had heard in Ontario recently.

A special meed of praise is due to Miss Musa Cox, who directed the program and all the combined choir numbers, and to Mr. Harry Northrop who accompanied all the choirs, as well as to all the teachers who gave so much of their time and effort to make the festival an occasion well worth remembering.

Sybil Hall Weds Pte. Gordon Head

All Saints' Church was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon, when Sybil Hall, daughter of Mrs. E. G. Kelly and the late W. W. Hall, was united in marriage with Pte. Gordon Glenn Head, R.C.O.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Head of Picton, Ontario. The Rev. W. A. Filer performed the ceremony and wedding music was played by Mrs. W. A. Logan, who played "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Walter Hall, looked lovely in a street-length dress of white wool crepe with matching turban and navy accessories. She carried a bouquet of red roses. The bride was attended by Miss Irene Kelly, sister of the bride, who wore a dusty rose silk jersey dress with matching turban and black accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, where her mother received wearing a gown of blue chiffon with lace insets, navy hat and gloves, and a corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Kingston and Picton. For travelling Mrs. Head wore a blue jerkin dress trimmed with pale pink, a beige llama hair coat and brown accessories. On their return they will live in Pembroke, Ontario.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 29.

Sunday's horoscope although holding some promise for the clergy and mystical or philanthropic pursuits in a general way is not a fortunate one. It has auguries of portentous and trying affairs both of an enduring and sudden nature. There may be surprising and unlooked for upheavals, changes, and other precipitate events, with disappointments.

Those whose birthday it is may have some success during the year through public, political or organized bodies, through discreet and tactful action. Generally there are portentous affairs concerning writings, travel, strange persons or experiences.

A child born on this day though it may be clever, original and public spirited, may meet with reverses, delays, and disconcerting adventures in life.

For Monday, March 30.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a difficult and disturbing day, with much stirring but of an adverse nature. There may be agitation, excitement, quarrels, and violence. Rash conduct, with bitter, insulting and impulsive words and deeds may provoke reprisals as well as regrets.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of adversity and disturbance mainly brought about by their own rash, irritable, and passionate temper. Words and deeds may stir up reprisals and unhappy encounters. Indulgence, excesses, and bad judgment in use of funds either in investments, speculation, or high living also bring discredit.

A child born on this day may be wayward, indulgent, passionate, and impulsive. Pursuit of pleasure may cause much disturbance and regret. Early training and discipline are recommended.

New Beauty - - - -

To the person who must wear glasses, there is the constant question—how will I look? But new styles in glasses have taken care of that question neatly. Designed to flatter the face they make the wearing of glasses a pleasure rather than a disfigurement.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

REMANDED UNTIL MONDAY.

Magistrate Langley in Police Court this morning remanded a local man until Monday on a charge of third offence drunkenness. Inspector Reid said that the police would be ready to go on with the case then. "You can get out on $50," the Magistrate told the accused.

MORE FLOWERS IN BLOOM.

Mrs. Jack Cridland, who lives at 864 George Street reports that crocuses are blooming in the south-east corner of her garden. Other flowers, including tulips, are reported to be sprouting from the warm ground, and more positive signs of spring are the busy husbands who have started raking the lawns, and burning the accumulation of rubbish in the back yard.

POPULAR ORCHESTRA LEADER.

Lieut. Eric Roberts, who had one of the top-ranking orchestras in this district for several years, and who is now serving with the Royal Canadian Workshop, will broadcast on Saturday. He will be heard on the CBC program "Khaki Scrapbook," from 6:00 to 6:15.

ARRIVES IN ENGLAND.

Lt. Nelson D. (Pete) King of this city arrived in England on the last convoy to be reported as carrying soldiers. He is well known as a lacross player, and formerly owned the King's Hotel on Simcoe Street. He is now a partner in Queen's Hotel, and in the Army is attached to the Ordnance Corps.

SAW BLUEBIRDS.

An Examiner reporter who motored out as far as S. S. No. 17 in Otonabee on Friday, noticed a pair of bluebirds on the fence, and to-day Cyril Lech reports he saw a flock of beautiful grosbeaks in the trees near G. N. Gordon's home on Hunter Street West.

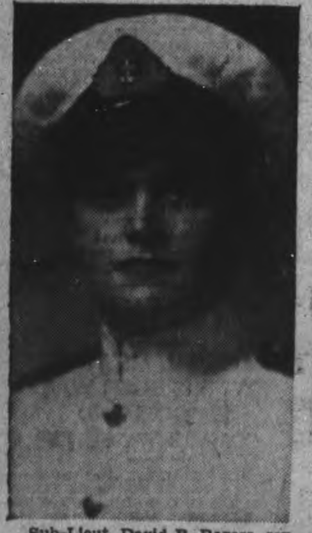
WATER ON RANGES.

There is quite a bit of water on the Rifle Ranges out on the old Norwood Road as yet but the firing points are dry. There is a large pool directly in front of the butts, and it is unlikely the soldiers will be able to get any outdoor shooting practice for at least a week or ten days.

SKIDS INTO POST.

The mystery of what damaged a telephone pole, mail box and fire alarm box on Reid Street the other day was explained when Frank Leach, Bridgenorth, reported to the police that his car skidded as he was driving down Reid Street north of McDonnel Street, and collided with the pole, denting the mail box and loosening the fire alarm box from the post.

With Royal Navy



Sub-Lieut. David B. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers of this city, is now serving with the Royal Navy. He enlisted and trained with the Royal Canadian Navy, but was later transferred to the senior service. He is 21 years of age and a graduate of the P.C.I.

Bar Association Honors Lawyers

A luncheon meeting of the Peterborough Law Association in Hooper's palm parlors was held Friday in honor of Alex Elliott, K.C., M.P.P., and Ralph Standish, who have enlisted for active serivce.

Jacob Low, president of the association was chairman, and presented the two guests with gifts on behalf of the association. A motion was passed that the secretary, W. B. Gordon, write a letter to the county council thanking them for the installation of fluorescent lighting in the law library. It was said that this had greatly enhanced the value of the library to the members because of the better reading facilities.

John Bradshaw was appointed treasurer for the rest of the year in the absence of Mr. Standish.

Mr. Elliott and Mr. Standish gratefully acknowledged their remembrance by the association. Other short addresses were given by His Honor Judge Smoke, Magistrate Langley, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and T. J. Carley, K.C.

Gas Ration Book Goes To Cleaners

A citizen who had lost his new gasoline ration card book searched "high and low" at home and elsewhere. He "stewed about it a great deal, little knowing that the book was stewing, too."

He was told he would have to pay another dollar, and make an affidavit before he could get another book.

About that stage of his worries he called at a dry cleaners where he had sent his overcoat and found there the missing book.

"We wondered whose it was," they told him. The book is all one color, the process of cleaning having leeched out the color of book and tickets.

"I guess I'm now in a class by myself, and wait till they get my colorless tickets in Toronto. I'll bet they'll do some wondering when they see them," this man said.

MILK FOR BRITAIN FUND
SEND DONATIONS TO ROYAL BANK, PETERBORO

Five Donations Total $71 For War Victims

Friday's receipts for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, totalling five in number among which were two nice personal donations, both of whom have given a number of times previously and reflect the continued interest in this purely local fund to give direct help to the people of Britain through the Lord Mayor's National Aid Raid Distress Fund, since every cent of the money given is cabled direct to London.

The three other donations, all of them outstanding in their own sphere of activity combine to give the fund one of its best days of the current week.

Mrs. O. DeGraw entertained the Ladies' Curling Club for the express purpose of aiding the fund, in conjunction with which a draw was held on a cake donated by Mrs. F. J. A. Hall, and the whole produced the fine sum of $20, to take the spotlight as the day's largest contribution.

Marking their third effort on behalf of the fund, two good neighbors, Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley of 58 and 60 Ware street, bring the returns from two euchre parties which netted $18 for the fund bringing their total for all three efforts up to the $89 mark, so that their spirit of good neighborship extends across the ocean to those who have fallen on bad times and need their help in no uncertain manner.

The pupils of S.S. No. 17 Otonabee, through their teacher, Miss W. K. Sage are to-day listed with a fine donation of $15 as the splendid result of a concert held on March 24, which included a pageant entitled Cavalcade of Canada, with the children in costume representing various nationalities which combine to make up the population found here. Central figure in this tableau was Britannia as represented by Wilma Hewitt, surrounded by Garth Clark as England, James Sayer as France, Dorothy Sedgewick as U.S.A., Beverly Larmer as Scotland, Helen Quinn as Ireland, Dorris Sutton representing Wales, Alan Sedgwick as a typical Indian, Dclores Sutton as Holland, Mary Wood as a Belgian, and Marie Kelly representing a Swedish girl, they combined to give a capacity audience real pleasure with a splendid performance.

The committee of dog fanciers who are sponsoring this event on behalf of the fund to be held in the Armouries on Wednesday, April 8, by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C, E.D., have now almost fully completed the necessary arrangements to make a very successful show. Judges are arranged for as follow: Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. A. N. Pomeroy of Port Hope, Mrs. Jack Stuart, Mrs. H. Smith, and Miss Large, while Rev. Canon Robertson will choose the best dog in the show from the winners selected by them.

A. C. Wolfe will be superintendent; secretaries will be L. L. Maguire and A. H. Radford; veterinary, Dr. H. Worton; ring stewards, J. McMartin, W. Thompson, H. S. Routley, W. J. Welch, R. Runnett and Bob Kingdon, with Dr. King acting as rink steward and Walter Dyer as door steward. Tickets are now on sale for admission to the show at 25c each, which carry a chance for the door prize of a registered Boston Terrier donated by Mrs. W. J. Welch, and A. C. Wolfe has donated a registered cocker spaniel for which a draw will be held, tickets for which may be procured at 15 cents each, two for 25 cents or ten for $1. Children who enter dogs will be admitted to the hall for 10 cents, and all entry fees are set at the low figure of 25 cents. Everything in connection with the show has been donated, so that all the proceeds will come to the fund.

County Council Fears New Act Curtails Scope

"It all sounds like further curtailment of the scope of the county council."

That was the immediate opinion of the county council Friday night in regard to the new legislation which the Department of Municipal Affairs has been drafting, and which will be submitted to the Ontario Legislature in the near future.

A broad but sketchy digest of the advancing innovations, to which the council took reactive objection, was recited to the council Friday afternoon by A. J. B. Gray, Deputy Minister of the Department of Municipal Affairs.

The changes propose to do away with township tax assessors and to substitute one assessor for the whole county; it would strip the township councils of their dual job of acting as Courts of Revision, and in their place would appoint one Court of Revision for the county, the appointment to be made by the provincial authorities.

Seeking Uniformity

Asessments would be made every five years instead of annually, and Mr. Gray declared that a uniform yardstick of values would be determined to be applied by assessors in the performance of their duties.

Those are only a few of the new ideas which crop up in the Bill as it was rehearsed by Mr. Gray.

He stated that one of the causes of tax arrears and delinquencies, with consequent embarrassment of municipalities, was the neglect of duty by the existing tax collection agency.

In the ultimate position it was the municipal council which failed or otherwise refused to do the duty which it was sworn to do in seeing that taxes were collected.

Fair To Every One

Mr. Gray affirmed that it was the right of other taxpayers to see that all possible collections were made. Why should some pay their taxes and others be treated with lenience?

An the Ontario Government is taking the position that assessments throughout the province should be as uniform as possible for the reason that the province is making large grants to the municipalities for education and other services, and had therefore a special right to demand a more equitable basis of values than now exists.

Some municipalities were assessed at about half their actual value, and others varied in that percentage, few if any being at actual values.

Council Opposed

Copies of the proposed legislation will be sent to the council for their study, but they based their immediate judgment last night on what they had heard from Mr. Gray. Their verdict was "in the negative," and then for the purpose of more carefully studying the evidence they appointed Reeves Gifford, Mather, McColl and Mann, a special committee for that purpose.

Reeve Mann's resolution affirming that "this council is not in favor of the proposed changes" was seconded by Reeve David Curtin. The division on this motion was 8-5 last night with some of the members absent.

Reeve Gifford said he hesitated to join in condemning the new municipal ideas because he felt satisfied that some of them seemed to be moving in the right direction.

Reeve Tanner frequently interrupted Mr. Gray until Mr. Gifford appealed to Warden Lean "on a point of order" that the Deputy-Minister be permitted to continue his speech without interruptions.

Mr. Gray was talking against time, as he had to catch the 5:15 p.m. C.P.R. train for Toronto.

Variety of Objection

Several objections that were heard were such as these: it will cost the county ratepayers far more than the present system; it looks like more white collar jobs for some persons; the Department of Municipal Affairs was appointed in the emergency of the depression and is trying to justify itself; there'll soon be nothing left for county councils to do.

Mr. Gray explained that one of the reasons for the changes was "to get a lot of municipalities out of the real estate business." He said that once a man gets behind in tax payments, the tendency was for him gradually to lose interest in his property, give up and finally lose possession.

Mr. Gray remarked that Peterborough's interests were well protected by A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., whose broad knowledge of municipal questions had been frequently consulted by the committee. He seemed to be specially attracted by municipal matters and was one of the outstanding members of the special committee appointed to consider revision of the Municipal Act.

Driver Is Fined $10 When Cars Collide

Arthur Tighe, 100 London Street, pleaded guilty in Police Court this morning to a charge of careless driving following an accident on Aylmer Street on Friday night in which two automobiles were damaged to the extent of $150.

Magistrate Langley fined the accused $10.00 and $2.50 costs, after Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., had given the details of the accident to the court.

Police Constable John Morrow investigated the crash. His report shows that Dr. J. M. O'Brien was driving north on Aylmer Street and stopped to make a left turn into his driveway. Tighe, who was also driving north close behind the O'Brien car, could not stop, and to avoid hitting the automobile in front swerved his car to the left. It crashed into another machine, owned by Isadore Black, parked on the west side of Aylmer Street, just north of Hunter Street, and drove the motionless vehicle three feet.

The right panel, door, hub cap, and fender of Black's car were damaged to the extent of from $100 to $125 and Tighe's machine had a fender and tire damaged.

Arrived Home Today

Sgt. Tom Hewitt, of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders arrived home on Saturday after an absence of more than a year overseas. He will be posted to a training section in Canada according to reports to teach advanced methods of warfare. His wife lives at 71 Lansdowne Street, and he is a brother of Mrs. Walter Firth.

No More Retreats?

BERNE, Switzerland, March 28—(AP). — The German army after its steady winter retreat has been ordered to hold its present Russian bases at all costs and safeguard the supply lines over which new material must be moved up laboriously for the spring fight, the Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung reported yesterday.

Every available reserve not needed in the fighting lines was reported helping move supplies eastward across Polish and captured Russian territory.

Rangers Parade For Last Time Tuesday Night

The final paragraph in another chapter of local militia history will be recorded on Tuesday night next, when the Prince of Wales Rangers will parade for the last time as it is at present constituted.

Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officers commanding, announces the parade is called for all ranks of the old regiment, regardless of whether or not they are enlisted in the Active Battalion of the Regiment.

Following that parade, he added, the changes of command will take place and the two Battalions will assume separate identity—the 1st Battalion for Active Service anywhere and the 2nd Battalion for the primary defence of Canada and of this community in particular.

The parade will fall in at the Armouries at 7.45 o'clock p.m. and will be followed by a route march through the business section of the city. The parade will be headed by the Regimental Band under Capt. W. H. Peryer.

The annual pay parade of the Regiment will then be concluded with the serving of refreshments and possibly some speeches. All in all the occasion is expected to be a significant and memorable one.

Collegiate boys serving with the Reserve Battalion of the unit and who are writing their Easter examinations, will not be expected to attend the parade, it was tated.

To accommodate them a special pay parade will be held on Wedneday afternoon at 4 o'clock p.m. at the Armuories.

IN MEMORIAM

MAXWELL.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Eliza Maxwell, who died two years ago today, March 28, 1940.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
I little thought the end was near.
But only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day I miss you, mother,
Friends may think the wound has healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within my heart concealed.

—Ever remembered by her daughter, Elizabeth Montgomery.

PERRY.—In loving memory of our dear father, Mr. George Perry, who passed away four years ago today, March 28, 1937.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

Change "Nerves" to Charm, Vitality

Nervous Energy Misdirected

Embarrassing the way Mary and John get on each other's nerves, blow up in public! No wonder they can't keep friends.

Yet they'd be charming—happy together—if they'd use their nervous energies constructively.

Instead Mary frets over every trifle — John overbids his hand, the laundry's late. The least thing upsets her emotionally.

What Mary needs is an absorbing interest in her life. If she'd take over the leadership of the girls' club in her neighborhood she'd soon forget petty annoyances — become cheerful, vital, a pleasant companion.

"Speed-up" is John's middle name. It's rush to work, rush through lunch—no wonder he fumes and fusses, blowing up at the least provocation.

Learn to let down a little, John. Get enough sleep. Take time to enjoy your meals.

You'll do a better job, be a better "pal" if you and Mary would get out in the air, play games and take walks!

In our 32-page booklet a famous physician tells ways to control "nerves" to achieve serenity and vitality. Explains psychological causes of "nerves," also how to diet and exercise to gain radiant health.

For your copy of "Overcoming 'Nerves' and Every-Day Health Problems" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

NEVER BE TOO SURE

OPTIMISTIC declarers count on finding three cards of a suit with each opponent when six of them are outstanding, and call it hard luck when they fail to get that division, against which the odds are really about 3 to 2. They expect seven to be divided on a four-three basis, which really occurs a slight majority of the time. The sounder player, however, is just enough of a pessimist to protect himself, if he can, against such divisions as 4-2 and 5-1 in the first case and against 5-2 and even 6-1 in the second, also against the remote chance of one defender having them all if there is a way to do that.

West led his singleton club 7 to the A, and the diamond A and K were cashed, leaving the Q out. South decided to dispose of that Q by offering the diamond 4 and West returned the spade 3 to the A. Next South finessed the Heart J, but, when the K dropped the Q he knew he was beaten. There was no earthly way now to prevent West, with his five hearts, from taking the setting trick in that suit.

After the first trick to the club A, South could have guarded himself against a five-two heart break by leading to the heart A and immediately ruffing the heart 2 in dummy. That would have made his contract for him.

Palm Sunday In All Churches

On Sunday the Christian church will celebrate Psalm Sunday, which calls to mind the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. The people, the Bible tells, cut down palm branches and strewed them in the way as they shouted "Hosanna to the Son of David."

Bible students have wondered why Jesus allowed such a demonstration to take place. He had never courted ostentation or flattery. On one occasion He had stooped down and washed the disciples' feet, a possbile explanation is that He had the natural human craving for just one Palmy Day. In the course of His earthly ministry He had had many disappointments, now He craved for just an hour of glorious life.

However this Palmy Day was not all joy. In the background were the hidden devices of the Scribes and Pharisees to take Him by force and put Him to death. He actually wept aloud on His Palmy Day. It was short-lived, today they shout Hosanna, on Friday they shout out crucify Him.

Of paramount interest however is the well-known fact that life's best work is not necessarily done in Palmy Days. This triumphal ride accomplished nothing, the cross has accomplished much. It was through bitter agony and sorrow that Jesus travailed for the redemption of the world. He would have forgotten centuries ago about the crowded highway of triumph that led to Jerusalem were it not that it took place a few days before the mournful procession to Golgotha.

Palmy Days in Human Life will be the subject of the address in St. Andrew's Church on next Sunday night.

Then, before the reinforcements cut their way through to the city, the beleaguered Chinese were said to have "liquidated the Japanese detachment at the airfield and continued to counter-attack Japanese reinforcements arriving there."

High praise for the defenders of the Allied anchor position came from Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander of the British forces in Burma, upon his return to Burma from a visit with Chiang Kai-Shek in Chungking.

Gen. Alexander said he had gone to Chungking to inform China's Commander-in-Chief of the latest military situation in Burma and to make sure Chiang was satisfied with arrangements for provisioning and maintaining Chinese troops in Burma.

Of the troops, he said:

'I have been impressed with their fitness and toughness.

"They look happy, work hard and their behavior and discipline are excellent."

Meanwhile, British forces are preparing on the Allied right flank for a battle which may decide the issue of Central Burma.. British forces are defending principally the Prome area.

("Free Burmans" drawn from the slums of Rangoon and the hill jungles of the north are fighting with the Japanese in their invasion of Burma, a British military source said in London. He said these opportunists "come and go as the Japanese fortunes wax and wane" and placed their number at probably not more than 2,000.

(However, this source pointed out, an undetermined number of Dacoit warriors may be operating independently in the north.)

County To Give Half Mill To Red Cross

The county council will allocate half a mill in the tax rate this year for the Red Cross Society, as suggested by T. P. Lancaster, Thursday.

Half a mill will provide $5,168.50, and the resolution by Reeve M. H. Johnston, seconded by Reeve David Curtin, left the distribution of the money until a later date.

Presumably the council intends to include the local branches of the society throughout the county in this financial assistance, to help them buy materials and otherwise continue the work which Mr. Lancaster so highly praised, and the larger part will be forwarded to the Ontario division in Toronto.

The council also renewed its $50 grant to the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, the same amount that was given last year.

Central Shelters Vetoed

In the discussion of air raid precautions, Pensions Minister Mackenzie gave a prepared statement on the work so far caried out. He said it had been revealed by experience in Britain that large central bomb shelters were not efficient nor were wholesale evacuations from large centres considered essential.

But the blackout system was still favored and would continue to be a part of Canada's precautionary system, the minister said.

Mr. Mackenzie was closely questioned by Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South) and Angus MacInnes (C.C.F. Vancouver East).

He told them that no person could have the interests of Vancouver more at heart than himself, a resident of that city. Vancouver had been treated more generously than any other part of Canada in respect to A.R.P. assistance.

He said that this effort was one that should be shared by all the people of Canada, but more particularly by the people immediately threatened, and he urged that all Canadians realize this.

For the Dominion Government to take over A.R.P. completely and dictate to provinces and municipalities what they should do would be to invade provincial rights and cause dissension.

The Minister said fire-fighting in air raids was essentially a job for the householders and civilians generally. It had been proved in Britain that when raids were on it was absolutely impossible for the organized fire departments to handle the situation.

All Must Be Ready For Fire.

Every householder and every housewife would have to be prepared to handle incendiary bombs on his own doorstep and on his own roof.

Mr. Mackenzie referred to the Atlantic coast attitude as an example of real co-operation. There the people, until recently, had shouldered the entire cost of A.R.P. organization and equipment.

Vancouver had presented a budget for A.R.P. work to the Federal Government calling for rental on rooms in the city hall and salaries for a permanent staff. It had been rejected.

The Minister said there were 153,360 A.R.P. workers trained in Canada or undergoing training. The primary danger areas had been fixed as Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, the coastal region of British Columbia and the British Columbia coast back to the Cascade Mountains.

The discussion on A.R.P. arose in the continued debate on the $2,000,000,000 war appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting next Wednesday. The debate will be continued after the Easter recess.

More than 500 Germans were killed and much war material was captured during a two-day fight on a southwestern sector, the Information Bureau said.

Special Services Bethel Baptist

Splendid crowds are attending the special meetings being held at the Bethel Baptist Church of which the Rev. Len Jones is the pastor. Evangelist Fred May is conducting the services, and he has with him a number of musical instruments and the marvellous dissolving stereopticon showing on the screen replicas of the famous masterpieces on the life of the Lord. Each evening, Mr. May plays the Teremin, a mysterious electrical instrument which may be played without the touch of a human hand. This instrument is named after its inventor Dr. Theremin, a famous Russian scientist, and is capable of playing the tones of the violin and 'cello.

EVANGELIST FRED MAY.

Another remarkable instrument, played by the evangelist, is the solovox. The solovox can imitate a large number of instruments, such as the saxophone, the clarinet, the piccolo, the flute, the violin, the 'cello the bass viol, the sousaphone, and scores of others. As well as copying all these instruments, it has over three hundred different tones peculiar to itself never heard in Peterborough before. Mr. May procured special permit from the Canadian Government to have this instrument brought into the country, and as far as is known, it is the only one in Canada.

The meetings are being conducted in the new Bethel Baptist Church, corner of New Romaine and Mervin Avenue, and continue for one week longer, concluding on Sunday, April 5th.

Would Relieve Farmers Of School Burden

"The cost of education is bearing too heavily on farm land, especially secondary education," Reeve P. J. Mather declared at the Friday afternoon session of the county council, which finally concluded discussion on this subject with a resolution to the Ontario Educational Association urging that the government transfer the expense of secondary education from agriculture to succession duties eand income tax.

"An Otonabee farmer with 100 acres would pay in secondary education taxes three times as much as a man living in Keene with a comparatively small assessment," Mr. Mather said.

"This may not be the right time to bring in this question," he continued, "now that the federal government is stepping in on income tax, but I have felt that farmers have to pay too much in their taxes for education.

A Loss To The Soil.

The cost of academic and vocational training is coming out of the soil, educating young people away from the farm and into city life and industry. As representatives of the agricultural community, I think we should take a greater voice in the matter and carry on this fight for our ratepayers."

Mr. Mather said the Ontario Educational Association was holding its convention in Toronto during Easter week.

"Whether I can lend my voice to your education matters I don't know, but we should say more about what is coming back to the people on the land."

Reeve Ferguson agreed with Reeve Mather that the cost of education was too great a burden on the common man.

Teachers Dominate.

Reeve Tanner said the teachers dominated the O.E.A. and educational affairs, "the people who receive the money instead of those who pay it."

"The time is ripe to do something," Reeve Johnston remarked, "but as Colonel Kennedy told us at the Kinsmen dinner, you can't expect immediate action from the government on resolutions we send them. It usually takes two, three or five years before we get anywhere. I believe we ought to concentrate on education. If we did that, and less worrying about some other things we might get somewhere. Mr. Kennedy told us that 54 cents of every dollar of his taxes goes to education. Monaghan has 121 young people going to the Collegiate, and that's a heavy cost to our municipality."

Cities Get Factories.

The city has big industries to help assume school costs, Reeve Johnston said. "We thought we were getting the Ovaltine, but the city got it taken in. It would have to be a smart man to follow the boundary between Peterborough and Monaghan as it is to-day. He is not likely to know whether he is in the city or the township."

Reeve Ferguson moved that the education committee, of which Mr. Mather is chairman, prepare a resolution to be introduced at the O.E.A. convention proposing relief of farm lands from education costs by transferring those charges to income tax and succession duties. Reeve Mann seconded the motion.

Reeve Mather had previously been authorized to attend the O.E.A. convention, and yesterday they were authorized to select another member to accompany him. The other members are Reeves Mann and Johnston.

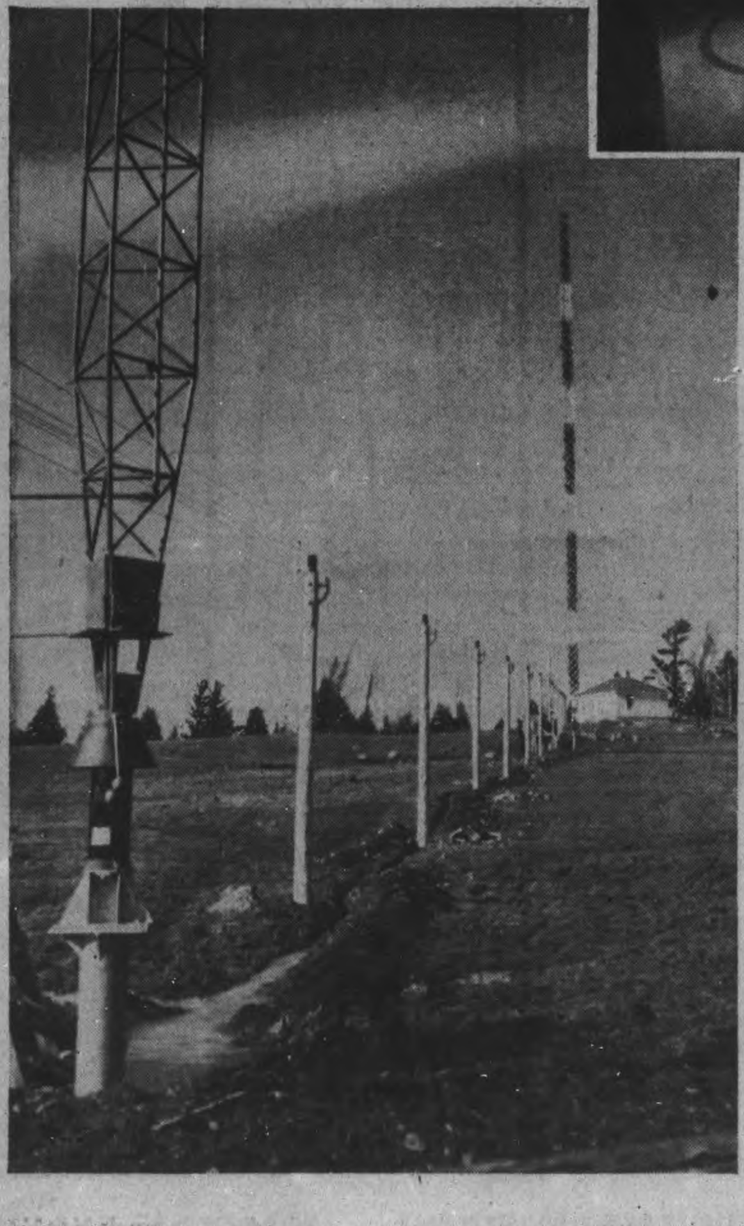
RADIO STATION CHEX GOES ON THE AIR TUESDAY

March 31st

At 7.30 P.M. Tuesday, March 31st, tune the dial of your radio to 1430 and hear, for the first time, Peterborough's own Radio Station. Martin Kenney and "His Western Gentlemen," Canada's finest orchestra, with Woodhouse and Hawkins, popular Canadian comedians, will present the inaugural program. Don't miss this outstanding hour of entertainment and the hour which follows at 9 o'Clock.

This is CHEX'S transmitter, a powerful 1,000-watt modern and efficient system for bringing to your homes the most perfect reproduction of speech and music. Built by R.C.A., the transmitter is a maze of wires, transformers, tubes, etc., behind its ultra modern panels. On the front of the transmitter are numerous dials and meters with which the operator is able to keep a constant check on the voltages and so forth. The transmitter combines simplicity of design with accessibility and is the very latest model of its kind.

The attractive and spacious main studio of CHEX from which programs in which several are taking part or locally produced music programs will be heard is shown here with the Baby Grand piano. At RIGHT of picture is the announcer's desk, while through the window over the table may be seen a section of the control room. Two heavy sheets of glass stop noise from filtering through from control room to studio. (Parks' Studio Photo.)



A perspective view of CHEX radio towers is shown here looking from the tower farthest from the transmitter beyond the next tower and to the transmitter house in the far right.

This supplement outlines the work, materials and Technical Equipment involved in the construction of Radio Station CHEX.

So much interest and curiosity has been aroused by the building of Radio Station CHEX that we have decided to publish this supplement. It will outline completely for you the whole project from its conception to our opening broadcast.

We sincerely hope that CHEX will be another channel through which Peterborough may make still greater progress.

Radio Towers 116 Feet High Of Latest Type

The vertical antenna, a noteworthy achievement in the advance of radio, has been used in the radio masts of CHEX. The two towers are 116 feet high and are placed 344 feet apart and are oriented in such a position as to send the maximum signal over the area to be served. The towers are the newest type developed by engineers of the Canadian Bridge company.

Only a few years ago, the antenna which sent out the waves was a single wire or cable hanging from another cable stretched tight between the two towers. The modern and better type of antenna is a long slim steel structure supported by, but insulated from guy wires, the steel structure acting as the entenna.

This structure was built in Canadian Bridge Company shops at Walkerville in triangular pieces 22 feet, 6 inches long, 2 feet on a side and shipped to CHEX's new site with all the fittings and guys and insulators, and there put together by field workers to form the mast. The base insulator is about a foot in diameter and two feet high. It rests upon a pipe pedestal set 8 feet in the ground. The guy wires are fastened to a guy anchor buried several feet deep. The steel tower and anchorage material are completely galvanized to prevent corrosion. The galvanizing pot in which the sections of the mast were galvanized holds 80 tons of molten zinc, or spelter, as the galvanizing people call it.

The structure is painted with orange and white paint in wide stripes for greater visibility by airplane pilots. Red aircraft warning lights are provided at intervals along the tower and at the top for aid in night flying. It would be impossible to run wiring up the tower for these lights cause this would ground the structure and so a device called a lighting transformer is installed on the insulator at the base of the tower. The lighting current is delivered to this transformer and passes from one set of coils through an air gap to a second set and then to the tower. The lighting current is delivered to this transformer and passes from one set of coils through an air grap to a second set and then to the tower circuit, providing a current for the lighting of the tower without any physical connection with the outside system. Canadian Bridge Company engineers have designed the mast to withstand the effects of a severe wind storm blowing on the structure covered with a heavy coating of ice. They have pioneered the development of this type of radiator, have built masts as high as 625 feet and have designed and built guyed radio masts and radio beacons all over the Dominion.

21 Local Lines For Telephone Service

Added to the 15 locals or branch phones in the Examiner building six more locals have been added to bring the total up to 21 phones which are connected to the Examiner switchboard in the main front office. The six new phones are distributed throughout the radio department of the building. The switchboard, built to accommodate 20 telephones, had a new section of jacks added.

Leading to the outside are four trunk lines with which the 21 phones may be connected. This number may be increased after the station is operating a short while if it is found the lines are kept too busy.

OLDEST HOLIDAY

Passover is the oldest holiday on the Jewish calender.

Pictured At The Towers At The Broadcasting House

News Coverage Highlight Of CHEX Service

Station CHEX as arranged the finest news coverage for its listeners.

All of you have read in your daily newspapers the credit line—By The Canadian Press—or seen the letters CP enclosed in brackets after datelines of stories. These are the hallmarks of news integrity in Canada. They identify the news stories of The Canadian Press—a co-operative enterprise which has been built up in three decades from an idea into a network gathering and distributing world and Canadian news.

This is the service that has been obtained to pipe its news for 20 hours daily into CHEX for relay to its listeners. Spot news from the battle fronts will be flashed across circuits direct into this station by teletype. So also will come the news from the various parts of Canada. The news will come swiftly and it will be clear, concise and interesting.

The setting up of a service to radio stations was a tremendous task but the men entrusted with it had behind them their years of experience with The Canadian Press. They had a ready-made staff in the radio writers who for years had been writing news bulletins.

Unbiased News Service

These radio writers quickly began developing a new and faster service than has been made available at any time in the past. The service now has been rounded into the form in which it is brought to you today — a strictly unbiased news service that is speedy, informative and comprehensive. It covers everything happening anywhere.

The war is the big story of the day. The Canadian Press has its own London Bureau where tin-hatted editors keep the news flowing across the Atlantic. Everyone of the men in the London Bureau is Canadian-trained and knows what news is most important to Canadians.

One of the Canadians who helps to report the war is Ross Munro. He is the Canadian Press war correspondent attached to the Canadian Corps in England. Wherever the Canadian troops go, Ross Munro goes along. Munro was the only correspondent to accompany the Canadian troops when they made their raid on Spitzbergen and destroyed sources of enemy material. Other Canadian Press men cover the news of the Air Force and the Navy, and special coverage is given on the British House of Commons.

Therefore it must be impartial and unbiased, there is no editorial opinion in any Canadian Press news. The CP staff at Ottawa is made up of eight men with long experience in reporting the political scene.

Special Type Of Transmitter Will Assure CHEX Better Broadcasting

Something new in radio broadcasting is the special RCA Victor IK model 1000 watt transmitter used by Peterborough's new radio stations CHEX!

Designed and perfected by RCA Victor this new type transmitter broadcasts on the "radio beam" principle, which, in layman's language means that the radio signals from CHEX are broadcast in a special way so that the radio waves instead of spreading in ever-widening circles like the waves caused by stone tossed into still water, spread in a carefully controlled "fan" shape.

Purpose of this "Directive Array" method of radio transmission is to send the clearest, most powerful radio signals in the direction in which the largest number of radio listeners live. The result, so far as CHEX listeners are concerned, is that little or no power will be wasted in radio waves broadcast to unpopulated regions, while the average listener will enjoy exceptionally clear, powerful reception.

Enthusiastic about the powers of their new station, CHEX engineers have good reason to be proud of their equipment. Not only the transmitter, but all equipment of CHEX is of the latest, improved type. The modern studios and control rooms are equipped with new RCA Victor Console engineering controls designed for the maximum in faithful broadcasting of vocal and musical programs.

Recorded programs broadcast from CHEX promise CHEX listeners something which few radio stations on this continent are equipped to give.

Recorded programs broadcast from CHEX will set a new standard of quality, for CHEX will be one of the few stations in the North American continent to be equipped with the new RCA Victor Universal Pick-ups. These pick-ups are a very recent innovation in radio broadcasting, and are capable of reproducing recordings of voice and music with a new degree of faithfulness and naturalness of tone.

From the moment CHEX goes on the air, radio listeners in the area served by this powerful new 1000 watt station will enjoy a new degree of radio service.

Radio Towers 116 Feet High Of Latest Type

The vertical antenna, a noteworthy achievement in the advance of radio, has been used in the radio masts of CHEX. The two towers are 116 feet high and are placed 344 feet apart and are oriented in such a position as to send the maximum signal over the area to be served. The towers are the newest type developed by engineers of the Canadian Bridge company.

Only a few years ago, the antenna which sent out the waves was a single wire or cable hanging from another cable stretched tight between the two towers. The modern and better type of antenna is a long slim steel structure supported by, but insulated from guy wires, the steel structure acting as the entenna.

This structure was built in Canadian Bridge Company shops at Walkerville in triangular pieces 22 feet, 6 inches long, 2 feet on a side and shipped to CHEX's new site with all the fittings and guys and insulators, and there put together by field workers to form the mast. The base insulator is about a foot in diameter and two feet high. It rests upon a pipe pedestal set 8 feet in the ground. The guy wires are fastened to a guy anchor buried several feet deep. The steel tower and anchorage material are completely galvanized to prevent corrosion. The galvanizing pot in which the sections of the mast were galvanized holds 80 tons of molten zinc, or spelter, as the galvanizing people call it.

The structure is painted with orange and white paint in wide stripes for greater visibility by airplane pilots. Red aircraft warning lights are provided at intervals along the tower and at the top for aid in night flying. It would be impossible to run wiring up the tower for these lights cause this would ground the structure and so a device called a lighting transformer is installed on the insulator at the base of the tower. The lighting current is delivered to this transformer and passes from one set of coils through an air gap to a second set and then to the tower. The lighting current is delivered to this transformer and passes from one set of coils through an air grap to a second set and then to the tower circuit, providing a current for the lighting of the tower without any physical connection with the outside system. Canadian Bridge Company engineers have designed the mast to withstand the effects of a severe wind storm blowing on the structure covered with a heavy coating of ice. They have pioneered the development of this type of radiator, have built masts as high as 625 feet and have designed and built guyed radio masts and radio beacons all over the Dominion.

21 Local Lines For Telephone Service

Added to the 15 locals or branch phones in the Examiner building six more locals have been added to bring the total up to 21 phones which are connected to the Examiner switchboard in the main front office. The six new phones are distributed throughout the radio department of the building. The switchboard, built to accommodate 20 telephones, had a new section of jacks added.

Leading to the outside are four trunk lines with which the 21 phones may be connected. This number may be increased after the station is operating a short while if it is found the lines are kept too busy.

News Coverage Highlight Of CHEX Service

Station CHEX as arranged the finest news coverage for its listeners.

All of you have read in your daily newspapers the credit line—By The Canadian Press—or seen the letters CP enclosed in brackets after datelines of stories. These are the hallmarks of news integrity in Canada. They identify the news stories of The Canadian Press—a co-operative enterprise which has been built up in three decades from an idea into a network gathering and distributing world and Canadian news.

This is the service that has been obtained to pipe its news for 20 hours daily into CHEX for relay to its listeners. Spot news from the battle fronts will be flashed across circuits direct into this station by teletype. So also will come the news from the various parts of Canada. The news will come swiftly and it will be clear, concise and interesting.

The setting up of a service to radio stations was a tremendous task but the men entrusted with it had behind them their years of experience with The Canadian Press. They had a ready-made staff in the radio writers who for years had been writing news bulletins.

Unbiased News Service

These radio writers quickly began developing a new and faster service than has been made available at any time in the past. The service now has been rounded into the form in which it is brought to you today — a strictly unbiased news service that is speedy, informative and comprehensive. It covers everything happening anywhere.

The war is the big story of the day. The Canadian Press has its own London Bureau where tin-hatted editors keep the news flowing across the Atlantic. Everyone of the men in the London Bureau is Canadian-trained and knows what news is most important to Canadians.

One of the Canadians who helps to report the war is Ross Munro. He is the Canadian Press war correspondent attached to the Canadian Corps in England. Wherever the Canadian troops go, Ross Munro goes along. Munro was the only correspondent to accompany the Canadian troops when they made their raid on Spitzbergen and destroyed sources of enemy material. Other Canadian Press men cover the news of the Air Force and the Navy, and special coverage is given on the British House of Commons.

Two of the world's greatest news gathering organizations are the British agency—Reuter's—and the great United States co-operative—The Associated Press. Peterborough's Own Station Equal To Anything In Ontario With Well-Nigh Perfect Studios

There will be no one happier to have the new radio station CHEX, on the air than H. L. Garner—the general manager of the Peterborough Examiner and the managing director of the Peterborough Broadcasting Company Limited.

Caught in a reminiscing mood today, Mr. Garner said: "Three and one half years is a long time in any endeavour, but when I look back and figure that it is just about that time since I first started negotiating for a radio station for Peterborough, and then think what we have today, it certainly does seem to be a long time. The matter of working out the details with the Dominion Government through the offices of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the working out of the mechanical and physical detail with the R.C.A. Victor Company, and finally superintending the construction of the whole station—the amount of time and effort involved and the amount of work entailed in three and one half years, certainly does seem a long time."

Commenting further, Mr. Garner said: "During the whole time I have had the one thought in mind—to give to the people of Peterborough, a radio station they could really call their own. Ever since coming to Peterborough five years ago, I have been impressed by the fact that, too long had Peterborough been overlooked with respect to radio broadcasting facilities and it was with the idea in mind of correcting this situation which lead me, three and one half years ago, to approach the government for a license."

Asked to comment on the station, Mr. Garner further said: "It would be pretty difficult to convey to the good people of Peterborough, just what a really fine station they have, when compared with other stations throughout Ontario, with the exception of possibly three stations, CHEX will be as powerful as any other, with 1000 watts and at 1430 on your dial, this certainly should give the people in this district the very finest reception and, as to the importance of the studios, one has just to visit them to realize the terrific amount of thought and labour that has gone into the building of a well-nigh perfect radio studio, and yet the things that meet the eye do not tell the whole story, because beneath the surface of these studios there are literally miles of wire and hundreds of square yards of insulation and sound absorbing material, to insure high fidelity in the broadcasting of radio programs. The equipment which has been purchased from the RCA Victor Company in Montreal is, without exception, the very finest and most up-to-date equipment that money can buy, so that, in announcing the opening of CHEX to the people of this city and county, I do so in the full assurance that I can commend its operation to them with the certainty that they will be completely satisfied that Peterborough now has in radio station CHEX, "Peterborough's Own Station," the equal of anything in this province.

Men Behind Peterborough Broadcasting Company

HAROLD L. GARNER ROY H. THOMPSON JACK K. COOKE W. RUPERT DAVIES

These are the four men who are behind the Peterborough Broadcasting Company and radio station CHEX. W. Rupert Davies, president of the Peterborough Examiner, is the president of the company; Roy H. Thompson of Toronto is vice-president; Jack K. Cooke, of Toronto, is general manager, and Harold L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner, is managing director.

CHEX On Air Daily, 7:30 to 11:15

CHEX will broadcast daily a program of entertainment starting at 7:30 in the morning, going off the air at 11:15 at night. The station will not close down during certain hours of the day but will maintain a smooth schedule during the sixteen hours on the air each day. Thus listeners of the Peterborough district and those within a radius of approximately 200 miles will be able to tune and stay tuned to CHEX at any hour of the day.

MAYOR'S MESSAGE TO CHEX

Citizens of Peterborough and district are pleased that Station CHEX has been established. CHEX will fill a long felt need in Peterborough and will prove an added medium to serve the community.

On behalf of the citizens I desire to congratulate the management of Station CHEX on their decision to establish this splendid station. I am confident that CHEX and its personnel will be welcomed by all citizens and that each join with me in wishing this new community enterprise a full measure of success.

JAMES HAMILTON,
Mayor

Combined Talents Of Many People Needed To Present Radio Programs Every Day

Next time you set your radio dial to 1430 kilocycles, settle yourself in the easy chair and prepare to enjoy the entertainment that emerges from the loudspeaker, takes a few minutes to ponder on the time and effort that has gone into the production of that program.

The moment that the sponsor purchases "time" he forges the first link in the chain of activities which culminate in the smooth, scintillating performance which provides your entertainment. Preparation of a program at CHEX is a matter of utmost importance and is given the personal attention of the various department heads.

The combined talents and ideas of salesmen, continuity writers, program direction and station manager are blended in the effort to give the sponsor the type of program he wants and from which he will derive the greatest benefit. Immediately a program is sold, a conference between the salesman responsible for the account, a script writer, the program director and the manager is held and plans formulated for the production. The result is an original distinctively styled presentation pleasing to the sponsor and interesting and entertaining to the listener.

The entire personnel of CHEX is composed of only the most efficient and highly trained men and women. Continuity writers, announcers, program and musical directors, salesmen, engineers and operators, are specialists in their line, lending the wealth of their experience toward the successful and smooth operation of the station.

Radio Station CHEX Is Located 1430 Kilocycles On The Dial

The transmitter of CHEX, located on the Duffus farm about two miles east of the city, is the very latest in design and development. The output is 1000 watts and it should be clearly heard from 150 miles to 200 miles in daytime reception and considerably farther than that at night. On your dial, you will find CHEX at 1430 kilocycles.

The Transmitter House

First impression one gets when he inspects the streamlined transmitter is that it looks like three extra large electric refrigerators in one but it is hardly as simple as that. Standing about six feet high, the transmitter panel is faced with numerous dials with which the operator is able to adjust for the most flawless transmission. Designed by RCA, the transmitter houses a maze of wires, transformers, tubes and many other parts far too technical for the average person to understand. Unlike other and earlier transmitters, it affords the maximum of accessibility, that is to say the technician has prepared for him a design in transmitters in which all parts are easily reached. Many safety features to protect the operating personnel are included.

In quality of faithful reproduction CHEX's transmitter will give the utmost in quality so far achieved in the annals of radio. Adjustments are so arranged as to give a frequency response of music and voice ranging from 30 to 10,000 cycles.

In short, when listeners of CHEX sit down in their homes and tune in, they have at their disposal the finest transmission that radio science has been able to produce. Similarly, the studios of CHEX in the Peterborough Examiner building, corner of Water and Hunter streets have also been designed for the finest in acoustics that the building trade has been able to produce. This however has been dealt with in another story of this edition.

The transmission lines to the radio towers carrying the energy are the second of their type in Canada. Efficiency and moderness are truly exemplified in this phase of CHEX.

At Transmitter House

Frank Schoales and Jack Cuthbert of Peterborough have been appointed to the job of operating the 1000 watt transmitter at the transmitter house. It will be their duty to act as "watch dogs" to see everything is running smoothly during the hours of transmission. The transmission house has practically all the advantages of a city home and has been newly built by CHEX.

As you drive along Highway 7 within a mile or two of the city, eight red lights, to the south about 1,000 yards, in the sky are clearly visible. Four of these lights are on each of the two transmitter towers and serve as a guide to airplane fliers. The towers are also visible from the road in the daytime.

Chief Engineer Supervised Installations

As chief engineer of the Northern Broadcasting Company, Jerry Kelly has the task of supervising the technical departments of Northern's five radio stations. When the company undertook to install and operate two new stations at Peterborough and Kingston, Jerry was assigned the additional job of planning and installing the two new stations.

Twelve years ago, when radio was just beginning to hit its stride, Jerry was just out of high school in Brantford, Ontario, and was engrossed in the building of his first short-wave transmitting station. He used to stay up far into the night, adjusting wires and tubes and a hundred and one other gadgets, and getting a tremendous thrill out of "chewing the rag" with other radio men in various parts of the countryside. With new developments in receivers and transmitter making their appearance almost daily, Jerry was kept busy keeping his equipment up to date.

End of the first day in the navy brings up the trick of turning in. Hammocks are pretty difficult for the uninitiated. Turning in often means falling out, but before long they will find the hammock is best in a rolling, pitching vessel. In the danger areas at sea they will sleep fully clad, ready for action.

TORONTO, March 27 — (CP).— Strongest single impression given to men who followed Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton during his tour of Ontario war installations in late February and early March was that his technical knowledge of modern warfare is infallible and absolute.

He is an expert in every phase, practical, theoretical, and experimental.

Even to those who knew his record this ability was amazing. He was a research scientist when he visited Research Enterprises Ltd. in Toronto, an artilleryman when he watched anti-aircraft guns and shells being produced at Hamilton. His work as chief of staff from 1929 to 1935 showed in his vast knowledge of even minute problems in the military establishments he visited, and his active service experience was evident in his appreciation of fine manpower when he spoke with troops training in Canada for action with his Canadian Corps

Special Telephone Wires To Link "Pick-Up" Points With Studio

Peterborough's new radio broadcasting station CHEX is not altogether "wireless": telephone wires will link churches, theatres, halls, and other "pick-up points" with the studio; special telephone facilities have also been provided between the studio and the transmitting equipment proper; and long distance telephone lines will carry the big network program from New York to be broadcast to local listeners from CHEX.

Suppose a local church service is to be broadcast. CHEX men will set up their microphones at suitable locations throughout the church, and telephone men will connect the "mikes" to wires leading to the Peterborough telephone exchange, and thence to the broadcasting studio.

From the studio, two telephone cable channels, one regular and one emergency, specially selected and tested for high quality radio program transmission, run along No. 7 Highway to the Keene road, and thence along the Peterborough-Belleville long distance line to a new jute-covered underground cable leading in to the transmitter building. Here, for the first time, the program will actually go "on the air," to be picked up by receiving sets in homes throughout Peterborough and district.

Pickup Networks

The facilities whereby CHEX will pick up special programs from the big American networks are also provided by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada. Special "program supply circuits" are available on the long distance telephone lines leading from Peterborough to Toronto, and thence via Buffalo to New York and other large American cities.

When we speak of a radio hookup or network, we are actually referring to a web of high quality long distance telephone lines linking together a number of broadcasting stations. For example, the network of the National Broadcasting Company extends from Montreal to Miami and from New York to San Francisco. One NBC program may travel as much as 3,000 miles by telephone line before it is broadcast for about 15 miles through the air. A program originating in New York would travel over 600 miles of telephone wire before being broadcast from CHEX, for example.

The music of a symphony orchestra is picked up by a microphone in a New York City studio. It goes by wire into a nearby room where a radio engineer adjusts the sound waves to the proper degree of loudness before they enter the telephone wires. Then the telephone system takes over the job of delivering the musical package to all parts of the continent simultaneously.

Repeaters Used

The electrical waves carrying the sound vibrations travel over the wires at a speed of from 20,000 to 180,000 miles a second, depending on the type of circuit. They grow slowly weaker as they travel, and so about every 50 miles the currents go through repeaters like the vacuum tubes in your radio set, where they are amplified back to their original strength.

The variation in the volume of sound in a symphony broadcast is much greater than that of an ordinary telephone conversation, because music has a much greater range of pitch than the normal tones of the human voice. The weaker passages must come through clearly, and the crescendoes, on the other hand, must not be blasted into distorted forms. Obviously, the telephone lines carrying the program must be of very high quality.

Each morning, before a circuit is turned over to the broadcasting company, an oscillator at each terminal point along the lines is made to transmit a series of frequencies which are read at the next point on a meter. If the peak recording is the same between the terminals, then that section of the network is in good order.

If a network fails at any point, the symphony must not be prevented from reaching its far-flung destinations. Quickly, the engineers will switch it to an emergency circuit until the trouble is located and corrected.*

Y.P.U. Comedy-Drama Draws Big Audience

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27. — (ENS). — A crowd which nearly filled the Sunday School Parlors of St. John's United Church gave an enthusiastic reception to the three-act comedy-drama, "That Watkins Girl," which was presented under auspices of the Young People's Union on Monday evening. The play was staged by a cast of eight from the Ivanhoe Y.P.U. and the fact that it has already been presented by them twenty-six times was adequate testimony as to the ability of the players. Amusing situations and witty dialogue contributed to the amusing flavor of the performance which was put across without any of the drag that so frequently tends to mar amateur theatricals.

During the intermissions and as a prelude to the performance Arnold Bates provided a number of selections on the piano.

The cast included Frank Palmer as an old miner Dan Watkins; Rev. S. Delve, his pal Sourdough Pat; Mrs. George Wood as Dan's tomboy daughter; George Wood as the mining engineer, Jerry Hughes; Mrs. F. Palmer as Mrs. Bulwer Stratton-Smythe; Marjorie Prest as Carol Marlboro; Mac McMullen as Mrs. Smythe's lawyer Mr. Denton.

Rev. G. N. Maxwell, who was the chairman of the evening, expressed his warm appreciation to those who attended the entertainment and to the cast of the play for their fine performance. The proceeds were aproximately $21.00, which will be added to the branch funds.

The Fire King

The change in method of firing and of fuels used in Warm Air Furnaces has made it necessary that furnaces be so designed to meet these various conditions. With the increasing usage of mechanical means of firing and distributing warm air, it is necessary to have a Warm Air Furnace that is absolutely gas and dust tight as well as being economical in operation. To meet these requirements the Fire King Furnace was developed. Its construction makes its efficient and it is suitable for mechanical as well as hand firing.

Studios Of CHEX Constructed To Give Best Possible Transmission Of Sound Waves

Back of every successful accomplishment, regardless of what form that accomplishment may assume, is a plan . . . a plan that requires foresight, ingenuity and careful thought. So it is with the ultra modern home of CHEX in the Peterborough Examiner building, for behind its luxurious and complete perfection is an interesting story of its conception.

To achieve the perfect composite, it is necessary to take the best of a number of things and blend the together. That is the story of CHEX studios. While it is true the studios are an addition to a building already standing, yet architects have been able to accomplish something never before tried in Peterborough in the way of modernism of architecture and complete finesse to the efficiency of sound studios.

Best Stations Visited

Plans were not drawn up from one mind but from a combination of minds. Styling was only laid down as official after an inspection had been made of several big radio stations in the United States and Canada. Here it was learned what the good points and bad points of studio construction were and CHEX profited by the mistakes of others. For instances, one might imagine that it would be impossible to produce a room in which there was absolutely no echo but such is well within the realms of possibility and to the sorrow of some officials. They created a studio so sound proof that a singer could not hear the notes coming back to her from her own voice and consequently could not sing.

Such will not be the course with CHEX of course but there was to be considered just how much echo should be allowed for the best possible transmission of sound from the studio. This was accomplished by leaving a portion of the walls a common plaster finish while sound proofing material was used on the balance. The ceiling is finished in a porous composition behind which is several layers of sound absorbing material.

Two Studios

CHEX will have two studios "A" and "B". From one will come most commercial announcements, newscasting and so forth where the announcer will sit at the table with a "mike" before him. The other will be used for the production of programs in which several people are taking part such as an orchestra or a radio play. The studio piano will be located in the large studio which is 16 by 22 feet. The smaller studio is 7½ by 11½ feet.

Heavy doors three inches in thickness are closed tight when speech or music is coming from that particular studio. The doors are far from being the ordinary solid type however, for three layers of wood have been used in each door and between the layers has been placed insulating material to stop all noise which might enter the door from a corridor. "On The Air" lights have been installed in each studio and above the door outside each studio. The purpose for the inside light is to notify the announcer inside that he is on the air and the outside-the-door lights are a warning that no one must enter the studio while the program is in progress unless in a special case of a late news story that has come in after the announcer began newscasting. Further provision is made for soundproofing in the studio windows which face the control room, the 'nerve center" of the broadcasting studios.

Each window has two heavy sheets of glass. A vacuum is thus created between sheets which soundproofs the studios from the control rooms. In each window, one sheet of glass is positively perpendicular while the one on the inside of the studio is slightly on an angle. This guards against reflection of sound across the studio and directs it to the floor.

And to make a last mention of soundproofing, the entire broadcasting studio has been built atop the one storey roof of a section of the Examiner building. A space of about three feet separates the roof and the studio floor. From the outside this can not be seen because of the walls rising from the ground.

Color Schemes Embellish Studios Of CHEX

Coloring in the modern mode of CHEX studios has been done by Harold Coleman. The business offices on the ground floor have been done in pale shades of green which form a background of the entrance which is finished in tones of mushroom. The staircase was handsomely built by Charles Huffman and decorated in mahogany with old white trim and emphasized by a terra cotta wall.

The reception room leading off the staircase is superlative in color and design reflecting a handsome mural in bold tones of yellow, red, green and blue in the opposite completely mirrored wall. At either end of the huge mirrored wall are gorgeous plush drapes in azure tones of blue strikingly contrasted by mulberry colored walls accentuated by bone white trim.

Turquoise Floor Coloring

Lending balance to the decoration scheme, the turquoise floor covering set off with tile effect and old white diamond corners, completes this enchanting room.

Carrying out an ensemble decoration scheme, Mr. Coleman has given the studios a continuation of turquoise trimmed with bone white and balanced with terra cotta and coral floor covering. The hall decorations, terra cotta floors and sunset rust completely set off the announcers rooms to the left. Studio "B" across the hallway is alluringly finished in gray floor with turquoise and black inlay in modern design surrounded by coral walls and turquoise ceiling lending relief to our color style scheme.

The control room is carried out in evening gray with terra cotta solid panel doors. The library is in soft tones of yellow with terra cotta floor covering to complete the decoration. The hallway leads into a "sound lock" of turquoise color styling from which we enter a soft glowing studio "A" in coral in which various tone shades have been used in steps complete with floor covering of terra cotta, gayly inlaid with wavy coral strips.

Fixtures in the studios conform with the general decorative scheme in circular design, chrome edgings, chrome suspensions, topped with domes in bone white and carried out in blending colors.

Peterboro County Schools

S. S. No .9, Belmont, Tied Up With History Of Blairton

S. S. NO. 9, BELMONT, BLAIRTON

The historical sketches of rural schools in East Peterborough recently collected by Leo W. Copp, Public School Inspector, includes an exceptionally interesting account of the old and almost forgotten mining community of Blairton at the west end of Crowe Lake, and just north of No. 7 Highway between Havelock and Marmora. This review was written by H. Anderson, and is quoted extensively in connection with the story of School Section No. 9, Belmont.

The village, as it was generally designated, was laid out in 1867 by W. S. Shewey, provincial land surveyor, and the original plan was dated December 27 of that year.

At one time Blairton could boast of a population of more than seven hundred people. It acquired its name from an early pioneer of that section named Blair, who was prominent in the social life of the district.

Streets of Ambition.

Hopes and ambition guided the surveyor in marking off streets whose lines have become almost completely obliterated. They were Queen Street and George Street, running north and south, and King Street and John Street extending east and west.

The community of Blairton developed around the iron mines whose records reach back to the pioneer days of this county when a company organized in England began the mining of iron ore on the shore of Crowe Lake.

Those were the bustling and spacious days of Blairton. An index of the business activities and the seeming promise of the place was its two saloons and four hotels which also served imported wines and other stimulants. The leading hotel was the Purdy House, which still stands almost a lone survivor amid the memories and the departed glory of the old ghost town. It is at present owned by Mrs. W. M. King.

Stores and Bakeries.

Recollections say there were two bakeries and seven stores. The largest store was owned and operated by W. M. Armstrong, father of W. M. Armstrong, Campbellford merchant, and also of the late S. R. Armstrong of Peterborough. Water for the villagers was supplied from a well on each street, and from several springs near the old school house, and also from Crowe Lake.

Blairton boomed for a few years until the huge deposits of richer iron ore were discovered in the Lake Superior region and were made accessible to the eastern States by the opening of the canals in the Great Lakes system. Direct water transportation from Superior was much cheaper than from Blairton to Cobourg, and across Lake Ontario to Rochester, Oswego, and other ports.

Hauled to Cobourg.

Six miles of railway were laid by the mining company from Blairton to the narrows at Trent Bridge. Its bed, long since stripped of the rails, can still be seen crossing No. 7 Highway leading south and west toward the Trent River. Getting the Blairton ore to market was a major difficulty. The company operated several steamers and scows between Trent Bridge and Harwood, on the south shore of Rice Lake, where the ore was unloaded into freight cars and hauled down the ten miles of railway from Harwood to Cobourg. The ore was again transferred to boats sailing on Lake Ontario, and carried to its destination, the steel mills at Pittsburg.

The railway out of Blairton was known as the Cobourg, Blairton and Marmora Railway, and was laid on the plan of the old wide gauge. It is said that the first engine ever to run in Canada, the Pioneer, operated from Blairton to Trent Bridge, and at one time from Harwood to Cobourg, and that it was brought from Nova Scotia by water transportation.

Viceregal Visit.

On September 7, 1860 the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII., travelled over the railway from Cobourg to Harwood. Another section of the company's rail investment extended to Peterborough across Rice Lake to Hiawatha, mostly an earth fill on piles and cribs. At the time of the visit of the Prince of Wales the section crossing Rice Lake into Otonabee Township was considered unsafe for Royalty.

In summer of 1874 the Earl and Countess of Dufferin made the trip from Cobourg to Blairton, and it is reported that the Governor-General was greatly interested in the mines at Crowe Lake and attracted by the scenery along the lake and river route.

One Fatal Accident.

Records of the mines relate that only two men lost their lives in its working. They were fatally hurt in an accident caused by a wrong signal which resulted in a bucket of ore being dumped 125 feet back into the mine, the load of rock falling upon the men. The victims were of Polish birth. They were buried in the old Garrison Cemetery along No. 7 Highway.

Mining wages were far from the present day scale. Laborers averaged $1.10 and $1.20 a day. The monthly expense of the mine was $3,124.

The ore was blasted and dug from two big open pits for the simple reason that the ore reached up to the surface, and at one place thrust upward in a huge hill of rock which still affords a beautiful vantage place for a long view of Crowe Lake. This method of mining would probably not be permitted to-day because of inherent danger to the miners.

The pit down by the shore of the lake was not carried to much depth although in one place it is about sixty feet. The ore was loaded on to flat cars from wheel barrows, and strings of these cars were hauled by the locomotive down the railway to the wharf at Trent Bridge. Vestiges of the staiton and mining offices, rusted relics of some of the rolling stock, scraps of machinery, and huge piles of worthless rock which had been piled up along the shore, these are some of the reminders of the industry which bloomed for a while and then succumbed to the blight of competition.

Blairton's "Mountain."

The hill overlooking the lake was called "The Mountain" by the villagers. It was a favorite spot on summer Sunday afternoons. The younger and more venturesome spirits used to cut their initials on the bold face of the Mountain.. One of those youths began to carve the Ten Commandments, which are still quite visible.

The company stored its blasting powder in a large brick magazine, which is still standing in a clump of pine trees further along the shore to the west where Crowe Lake forms a beautiful bay nearer the main part of the old village. An iron plate bearing the date "1867" over the door of the magazine disappeared a few years ago.

John S. Aunger was the works manager of the mine during its period of operation. He was sent by the company on three trips to England to engage experienced miners to come out to Canada.

Five Years' Work.

In 1868 more htan 12,700 tons of ore were freighted from the mines; in 1869 more than 15,000 tons, and in 1870 the tonnage was 12,000. The records of 1871 and 1872 were destroyed, but in 1873 the last year of activity, there were 10,100 tons hauled to Trent Bridge and Cobourg.

Succeeding years witnessed the gradual dissolution of Blairton. Workmen remained for a time hoping that mining operations might be revived. Eventually the property was bought by the late T. P. Pearce. All the machinery was scrapped and sold as old iron.

Rails Sent to France.

The final episode in the story of the Blairton railway occurred during the first years of the war of 1914-18. With the exception of the rails leading to the lower pit which have long been washed by the waters of Crowe Lake, old rails were taken up and shipped to France where they were used behind the lines to transport munitions and supplies.

The embankment at Harwood still remains, extending three-quarters of a mile into the lake. And one can still follow the roadbed from Blairton to Trent River, an interesting walk, and an occasion of

"Tin Hats" Revue Overseas Is Worthy Successor To Famous Dumbell Concert Party

Sixteen Canadian soldiers, drawn from the ranks of units from every section of Canada, are brightening the blackout hours these early spring nights in army camps the length and breadth of England. They are "The Tin Hats", a touring musical review of by and for the men of the Canadian Army in England.

Reminiscent, in fact a direct descendent, of the famous "Dumbbells" of the last war, "The Tin Hats" play to houses packed with Canadian soldiers — and frequently with British "Tommies" as well as civilians — six nights out of the seven. The show, an hour and a half of musical comedy and songs, now is touring through units of the Third Canadian Division.

The show was written by soldiers. The troupe of 16, including stage hands, musicians, comedians, singers and two female impersonators, is made up entirely of soldiers. The soldier-troupers, all but one, are amateurs, although reviewers have pointed out an almost professional polish to the show. As long as there is leisure time, "The Tin Hats" plan to continue their performances throughout the Canadian Army camps in Britain, renewing the script as they complete a tour.

Troupers are Soldiers First

But—as Vincent Rowe, the 27-year-old stage manager of the show, whose home is in Montreal, puts it —"while we're living in a world of grease paint and spotlights right now, we're all ready when the day comes to go back to our units and carry on the soldier's first job, fighting."

That's the spirit of the whole show. Theirs' is a world of "one night stands" right now, but every one of them is eager for the day when they will hear the call to arms and join their units against the enemy. Meanwhile . . . but let Wally Brenan, the star comedian of the show, who comes from Winnipeg, describe a sample night or two of lifein "The Tin Hats":

"One night it's plush seats and a professional theatre in London," Wally says with a grin, "and the next night it's a big tent stuck up in the middle of a heath; packed with soldiers every time, though.

"We sure run into some funny ones," he says. Wally, 29 years old, is the only professional member of the acting cast; he left school when he was 13 to go with a road show, and he's been touring ever since, now as a juvenile lead, now as a comedian, now in Hollywood; he knows "the big time."

"One night," Wally continues, grinning at the recollection, "we were playing in a costal area. Well, we arrived there in the trucks and it was raining buckets. The show was in a big tent, with no stage, and it was packed to the rafters—if there'd been rafters. The dressing rooms—and there are plenty of costume changes in the show—were in a separate tent. You got soaked every time you went 'off stage.'

"That was all right, though. The audience liked the show, and we were getting a lot of laughs. But the biggest laugh came toward the end of the show when a couple of dogs started a fight outside, and one of them chased the other in on one side of the stage, across the stage between our legs growling and howling, and out the other. That had 'em in the aisles!"

The next night the show played two performances to a packed house in a London theatre.

Enjoy Harper's Fan Mail

The fact that they are a "road company" makes life interesting, but difficult sometimes, for Norm Harper, the singing cowboy from Toronto. Norm, 21, whose folks live at 184 Coxwell Avenue, Toronto, has been in England since the second autumn of the war. His dark good looks and soft-voiced cowhand songs, to the accompaniment of his guitar, have an almost inevitable effect on the fair sex in the audience. And after they have played each community, Norm dreads the next visit of the mailman. Because the entire cast gather en masse to read (over Harper's shoulder) the latest fan mail from a feminine admirer.

Perhaps the most difficult assignments in the show are those of Pte. John Heawood and Pte. Bill Dunstan. They are the female impersonators.

Heawood, who is 21 and whose folks "back home" live at 96 Lyall Avenue, Toronto, points out the tough part of his and Bill's job thus;

Clothes Ration Troubles

"It's hard enough, when you've never done it before, to cultivate a feminine voice and walk in high heels and a dress, but the really tough job is getting silk stockings! You see, they'll hardly issue coupons for women's silk hose to a soldier!"

In civilian life, Heawood is a textile designer. He has done cabaret entertaining "as a sort of a sideline," as he puts it. He landed in England on the last day of the opening year of the war. But John, who is in the Dental Corps, is not the only member of his family with the Canadian Army in England. His father, who is in the Royal Canadian Engineers, decided the Heawoods would really do their part in this war and came over a year after Johnny.

Bill Dunstan, who plays a brunette "gal" to Heawood's blonde, did clerical work back home in Regina, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dunstan, live at 948 Retallack street.

Joe Rocks, the quiet-spoken but golden-voiced tenor of the show, was born in Hamilton, Scotland, and in 1929 went to Canada. He was a meat packer in Edmonton when war broke out, and immediately joined an Alberta regiment. He came to England with the first of the Canadian troops. Although a meat packer by trade, Joe, who invariably "brings down the house" with his rendition of "The Gaucho Serenade," sang over CBC hook-ups in 1938 and in '39 before the war started.

All Had Experience

To varying degrees, many of the cast have been in amateur shows or have been on the air back home. Vincent Rowe, for instance, was at one time stage manager for the Trinity Players in Montreal. He, as all but a few of the troupe, is married. Mrs. Rowe lives at 983 Clifton Ave., N.D.G.

Sgt. Spud Cooper, who plays the part of a sergeant major in the show, said "goodbye" to his wife, Lucy, and their children — Alan, 11, and Patsy, 10— and came to England with a British Columbia regiment early in the war. He is a decorator back home. Spud is in charge of the troupe as far as discipline and the general welfare are concerned. Director and one of the originator of "The Tin Hats" is Frank Anders, of the Canadian Legion War services; but "Sergeant Spud" is the immediate "Head man."

"But the boys are no trouble," says Sgt. Cooper. "The biggest job is finding quarters for them. Some nights we sleep wrapped up in blankets on the same stage we gave the show on; other nights we bunk in the quarters of the unit where we're playing. It's pretty haphazard for "The Tin Hats," but they're swell troupers and don't complain any more than soldiers all over the world complain about little things: and that always means a soldier's happy, I guess."

Old Story to "Mert" Plunkett

Capt. "Mert" Plunkett, of the Auxiliary Services, who has returned to Canada, organized "The Tin Hats," together with Mr. Anders. For Capt. Plunkett, it was an old story. A quarter of a century ago he did the same job with the "Dumb-bells." Early in the career of "The Tin Hats," which began in February of this year, it was apparent that once a permanent unit were formed, there would be need for a "second show." Now that the first show is well organized and a success, plans have been drawn up for possibly four road shows.

"And that's a swell idea," says Ronnie White, a New Brunswicker who has prospected in Nova Scotia for tungsten and played in the "Little Theatre" at Mt. Allison University, Sackville, N.B., with equal facility. "But mostly we'd like to get on with this job of winning the war. Then we can have a many units as we like, and time enough to go 'on with the show' until we're de-mobbed."

Ronnie's brother, incidentally, is Lieut. Donald White, champion .303 rifle shot who was one of Canada's representatives at the last Empire matches.

"Sparetime Musicians"

The orchestra has a more professional background. Several of the members were members of bands back home, although most of them were only "spare time musicians," as Bert Churchill, the pianist, describes them.

Bert, a sergeant of an Alberta regiment, is a former musical director at Station CFGP, Grand Prairie, where he also played the role of "Uncle Tom" in a regular feature show. Versatile, Bert plays the clarinet on occasion, has been guest soloist for seven Sundays in a row at a cinema organ in Torquay, in the south of England. He also is known to radio audiences of stations CJCA in Edmonton and CKY in Winnipeg, where he was featured on his own program. "Melody Cascade." His wife lives at 402 Harbison Avenue, Winnipeg, with their three children: Bryan, 12; Diana, five, and Sylvia, three. Bert's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Churchill, live in Edmonton, at 9606 99B street.

Stan Stevenson, who plays saxophone and clarinet in the orchestra, is "the Fuller brush man" to the rest of the troupe because he once was a travelling salesman. "That guy," says Harry Conolly, the other saxophonist, "could sell fur coats to Arabs . . . and probably has!" Stan is 31 and his wife, Jessie, lives at 146 Catherine Street, Hamilton, Ont. Conolly is the same age and comes from Kingston. His wife lives at 45 Holmwood Avenue, Ottawa.

Eric (Ric) Halsell, 37 years old, who wife and two children live at 267 Sumach street, Toronto, is a trumpet player. (Occasionally he doubles on the clarinet.) It was "Ric" who helped to manage one of the best laughs "The Tin Hats" have gotten from an audience . . . but it wasn't in the script.

Ad Lib Scared Brenan

"Somebody gave Wally Brenan a sort of good luck doll, all legs and black and white line," Ric recalls. "Well, there's this spot in the show where Wally is impersonating a fellow who's having D. T.'s, and he says 'I see 'em coming at me; they're coming through the air.'

"One night Wally's going through that routine and the audience really howls. Wally thinks he's doing great and he is, but he doesn't know how. When Wally pulls that line, one of the boys is up in the strings, above the stage and behind the top curtain and lets down this black and white leggy doll. There is only a baby spot for light on the stage and the doll looks like some sort of weird spider in the spotlight as it descends over Wally's head. And the pay-off was this—.

"When the thing finally got low enough and came into sight before Wally's eyes, the audience was roaring, but poor Wally was almost scared stiff!"

That's right, Brenan agrees, "and I hollered: 'What the hell is this'? and made a dive for the wings. It was a good laugh, but it was hard on me. I thought I really did have the D.T.'s!"

Drummer Was "Drummer"

Les Abraham, who lived at 531 Douglas avenue, Peterborough, Ontario, and whose wife and son, Brian, four live now in Timmins, Ontario, is the drummer of the orchestra. In civilian life he as been two kinds of a drummer—"I drummed in bands," Les laughs, "and I was a drummer on the road, selling tobacco for one of the big firms. This drumming suits me fine, though."

Backstage, Vince Rowe, Charley Grace, of Toronto, and Harry Elliston, of 9511 109th Avenue Edmonton, handle props, spotlights, stage scenery and equipment. Harry was a chef in civilian life. He and his wife, Florence, have a son, Kenneth, three, and a daughter Marilynne, 18 months, who was born just after Harry sailed. Grace was a high tension worker for Ontario Hydro-Electric before the war. The other member of the orchestra is Charles More, from Uxbridge, Ontario, who plays the trumpet.

Do These Look Like The Same People?

Somewhere in England eight soldiers march jauntily along a high road—typical examples of well-trained Canadian troops putting in a hard day's work preparing themselves to fight. Now look in the lower picture and see how many of the faces you recognize from the top photograph. Shown in the grand finale of their nightly show members of "The Tin Hats" in these pictures are, LEFT to RIGHT: Pte. Ronnie White, Grand Falls, N.B.; Pte. Bill Heawood, Toronto; Sgn. Wallie Brenan, Winnipeg; Pte. Joe Rocks, Edmonton; Pte. Norman Hopper, Toronto; Pte. Bill Dunstan, Regina, and Sgt. J. E. Cooper, Vancouver. The orchestra, LEFT to RIGHT Pte. BUILDING PRECISION into aircraft instruments at the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric Company.

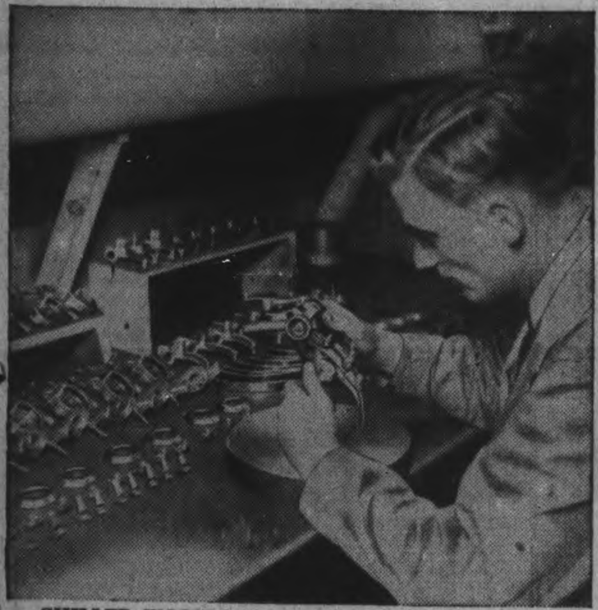
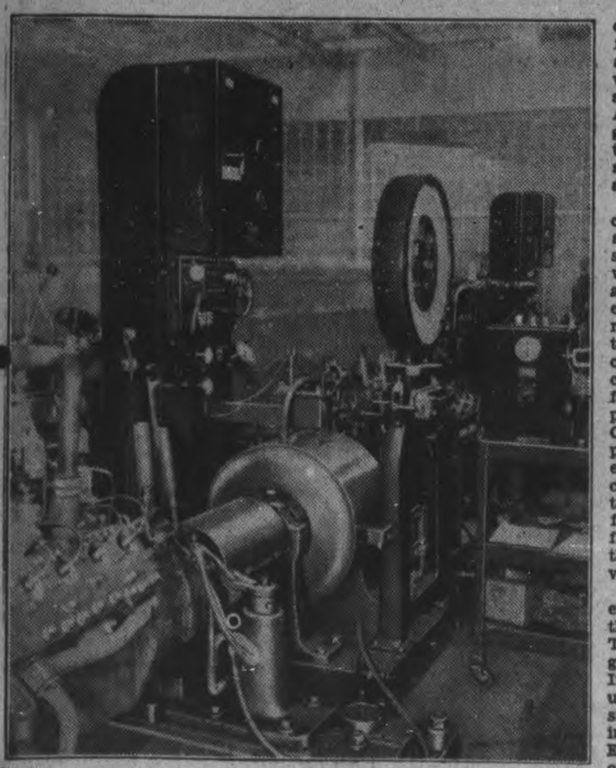
SPECIAL ATOMIC HYDROGEN Welding Machines are ingenious holding jigs aiding in speeding up production of Bren Gun magazines.



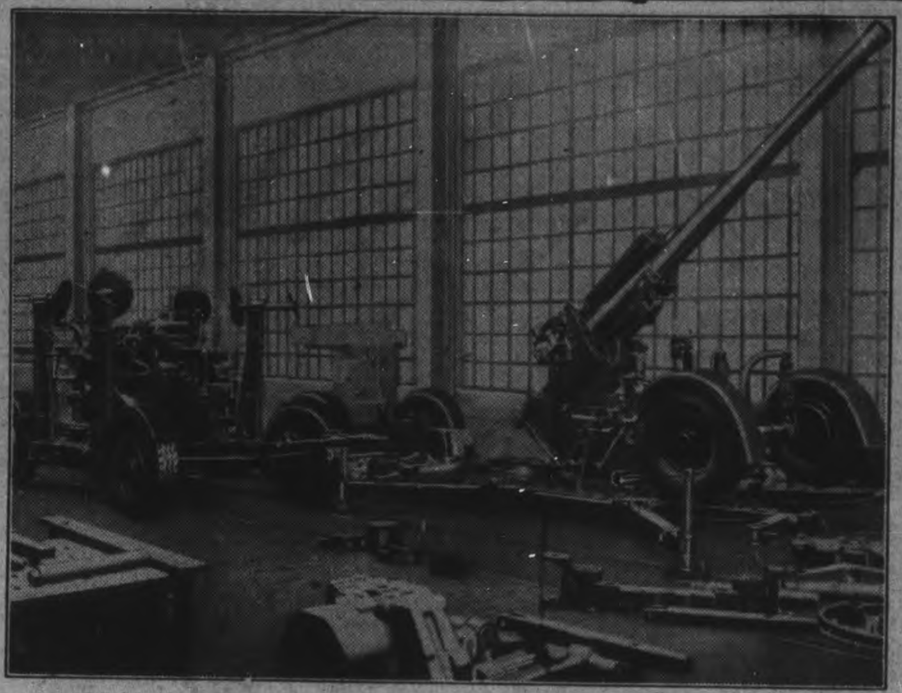
SKILLED WORKMAN builds intricate mechanisms for trench mortars at the Canadian General Electric plant.

HUGE SIXTY-INCH portable coastal defence and anti-aircraft searchlights produced by the C.G.E. in Peterborough.



200 H.P. INDUCTION type dynamometer testing an engine for a military vehicle in large automobile plants.

ANTI-TANK GUNS ready for shipment overseas. The shells from these highly manoeuverable and hard-hitting guns will pierce the armor of the heaviest tanks. Many of these guns have already been shipped to the British Armies in Libya as well as in the Far East.



3.7-INCH ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS, the mounts for which are built by the C.G.E. and weigh over 7½ tons each. The thousands of parts must be precision built for accurate anti-aircraft fire.

Vast Flood Of War Equipment Flows From C.G.E.

Gaunt guns, giant anti-aircraft searchlights and marine engines, are today rolling out to the loading plants of Canadian General Electric Company, as the vast facilities of Canada's largest electrical workshop are again concentrated on the building of grim weapons of war.

From tiny, quarter-ounce fuses to six hundred and fifty ton generators, almost every product of this Company now has a vital war task to do and, week after week, new production records are set. Despite this enormous output of essential electrical equipment, C.G.E. has already delivered dozens of types of special war equipment to the Canadian government.

Many anti-aircraft searchlights; hard-hitting anti-tank guns; and massive marine engines for Canada's navy are already in service. Out of a huge extension to one of its factories, the first made-in-Canada gun mounts for a heavy anti-aircraft gun will soon roll.

Foremost War Producer

Add the dozens of special wartime products to the thousands of C.G.E.'s peace-time products which now have a war job to do, and you have a roster of essential "tools to finish the job," so great that it makes this Company one of Canada's foremost war producers. Its products can be found in Canadian-built tanks. It builds electrical parts for war planes; 2,500 h.p. marine engines for cargo vessels; special cables and wire for the Navy, Army and Air Force, trench mortar sights; furnaces for heat treating gun barrels; electric welding equipment for ships; anti-sabotage lighting equipment; airport lighting; plastic parts; and many devices which are military secrets.

Take apart any of the intricate war machines now being made in Canada and you are almost sure to find products bearing the G-E monogram. As an example, take one of the largest single pieces of actual war equipment now being built in Canada—the trim minesweeper being turned out in several Canadian shipyards.

You think of a ship as the products of a shipyard, but look inside the grey hull of one of these minesweepers and you discover that her twin hearts—two 1,200 horsepower marine engines and condensers—were built by Canadian Allis-Chalmers, a C.G.E. subsidiary. They transmit their power to shafts which turn twin propellers. Her shafts, parts of her propellers and her rudder were built by this same Company.

From stem to stern, you'll find the G-E monogram. Around her entire hull she wears a girdle of C.G.E. degaussing cable as a protection against magnetic mines. Up in the radio room, special transmitting and receiving tubes are the ears and voice of the swift ship when she's on duty. The auxiliary generators, providing electricity for lighting, driving winches and other services are built by Canadian General Electric.

Hundreds Of Types Of Lamps

Everywhere aboard, there are dependable electric lamp bulbs to give bright, sure light for the Navy's work. At a dozen points on her super-structure and masts are riding lights, signal lights, and searchlights. Since the beginning of war, C.G.E. has developed and manufactured hundreds of different types of special lamps for war use.

Go further in your investigation of the minesweeper's origin and you find she's a ship of metal from Canadian mines and mills. Go anywhere in Canada's metals industry an you'll see the name Canadian Allis-Chalmers or the G-E monogram on equipment of a hundred types, for this organization is Canada's largest producer of mining and metallurgical equipment.

In mines and steel mills, electricity powers the equipment. In the shipyard, it literally sews up the ship's plates by means of electric welders, many built by C.G.E. Back at the roaring waterfalls where electricity is born, are giant generators built by this Company. From the generators, transmission cables carry the surging power across the country. By General Electric transformers it is changed into usable power. For Canadian factories, this Company not only helps create the power, but provides electrical equipment to use it. In the single category of electric motor production, C.G.E. has the largest motor factory in Canada, turning out units from 1/20th horsepower to many thousand horsepower—to do the vital tasks in Canada's factories.

The exploration of a minesweeper's origin was only one example of the war effort of this Organization. The Company is proud of its fast-growing aircraft instrument division. In an air-conditioned plant, white-uniformed workers are building instruments as delicate as watches; instruments developed by General Electric research to safeguard crews of Canadian-built bombers.

Building Searchlights

Six months before the outbreak of war, the Company began producing giant portable anti-aircraft and coast defence searchlights. Now these great lights are on active service for the Empire. These powerful searchlights have a lens five feet in diameter and each has its own portable diesel engine-driven generator to supply power.

One of the Company's most important contributions to the war effort is Carboloy, a group of cemented carbides, which C.G.E. has been producing in Canada since 1930. Widely used in industry for the manufacture of tanks, guns and other ordnance, Carboloy, when used on a lathe, cuts steel as easily as a chisel cuts a chunk of pine. In many plants this product enables shells to be turned out four times as fast as with ordinary steel cutting tools. Carboloy dies greatly increase the production of brass shell and cartridge cases.

With fifty years of electrical pioneering to look back on, C.G.E. continues to look forward. Along with its vast production, research is carried on to improve its already remarkable war products. At the end of the war, the results of today's research will make possible even more economical and efficient generation of electricity in Canada's central stations; lower manufacturing costs in factories; and the production of new products which will cushion the changeover from war to a peacetime economy.

Seymour West Group Plans Quilt Draw Tuesday

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27. — (ENS).—A quilt made by members of the Seymour West Group of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid will be won by some lucky person next Tuesday evening. It was announced at the regular meeting held Wednesday at Mrs. Douglas Rutherford's that the fancy quilt made at their last meeting had been sold to the Seymour West Branch of the Women's Institute which will sell tickets on it with the draw being held in connection with the auction and dance to be held March 31 in the Parish Hall here. They decided to begin work on a similar quilt at their next meeting and it was decided that the Ladies' Aid would give a donation towards the Plunkett dinner being arranged by the St. Andrew's Branch on April 22nd. The president, Mrs. Fred McCulloch, presided for the meeting and fourteen members responded to the roll call by reading a verse of Scripture. Mrs. Cecil McCulloch gave the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

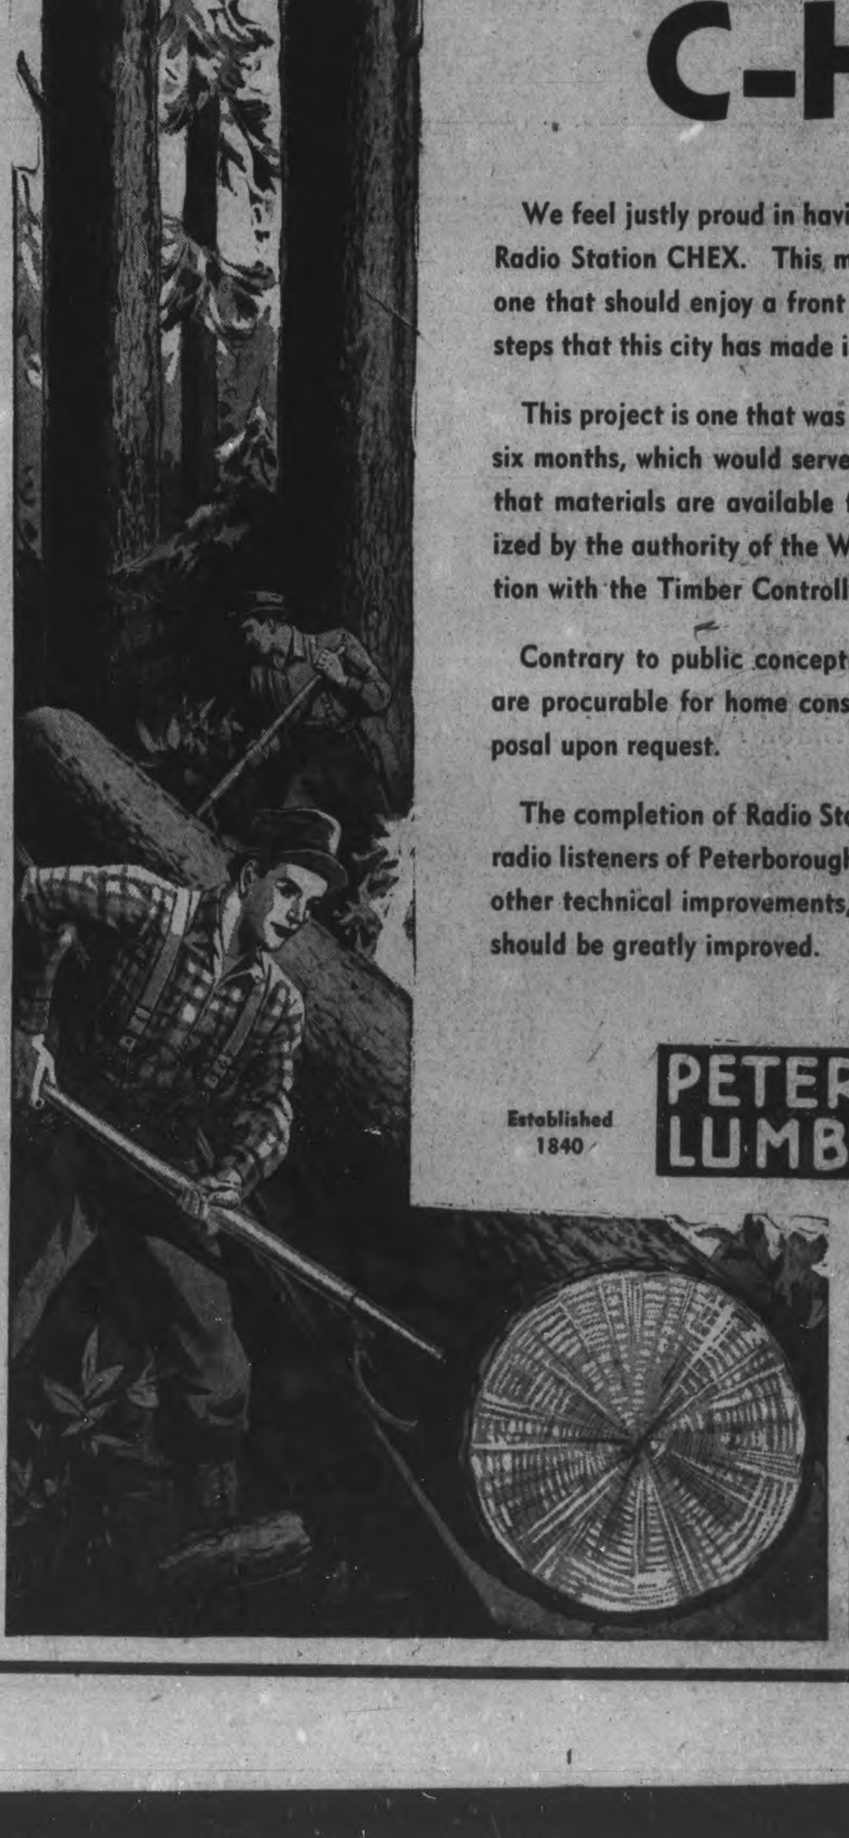
Welcomes Radio Station-

C-H-E-X



We feel justly proud in having had a part to play in the building of Radio Station CHEX. This milestone in the progress of Peterborough is one that should enjoy a front rank position among the many progressive steps that this city has made in the past year.

This project is one that was begun and has been completed in the last six months, which would serve to point out to anyone considering building that materials are available for construction and at prices set and stabilized by the authority of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in co-ordination with the Timber Controller.

Contrary to public conception building materials and building fixtures are procurable for home construction. This information is at your disposal upon request.

The completion of Radio Station CHEX will bring added enjoyment to radio listeners of Peterborough and district. With directive ray and many other technical improvements, radio reception in this part of the country should be greatly improved.

Marvyn Stroh Appointed CHEX Announcer

M. Marvyn Stroh, one of CHEX's announcers, comes from CKCR Kitchener where he specialized in announcing classical music program. He graduated from Kitchener-Waterloo college with honors in an electrical course. Following that, he spent two years with Canadian Electrohome Industries and Wentworth Radio.

He was with CKRC Kitchener for about six months as operator-announcer and he was with CFCO in Chatham for some time.

Mr. Stroh has had experience in preparing newscasts, arranging all types of programs and he has kept up to the minute with technical advancements in radio through a course.

In addition to his hobby of radio, Marvyn's next best hobby is that of photography with which he spends much of his time in off hours.

Car Thief Is Given 2 Years In Prison

TWEED, March 28 (ENS).—Marcel Daniel Shea, Hearst transient, was sentenced to serve two years in the Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., after pleading guilty to two charges of car theft and two additional charges of attempted theft. Carl F. Covert, Trent, an accomplice of Shea's, was sentenced to one year in the Ontario Reformatory, all sentences to run concurrently.

Shea and Covert were apprehended at Kaladar recently by Constable J. C. Hayes of Tweed, who trailed the two men through the woodlands north of the village, following a telephone request from there, stating that the two were attempting to secure gasoline from a village car. Constable Hayes, unaware of the car theft, caught the two men at the point of his revolver, and had them in the village when the Provincial police arrived on the scene.

HEALTH CHATS

R. M. MacPHERSON, B.A., C.S.I. (C), Sanitary Inspector

FOODS FOR HEALTH.

We read and hear a good deal nowadays about the need of proper foods and a great deal of emphasis is being put upon the necessity of balanced diets, plenty of milk and a sufficiency of vitamins. The importance of all these things in the maintenance of health cannot be over-emphasized, but how to get the information across to those who most need it and how to get them to act on that information is a problem that has yet to be solved.

Public lectures and demonstrations to which all and sundry are invited is a popular idea, but we know from experience that only the sundry will come and that this sundry is represented by those ladies who know or can read all the information we have to offer, who have no thought of needing to be instructed and only come to exclaim over some new recipe they hope to try out on unappreciative well-fed husbands. And while the "sundry" show up in their furs with all their chatter and exclamations, the "all" that really need instruction, stay smugly at home and feed their hungry husbands what have you.

I suppose that, faced by more of less of an emergency, there is a need of trying to educate people on food requirements in a hurry, but I can't persuade myself ahat a few lectures and exhibitions will accomplish enough real good to justify the effort.

Food requirements, like everything else requires prolonged study. A real effort has been made along this line in our courses in dietetics in our schools, but somehow or other these have not accomplished the results we would hope for. Not having taken such a course myself or studied the curriculum, I am not in a position to judge of the material offered, but one cannot help wondering if too much emphasis is not put upon science and fancy cooking and not enough on plain ordinary mixed diets. Some years ago, before we knew about vitamins and when we couldn't buy our food ready-cooked in tins, our mothers prepared mighty tasty meals that contained all the things needed to produce healthy bodies. I wonder if the coming shortage of tin for canning may not be a blessing in disguise by forcing us to use fresh stuff from the market.

Exercise for Health.

There are other actors important to health that seem to be lost sight of in our excitement over food. Two of these are exercise and sleep. The gradual reduction in the number of cars may restore to us the proper use of our legs and give us a renewed zest for our meals and ability to digest them. Let us not forget the importance of zest for eating. Knowledge of what is good for one is no stimulant to appetite, but if one is hungry one will eat and digest almost anything.

Sleep for Health.

Along with proper food and exercise we must have sufficient sleep if we are to enjoy good health. I don't hear much talk of this need, and yet it is one of the most neglected things in our modern civilization. We adults seem to have forgotten such a thing as bedtime for ourselves and only wish we could forget that there is a getting up time. But, what is worse, we seem to have forotten that there is a bedtime for our children, especially for the High School age group, or, if we haven't, we have lost the couarge to enforce it. I have heard not a few complaints of mid-week parties attended by Collegiate children and of the lateness of the closing time for dances attended by them even on week-end parties. Some of the Collegiate children themselves recognize these two evils but they don't feel they can take a stand which would lose them their popularity. Why can't the parents get together and agree that they will not permit their children to go out to mid-week parties at all and that all parties must close at midnight? If universities can force closure of college dances for grown-up young men and women at one in the morning, surely growing children ought to be in their beds by that time.

Let's be sensible and apply all the rules of health for ourselves and for our children—a good mixed diet, outdoor exercise, and plenty of SLEEP.

Primed Against Air Attack On N. York

Not to be caught napping should an enemy air attack be launched against her massed buildings and busy wharves, New York is sprouting anti-aircraft batteries ready to make the path of hostile planes a hard one. Propose Change In Pasteurizing

TORONTO, March 28 — (CP) — Soliciting of business by unlicensed fumigators will be outlawed by a bill given second reading in the Ontario Legislature today.

Health Minister Harold Kirby, sponsor of the measure, said there had been "numerous deaths" through the operations of unlicensed fumigators and the government was desirous of placing an effective check on their activities.

Another measure of the Health Minister's amended the Public Health Act changing the methods of pasteurizing milk. At present, milk in the progess of pasteurization, is brought to a temperature of 143 degrees Fahrenheit and held there for not less than 30 minutes. Under the amendment the temperature will be increased, but the time element lessened.

In response to a query of Charles Macfie (Lib., Middlesex South), Mr. Kirkby said the change had scientific endorsement and it would prove more economical.

An amendment to the Dentistry Act which received second reading prohibits mechanical dentists from performing dental work except upon instruction of qualified dentists. It also authorized a justice of peace to issue a search warrant on premises where articles relating to the practice of dentistry are believed to be improperly located.

Boosted Dairy Output Cuts Prices In U.S.

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Financial Writer.

CHICAGO, March 27.—(AP)—Increased output of United States dairy farms not only has supplied the Government with lend-lease goods for export but has reduced domestic prices since the U.S. entered the war.

Butter, the cheese and eggs are selling lower in major wholesale markets now than on December 8, the date of this country's war entry, a survey showed today.

Major reason for the decline, trade sources said, was seasonal — prices normally slump at this time of the year. They said, however, the downtrend indicated seasonal factors took precedence over lend-lease as a market influence.

The agriculture marketing administration, which buys for lend-lease exports, has recognized the seasonal factor in dairy production, trade circles stated, and has reduced its prices for cheese, eggs and evaporated milk. The agency purchases little butter.

By lowering its bids, the A.M.A. obtained the goods it wanted and at the same time permitted housewives to buy dairy products for less.

Wholesale prices of representative grades of butter, cheese and eggs on the Chicago market December 8 and March 25 showed that butter per pound now is selling at 34¼ cents, ½-cent lower than on December 8; eggs, firsts, now sell at 28 cents a dozen, compared with the December 8 price of 33¼-34¼, and cheese per pound has dropped from 25½ to 21-21¼.

Obituary

MRS. FREDERICK SMITH

LAKEFIELD, March 27.—(ENS).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Frederick Smith was held from the family residence, Lakefield, and thence to St. John's Church, Peterborough, on Tuesday afternoon, with the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson conducting the service.

Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Caroline Barker, was born in Orsett, Essex, England, and came to Peterborough 35 years ago, only coming to reside in Lakefield two years ago. Ill health prevented Mrs. Smith from leading an active life, but she endeared herself to her friends and neighbors with her kind personality and friendly ways, and her sudden death on Saturday was a shock to her many friends in the village as well as in Peterborough. She was a lover of flowers and her flower garden was the envy of many in the village. The many floral tributes bore evidence to what high esteem the deceased was held. She was a member of St. John's Church, Peterborough.

Surviving besides her husband is one son Eric of Toronto, and two daughters, Ella (Mrs. George Kelly) of Toronto, and Freda (Mrs. Roy Davidson) of Peterborough, also eight grandchildren, the eldest Robert Smith, is serving with the Glengarry Highlanders in England; the other grandchildren include Donald Smith of Toronto; Audrey, Lorraine, Genevieve and Caroline Kelly of Toronto, and Joanne and Wallace Davidson of Peterborough.

Pallbearers were George Kelly, Roy Davidson, Phil Courneya, Geo. Jackman, S. A. Grylls and Earl Gooden. Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

Bethany Boy Is Musical Director For CHEX, Peterbor ough's Radio Station

Karl Monk, musical director of CHEX, has spent some years in newspaper work and radio in sections of Ontario but he never actually got very far from his home village of Bethany, about 19 miles from Peterborough. And now he's back almost within sight of his former home as one of the officials of Peterborough's first radio station.

When Karl Monk's father brought home the family's first radio receiving set, one of the first to make its appearance in Bethany young Karl felt pretty sure that something wonderful was in the air. The squeals and howls that issued from the horn shaped speaker had a peculiar fascination for him. The sheer wonder of it took his breath away. In no time at all, he was a radio "bug" with a head full of technical terms and a log of station he had picked up on the set. With his brother, he started building a home-made transmitter in the basement but he never learned whether it worked for Karl left Bethany about that time.

KARL MONK

Although that was several years ago, Karl has lost none of his enthusiasm for radio. Now at the age of 27, after five years in the business, years in which he served time as operator, gospel singer and announcer, he still prefers it to any kind of work. He is still convinced there is something very wonderful about it.

After finishing public and continuation school in Bethany Karl took the first job that came that of telephone operator He was about 17 when he became a "hello" boy and he stuck to the job six years.

During those six years, he made money on the side acting as correspondent for the Lindsay Post and Toronto Daily Star. A minor crime wave swept over the district during that period that helped him considerable and he earned many a sizeable cheque covering murders for both papers. Later he wrote a series of feature articles on local characters for the Lindsay Post.

In 1937, he left the telephone company and headed for Kitchener. He successfully passed an audition and landed his first radio job. For three years he worked as an announcer filling in between shifts as gospel singer. When he left he was station's program director.

He next went to CHML, Hamilton, where he did general announcing. He was then offered at job at CKGB, Timmins, and went north. Prior to coming to Peterborough, he was program director at CFCO in Chatham.

Of his experiences in radio, Karl best remembers his job of describing the Royal visit for Kitchener listeners and a series of network broadcasts featuring the Kitchener-Waterloo chorus which he announced.

LOLA MONK
Secretary to manager of CHEX

As musical director of CHEX, Karl will be a busy man. He will be in charge of all the music heard on the station and has to keep a sharp eye on the daily broadcast schedule in order to make sure that all programs begin with and end on the nose. In addition, he will announce some of the station programs.

Over 500 Back

Toronto, March 28 (CP).

TWO trainloads of more than 500 Canadian troops arrived in Toronto today from overseas and the general sentiment of the men, the majority of whom returned to assist in training forces in Canada, was that "it's great to be back again."

About 70 of the men, including two officers, had been invalided home for various reasons. Col. W. E. Gillespie of Toronto was one of the invalided officers.

MILLBROOK

Annual Rally Of Red Cross Is Reviewed

MILLBROOK, March 27—(ENS). — A special feature of the weekly Red Cross work meeting on Tuesday afternoon was a report of the annual meeting held last week at Toronto and given by the delegate, Mrs. W. R. Howard, who covered the proceedings of the two days in a most interesting and informative manner.

The president, Rev. A. L. Sisco, was present, and introduced Mrs. Howard after leading in the daily prayer for peace. Among the highlights of Mrs. Howard's report was the information that the big campaign for Red Cross funds will be the first week in June, and all over Canada citizens are urged to be as generous as possible. She also told of a new branch being undertaken by the Red Cross, and that is to train nursing sisters, since there is a shortage of trained nurses and in case of an epidemic over Canada, the course is designated to prepare qualified assistants and it is hoped that at least 12,000 women in Ontario will take the study classes. Information relative to the course may be obtained by writing the field secretary, Major Watson.

As to the blood donors, the report stated that this branch has met with gratifying success, and that new clinics have recently been opened in four new places; this service is absolutely essential and by the end of February was being received from 1,000 to 2,000 persons per week. One speaker told of being in England within recent weeks, and visiting the Conadian Red Cross military hospital at Taplow, finding it complete in every detail, and with the most up-to-date equipment. Canadian soldiers in England are being well looked after, and folk in Canada are urged to give every possible service to Australian soldiers, and those of other nationalities, in this country.

Mrs. Howard was warmly thanked for her comprehensive report, much of the information thus given clarifying doubtful points in her hearers' minds. Donations received on Tuesday included: 3 quilts from Mrs. A. F. Strong, 3 from Carmel, one each from Mrs. P. I. Bentley and Miss Edna Francey, and one quilt top each from Mrs. Weston Fallis and Mrs. Cann. From Mrs. A. B. Lefroy, now in Toronto, one baby's bonnet and jacket, and from last week, from Mrs. Joseph Lancashire, one pair of mitts. Articles shipped included: 9 quilts, 2 large ones from Millbrook and 2 cot size, the others from outside units, and in the miscellaneous list: One blue flannel shirt, one pair child's mitts, one pair flannelette sheets from Mount Pleasant, 8 pullovers made from leftover wool, and one full-length blue coat, one pair slacks from Lottie Wood, and two childs' caps from Bailieboro. In connection with the current quota, were ten complete outfits of two blouses and skirt, girl's size.

Mrs. B. M. Turner, secretary, read a letter from headquarters explaining that no more flannelette is available for quilts from that source, as the supply on hand must be conserved for hospital supplies; hence local donations will be most welcome. Printed cotton for quilt linings is also out, the suggestion from Toronto being that two quilt tops might be put together, thus saving on the purchase of linings. The usual weekly collection was taken before the workers dispersed.

Y.P.U. Meets.

Margaret Smith, missionary convener, was in charge of the Young People's Union meeting on Monday evening, Mary Dawson, Rosemary Stinson, and Marian Seymour assisting with the opening worship service. The leader read an interesting sketch regarding guerilla warfare in China, and Jean Burnham presided for the business period, when it was decided to hold a party on April 22, the meeting in Easter week being withdrawn.

The study topic was "Christian Religion through the Help of Doctors and Missionaries in China," and the meeting closed with the National Anthem and prayer in unison.

Was Decorated By

Harold COLEMAN

It has been our privilege to decorate Peterborough's Radio Station CHEX of which we are justly proud. The architectural design of the Studio's interior is carried out in the most modern manner. The color schemes are in perfect co-ordination with this design. Entering on a magificent mahogany staircase trimmed in old white against a background of rich terra cotta, surrounding ceiling and walls tastefully harmonize in a lovely shade of mushroom with a soothing shade of green appearing from the adjoining offices.

At the head of the staircase, pictured above, we come upon the beautifully decorated reception room, where we find a gorgeous mural decoration reflected in the mirrored wall directly opposite accentuated by an old white ceiling and trim. Leading from the reception room, the hallway in contrasting turquoise blue with bone white trim takes us into a turquoise and coral studio combined with these rich deep tones, a golden rust dresses the offices opposite. From Studio "B" may be seen a grand shade of evening gray adorning the control room and library where our harmonizing terra cotta is displayed on the solid panel doors. Ushering us into the main studio we behold a breath-taking study in coral. Stepping our decoration from an off white coral to a second step of deeper tone, we bring a rich heavy tone from ceiling steppe into the walls and trim.

Jack Davidson Manager Of Station CHEX

Manager of CHEX is Jack M. Davidson who comes to Peterborough from radio station CJKL in Kirkland Lake where he served in the same capacity. He has had wide experience in the various fields of business before getting into radio. His collegiate education was taken in Mitchell, Ont. followed by a course in cost accounting in Toronto. He spent several years banking in Stratford and Toronto before entering the service of a large wholesale house. His experience on the road as office and branch manager gave him a good insight into the problems which confront the average business man.

Jack joined the Northern Broadcasting company as a salesman and advanced to post of commercial manager and then station manager at Kirkland Lake. When it was learned that CHEX was to open in Peterborough, he was offered the managership.

The Davidson's are a family of four: Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Billy 4 and Jacqueline 3.

Jack Davidson played O.H.A. hockey, junior, intermediate and senior and has always taken an active interest in sports, mainly hockey, baseball and golf.

With the coming of Mr. Davidson to Peterborough, citizens are assured that he will take a keen interest in the welfare of this city and in all its community undertakings.

contemplating the frustrated ambitions of men.

In 1910 and 1911 the mining property was diamond-drilled, and again changed hands. At present it goes under the name of the Canadian Iron Company. It has been calculated that 1,000,000 tons of magnetic ore are in sight on this property, with a large body of hematite ore.

Church and Parsonage.

The present church was always known as the Methodist and at one time possessed a very comfortable parsonage. The surrounding circuit was known as Blairton. At its quarterly meetings members arrived from different parts of the circuit and visited friends for the day. Another event in the church year was the "tea meeting" about the time of the Christmas festivities. People came from the district, some of them over corduroy roads. The proceeds of this supper and concert usually amounted to around $90.

The parsonage was vacated under M. Bunner, who moved the furniture to Havelock, as it was more central. For a time the house was rented, and finally sold and demolished and taken west to Moose Jaw where it still stands as a farm house five miles from that city. It has been said that a cemetery was opened in connection with the church, but whether that is true remains to be verified. The little frame church still stands, but at present its doors are closed.

Brief School Record.

The original school house was built of logs on the south side of Highway No. 7, a short distance west of J. Brock's house. The second school was a frame building on the present lot, in the north-west corner of the yard. It was destroyed by fire in 1887, and a dwelling was used for three years until the present school was built. Several old style desks were saved from the building, also a blackboard which has been used on the wall of the present school, which was erected in 1890. Then and later the daily attendance was forty-five to fifty pupils. To-day there are only fifteen.

Miss Edith Cameron was the teacher when this sketch was written by H. Anderson.

has been busily occupied on that school, Jerry spent a year in the furniture business, trying to promote the sale of draperies and window curtains. But when a new radio station came to Brantford, Station CKPC, Jerry landed a job on their technical staff. Here he remained for over five years and during that time worked his way up to the post of chief engineer.

Jerry's next move was when he joined the staff of Northern Broadcasting Company. He was sent to CJKL in Kirkland Lake, where he was Press Operator, one of the most exacting jobs in the business. At that time CJKL had no modern news teletype machine such as it now has, and the news was obtained by short wave radio from New York City. The news came in dots and dashes of the Continental code at a speed of 37 words per minute, and it was Jerry's task to wear earphones all day and type the news out ready to be handed to the newscaster.

After 10 months as press operator, Jerry was given the post of Chief Engineer of Station CJKL and shortly thereafter was placed in charge of all of Northern's radio stations. This meant that he was moved to Timmins and station CKGB where the head office of the assignment. Within the next few months, a modern station will be opening in Kingston, and Jerry will be transferring his attention to that station in the near future. When CKWS in Kingston goes on the air, he will be located permanently at that station.

Man Of Science

overseas.

Gen. McNaughton's years of service to Canada began in Moosomin, Sask., on February 25, 1887. He served with distinction through the First Great War and since has a brilliant record as soldier and scientist.

In his visit to Research Enterprises Ltd., in suburban Leaside, Gen. McNaughton saw fulfilment of an idea he and other Canadian scientists had nourished through the years—that Canada should have her own optical industry. Fine lenses for use in machines of war—tank periscopes, for instance—were turned out under his inspection.

Made Suggestions.

Another few hours he spent crawling in and out of war vehicles in the General Motors Ltd. plant in Oshawa. He praised much of what he saw, but few were the vehicles for which he could not suggest a logical improvement. It was here the impression he made on workmen first was evident openly. These men who had watched celebrities of almost every nature inspect their work knew that here was a man who appreciated what he saw.

These workmen were free with their comment. None of them said: "There is a fine soldier" or "There is a fine general,' although probably they thought that too. The words of one man spoke for them all. He said: "There's a guy who knows what he's talking about."

Later, in the John Inglis and Small Arms Ltd. plants in Toronto and suburban Long Branch respectively, Gen. McNaughton showed just as thorough interest in Bren guns, Sten tommy-guns, and smaller arms. He held a stuttering Sten to a target for 32 rounds, and commented that such a weapon was increasingly valuable because it could use a type of ammunition carried commonly by the Axis armies.

Shells being turned out by the National Steel Car Corporation in Hamilton were inspected and later tests of these shells were watched. A quick trip to St. Catharines was made late one night to learn progress on a development in which he was interested particularly. Then back to Hamilton for the Otis-Fensom and Westinghouse plants and two hours in the Canadian Army Trades School; to Windsor for Ford and Chrysler plant inspections then back to Brockville for a brief visit to the officers' training school there.

After the first day, when the Canadian Corps Commander officially took the "conducted" out of the term "conducted tour," no one made any attempt to guide his inspections except in a general manner. He was here and there among the machines, with accompanying officials of the Munitions and Defence Departments making little attempts to keep up.

Only other indefatigable member of the party was Lt.-Col. N. E. Rodger, Gen. McNaughton's personal assistant. Col. Rodgers, a personable and talented young officer whose home is in Amherst, N.S., took voluminous notes on everything drawing the General's special attention. Asked once about these lengthy memos, Col. Rodgers said: "I have to take notes like this. Six months from now the General will come to me and say, 'What did Mr. So-and-So tell us last March the second in the Otis-Fensom plant about how many guns he could give us in three months?' and I'll have to have it written down so I can tell him."

Paying A Visit To Studios Of Station CHEX

(By Berk Boyle)

Let's take a walk through the studios of CHEX to acquaint ourselves with the different rooms and the purpose for each. On reaching the head of the stairs in the Examiner building, we first come to the swinging doors through which we must pass. Upon entry into the reception room, we are immediately struck by the beauty of a mural which fills the whole right wall and on the left wall, we see the same mural but it is in a huge mirror which fills the left wall in panels. The walls behind and in front of us are finished in a rich maroon. On the floor, as throughout the whole studio, is rich inlayed floor covering.

Immediately ahead is another door which leads down a long corridor almost in the center of the studios. As we proceed along about 10 feet, we are immediately opposite studio "B" from which most commercial announcements and your newscasts will emanate. Along the left side of the corridor are a series of small offices in which the script writers are busily engaged preparing announcements and arranging programs. In the nearest office to the reception room is the machine which brings the news from the four corners of the world to the studios. Across the corridor from this office is a shorter corridor at the end of which we turn to the left and enter the recording library in which is kept the records and electrical transcriptions in many rows on the wall.

Walking back to the main corridor again, we proceed past studio "B" through which we might see an announcer in the midst of a newscast or making "a commercial". Don't mind the fact that he may seem to be using his lips more than in actual conversation with a person as he talks. Announcers are like that.

Through the next window on the right of the long corridor, we see the control operator in front of a maze of dials, lights, and control room equipment on the table before him. At each side of him are the electrical transcription machines on which recordings and 15-minute transcriptions are played. They are electrically operated and are the finest yet produced for faithful reproduction of voice and music for transmission over the airlanes. Ahead of the operator is the relay rack on which is mounted a number of amplifiers and patching panels and other control equipment.

Returning once more to the long corridor, we walk but a few feet until we come to the end of it. Here is a thick heavy door leading into studio "A" which takes up about one-third of all floor space in the studios. A small engineer's workshop has been provided in a space off the control room.

Chief Engineer Is A. E. Crump

"Bert" A. E. Crump, chief engineer of CHEX, has had a wide and varied experience in radio in Canada's northland in the Forestry patrol and with Canada airways. He comes to Peterborough from CKRN at Rouyn, Quebec, where he was chief engineer for about three years.

Bert's interest in radio was aroused as a lad of 12 or 13. He built and secured a license to operate an amateur short wave transmitter at his home town of Parry Sound. After he made the transmitter, he took to building "one lunger" radios.

In the Ontario government forestry patrol, Bert was employed as a radio operator at first but in the five years at this job, he became district chief operator. It was the duty of radio operators on such assignments to make frequent reports with regard to protection against forest fires.

From this job he went with General airways and was in charge of construction and installation of airplane and ground station radio equipment with which a two-way phone was possible from plane to ground. This work took him to many sections of north eastern Canada.

In February of 1939, Bert was taken on the staff of CKRN at Rouyn as chief engineer and it is with these qualifications he comes to take complete charge of the transmitter and studio equipment of CHEX.

The Crumps are a family of three. There is Mr. and Mrs. Crump and their 13-month-old son, Leslie.

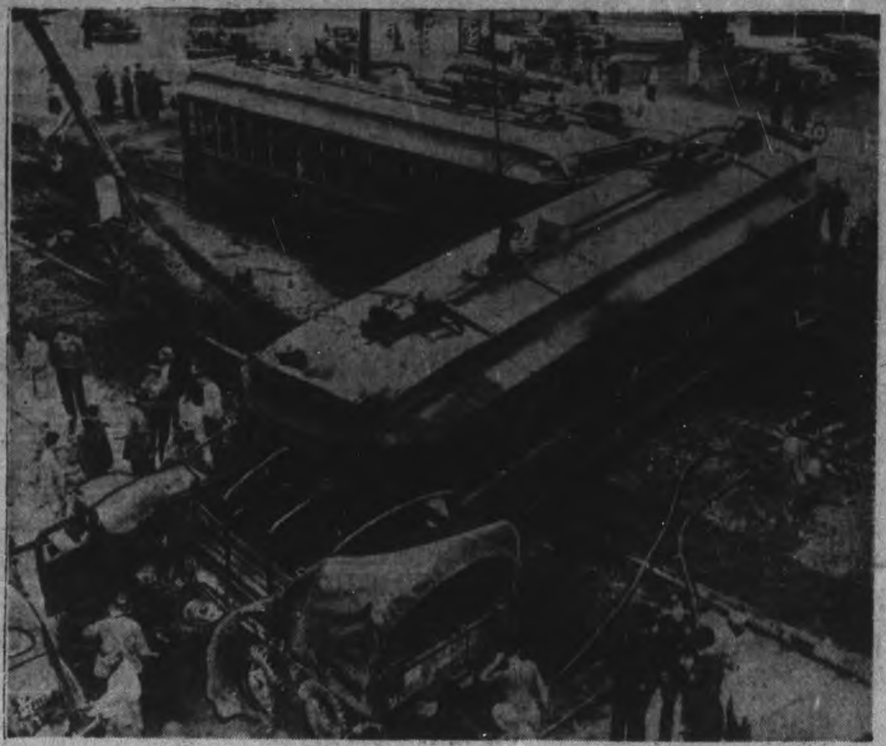
Ten Soldiers, Nine Civilians Hurt In This Crash



Ten soldiers, two of whom may die, and nine civilians, were burned and injured when a two-car electric train and an army truck crashed and then burst into flames at Venice, Calif. Here is pictured the wreckage after injured had been removed.

Antenna System Directional To The District

Radio fans throughout the entire district will be interested in knowing that there is such a thing as directional broadcasting and this feature is embodied in the set-up of radio station CHEX, the Examiner station which goes on the air on Tuesday, March 31.

The antenna system of the new station is a directional array, that is it is designed to send a heavy signal in certain directions while suppressing the signal in other directions. There are two steel towers, each 109 feet in height, and built by the Canadian Bridge Company of Walkerville, and each tower has a base raised about five feet above ground level. Each tower is insulated at the bottom, and the entire weight of the steel structure is supported on a ceramic insulator.

The towers themselves are the antenna, there being no wires running horizontally between the towers. The directional effect is obtained by adjusting certain equipment connected to each tower in such a way that at every instant, one tower is hindering the other in its effort to radiate in some directions. Each tower is throwing off an electro-magnetic field of force and there is a re-inforcing action between the towers in some directions, and a cancelling action in other directions.

No Interference

The reason for using a directional antenna system is that it was desired to use a frequency on the broadcast band which would be reasonably free from interference from other stations and as 1430 kilocycles was most desirable in this respect so it was chosen. At the same time it is necessary to avoid sending too heavy a signal toward American stations using this frequency, therefore the signal is being suppressed in the directions of these same American stations, and the energy which would ordinarily be sent southward, is concentrated toward Peterborough and district, giving a much stronger signal in this area.

The towers are 344 feet apart on a line just 12 degrees east of true north. Each tower has a system of wires buried in the ground below it, and these wires resemble the spokes of a huge wagon-wheel. Each of these "spokes" is 275 feet long and each tower has 120 of them, that is one wire every three degrees of the complete circle.

Copper Wire Buried

Actually there are about 12 miles of copper wire buried in this way. Energy from the transmitter is carried to the towers from the transmitting house by means of a transmission line of the very latest type. This line is the second of its kind to be built in Canada and it provides the highest efficiency yet obtainable in such a transmission line. At the bottom of each tower is a tuning unit in which is housed equipment which adjusts the towers to resonance on 1430 kilocycles and at the same time control the directional pattern.

Each tower carries four red obstruction lights in order that there will be no hazard for aircraft. These lights are fed with Hydro power by means of a buried underground cable, and the lights are visible as one motors on No. 7 Highway east of Peterborough, being located about one mile straight south of the highway in Otonabee.

New Studios Are Air Conditioned

Because radio studios are not built that one might raise a window to get fresh air or to cool off as he wishes, engineers had to provide a system of air conditioning that would be noiseless and efficient. In each studio and the control room, a series of intake and output air ducts have been installed which keep constantly changing the air within and thus each section of the building will never become hot or stuffy. The motor constantly drawing the air from the building and washing it is located on the ground floor of the Examiner building.

Not only is the radio studio so equipped but for many months separate air conditioning units have been operating throughout the Examiner offices for the convenience of employees.

In addition to the topic of air conditioning, complete fire protection has been provided for the radio studios although it has been in the Examiner building since its present site was taken over for publishing a daily paper. Protection has been given by a sprinkler alarm system.

Assuming a fire occurs in any section of the building, a sprinkler head has been placed for so many square feet of floor space. In a few moments, the heat of the fire will reach the head and immediately cause it to break and spray water. At the same time, because the water pressure dropped, a signal has been flashed simultaneously to the fire hall, three blocks away and in no time, firemen would reach the building.

3,500 Transcriptions In Library Of CHEX

The recording library of CHEX will contain 3500 electrical transcriptions of the latest dance selections, classical and symphonic music composed by the music masters of the world, played by America's leading orchestras, bands and singers. There will be about 2000 recordings in addition to that figure and a constantly moving series of 15-minute transcription programs which, after they have been used once, are not used again on the same station. A recent government ruling has prohibited the playing at a specified time by request any musical selection on a radio station. You may request that it be played during a special program but that is all.

Insulate With Glass Fibre

Discovery of a process by which refined moulten glass can be drawn into fibres 15 times finer than a human hair, with all the pliability of silk, and with infinitely greater resilience and tensile strength, has presented the insulation engineer with something that had long been regarded as an impossible figment of the scientific imagination. This material has greatly aided in the insulation of CHEX studios.

The apparently simple process of drawing molten glass into gossamer filaments begins with the formation of highly refined glass marbles about ¾ inch in diameter. Having been inspected and found flawless, the marbles are run into an electric furnace developing intense heat. Through 204 tiny openings in a metal plate, the molten glass then emerges as filaments so fine as to be almost invisible. These are gathered together and conducted to a spool-winder which draws the combined filament out into a continuous fibre, which may be as much as 5,000 miles long, at the rate of a mile a minute.

At least two of these filaments must be twisted together to form the finese workable yarn or thread. This is done on standard textile machines. The glass yarn is then woven into tapes, braids, cords or wider fabric on ordinary textile looms. The whole process, from glass to fibre and from fibre to fabric or to padded insulating material, is now being performed in Canada, at Oshawa, Ontario. In fabric form, this fibroud glass material is used for insulating electric motors, wiring and other electric equipment. In padded form, it is used for insulating buildings, stoves, refrigerators, motor cars, railway cars, boats, airplanes, etc. This glass material possesses certain valuable characteristics, such as imperviousness to moisture, acids, decay; non-inflammability, resiliency and compactness; electrical non-conductivity, etc., highly desirable in an insulating material.

Shoots Down Messerschmitt Despite Wound

Sgt. W. J. "Happy" Perritt, 20-year-old air gunner from Vancouver, points proudly to the symbol, painted on his gun turret, which shows that he has one ME 109 to his credit. He is a member of an all-Canadian crew flying four-engined Halifax bombers in an R.A.F. squadron. On a raid over Brest, Perritt's aircraft dropped its bombs and, while still in its dive, was attacked by a Hun fighter which broke through the Spitfire escort and pumped bullets into the belly of the Halifax. Before the Nazi could get away, Perritt let him have an accurate burst and the ME spun to earth in flames. As the Giant Halifax roared homeward over the sea, Perritt asked the skipper if he might leave his turret. It was only then that it was discovered that the young gunner had been wounded by the first burst from the Messerschmitt he shot down. He is on the job again.

A Lesson About Fire . . . From London

If ever there was a bit of hell with wings, it's an incendiary bomb! Yet from London . . . where bombs have rained alike on buildings with and without sprinkler protection . . . comes this word: "In no single known instance has a sprinkler-protected premise been destroyed by fire caused by incendiary bombs!

Fires in war time are a serious setback in our war effort. Fires at any time are a hindrance to progress and very often the cause of failure in what would have been a prosperous business.

The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., The Radio Commission, and many others who are looking forward with a mind to progress have taken the safest, most up-to-date safeguard against the destructive fire by installing Grinnel Automatic Sprinklers.

Radio Station CHEX Relies On A Continuous Supply Of Electricity

To operate a radio station without interruption for seventeen hours a day requires well maintained lines and a steady flow of current.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission, because of its wide experience in erecting power lines, was asked to erect the intricate line which carries the radio waves from the transmitter to the antennae. When such skilled work as this can be undertaken and finished by your Utilities Commission you may be sure that all work done for Peterborough is handled in the same efficient manner.

The Utilities Commission extends congratulations to Radio Station CHEX. It definitely advances Peterborough another step up the ladder of progress which she has so rapidly been climbing the last few years.

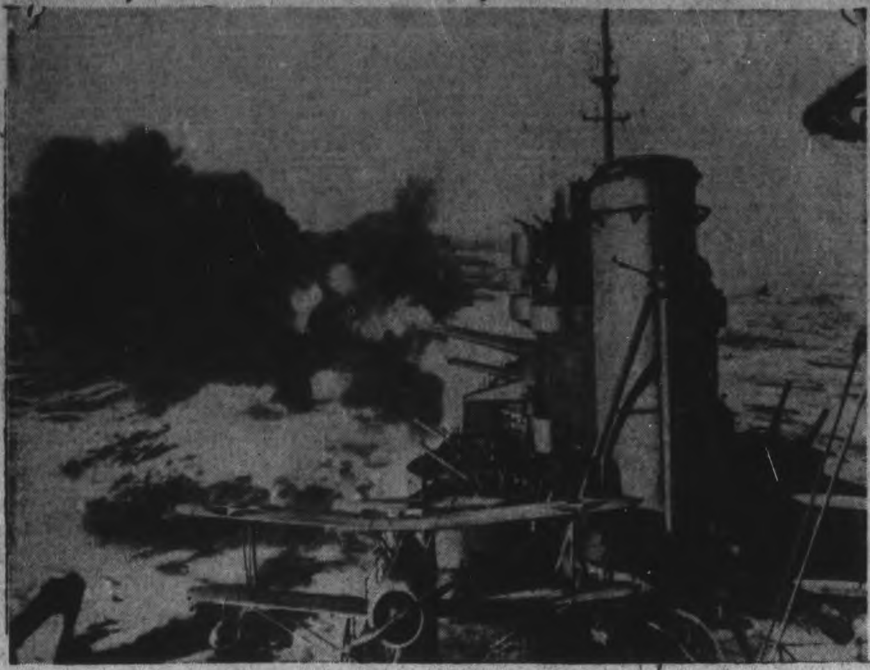
U.S. Navy Task Force Smears Jap-Held Wake Island



Smashing at Japanese-held bases in the Pacific with a dual purpose — to halt the enemy's advances and to prepare the way for counter-offensive action—the United States navy swung close in to Japanese home territory when it pounced on Marcus Island. Also given attention during the navy sweep was Wake Island, occupied by the Japs early in the war and "feverishly" built up defensively. Enemy installations were smeared by a combined naval-aerial attack and here are shown the guns of one cruiser of the task force tossing shells into the island's defences.

Charles Huffman Builder Station CHEX

For three generations, the Huffman name has been associated with the building trades in this city, and it is satisfying to note that Charles H. Huffman, Jr., well-known 32-year-old building contractor handled the general contract for the erection of the new radio station addition to the Peterborough Examiner building.

Charles Huffman was born in this city, and he has grown up in the trade, working with his father and grandfather during those formative years, when he learned to love the business and absorbed the knowledge that comes from the experience of his forbears, coupled with all the modern trends of building, and construction work.

Way back at the turn of the century, Chas. H. Huffman, Sr. who was then carpenter shop foreman of the C.G.E., and is the grandfather of Chas. Huffman, the second, started in the building trade as a general contractor. A few years later he formed a partnership composed of himself and his two sons, H. Sheldon Huffman, now operating the Exchange, and the late Harry C. Huffman, father of Charles Huffman.

The partnership was dissolved in 1934, when Charles, Junior, decided to carry on following the death of his father, and he bought out his uncle and grandfather, renaming the firm, Chas. H. Huffman, builder and contractor. The first partnership was eminently successful, and they built Ackerman's factory, part of the Card and Paper Works, and more than 300 private homes in the city.

After Charles Huffman went into business for himself, he specialized in home building, and some of the dwellings he completed were for J. H. Jamison, Herb Bradburn, H. L. Garner, Jack Richardson and Dr. S. V. Dobson. He put in many of the new vitrolite store fronts on George street, including Ed. Riley's, Fashion Craft, Dunns, Harold Coleman, Althouse Beauty Parlor and others.

He was awarded the general contract for the building of the radio station, which entailed putting an extra storey on the back part of the Examiner, extensive interior remodelling, and the building of a transmitter house at the towers in Otonabee township. The new station is a tribute to his ability as a contractor, and a monument to a young man who has made good in his chosen profession in the city of his birth.

Chas. H. Huffman, Sr., the grandfather is still living and will celebrate his 84th birthday in April.

Gordon Shaw Is CHEX Announcer

A product of the Owen Sound district, Gordon Shaw, 25, will be chief announcer of CHEX. He spent his youth in Western Canada where he was a rancher at heart and still remembers the wide open spaces of the West as compared to this section of the Dominion.

(The Roy Studio Photo.)

GORDON SHAW

He came east and entered the motion picture industry as a projection room operator at a theatre in Kitchener. In spare time, he went over to CKCR, Kitchener's radio station and took instruction on announcing. Eventually, he was taken on the CKCR staff as commercial announcer and later became chief announcer. After two years, he joined the staff of CHML in Hamilton where he was newscaster and news commentator.

He joined the Northern Broadcasting Company in June 1941 as a commercial announcer at Timmins, North Bay and Kirkland Lake. From the north Gordon come to Peterborough. He is married since 1938 and has one son, Gordon, Jr., one and a half years old.

Chief Announcer And Newscaster Age Of 20, Had Wide Experience

Chief announcer and newscaster, Delmat Mott comes to Radio Station CHEX at the age of 20 with wide experience in radio work in Ontario and Quebec. He was born in Burford and lived in Brantford until he was 14 when he moved to

DELMAR MOTT

Stratford to complete his high school education. He graduated from Upper School in 1940 with honor standing at the age of 18.

Del got his first break in radio when he was hired as junior staff announcer and operator at his home town station CJCS. Six months later, in April of last year, he was program director of CKVD of Val d'Or, Quebec, operated by the Northern Broadcasting and Publishing Company.

Following two months work there, he was transferred to Timmins where he became newscaster and chief announcer at CKGB. He comes to Peterborough from that station.

The chief announcer owes his remarkable success in radio to the fact that he comes from a radio family. He is a brother of the late William Marks, former chief engineer and technical supervisor of the Northern Broadcasting Company who was instantly killed last year in Scotland serving his country as a radio operator with the Ferry Bomber Command. Another brother, Ernest Mott, is chief engineer of CKGB, Timmins.

Oddly enough, Del had no enthusiasm for the technical side of radio like his brothers but is keenly interested in radio production and announcing.

Testing Her Love

SEATTLE, March 28—(AP). — A 16 year old boy was worried about the true love of his girl friend. So, police explained, he tapped her home telephone with a portable set and asked a friend to call and ask her for a date. Was she true? He never found out. Police found his connection first.

CAME FROM INDIA

The cucumber probably was first grown in northern India.

That's T.N.T. They're Pouring

In this photo, it appears the men are bakers making some good old-fashioned butterscotch pies. But in reality, they are pouring one of the deadliest explosives known—T.N.T.—into heavy shells at a Canadian shell plant. These shells are being turned out at the rate of many thousands a day, and the men who do this work hope that at least one finds the leaders of the Axis.

Congratulations Station CHEX!

COMPLETION of the fine new Broadcasting Station of CHEX—designed, constructed and equipped on the most modern lines—gives the people of the Peterborough area a type of radio service second to none in Canada. It affords us great satisfaction to think that the Staff and Artists of CHEX will be ensured of year-round thermal comfort—scientific protection against winter's cold and summer's heat—as well as a completely sound-proof interior in which to work, by reason of the fact that Station CHEX is insulated throughout with "Our reason may deceive us often, our conscience never." This thought for the week applies directly to us since our reason deceived us last week and we erroneously reported that no more postage stamps need be collected at the Collegiate. This week we hasten to make amends, and most emphatically state that stamps will be collected as usual. Statements last week referred only to Post Offices but independent stamp companies still pay cash for used stamps in good condition. It is requested that a quarter inch border of envelope be left on the stamp but there the restrictions end. Don't forget to bring stamps to school and pass the word along. Thanks.

Fashions

The Easter Fashion Parade was a dazzling success last Thursday night. From eight to nine-thirty there was not a dull moment and orchids are due those responsible for this night school closing and Household Arts Fashion show. Not pretending to be a fashion critic we will not pass comment on the many beautiful dresses modelled by the girls. Small girl outfits were on display at the doors of the auditorium and will be in Hall's window after Easter. These are being made for British War Victims.

G. A. Macdonald was the master of ceremonies and was introduced by Dr. Kenner. The Glee club appeared three times and sang the following songs: "Little Buttercup," "Over the Bright Blue Sea," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes", "Brahm's Lullaby," "A Round," and the finale from "Iolanthe." The girls have reached a fine degree of perfection with the valuable help of their leader, Miss Weddell, and should be very proud of their successes this year. Also on the musicale were two solos by Mary Hanlon who sang the "False Prophet" and "Little Coon's Prayer." A Household Arts gym class gave a dance that was tops in intricate foot work. A comical but important interlude was the display put on by the Brownies, Guides, and Rangers to stimulate membership in these organizations. The Rangers stress A.R.P. work and girls over 16 are eligible. About the only incongruous note was a beautiful skating costume modelled in the midst of the latest spring fashions. Innumerable dresses were modelled to the accompaniment of the usual background music but now we resign as a fashion expert (?).

It was mentioned that the war had influenced the designs considerably but the turn was definitely for the better. The girls have shown remarkable skill as dress makers and the new prizes will be quite difficult to award fairly. Many favourable comments were heard as the spectators filed out and thus another success is chalked up at the Collegiate in the 1941-42 year. It must be remembered that the girls worked at this project even though exams had to be written. Congratulations!

Farmerettes

The call is going out once more to high school pupils to volunteer for farm work this summer. Last year quite a number of P.C.I.'ites left for service in surrounding farms and in the Niagara peninsula but this year the need is more urgent. Representatives from the Ontario Volunteer Farm Service plan visited the school this week and made a stirring appeal to the students in this emergency. Miss Lansfield and Mr. Hall spoke on the existing conditions and in glowing terms described the possibilities for summer work. Many farmers have already sent in requests for pupils and it was evident that they were satisfied with the work done by students last year. Miss Lansfield was dressed in a natty uniform and she mentioned that the girls will have uniforms this year — although not similar to hers.

It is expected that many students will volunteer for farm work this year and some have already done so. Food is a vital factor in this war but without help on the farms it cannot be handled quickly enough. Will you put in your application at the office?

Teasettes

War sales dropped considerably this week. $290 worth of stamps were sold and $56.00 in Certificates.

The Senior Boys' Basketball team won the Lakeshore championship last week and last night they went to Toronto to try for the C.O.S.S.A. honours. Hope they won.

Rugby arrived this week and some of the more ambitious boys were playing on the campus. The Cossa crests for the P.C.V.S. Champs also arrived and were distributed individually this week. The crest is orange, black and green. Nothing more has been heard about the windbreakers for the team lately and some have expressed the opinion that swim suits will be more appriate soon. However, patience is a virtue.

Bob Crocker read the financial statement for the Dramatic Club's play "Fanny and the Servant Problem" this week. A few cents short of five hundred dollars made up the total receipts and when expenses were deducted there was a net profit of over three hundred and fifty dollars. Some of this money will probably be donated to War Work in the school unless there is a drive started for another mobile kitchen.

As you probably know, exams started on Thursday and it was then that war shortages struck closer to the Collegiate. An announcement came from the office to the effect that students when writing an exam were to use both sides of the foolscap to preserve paper. The value of this is evident if one stops to think of the amount of paper used in one exam when nearly one thousand pupils are using from five to twelve sheets of foolscap. No one will suffer from this new rule and so to another exam!

A clipping from a Toronto paper was in the show case this week and it featured the war efforts in Toronto schools. Mobile canteens at $2000 each are the goals for most collegiates and some are on the road to the second. This spirit predominates throughout the free nations and should stimulate us to even greater efforts next year. A good start might be gained until the conclusion of this term. Let's go students.

News is exhausted for now but we'll try to have a short column for you next week. Now for French.

Mr. Ocean Claims Freighter Wrecked On Reef

This excellent air view shows the briny waves washing the partially submerged aft section of an Allied merchant freighter on the reefs of an island off the Canadian coast. The forward part of the ship had broken away carrying ten men to their deaths in the icy waters. During the rescue one navy man lost his life. The photo was taken from a R.C.A.F. patrol plane. Thirty-eight were rescued.

Wafdists Win

Cairo, Egypt, March 27 (AP).

PREMIER Nahas Pasha's Wafdists (Nationalist party) scored a sweeping victory in the general Egyptian elections, winning 216 seats in the Chamber of Deputies out of a possible 264, results up to noon disclosed today.

So far the non-Wafdists had won only 17 seats. Results from 28 seats were to be recontested and the returns had not yet been received on two others.

One of the first acts of Nahas Pasha, who formed his government Feb. 6, was to call a national election.

Type Of Transmission Line Used

The transmission line used to carry radio energy from the CHEX transmitter to the high towers is the newest design in transmission lines. A section is shown in photo. There are six lines of copper stranded wire. The inside two lines, carrying the energy, are surrounded by four outer stretches which are grounded. The transmission line is 385 feet to the first tower and 344 feet beyond that to the second tower. (Parks' Studio Photo.)

Programs To Meet All Demands Are Being Lined Up For CHEX

In keeping with the newspaper ideal to keep the public informed, CHEX will give the news every hour on the hour during each broadcast day from the Canadian Press radio service teletype machine in the studios. Ten minute news broadcasts will be given at 8 a.m., 12.30 p.m., 6 p.m., and 10 p.m. A war commentary will be given from 10.10 p.m. for five minutes each night and the closing newscast will be at 11 p.m. in which will be heard a roundup of all the day's news events. Each evening from 7.05 to 7.15, a sportscast will be heard. These broadcasts will give news from the four corners of the world from the extensive news service of the Canadian Press and from the news gathering facilities of the Peterborough Examiner which will supply local and district news through its reportorial staff and a staff of correspondents.

Broadcasts of interest to the farmer will be heard daily at 7.30 to 7.45 a.m. and again at noon from 12.45 to 1.30 p.m. The morning broadcast will give news of interest to the farmer and the noon program for 45 minutes will feature old time music, farm news, livestock quotations and other items of interest to the rural folk of Peterborough district. Barn dance programs will be heard evenings during the week including the "Riding The Range" program from 10.15 to 10.30 evenings on which cowboy songs and square dance music will be heard.

Sure To Make A Hit

The salute programs are sure to make a hit with listeners in Port Hope and Lindsay for these neighboring towns will hold the spotlight for half an hour daily. From 11.30 to 12 noon, "Salute to Port Hope" will be aired while "Salute to Lindsay" will take the airlanes at 5.30 p.m. for half an hour. Both programs will be directed to listeners in each town and will have items of special interest to them.

Monday through to Friday mornings at 7.45 to 8 a.m., Mr. C. E. Tatham, evangelist of Lakefield, will be heard in "Morning Cheer", a religious broadcast from the studios of CHEX. The program will feature gospel songs with a short religious message for the day.

Morning devotions, a daily schedule for six days of the week, will be heard mornings from 9.15 to 9.30 and will be conducted by Peterborough Ministerial association. Each morning a different minister will be heard from a Peterborough church. John Segal, baritone, will be featured vocalist.

It is the intention of the management of CHEX to try and please each type of audience. There are those who prefer the classics, others go in for hot swing bands or the soft strains of mellow dance music. Possibly you enjoy the strains of that well known Austrian composer Johann Strauss. Regardless of your tastes, their is a program of music prepared especially for you each day.

Among some of these programs to be heard are "Breakfast Varieties" which begins at 8.10 and continues until 9 a.m. every morning after the news. The program will consist of recorded and transcribed music with the correct eastern war time given at intervals so that mother may send her children off to school in time.

Radio City Organ

An N.B.C. show, featuring Richard Leibert at the organ will be heard each morning from 11.05 until 11.15. The radio city music hall organ will be heard during this broadcast.

From 11.15 to 11.30 each morning the program "Melody Time", composed of musical gems will go on the air. "Sincerely Yours", a recitation of poetry will be heard at 3.30 to 3.45 afternoons. "Marching to Victory," a show of patriotic music and march music will go on daily from 4.15 to 4.30 and for the next half hour popular dance bands of the day will feature the program, "Make Believe Ballroom" for 15 minutes each. Again at 10.30 the same show will be aired nightly for half an hour.

At 5.15 each week afternoon, melodies from the Novacord will be heard in "Novatime". Ted Steel, its operator, was a former paige boy in Radio City New York when he was discovered to be a musician of outstanding ability.

Although arrangements had not been made at time of going to press, CHEX will broadcast the service from one Peterborough church each Sunday morning from 11 a.m. until noon. It is expected the service will be alternated each Sunday among various churches of the city.

Mentioned in this story are but a few of the many programs to be heard daily over CHEX. It is the intention of the management to keep a well balanced program of entertainment each day so that there will be no dull spots during the broadcast schedule.

Base Of Towers

The tremendous weight of each transmitting tower of CHEX rests on slim insulators like the one shown in picture. Because the tower and not wires is used to send the signals on the air, the tower must be properly insulated from the ground. The two rods with balls on end of each create a spark gap to provide for lightning striking the towers. (Parks' Studio Photo.)

Gas Ration Men Find Women Most Honest

TORONTO, March 28—Women are more accurate and more honest than men. This is the finding of the regional offices of the Oil Controller of the Department of Munitions and Supply.

To date approximately one-third of the motorists who have applied for preferred gasoline ration categories have had their forms returned. Most of these applicants were just plain careless. They didn't answer all the questions on the form, or they made silly mistakes. Some, however, have skirted mighty close to being downright dishonest.

"But," says G. R. Cottrelle, Oil Controller, "we must take off our hats to the ladies. There have been few, if any, forms returned to women, and I know of no case of a woman deliberately trying to deceive us."

One of the busiest offices in Canada today is the regional oil control headquarters at 352 Spadina Avenue. In a bare, clapboard room on the second floor of a commercial building a staff of 120 men and women is handling from thirteen to sixteen thousand letters and applications every day. Three or four big bags of mail are lugged up by a hefty postman, dumped on a table and run through a letter-opening machine. From there they go to a table where the busy fingers of a group of girls open the envelopes and sort their contents.

Studied By Experts

If an application has been properly completed it goes directly to the approving division, where it is studied by men who by this time are experts at detecting flaws. At this twenty-foot desk the decision is made whether Mr. Jones or Mr. Brown will get the category he seeks. "We have to be fair, but we have to be tough," says one of these men.

Of the 160,000 applications which so far have been okayed for a special category a very large proportion—perhaps as high as 60 per cent—are given categories lower than those the application calls for. "But don't let anybody think that this is an invitation to apply for a still higher category," says the official.

From the approval desk a steady flow of the applications goes to a row of tables where a group of girls stamp with with a protectograph machine. This machine, which is just like the gadget the banks use to mark a certified cheque embosses in red the license number of the vehicle, the category allowed and the official impression of the Oil Controller's Office.

For more than a fortnight mail bags have held up to 5,000 rejected applications. What's wrong with them? "Well," says David Currie, regional manager for Toronto, "in most cases the motorist neglects to fill in all the questions. He doesn't give us his mileage for 1941 or his estimate of how far he'll drive in 1942. He neglects to tell us his profession, or his full name and address, or this is what he does."

Some Queen Cases

"Look at this," said Mr. Currie, and he held up an application form that looked as if a cat had been chewing it. "When we pieced this one together we found out the name of the applicant, got him on the phone, and were told that the form had been in the pocket of a shirt and had gone through a washing machine.

A Toronto politician wrote in that he was suffering from "ankilosis." The regional office looked this one up and found he meant "stiff ankle." Arguing that, if the ankle was too stiff to walk with, it was too stiff to drive a car, the officials turned down the application.

A farmer wrote in to say that he simply had to have gasoline for his wife's washing machine "I've got eight children and my poor wife's got more than she can handle now; she certainly can't go back to the washboard and tub," he said. Like the peanut vendor who wanted gasoline for his roasting stove, the farmer was told he could get all the gasoline he needs, but it must be the colored industrial gasoline that isn't used in motor cars.

But the most touching case of all was the woman who argued that her husband shouldn't get a special category. She cames to see the regional manager and stated her case thus: "If John gets all the gasoline he wants, what'll happen? Every night he'll be out with other women."

IN NEUTRAL SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM—(CP).—Sweden is definitely on the road to "regaining its leading position in winter warfare," said Col. Viking Tamm, army observer, after army maoeuvres in zero weather.

Red Army Moves Into Staraya

Dressed in suitable climatic uniforms, these Russian troops are pictured on the march near Staraya Russa. Despite desperate German attempts to relieve their trapped 16th army, the Russian advance continued. According to Russian sources, a ski unit broke into Staraya where they made a rapid 30-mile trek across the ice of Lake Ilmen north of the city to free several hundred Russian prisoners from a camp in the city's environs.

Weather Balloon Falls Near Tweed

TWEED, March 29—(ENS). — An instrument for aeronautical purposes dropped from a balloon by parachute, was found in the Sulphide district by Oliver Forsythe. It was turned over to Chief Constable J. C. Hayes who will forward it to the United States Weather Bureau at Washington. According to the data printed on one side, the instrument was released from Buffalo on Saturday. While in the air, the instrument acts as a radio broadcaster for temperature, pressure, moisture of the air through which it passes, etc. The instrument is carried to a height of twelve miles and after travelling a considerable distance, the balloon bursts permitting it to descend slowy to the ground via a small parachute.

Price Dispute On Sugar Beets Grown In S. Ontario

TORONTO, March 28—(CP). — The dispute over the price of sugar beets grown in southwestern Ontario approached a climax today with the Provincial Government, through its Department of Agriculture, threatening to step in and force the issue.

The growers, concentrated mostly in Kent and Essex counties, are asking $7 a ton for this year's crop. The Dominion Sugar Company, which takes all the output, claims it can pay only $5.75.

Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan suggested the matter be sent to a board of arbitration, a suggestion to which the growers agreed. The company, however, claiming the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will have the ultimate say in the price of sugar anyway, insist that the matter be taken to that authority.

If the deadlock continues, Mr. Dewan can order the Ontario Farm Products Control Board to set the price. However, he is unwilling to do so except as a last resort.
